Nothing contained in this act shall operate (1) to affect any annuity, pension, or death benefit granted under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 or the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, prior to the date of enactment of this act, or (2) to include any of the services on the basis of which any such annuity or pension was granted, as employment within the meaning of section 210 (b) of the Social Security Act or section 209 (b) of such act, as amended. In any case in which a death benefit alone has been granted, the amount of such death benefit attributable to services, coverage of which is affected by this act, shall be deemed to have been paid to the deceased under section 204 of the Social Security Act in effect prior to January 1, 1940, and deductions shall be made from any insurance benefit or benefits payable under the Social Security Act as amended, with respect to wages paid to an individual for such services until such deductions total the amount of such death benefit attributable to such services.

SECTION 907 OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1939

In addition to any other deductions made under section 203 of the Social Security Act, as amended, deductions shall be made from any primary insurance benefit or benefits to which an individual is entitled or from any other insurance benefit payable with respect to such individual's wages, until such deductions total 1 per centum of any wages paid him for services performed in 1939, and subsequent to his attaining age sixty-five, and 1 per centum of any wages paid him for services which constitute employment by virtue of subsection (o) of section 209 of the Social Security Act, as amended, with respect to which the taxes imposed by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code have not been deducted by his employer from his wages or paid by such employer. (As retroactively amended by section 1 (b) (3) of the act of March 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 47.)

§ 403.505 Deductions because of lump-sum payments under original act and failure to pay taxes—(a) Basis for, and amount of, deduction under section 203 (h) of the act. Section 203 (h) of the act provides for deductions from benefits, and from lump-sum death payments under section 202 (g) of the act, where a wage earner has been paid a lump sum (hereinafter referred to as a section 204 payment) under section 204 of the Social Security Act in force prior to August 10, 1939 (the date of enactment of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939). The total to be deducted is an amount equal to the amount of the section 204 payment.

In any case in which a death benefit alone has been granted under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 or the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, upon the basis of services in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard rail locomotives) of coal not beyond the tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple, the amount of such benefit attributable to such services shall be deemed to have been paid to the deceased as a section 204 payment, and deductions shall be made in accordance with § 403.505 (c) from any insurance benefit or benefits payable under title II of the Act with respect to wages paid to an individual for such services until such deductions total the amount of such death benefit attributable to such services.

(b) Basis for, and amount of, deduction under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939. Section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939 provides for deductions from benefits and lump-sum death payments in cases where the taxes imposed by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code with respect to a wage earner's employment in 1939 and subsequent to his attaining age 65, or with respect to services which constitute employment by virtue of section 209 (o) of the act, as amended (see § 403.803 (d)), have neither been deducted by his employer from the wages paid him for services in such employment nor paid by such employer. The total amount to be deducted is an amount equal to 1 per centum of such wages with respect to which taxes have neither been deducted nor paid by the employer.

Example: H, aged 66, was paid wages of $3,000 in the first 3 months of 1939. His employer did not deduct from his wages the taxes imposed by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code and did not pay the amount of such taxes to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. A deduction equal to 1 per centum of $3,000, or $30, is required under paragraph (b) of this section. (The same amount would have to be thus deducted if H had been paid such wages in 1942 with respect to services which constituted employment by virtue of section 209 (o) as later added to the act.) Therefore, in either case, if H later becomes entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $42 for each month, $20 will be withheld from his benefit for 1 month, so that he will receive $12 for such month. No deduction would have been made from benefits if H's employer had paid the tax himself (even though he did not deduct it from H's wages), or if the employer had deducted the tax (even though he did not pay it to the Bureau of Internal Revenue). If H had been paid a section 204 payment, the amount of such payment would also have to be withheld from his benefits, under paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Manner of making deductions. A deduction under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, as the case may be, is made by withholding the amount designated in such paragraph from (1) any primary insurance benefits to which the wage earner who is described under such paragraph is or becomes entitled and (2) any benefits or lump sum to which any other person is or becomes entitled with respect to the wages of such wage earner. Upon determination that a deduction is required, no such benefit for any month and no such lump sum will be paid until a total amount equal to the amount to be deducted has been withheld. If the amount of the required deduction is less than the total of (1) any such benefit or benefits for a month and (2) any such lump sum then payable, the amount to be deducted will be withheld from such total.

If more than one person is entitled to any such benefits, or to any such lump sum, the deduction is made from the benefits, or from the share of the lump sum, to which each such person is entitled, in the proportion that his benefit or benefits for a month, or his share of the lump sum, bears to the total of such benefits for a month, or the total of such lump sum.

Example 1: H received a section 204 payment of $150. Thereafter he became entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $30 for each month. His wife, W, at the same time, became entitled to a wife's insurance benefit of $15, but since she was also entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $10 on the basis of her own wages, her wife's insurance benefit was reduced to $5 for each month, under section 202 (b) of the act. (See § 403.403 (c).)

A deduction of $150, the amount of the section 204 payment, is required under paragraph (a) of this section. In order to effect the deduction, the primary insurance benefit of $30 and the wife's insurance benefit of $5 are withheld in their entirety for 4 months. In the fifth month, there being a balance of $10 to be deducted, the wife's benefit is reduced by 5/35 of $10, leaving $3.57, and the husband's primary insurance benefit is reduced by 30/35 of $10, leaving $21.43. If before the required deductions had been completed, either H or W had become entitled to a lump sum on the basis of another individual's wages, such lump sum would not be affected by the deduction.

Example 2: H, who had attained the age of 65 prior to 1939, worked during the first 3 months of 1939 for an employer who did not deduct from H's wages and did not pay over to the Bureau of Internal Revenue the taxes imposed by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code. Thereafter H became entitled to receive a primary insurance benefit of $25.50, and W, his wife, became entitled to receive a wife's insurance benefit of $12.75. The amount of H's wages from which no tax was deducted was $300. Therefore, a deduction of $3 (1 per centum of $300) is required under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939.

In order to effect the deduction of $3, H's primary insurance benefit for the first month is reduced by 2/3 of $3, giving him a benefit of $23.50, and W's benefit is reduced by 1/3 of $3, giving her a benefit of $11.75. No payment to which H or W might become entitled based upon another individual's wages (including any primary insurance benefit to which W might become entitled) would be subject to any deduction under this section.

(d) Relation to other provisions. Amounts to be deducted hereunder are measured by and are withheld from amounts of benefits as reduced or increased under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act, as set forth in § 403.503 (f).

Example: H received a section 204 payment of $160. Thereafter he became entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $40. His wife, W, became entitled to a wife's insurance benefit of $20, and each of his two children became entitled to a child's insurance benefit of $20. Under section 203 (a) of the act the wife's insurance benefit and each of the child's insurance benefits would be reduced to $13.33, making a total of $80 of benefits based on H's wages.

In order to effect the deduction of $160, the benefits as reduced are withheld from the individual, his wife, and his children for 2 months, since the amount withheld for each month is the amount to which their benefits were reduced, i. e., $80 per month, not $100 per month.

A deduction required under section 203 (h) of the act is made in addition to any deductions required under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939 and section 203 (d) or (e) of the act (see § 403.503), and in addition to any adjustment under section 204 (a) of the act (see § 403.601). (See example under paragraph (g) of § 403.503.)

SUBPART F—OVERPAYMENTS AND UNDERPAYMENTS

SECTION 204 (a) OF THE ACT

Whenever an error has been made with respect to payments to an individual under this title (including payments made prior to January 1, 1940), proper adjustment shall be made, under regulations prescribed by the Board, by increasing or decreasing subsequent payments to which such individual is entitled. If such individual dies before such adjustment has been completed, adjustment shall be made by increasing or decreasing subsequent benefits payable with respect to the wages which were the basis of benefits of such deceased individual.

§ 403.601 Overpayments and underpayments. Subsection (a) of section 204 of the act provides for adjustments, as set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b), of this section, in cases where an error has been made which results in an overpayment or underpayment to an individual under Title II of the act, including overpayments and underpayments prior to January 1, 1940. The provisions for adjustments also apply in cases where, through error, a reduction or increase required under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act, or a deduction under section 203 (d), (e), or (h) of the act or under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, is not made, and where such a reduction, increase, or deduction is made which is either larger or smaller than required (see §§ 403.502 to 403.505). The term "overpayment", as used herein, includes a payment where nothing was payable under Title II of the act. The term "underpayment", as used herein, includes nonpayment where some amount was payable under that title.

(a) Overpayments. Upon determination that an overpayment has been made, adjustments will be made against benefits and lump sums as follows:

(1) If the person to whom an overpayment was made is, at the time of the discovery of such overpayment, entitled to benefits or to a lump sum, or at any time thereafter becomes so entitled, no benefit for any month and no lump sum will be paid to such person until a total amount equal to the amount of the overpayment has been withheld. If the amount of any overpayment with respect to which adjustment has not been made is less than the total of (i) any such benefit or benefits for a month and (ii) any such lump sum then payable, the amount of such unadjusted overpayment will be withheld from such total.

Example 1: A is entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $30 a month. He has received checks of $40 a month for 5 months, making a total overpayment of $50. No benefits will be payable to A for 1 month following the discovery of the overpayment, and the benefit for the next month will be decreased to $10. If before such overpayment has been completely adjusted, A should become entitled to a lump sum on the basis of the wages of B, such lump sum would also be withheld in whole or in part, depending upon the amount remaining to be adjusted.

Such adjustments will be made against any benefits or lump sum to which such person is or may become entitled regardless of whether such benefits or lump sum are based on his wages or the wages of another individual.

Example 2: C is entitled to a child's insurance benefit of $10 based on the wages of X. C has received checks of $20 per month for 4 months, making a total overpayment of $40. No benefits will be payable to C for 4 months following the discovery of the overpayment. If, however, after benefits have been withheld for 2 months, C becomes entitled to a child's insurance benefit of $20 based on the wages of Y, the child's insurance benefit based on the wages of Y would be withheld for 1 month, and the required adjustment of $40 would thereby be completed.

(2) If an individual to whom an overpayment was made dies before adjustment is completed under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, adjustment will be made, in the manner provided under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, against any benefits or any lump sum payable with respect to the wages which were the basis of payments to such deceased individual prior to his death. Where more than one person is entitled to benefits or to a lump sum with respect to such wages, adjustment will be made against the amount payable to each of such persons in the proportion that his benefit or benefits for a month or his share of the lump sum, based on such wages, bears to the total of such benefits payable for a month or the total of such lump sum.

Example: H was entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $20. He received checks of $30 per month until his death, when the total amount of overpayment to him was $90. H left surviving a widow, W, entitled to a widow's insurance benefit of $15 a month, and a child, C, entitled to a child's insurance benefit of $10 a month. Both the widow's insurance benefit and the child's insurance benefit will be withheld in their entirety for 3 months, thereby effecting an adjustment of $75. For the remaining $15 of the adjustment, an amount equal to $\frac{15}{20}$ of $15, or $9, will be withheld from W's benefit of $15, and an amount equal to $\frac{10}{20}$ of $15, or $6, will be withheld from C's benefit of $10. Thus the amount of W's benefit paid for the fourth month will be $6, and the amount of C's benefit paid for such month will be $4. Thereafter they will receive their regular insurance benefits for each month without the decrease.

If, before the adjustment had been completed, W became entitled to receive a primary insurance benefit on the basis of her own wages, such primary insurance benefit would not be withheld, since benefits based on W's wages are not subject to adjustment on account of the overpayment to H.

(b) Underpayments. Underpayments will be adjusted as follows:

(1) If a person to whom an underpayment was made is living, the amount of such underpayment will be paid to such person either in a single payment (if he is not entitled to a benefit or lump sum) or by increasing one or more benefits or lump sum to which such person is or becomes entitled.

(2) If an individual to whom an underpayment was made dies before adjustment is completed under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the amount of such underpayment will be paid to any persons entitled to benefits or to a lump sum with respect to the wages which were the basis of payments to such deceased individual prior to his death, except as provided in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. Where more than one person is entitled to benefits or a lump sum with respect to such wages and adjustment is required hereunder, the amount of the underpayment will be divided among such persons in the proportion that their respective benefits for a month or their share of the lump sum, based on such wages, bear to the total of such benefits payable for a month or the total of such lump sum.

Example: H, who had been entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $40 a month, died after receiving checks of $20 a month for 5 months. At the time of his death the underpayment amounted to $100. He left surviving W, a widow, entitled to a widow's insurance benefit of $30, and C, a child's insurance benefit of $20. The underpayment of $100 will be adjusted by a proportionate increase of the widow's insurance benefit and the child's insurance benefit. Ordinarily, the total amount would be adjusted in 1 month, so that W's benefit for 1 month will be increased by $\frac{30}{50}$ of $100 ($60) and C's benefit for 1 month will be increased by $\frac{20}{50}$ of $100 ($40).

(3) No amount will be paid under the provisions of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph to a person to whom a lump sum is payable as one equitably entitled within the meaning of § 403.408 (b) (2), in excess of the amount of burial expenses of the deceased individual paid by such person.

(c) Relation to provisions for reductions and increases. The amount of an overpayment or underpayment of a benefit is the difference between the amount paid to the beneficiary and the amount of such benefit as reduced or increased (if required) under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act (see § 403.502). Likewise, in effecting an adjustment with respect to an overpayment, no amount can be considered as having been withheld from a particular benefit, which is in excess of the amount of such benefit as so decreased.

Example: H was entitled to a primary insurance benefit of $20. He had been receiving checks of $30, and at the time of his death the total amount of the overpayment to him was $80. H left surviving a widow, entitled to a widow's current insurance benefit of $15, and three children each entitled to a child's insurance benefit of $10. The total of these benefits ($45) must be reduced pursuant to section 203 (a) of the act to $40 (twice the primary insurance benefit). Thus the widow would be entitled to receive $13.33, and each of the children would be entitled to receive $8.89.

In order to effect the required adjustment against the benefits of the widow and the children, such benefits are withheld in their entirety for 2 months, thus completing the required adjustment of $80. The amount withheld each month is the amount of such benefits as reduced pursuant to section 203 (a) of the act, i. e., $40, not $45.

If an overpayment were made to the widow (or to a child), the amount of the overpayment would be the difference between the amount actually paid and the amount of the benefit of the widow (for the child) as reduced under section 203 (a) of the act.

(d) Relation to other provisions. Adjustments under this section are made in addition to any deductions which may be required under section 203 of the act or under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939. (See §§ 403.503 to 403.505.)

Example: A is entitled to receive a primary insurance benefit of $10 but had been receiving checks of $15. At the time of the discovery of the error the total overpayment amounts to $10. Thereafter adjustment of the overpayment is begun by withholding benefits. If A should earn wages of $15 or more for 2 months, the number of months for which benefits will be withheld is 3; i. e., 1 month for the overpayment and 2 months because of the deduction pursuant to section 203 (d) of the act.

SECTION 204 (b) OF THE ACT

There shall be no adjustment or recovery by the United States in any case where incorrect payment has been made to an individual who is without fault (including payments made prior to January 1, 1940), and where adjustment or recovery would defeat the purpose of this title or would be against equity and good conscience.

§ 403.602 Waiver of adjustment or recovery. Section 204 (b) of the act provides that there shall be no adjustment or recovery (by legal action or otherwise) by the United States in the case of an incorrect payment to an individual (including payments made prior to January 1, 1940), if the following conditions exist:

(a) Such individual is without fault, and

(b) Adjustment or recovery would either:

(1) Defeat the purpose of Title II of the act, or

(2) Be against equity and good conscience.

SECTION 204 (c) OF THE ACT

No certifying or disbursing officer shall be held liable for any amount certified or paid by him to any person where the adjustment or recovery of such amount is waived under subsection (b), or where adjustment under subsection (a) is not completed prior to the death of all persons against whose benefits deductions are authorized.

§ 403.603 Liability of certifying officer. Section 204 (c) of the act provides that no certifying or disbursing officer shall be held liable for any amount certified or paid by him to any person:

(a) Where the adjustment or recovery of such amount is waived under section 204 (b) of the act (see § 403.602); or

(b) Where adjustment under section 204 (a) of the act (see § 403.601) is not completed prior to the death of all persons against whose benefits or lump sums deductions are authorized.

SUBPART G—PROCEDURES

SECTION 205 (a) OF THE ACT

The Board shall have full power and authority to make rules and regulations and to establish procedures, not inconsistent with the provisions of this title, which are necessary or appropriate to carry out such provisions, and shall adopt reasonable and proper rules and regulations to regulate and provide for the nature and extent of the proofs and evidence and the method of taking and furnishing the same in order to establish the right to benefits hereunder.

SECTION 205 (m) OF THE ACT

No application for any benefit under this title filed prior to three months before the first month for which the applicant becomes entitled to receive such benefit shall be accepted as an application for the purposes of this title.

SECTION 202 (h) OF THE ACT

An individual who would have been entitled to a benefit under subsection (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) for any month had he filed application therefor prior to the end of such month, shall be entitled to such benefit for such month if he files application therefor prior to the end of the third month immediately succeeding such month.

SECTION 202 (g) OF THE ACT

• • • No payment [of any lump sum] shall be made to any person under this subsection, unless application therefor shall have been filed, by or on behalf of any such person (whether or not legally competent), prior to the expiration of two years after the date of death of such [fully or currently insured] individual.

SECTION 5 OF THE ACT APPROVED AUGUST 13, 1940 (54 STAT. 785)

Any application for payment filed with the Railroad Retirement Board prior to, or within sixty days after, the enactment of this act shall, under such regulations as the Social Security Board may prescribe, be deemed to be an application filed with the Social Security Board by such individual or by any person claiming any payment with respect to the wages of such individual, under any provision of section 202 of the Social Security Act, as amended.

§ 403.701 Filing of applications and other forms—(a) Prescribed application forms. Applications for benefits and lump sums shall be made as provided in these regulations. Application shall be made on such forms and in accordance with such instructions (printed thereon or attached thereto) as are prescribed by the Commissioner. The prescribed forms may be obtained from any office of the Bureau.

(b) Execution of applications. Applications for benefits and lump sums shall be signed by the person described in paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) Persons who may execute applications. Applications for benefits and lump sums shall be executed by the person designated under subparagraphs (1), (2), (3), or (4) of this paragraph according to the conditions stated:

(1) If the applicant has attained the age of 18 and is mentally competent, the application shall be executed by him.

(2) If, however, the applicant (regardless of his age) has a legally appointed guardian, committee, or other legal representative, the application shall be executed by such guardian, committee, or representative.

(3) If the applicant has attained the age of 16, is mentally competent, has no guardian, committee, or other legal representative, and is not in the care of any person, such applicant may execute the application upon filing a statement on the prescribed form, indicating capacity to act on his own behalf.

(4) If the applicant has no guardian, committee, or other legal representative, the application shall be executed by the person who has such applicant in his care if:

(i) He is mentally incompetent (regardless of his age), or

(ii) He is mentally competent but has not attained the age of 18.

If the person having the care of the applicant is an institution, the application may be executed by the manager or principal officer of such institution. For good cause shown the Administration may accept applications executed by persons other than those described above.

(d) Evidence of authority to execute an application on behalf of another. Where the application for benefits or a lump sum is executed by a person other than the applicant, such person shall, at the time of filing the application or within a reasonable time thereafter, file evidence of his authority to execute the application on behalf of such applicant. If the person executing the application is the legally appointed guardian, committee, or other legal representative of such applicant, the evidence should be a certificate executed by the proper official of the court of appointment. If the person executing the application is not such a legal representative, the evidence shall be a statement describing his relationship to the applicant and, except where the application is executed by a parent on behalf of a child with whom he is living, the extent to which he has the care of such applicant, or his position as an officer of the institution of which such individual is an inmate. The Administration may, at any time, require additional evidence to establish the authority of any such person.

(e) Place of filing applications. Applications for benefits and lump sum shall be filed (in person, by mail, or otherwise) at an office of the Bureau, or with an employee of the Administration who has been duly authorized to receive such applications at a place other than such an office.

(f) Time of filing applications for benefits. An application for benefits will be accepted as an application for the purpose of this title if it is filed not more than three months prior to the first month for which the applicant could become entitled to such benefits. An application filed at any time after the first month for which the applicant could have been entitled to benefits will be accepted as an application for benefits for the purposes of this title, beginning with any of the three months immediately preceding the month in which it is filed, except that an application for primary insurance benefits will not be accepted as an application, for the purposes of this title, for any month preceding the month in which it is filed.

Except as otherwise provided herein, an application is considered to have been filed as of the date the application is received at an office of the Bureau or by an employee of the Administration authorized to receive it. An application shall be considered to have been received:

(1) Effective April 1, 1943, if the application is deposited in and transmitted by United States mail and the fixing of the date of delivery as the date of filing would result in a loss or impairment of benefit rights, as of the date of mailing. The date appearing on the postmark (when available and legible) shall be prima facie evidence of the date of mailing.

(2) If an applicant expressed to a representative of the Bureau an intention to file a claim and his failure to file a formal application at that time is detrimental to his benefit rights, and resulted from the failure of such Bureau representative properly to advise or inform him concerning the requirements of the act or Administration's regulations thereunder as applied to the facts furnished by the applicant, or resulted from the action of such Bureau representative in informing him that an existing ruling precluded entitlement and subsequently such ruling was reversed, as of the date the applicant first expressed his intention to file, provided a formal application is filed and the applicant consents to such date as the date of receipt.

If the application is for primary insurance benefits or for recomputation of such benefits and if it is received not more than three months before the first month for which the applicant becomes entitled, the application shall be deemed to have been filed as of whichever date within three months after the month of receipt will result in entitlement to the greatest primary insurance benefits. An application for benefits beginning with a month other than the month in which the application is filed shall for the purpose of determining whether the conditions of eligibility have been satisfied, be deemed to have been filed in such other month.

Example 1: H is entitled to primary insurance benefits. W, his wife, will be 65 in May 1940, which is the first month for which she could, upon filing application, become entitled to wife's insurance benefits. If she files her application prior to February, it will be of no force and effect because filed more than three months prior to the first month for which she could become entitled.

If W is living with H in February and files her application in that month, but is not living with H in May, she will not become entitled to benefits in May. Her application will be deemed to have been filed in May for the purpose of determining whether she has met the conditions of entitlement. If W was not living with H in May she has failed to meet a condition of entitlement. See § 403.403.)

Example 2: H is entitled to primary insurance benefits. W, his wife, will be 65 in May 1940. If she files her application in June, July, or August, she may become entitled to wife's insurance benefits beginning with May, but if she files in September, June is the first month for which she could become entitled.

If W is living with H in May, she will be entitled to benefits beginning with that month if she files application in June, July, or August, even though she is not living with H in the month in which she files. Her application will be deemed to have been filed in May for the purpose of determining whether she has met the conditions of entitlement. Likewise, if she is living with H in June she will be entitled to benefits beginning with that month if she files application in July, August, or September, even though she is not living with him in the month in which she files.

Example 3: A mails an application for primary insurance benefits which is postmarked June 29, and is received at an office of the Bureau on July 1. If July 1 were fixed as the filing date the amount of A's benefit would be decreased from $28.55 to $27.80. The filing date is, therefore, considered to be June 29. Whether or not A worked for wages of more than $14.99 in June and whether his benefit would thus be subject to a deduction (see § 403.503 (a)) is immaterial, since in either event he would lose a month's benefit if July 1 were considered as the filing date.

Example 4: A's application for primary insurance benefits is received by the Bureau on March 3, 1945. He states he has worked for wages of more than $14.99 in March 1945. His primary insurance benefit computed as of March 1945 is $32.72. If April 1, 1945, is considered the filing date, the primary insurance benefit will amount to $33.48. Since the wage earner cannot become eligible for a March benefit (see § 403.503 (a)), his application will be considered to have been filed as of April 1, 1945. If the wage earner had not worked for wages of $14.99 in March, his application would have been considered filed as of March 3, 1945, so that he might obtain a benefit for March. If the wage earner also files an application for recomputation of benefits before April 1, 1945, this application will be considered to have been filed as of April 1, 1945, so that he may obtain the larger benefit for April and all succeeding months.

(g) Time of filing applications for lump sums. An application for a lump sum must, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (j) of this section, be filed within 2 years after date of the death of the individual upon the basis of whose wages such lump sum is claimed (see § 403.408 (a) (3)).

(h) Execution and filing of requests and notices. Except as otherwise provided in the regulations in this part, any request for a determination or decision relating to a person's right to benefits or a lump sum, or relating to the revision of wage records, or any notice, provided for by the regulations, shall be in writing and shall be signed by the person authorized to execute an application under paragraph (c) of this section. Such requests and notices shall be filed at an office of the Bureau or with an employee of the Administration who is authorized to receive them.

(i) Applications filed with the Railroad Retirement Board on or before October 12, 1940. Notwithstanding any other provision of these regulations or of the Act restricting the acceptability of an application filed prior to three months before the first month for which an individual could become entitled to a benefit, or any provision of these regulations restricting the place for filing an application, any application which was filed with the Railroad Retirement Board on or before October 12, 1940, for any annuity, pension, or benefit under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 or under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, which application is based in whole or in part on wages received for services in employment under the act, shall as of the date on which such application was filed with the Railroad Retirement Board, be deemed to be an acceptable application filed with the Social Security Administration for any benefits payable to any individual who could have become entitled to a benefit with respect to such wages prior to the month of February 1941.

(j) Extensions of filing periods by Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940. Pursuant to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, in computing the periods allowed for the filing of an application for lump-sum death payment under section 202 (g) (see § 403.408), filing of proof of parent's dependency and support under section 202 (f) (see § 403.407), filing of a request for revision of wage record under section 205 (c) (see § 403.706), filing of a request for reconsideration (see § 403.708), filing of a request for a hearing (see § 403.709), and filing of a request for a review (see § 403.710), by a person in military service or by a surviving civilian relative of such person in military service meeting the test of wife, widow, child, or parent under section 209 (m) (or, in the case of lump-sum death payments, the test of relatives designated by section 202 (g)) of the Social Security Act, there shall not be included that portion of the period of his military service (as defined in the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940) falling within the period so to be computed. The period of military service commences with the effective date of the act (October 17, 1940) or the date of his entrance into active military service (whichever is later) and ends upon (1) the date the act ceases to be in force or the date of his death or discharge from service (whichever is earlier) or (2) if he was reported missing and is subsequently found (actually or presumptively) to have died, then (i) the date such death is reported to or found by the proper service department, or (ii) the date such finding is made by a court of competent jurisdiction, or (iii) six months after the act ceases to be in force (whichever date is earliest). For the purposes of this section, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act will cease to be in force six months after the termination of World War II by a treaty of peace proclaimed by the President.

The term, person in military service, as used in these regulations shall include, in addition to members of the Army of the United States, the United States Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, and all officers of the Public Health Service detailed by proper authority for duty either with the Army or the Navy, persons serving in the armed forces of nations allied with the United States who immediately preceding such service were citizens of the United States, unless they are dishonorably discharged or it appears that they do not intend to resume United States citizenship.

§ 403.702 Supporting evidence as to right to receive benefits and lump sums. An applicant for benefits or a lump sum shall submit such evidence of eligibility as is specified in this section. The Administration may, at any time, require additional evidence with regard to an individual's entitlement or with regard to the amount to be paid.

The Administration may at any time require any individual, receiving, or claiming that he is entitled to receive, a benefit under Title II of the act, either for himself or on behalf of another, to submit a written statement in the prescribed manner, certifying that no event has occurred which would cause such benefit to be terminated, or which would subject such benefit to deductions under the provisions of such title. The failure on the part of such individual to submit such statement properly executed, to the Administration shall cause the suspension of such benefit.

Evidence in support of an application shall be filed at an office of the Bureau or with an employee of the Administration authorized to receive such evidence. Such evidence may be submitted as part of the application form, if the form provides for its inclusion, or it may be submitted in addition to such form and in the manner indicated by these regulations.

(a) Evidence as to wages. The amounts of wages paid an individual, and the time of payment, will be evidenced by the wage records of the Administration and such other evidence as is of probative value. After the fourth year following the year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid, however, the wage records maintained by the Administration shall be final and conclusive as to the amounts of wages paid to an individual and as to the time of such payment, except as provided in § 403.703. An applicant for benefits or a lump sum need not submit evidence as to wages unless requested to do so by the Administration.

Amounts or remuneration paid an individual for wartime maritime services constituting employment in the employ of the United States (see § 403.827 (c), and the periods in which and for which such remuneration was paid, will be conclusively evidenced by the determinations of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, or his designated agents, or entries in the wage records of the Social Security Administration based upon such determinations. Whether any portion of such remuneration will be excluded from wages will be determined by application of § 403.828.

(b) Evidence as to age. Except when the Administration, on the basis of information in its records, is satisfied that the date of birth stated in the application is substantially correct, an applicant for benefits shall file supporting evidence showing the date of his birth, if his age is a condition of entitlement. Such evidence may also be required by the Administration as to the age of any other individual when such other individual's age is relevant to the determination of the applicant's entitlement. In determining the weight to be given to evidence offered to prove age, except as provided in paragraph (j) of this section, consideration will be given to its general probative value and to its position in the following enumeration:

(1) Public records of birth;
(2) Church records of birth or baptism;
(3) Census Bureau notification of registration of birth;
(4) Hospital birth record or certificate;
(5) Flyttningsbetyg and similar foreign records;
(6) Physician's or midwife's birth record;
(7) Certification, on approved form, of Bible or other family record;
(8) Naturalization records;
(9) Immigration papers;
(10) Military records;
(11) Passports;
(12) School records;
(13) Vaccination records;
(14) Insurance policy;
(15) Labor union or fraternal records;
(16) Marriage records; or
(17) Other evidence of probative value.

Proof of any record, except a Bible or other family record, may consist of a copy of such record or a statement as to the date of birth shown by such record, duly certified by the custodian of such record or by an individual designated by the Administration. If the evidence submitted is not convincing, additional evidence will be requested, preferably of a type higher on the foregoing list.

(c) Evidence as to death. An applicant for benefits or a lump sum based upon the wages of a deceased individual shall file supporting evidence as to the death of such individual and as to the time and place of such death. Such evidence may also be required by the Administration as to the death of any other individual when such other individual's death is relevant to the determination of the applicant's entitlement. Such evidence shall be of the following character:

(1) A certified copy of the public record of death, coroner's report of death, or verdict of the coroner's jury of the State or community where death occurred, or a certificate by the custodian of the public record of death or a statement of the contents of the record of death certified by an individual designated by the Administration, or

(2) A statement of the funeral director, attending physician, or of the superintendent, physician, or interne of the institution where the death occurred; or

(3) A certified copy of an official report or finding of death, made by any agency or department of the United States which is authorized or requested to make such report or finding in the administration of any law of the United States, or a statement of the contents of such report or finding certified by an individual designated by the Administration: Provided, however, That a finding of presumptive death made pursuant to section 5 of Public Law 490, 77th Congress, as amended, (50 U. S. C. A. App. § 1005) shall be accepted only as evidence of the fact of death and not of the date of death.

If none of the evidence described in subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) of this paragraph is obtainable, the reason therefor should be stated and the applicant may submit:

(4) The signed statements of two or more persons, having personal knowledge of the death, setting forth the facts and circumstances as to the place, date and cause of death; or

(5) Other evidence of probative value.

If death occurs outside the United States there must be furnished a report of the death by a United States consul, or other agent of the State Department, bearing the signature and official seal of such consul or agent, or a certified copy of the public record of death authenticated by the United States consul or other agent of the State Department, or other evidence of probative value.

Whenever it is necessary to determine the death of an individual other than the wage earner, in order to determine the right of another to a benefit under section 202 (f) or a lump sum under section 202 (g) of the act, and such individual has been unexplainedly absent from his residence and unheard of for a period of 7 years, the Administration, upon satisfactory establishment of such facts, will presume that such individual has died, in the absence of any substantial evidence to the contrary.

(d) Evidence as to marriage. Except as provided in paragraph (j) of this section, a wife or widow who applies for benefits (see paragraph (k) of this section as to applications for lump sums) upon the basis of the wages of her husband or deceased husband shall file supporting evidence as specified below as to her marriage to such individual, and as to the time and place of marriage. Evidence of marriage may also be required by the Administration as to the marriage of any other individual when such a marriage is relevant to the determination of an applicant's entitlement.

(1) Ceremonial marriage. Except as may be otherwise expressly required by the Administration in connection with an application, no supporting evidence as to marriage need be filed when the application is for wife's insurance benefits (see § 403.403) and states that the applicant was ceremonially married to the individual who has applied for primary insurance benefits on the basis of the same wages and such individual signs her statement. When a marriage has thus been established upon an application for wife's insurance benefits, such evidence, except as may be otherwise expressly required by the Administration, will be accepted as proof of such marriage upon a subsequent application by the same person for a widow's insurance benefits (see § 403.405).

In all other cases, evidence as to a ceremonial marriage shall be of the following character:

(i) A copy of the public record of marriage or a statement as to the marriage, duly certified by the custodian of such record or by an individual designated by the Administration; or

(ii) A copy of the church record of marriage or a statement as to such marriage, duly certified by the custodian of such record or an individual designated by the Administration; or

(iii) The original certificate of marriage.

If none of the evidence described in subdivisions (i), (ii), and (iii) of this subparagraph is obtainable, the reason therefor should be stated and the applicant may submit:

(iv) The signed statement of the clergyman or official who performed the marriage ceremony; or

(v) Other evidence of probative value.

(2) Common-law marriage. Evidence as to a common-law marriage shall be such as to disclose the facts upon which the informant bases his belief as to the existence of such marriage, such as the maintenance of a common place of abode in which the alleged spouses lived together, a present agreement of marriage, and any representations made by the parties as to their marital status. Such evidence shall be as follows:

(i) If the husband and wife are living, such evidence shall be in the form of signed statements of the husband and wife and two of their blood relatives. The signed statement of another individual may be substituted for the statement of each such relative which is not obtainable.

(ii) If either the husband or wife is deceased, such evidence shall be in the form of signed statements of the surviving spouse and of two blood relatives of the deceased spouse. The signed statement of another individual may be substituted for the statement of any such relative, upon written showing that such relative's statement is not reasonably obtainable.

(iii) If both the husband and wife are deceased, such evidence shall be in the form of signed statements of one blood relative of each deceased spouse. The signed statement of another individual may be substituted for the statement of any such relative, upon written showing that such relative's statement is not reasonably obtainable.

The corroborative statements by relatives or other individuals described in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph may in the discretion of the Administration be omitted where the parties entered into a formal marriage ceremony which was void because of a legal impediment then existing to the marriage, and where the impediment was removed and thereafter they continued to live together as man and wife until the application was filed or until the death of one of them, if under applicable State law a valid common-law marriage could come into existence as a result of continued cohabitation as man and wife or a subsequent agreement of marriage, or both.

(3) Termination of prior marriage. Where the validity of an alleged marriage depends upon the termination of a former marriage the applicant shall, when so requested by the Administration submit:

(i) A certified copy of the decree dissolving such former marriage; or

(ii) Evidence of the death of a party to such marriage, as described in paragraph (c) of this section (and in the order of priority therein described); or

(iii) Other evidence of probative value.

(e) Evidence as to relationship of parent and child—(1) Child's application. Except as provided in paragraph (j) of this section, an applicant for child's insurance benefits shall file the following supporting evidence of his relationship to the parent upon the basis of whose wages benefits are claimed (see paragraph (k) of this section as to applications for lump sums):

(i) If the relationship is by blood, the evidence described in paragraph (b) of this section should be submitted (in the order of priority therein provided), showing the relationship between the parent and child in question: Provided, That a birth record which shows the name of the child but does not give the names of the parents and their relationship to the child may be accepted as supporting evidence of relationship if the surname of the child shown thereon is the same as that of the wage earner at the time of the birth of the child and if none of the information available or furnished to the Administration is inconsistent with the existence of the relationship.

(ii) If the relationship is by adoption, a certified copy of the decree or order of adoption should be submitted.

(iii) If the relationship is that of stepparent and stepchild and the child is the blood child of the parent to whom such stepparent is married, the evidence described in paragraph (b) of this section should be submitted (in the order of priority therein provided), showing the relationship between the child and such blood parent: Provided, That a birth record which shows the name of the child but does not give the names of the parents and their relationship to the child may be accepted as supporting evidence of relationship between the child and the child's blood parent to whom the stepparent is married if the surname of the child thereon is the same as that of the blood parent at the time of the birth of the child, and if none of the information available or furnished to the Administration is inconsistent with the existence of the relationship. If the child is the adopted child of the parent to whom such stepparent is married, a certified copy of the decree or order of adoption should be submitted. Evidence should be submitted as described in paragraph (d) of this section (in the order of priority therein provided), as to the marriage of the child's blood parent (or adopting parent) and such stepparent.

(2) Parent's application. An applicant for parent's insurance benefits shall file evidence of his relationship to the child upon the basis of whose wages the benefits are claimed. (See paragraph (k) of this section as to applications for lump sums.) Such evidence should be of the following character:

(i) If the relationship is by blood, the signed statement of the applicant as to the existence of the relationship should be submitted.

(ii) If the relationship is by adoption, a certified copy and decree of the order of adoption should be submitted.

(iii) If the relationship is that of stepparent and stepchild, evidence of the marriage of such stepparent with a blood parent or adopting parent of the child should be submitted, as described in paragraph (d) of this section (in the order of priority therein provided), and there shall also be submitted evidence of the relationship of the child and such blood parent (or adopting parent) as provided under subdivision (i) (or (ii)) of this subparagraph.

If the evidence described in subparagraphs (1) or (2) of this paragraph, as the case may be, is not obtainable, the reason therefor should be stated and the applicant may submit other evidence of probative value.

(f) Evidence that wife or widow was "living with" wage earner. A wife who applies for benefits based upon the wages of her husband, and a widow who applies for benefits based upon the wages of her deceased husband, shall file evidence that she was living with her husband at the time of filing her application or at the time of the husband's death (see §§ 403.403, 403.405, and 403.406), as the case may be. Such evidence should be one of the following:

(1) A signed statement by the wife and the husband, or by the widow, that the husband and wife, at the time above stated, were living together at the same place of abode, and customarily so lived together, and giving the address of such place. If the wife or widow and her husband were temporarily living apart, the signed statement by the husband and wife, or by the widow, should state the places of residence of the husband and wife, the reason for their separation, the length of time they had been separated, and the expected duration of and the reasons for the separation; or

(2) A certified copy of an order or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction directing the husband to contribute to the support of the wife or widow and a certification by the proper official of the court that such order had not been revoked or modified prior to the time in question; or

(3) A signed statement by the wife and the husband, or by the widow, that the husband was making regular contributions toward the wife's support, and describing the amount, time or times, and manner of making such contributions. If the husband is living and his statement is not obtainable, the reason therefor shall be stated and the signed statements of two other persons may be substituted for that of the husband.

If the evidence above described is not obtainable, the reason therefor shall be stated and the applicant may submit other evidence of probative value.

(g) Evidence as to dependency of a child. A child who applies for benefits based upon the wages of an individual shall submit evidence as to his dependence upon such individual. Such evidence should be of the following character:

(1) Father or adopting father. If the individual upon the basis of whose wages the benefits are claimed is the father or adopting father of the child, there should be submitted a signed statement by a person having knowledge thereof, that, at the time the child's application was filed or at the time of such individual's death, as the case may be:

(i) Such individual and such child were living together, at a common place of abode, and giving the address of such place; or

(ii) Such individual was contributing to the support of the child, and describing the amount, time or times, and manner of making such contributions; or

(iii) The child at the time in question:

(a) Was the legitimate or adopted child of such individual; and

(b) Had not been adopted by another individual; and

(c) Either was not living with, or was not supported by, a stepfather at the time of the death of the father or adopting father. (This part of the statement is necessary only in the event that the child's application is based upon the wages of a deceased father or deceased adopting father.)

(2) Mother, adopting mother, or stepparent. If the individual upon the basis of whose wages the benefits are claimed is the mother, adopting mother, or stepparent of the child, there should be submitted a signed statement by a person having knowledge thereof, that at the time of filing the application or at the time of the individual's death, as the case may be, the child was not living with its father or adopting father and that no contributions in any medium were being made for the support of the child by such child's father or adopting father. If any contributions were being made by the father or adopting father, the time, amount, and manner of making such contributions should be stated.

If the evidence designated in subparagraphs (1) or (2) of this paragraph, as the case may be, is not obtainable, the reason therefor shall be stated and the applicant may submit other evidence of probative value.

(h) Evidence as to having the care of a child. An applicant for widow's current insurance benefits shall file a signed statement as to whether she has in her care a child of her deceased husband upon the basis of whose wages she claims benefits. If the child is not living with the widow, her statement shall disclose the reason for the separation, the present length and expected duration thereof, and how and to what extent she cares for the child. If the child is not living with the widow, she shall also submit, upon request of the Administration, a signed statement by the individual with whom the child is living (or official of the institution where the child is living), which states the source of the child's support, and how and to what extent the widow has cared for the child.

(i) Evidence as to the dependency of a parent. A parent who claims to have been wholly dependent upon and supported by an individual shall, in filing proof of such dependency, submit a signed statement setting forth, as of the time of such individual's death, and for a period of not less than one year prior to such time, the amount and kind of contributions made to the parent by such individual. The statement shall also describe the tangible and intangible property owned by the parent, and, for a period of one year prior to such death, the income from such property and any other income (including contributions from other children and relatives) received by the parent, and the amount and source of such income. Proof that a parent was wholly dependent upon and supported by an individual, at the time of such individual's death, must, except as otherwise provided in § 403.701 (j), be filed within two years after the death of such individual (see § 403.407 (a) (3)).

(j) Evidence in application for widow's current and child's insurance benefits not aggregating more than $150 or the lump sum. When an application or applications have been filed for widow's current and/or child's insurance benefits, and it is apparent, from reference to the alleged age of the child or children for whom application is made, that the total benefits payable will not exceed (1) $150 or (2) the amount of a lump-sum death payment under section 202 (g) of the act computed on the basis of the wage record of the deceased wage earner, whichever is greater, then in lieu of the supporting evidence required in paragraphs (b), (d), and (e) of this section, as to the age, relationship (other than by adoption), and marriage (other than common-law marriage), of the applicants, a signed statement setting forth the facts submitted by (or on behalf of) the applicants as to such age, relationship, or marriage, may be accepted. For required evidence of a common-law marriage or adoption, see paragraphs (d) (2) and (e) (1) (ii) of this section.

(k) Proof of relationship by applicants for lump sums. If an applicant applies for a lump sum as the widow, widower, child, distributee with a child, or parent of a deceased individual, the applicant shall submit a signed statement as to the existence of such relationship to the deceased. If the applicant alleges that he or she is the widow or widower of the deceased individual by reason of a common-law marriage, evidence of such marriage shall be submitted as described in paragraph (d) (2) of this section (in the order therein provided). If the applicant alleges that he is the parent or child of the deceased individual by reason of adoption, evidence of such adoption shall be submitted in accordance with the applicable provisions of paragraph (e) of this section.

(l) Evidence as to payment of burial expenses. If a condition of entitlement to a lump sum is that the applicant shall have paid part or all of the burial expenses of the deceased individual upon the basis of whose wages the lump sum is claimed, the applicant shall file an itemized and receipted statement or statements of the person or persons who supplied goods or services for the burial of the deceased. Such statement or statements shall show the total cost of all goods or services furnished, the amount remaining unpaid, if any, the name of each person who paid any portion of such costs, and the amount and date of each payment. The applicant shall also submit his own signed statement as to his relationship or other connection with the deceased individual, the total amount of the burial expenses, the amount of the burial expenses paid from his own funds, the amount of burial expenses unpaid, and the amount in cash or property which he has received as reimbursement for his payment of burial expenses.

If the evidence above described is not obtainable, the reason therefor shall be stated and the applicant may submit other evidence of probative value.

SECTION 205 (c) OF THE ACT

(1) On the basis of information obtained by or submitted to the Board, and after such verification thereof as it deems necessary, the Board shall establish and maintain records of the amounts of wages paid to each individual and of the periods in which such wages were paid and, upon request, shall inform any individual, or after his death shall inform the wife, child, or parent of such individual, of the amounts of wages of such individual and the periods of payments shown by such records at the time of such request. Such records shall be evidence, for the purpose of proceedings before the Board or any court, of the amounts of such wages and the periods in which they were paid, and the absence of an entry as to an individual's wages in such records for any period shall be evidence that no wages were paid such individual in such period.

(2) After the expiration of the fourth calendar year following any year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid an individual, the records of the Board as to the wages of such individual for such year and the periods of payment shall be conclusive for the purposes of this title, except as hereafter provided.

(3) If, prior to the expiration of such fourth year, it is brought to the attention of the Board that any entry of such wages in such records is erroneous, or that any item of such wages has been omitted from the records, the Board may correct such entry or include such omitted item in its records, as the case may be. Written notice of any revision of any such entry, which is adverse to the interests of any individual, shall be given to such individual, in any case where such individual has previously been notified by the Board of the amount of wages and of the period of payments shown by such entry. Upon request in writing made prior to the expiration of such fourth year, or within sixty days thereafter, the Board shall afford any individual, or after his death shall afford the wife, child, or parent of such individual, reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing with respect to any entry or alleged omission of wages of such individual in such records, or any revision of any such entry. If a hearing is held, the Board shall make findings of fact and a decision based upon the evidence adduced at such hearing and shall revise its records as may be required by such findings and decision.

(4) After the expiration of such fourth year, the Board may revise any entry or include in its records any omitted item of wages to conform its records with tax returns or portions of tax returns (including information returns and other written statements) filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under title VIII of the Social Security Act or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or under regulations made under authority thereof. Notice shall be given of such revision under such conditions and to such individuals as is provided for revisions under paragraph (3) of this subsection. Upon request, notice and opportunity for hearing with respect to any such entry, omission, or revision, shall be afforded under such conditions and to such individuals as is provided in paragraph (3) hereof, but no evidence shall be introduced at any such hearing except with respect to conformity of such records with such tax returns and such other data submitted under such title VIII or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or under such regulations.

SECTION 209 (o) (2), (3), AND (4) OF THE ACT

(2) The Social Security Board shall not make determinations as to whether an individual has performed services which are employment by reason of paragraph 1 of this subsection, or the periods of such services, or the amounts of remuneration for such services, or the periods in which or for which such remuneration was paid, but shall accept the determination with respect thereto of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and such agents as he may designate, as evidenced by returns filed by such Administrator as an employer pursuant to section 1426 (i) of the Internal Revenue Code and certifications made pursuant to this subsection. Such determinations shall be final and conclusive.

(3) The Administrator, War Shipping Administration, is authorized and directed, upon written request of the Social Security Board, to make certification to it with respect to any matter determinable for the Board by the War Shipping Administrator under this subsection, which the Board finds necessary in administering this title.

(4) This subsection shall be effective as of September 30, 1941. (As retroactively added by section 1 (b) (2) of the Act of March 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 47, as amended by the Act approved April 4, 1944, 58 Stat. 188.)

§ 403.703 Wage records—(a) Requests for information and for revision. Any individual, or after his death his widow, child, or parent, upon making a written request, may obtain a statement of the amounts of wages paid such individual and the periods of payment as shown by the wage records of the Administration at the time the request for information is received. Such individual, or after his death his widow, child, or parent, may file request for the revision of such wage records as to the amounts of wages paid such individual and the periods of such payment. The request shall be in writing and shall, for the calendar quarter or quarters as to which the records are believed to be in error, set forth the amount, and time of payment of all wages alleged to have been paid, the name and address of the employer or employers who paid such wages, the nature of the services rendered, and the place or places where such services were rendered.

(b) Evidence in support of wage-record revision. When a request for the revision of an individual's wage record, as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, is filed prior to the expiration of the fourth year after the year in which the wages in question were paid or are alleged to have been paid, the individual requesting the revision shall submit supporting evidence of probative value as to the time of payment of such alleged wages, the amount thereof, the nature of the services for which the wages are alleged to have been paid, and the name and address of the employer or employers who paid such wages.

If the request for the revision of the Administration's wage records is filed after the expiration of such fourth year, there shall, except as provided in § 403.701 (j), be no revision of such records with respect to such wages except to conform such records to a tax return, or portion of a return (including information returns and other written statements), filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Title VIII of the Social Security Act or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or regulations made under authority thereof.

(c) Revision of wage records for wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States. There shall be no revision of wage records based upon wartime maritime services constituting employment in the employ of the United States (see § 403.803 (d)) except as such revision is necessitated by a determination of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, or his designated agents (see §§ 403.702 (a), 403.706 (a) (6), and 403.711a), or by application of § 403.823.

§ 403.704 Abandonment and withdrawal of applications, requests for wage-record revisions, and recomputation of benefits—(a) Withdrawal. An individual may withdraw his application for benefits or for a lump sum, or his request for revision of wage records of the Administration, by filing written notice of such withdrawal prior to the Bureau's determination upon such application or request. Thereafter, further action will be taken only upon the filing of a new application or request.

(b) Abandonment. Whenever, after the filing of an application for benefits or a lump sum or a request for wage-record revision, additional evidence or information is asked for by the Administration, by written notice mailed to the applicant at his last known address, the applicant's disregard thereof for a period of 1 year from the date of mailing shall be considered as an abandonment of such application or request. Thereafter the Administration will take further action only upon the filing of a new application or request unless it is shown that such disregard by the applicant was due to a cause or causes not reasonably within his control.

(c) Recomputation of benefits. After favorable determination a wage earner, upon filing application with the Administration, may have his primary insurance benefit recomputed at any subsequent time for the purpose of including wages paid to him in and after the quarter in which he became entitled. Benefits computed on the basis of the prior application shall terminate with the month before the month in which the application for recomputation is filed, and benefits as recomputed shall be payable beginning with the month in which such application or request is filed. The primary insurance benefit shall be recomputed in the same manner that such benefit would have been computed had the wage earner filed his original application on the date the application for recomputation was filed.

Example: A became entitled to primary benefits in March 1940. He returned to work in January 1941 at a substantially higher average wage than he formerly received. In January 1945 he quit work and filed a request for recomputation. Based on the additional wages he received after December 31, 1940, and prior to January 1, 1945, A's primary benefit is increased. A's entitlement on the application filed in March 1940 terminates with the month of December 1944. His entitlement on the application filed in January 1945 becomes effective in the month of filing.

Auxiliary benefits, if any, will be increased beginning January 1945 on the basis of the larger primary insurance benefit.

SECTION 205 (j) OF THE ACT

When it appears to the Board that the interest of an applicant entitled to a payment would be served thereby, certification of payment may be made, regardless of the legal competency or incompetency of the individual entitled thereto, either for direct payment to such applicant, or for his use and benefit to a relative or some other person.

SECTION 205 (k) OF THE ACT

Any payment made after December 31, 1939, under conditions set forth in subsection (j), * * * and any payment made after December 31, 1939, to a legally incompetent individual without knowledge by the Board of incompetency prior to certification of payment, if otherwise valid under this title, shall be a complete settlement and satisfaction of any claim, right, or interest in and to such payment.

SECTION 205 (n) OF THE ACT

The Board may, in its discretion, certify to the Managing Trustee any two or more individuals of the same family for joint payment of the total benefits payable to such individuals.

§ 403.705 Persons to whom payments are made—(a) Payments on behalf of an individual. When it appears to the Administration that the interest of an individual would be served thereby, the Administration may certify any amount to be paid to such individual under Title II of the act, either for direct payment to him or to another person for and on his behalf, regardless of such individual's competency or incompetency. The Administration may at any time, withhold certification of payment until a guardian, committee, or other legal representative has been appointed who is duly authorized to receive payments for and on behalf of such individual.

Before any amount will be certified for payment to any person for and on behalf of another individual, such person shall submit evidence to the Administration of his authority to receive such payment or of his relationship to, or connection with, the individual on whose behalf payment is made. The Administration may, at any time thereafter, require evidence of the continued existence of such authority, relationship, or connection. Where the person to whom payment is made is not the legally appointed guardian, conservator, or other legal representative, he shall, upon request of the Administration, account for the funds he has so received and upon failure to so account the payments to him shall be discontinued.

(b) Joint payments to a family. Where amounts are to be paid under Title II of the act to two or more individuals of the same family, the Administration may, in its discretion, certify the total of such amounts for joint payment to such individuals.

SECTION 205 (b) OF THE ACT

The Board is directed to make findings of fact, and decisions as to the rights of any individual applying for a payment under this title. Whenever requested by any such individual or whenever requested by a wife, widow, child, or parent who makes a showing in writing that his or her rights may be prejudiced by any decision the Board has rendered, it shall give such applicant and such other individual reasonable notice and opportunity for a hearing with respect to such decision, and, if a hearing is held, shall, on the basis of evidence adduced at the hearing, affirm, modify, or reverse its findings of fact and such decision. The Board is further authorized, on its own motion, to hold such hearings and to conduct such investigations and other proceedings as it may deem necessary or proper for the administration of this title. In the course of any hearing, investigation, or other proceeding, it may administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses, and receive evidence. Evidence may be received at any hearing before the Board even though inadmissible under rules of evidence applicable to court procedure.

SECTION 205 (c) OF THE ACT

(1) On the basis of information obtained by or submitted to the Board, and after such verification thereof as it deems necessary, the Board shall establish and maintain records of the amounts of wages paid to each individual and of the periods in which such wages were paid and, upon request, shall inform any individual, or after his death shall inform the wife, child, or parent of such individual, of the amount of wages of such individual and the periods of payment shown by such records at the time of such request. Such records shall be evidence, for the purpose of proceedings before the Board or any court, of the amounts of such wages and the periods in which they were paid, and the absence of an entry as to an individual's wages in such records for any period shall be evidence that no wages were paid such individual in such period.

(2) After the expiration of the fourth calendar year following any year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid an individual, the records of the Board as to the wages of such individual for such year and the periods of payment shall be conclusive for the purposes of this title, except as hereafter provided.

(3) If, prior to the expiration of such fourth year, it is brought to the attention of the Board that any entry of such wages in such records is erroneous, or that any item of such wages has been omitted from the records, the Board may correct such entry or include such omitted item in its records, as the case may be. Written notice of any revision of any such entry, which is adverse to the interests of any individual, shall be given to such individual, in any case where such individual has previously been notified by the Board of the amount of wages and of the period of payments shown by such entry. Upon request in writing made prior to the expiration of such fourth year, or within sixty days thereafter, the Board shall afford any individual, or after his death shall afford the wife, child, or parent of such individual, reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing with respect to any entry or alleged omission of wages of such individual in such records, or any revision of any such entry. If a hearing is held, the Board shall make findings of fact and a decision based upon the evidence adduced at such hearing and shall revise its records as may be required by such findings and decision.

(4) After the expiration of such fourth year, the Board may revise any entry or include in its records any omitted item of wages to conform its records with tax returns or portions of tax returns (including information returns and other written statements) filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Title VIII of the Social Security Act or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or under regulations made under authority thereof. Notice shall be given of such revision under such conditions and to such individuals as is provided for revisions under paragraph (3) of this subsection. Upon request, notice and opportunity for hearing with respect to any such entry, omission, or revision, shall be afforded under such conditions and to such individuals as is provided in paragraph (3) hereof, but no evidence shall be introduced at any such hearing except with respect to conformity of such records with such tax returns and such other data submitted under such Title VIII or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or under such regulations.

(5) Decisions of the Board under this subsection shall be reviewable by commencing a civil action in the district court of the United States as provided in subsection (g) hereof.

SECTION 209 (o) (2), (3), AND (4) OF THE ACT

(2) The Social Security Board shall not make determinations as to whether an individual has performed services which are employment by reason of paragraph 1 of this subsection, or the periods of such services, or the amounts of remuneration for such services, or the periods in which or for which such remuneration was paid, but shall accept the determination with respect thereto of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and such agents as he may designate, as evidenced by returns filed by such Administrator as an employer pursuant to section 1426 (i) of the Internal Revenue Code and certifications made pursuant to this subsection. Such determinations shall be final and conclusive.

(3) The Administrator, War Shipping Administration, is authorized and directed, upon written request of the Social Security Board, to make certification to it with respect to any matter determinable for the Board by the War Shipping Administrator under this subsection, which the Board finds necessary in administering this title.

(4) This subsection shall be effective as of September 30, 1941. (As retroactively added by section 1 (b) (2) of the Act of March 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 47, as amended by the Act approved April 4, 1944, 58 Stat. 188.)

§ 403.706 Initial determination—(a) Determinations affecting benefits, lump sums, and wage records—(1) Benefits and lump sums. The Bureau shall make findings, setting forth the pertinent facts and conclusions, and an initial determination with respect to the entitlement to benefits or a lump sum (see §§ 403.402–403.408) of any person (hereafter referred to as the party to the determination) who has filed an application for benefits or a lump sum. The determination shall include the amount, if any, to which the party is entitled and any reduction or increase in the benefits to be made under section 203 (a), (b), or (c) of the act (see § 403.502).

(2) Modification in the amount of benefits or a lump sum. The Bureau shall, under the circumstances hereafter stated, make findings, setting forth the pertinent facts and conclusions, and an initial determination:

(i) As to whether the benefits to which an individual is entitled should be reduced under sections 202 (b) (2), 202 (d) (2) or 202 (e) (2) of the act or reduced or increased under section 202 (f) (2) of the act (see paragraph (c) of §§ 403.403, 403.405, 403.406, and 403.407), and, if so, the amount thereof, because such individual, after the determination of his entitlement, becomes or ceases to be entitled to other or additional benefits as provided in the above sections; or

(ii) As to whether a reduction or increase, under section 203 (a), (b), or (c) of the act (see § 403.502) should be made in the benefits to which an individual is entitled, because of circumstances arising after the determination of such individual's entitlement to such benefits, and, if a reduction or increase is to be made, the amount thereof; or

(iii) As to whether a reduction or increase, under section 203 (a), (b), or (c) of the act (see § 403.502), which has been made in the benefits to which an individual is entitled, is no longer required because of circumstances arising after the determination that such reduction or increase should be made, and, if such reduction or increase is no longer required, the extent to which it should be modified; or

(iv) As to whether a deduction or deductions under section 203 (d), (e), (g), or (h) of the act or under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939 (see §§ 403.503–403.505) should be made from the benefits or lump sum to which a person is entitled, and, if so, the amount thereof; or

(v) As to whether an overpayment or an underpayment has been made, and, if so, the amount thereof, and the adjustment, under section 204 (a) of the act (see § 403.601), which is to be made by increasing or decreasing the benefits or lump sum to which a person is entitled; or

(vi) As to whether an adjustment or the recovery of an overpayment is to be waived, with respect to a person, under section 204 (b) of the act (see § 403.602).

(The individual or person designated above is hereafter referred to as the party to the determination.) Such findings of fact and determination shall be made whenever it appears to the Bureau, or whenever a party requests in writing, that, as above provided, a reduction or increase should be made or terminated, that a deduction should be made, or that an adjustment or recovery should be made or waived.

(3) Termination of benefits. The Bureau shall, with respect to an individual who has been determined to be entitled to benefits (hereafter referred to as the party to the determination), make findings, setting forth the pertinent facts and conclusions, and an initial determination as to whether, under the applicable provisions of section 202 of the act (see paragraph (b) of each of §§ 403.402–403.407), such party's entitlement to benefits has ended and, if so, the last month for which such party is entitled to benefits. Such findings of fact and determination shall be made whenever it appears to the Bureau that such party's entitlement to benefits has ended.

(4) Parent's dependency. The Bureau shall make findings, setting forth the pertinent facts and conclusions, and an initial determination as to whether a parent (hereafter referred to as the party to the determination) was wholly dependent upon and supported by a fully insured individual at the time of such individual's death. Such findings of fact and determination shall be made when evidence of such dependency and support is submitted by the party at a time prior to the filing of an application by him for parent's insurance benefits, but, except as otherwise provided in § 403.701 (j), within 2 years after the death of the insured individual. (See §§ 403.407 (a) (3) and 403.702 (i).)

(5) Revision of wage records. When requested by an individual, or, after his death, by his widow, child, or parent (see § 403.703), the Bureau shall make findings, setting forth the pertinent facts and conclusions, and an initial determination as to whether the Administration's record of such individual's wages should be revised, either by changing the records as to the amount or time of payment of wages or by entering new items of wages in such records. (The person filing the request for revision is hereafter referred to as the party to the determination.) The determination as to revision, if it is determined that the records shall be revised, shall specify the amount of any increase or decrease to be made, the amount of any omitted item to be included, and the period or periods of payment to be shown by the records.

(6) Claims or proceedings involving wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States. The determination of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, or his designated agents, as to whether an individual has performed services which constitute employment as defined by section 209 (o) of the act as amended (see § 403.803 (d)), as to the periods of such services, as to the amounts of remuneration for such services, and as to the periods in which or for which such remuneration was paid (see § 403.827 (c)), shall be final and conclusive upon the Bureau as to the matters so determined. The Bureau shall make no independent determinations concerning any matter determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, but shall accept the determinations of the Administrator or his designated agents with respect thereto as evidenced either by tax returns filed pursuant to section 1426 (i) of the Internal Revenue Code or by certifications. In any case in which information necessary to the disposition of a claim or proceeding shall be lacking as to any matter determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, or in which information set forth in such tax returns appears to be incomplete or questionable, the Bureau shall request the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, or his appropriate designated agent to make certification to it in writing of such missing, incomplete, or questionable information.

(b) Notice of initial determination. Written notice of an initial determination shall be mailed to the party to the determination at his last known address, except that no such notice is necessary where there is a determination that a party's entitlement to benefits has ended because of such party's death (see paragraph (a) (3) of this section).

If the initial determination disallows, in whole or in part, the application or request of a party, or if the initial determination is to the effect that a parent was not wholly dependent upon and supported by a fully insured individual, or that a party's entitlement to benefits has ended, or that a reduction, deduction, or adjustment is to be made in benefits or a lump sum, or an increase in benefits is to be terminated, the notice of the determination sent to the party shall state the basis for the determination; the notice of such a determination shall also inform the party of the right to reconsideration and hearing (see §§ 403.707–403.709) unless such determination is to the effect that a deduction or termination is to be made and such determination is based upon facts reported to the Bureau by the party to the determination.

(c) Effect of initial determination. The initial determination shall be final and binding upon the party to such determination unless (1) it is reconsidered in accordance with § 403.708, or (2) a hearing is held in accordance with § 403.709, or (3) it is revised in accordance with § 403.711 (b).

§ 403.707 Reconsideration or hearing. A party who is dissatisfied with an initial determination may, at his option, request that the Bureau reconsider such determination, as provided in § 403.708, or request a hearing before a referee, as provided in § 403.709. If a request for reconsideration is filed, such action shall not constitute a waiver of the right to a hearing, and a request for a hearing may be thereafter filed, as is provided in § 403.709.

§ 403.708 Reconsideration—(a) Right to reconsideration. The Bureau shall reconsider an initial determination if, prior to the filing of a request for a hearing (see § 403.709 (a), (b), and (c)), a written request for reconsideration is filed, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, by the party to the initial determination (see § 403.706 (a)).

The Bureau shall also reconsider an initial determination (see § 403.706 (a) (1) to (4), inclusive), unless the determination is with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records, if, prior to the filing of a request for a hearing, a written request for reconsideration is filed, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, by any individual who makes a showing in writing that his rights with respect to benefits or a lump sum may be prejudiced by such determination.

The Bureau shall also reconsider an initial determination relating to the revision of the Administration's record of an individual's wages (see § 403.706 (a) (5)), if, prior to the filing of a request for a hearing, a written request for reconsideration is filed, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, by the widow, child, or parent of such individual after his death.

(b) Time and place of filing request for reconsideration. The request for reconsideration shall be made in writing and filed at an office of the Bureau.

The request for reconsideration, unless the determination to be reconsidered is with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records (see § 403.706 (a) (5)), must be filed within six months from the date of mailing notice of the initial determination, except as is provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a).

The request for the reconsideration of an initial determination as to the revision of the Administration's wage records may be filed at any time after the mailing of notice of such determination, but, if the request is filed more than 60 days after the fourth calendar year following the year in which the wages in question were paid or are alleged to have been paid, except as provided in § 403.701 (j), such determination will not be reconsidered except for the purpose of revising the wage records in accordance with section 205 (c) (4) of the act (see § 403.703).

(c) Parties to the reconsideration. The parties to the reconsideration shall be the person who was the party to the initial determination (see § 403.706 (a)) and any other individual (see paragraph (a) of this section), if there be such, upon whose request the initial determination is reconsidered.

(d) Notice of reconsideration. If the request for reconsideration is filed by an individual other than the party to the initial determination, the Bureau shall, before revising the initial determination adversely to the interests of such party, mail a written notice to such party, at his last known address, informing him that the initial determination is being reconsidered, and the Bureau shall give such party a reasonable opportunity to present such evidence or contentions, as he may desire, relative to the determination.

(e) Reconsidered determination. The Bureau shall, when a request for reconsideration has been filed, as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, reconsider the initial determination in question and the findings upon which it was based, and, upon the basis of the evidence considered in connection with the initial determination and such other evidence as is submitted by the parties or otherwise obtained, the Bureau shall make a reconsidered determination affirming or revising, in whole or in part, the findings and determination in question.

Where reconsideration involves any matters determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration (see §§ 403.803 (d), 403.827 (c)), the Bureau shall comply with the procedure established by § 403.706 (a) (6) as to such matters.

(f) Notice of reconsidered determination. Written notice of the reconsidered determination shall be mailed to the parties at their last known addresses. The notice of the reconsidered determination shall state the basis for such determination and inform the parties of their right to a hearing (see § 403.709).

(g) Effect of reconsidered determination. The reconsidered determination shall be final and binding upon all parties to the reconsideration unless a hearing is requested in accordance with § 403.709 or unless such determination is revised in accordance with § 403.711 (b).

§ 403.709 Hearing—(a) Right to hearing. Any party designated in paragraph (c) of this section shall be entitled to a hearing with respect to any matter designated in § 403.706 (a), after an initial or reconsidered determination has been made by the Bureau (see §§ 403.706 to 403.708, inclusive), if such party files, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, a written request for a hearing. (Special provisions concerning hearings with respect to matters determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration (see § 403.706 (a) (6)) are contained in § 403.711a.)

(b) Time and place of filing request for hearing. The request for hearing shall be made in writing and filed at an office of the Bureau, with a referee, or with the Office of Appeals Council in the Social Security Administration.

If no request for reconsideration has been filed, as provided in § 403.708 (a) and (b), and the matter to be heard is not with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records, the request for hearing must be filed within six months from the date of mailing notice of the initial determination, except as is provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a). If a request for reconsideration has been filed and the matter to be heard is not with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records, (1) the request for hearing may be filed at any time prior to the mailing of notice of the reconsidered determination if such notice has not been mailed within 45 days after the filing of the request for reconsideration, or (2) the request for hearing must be filed within 3 months after the date of mailing notice of the reconsidered determination, except as is provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a).

If the matter to be heard is with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records, the request for hearing may be filed at any time after the mailing of notice of the initial or reconsidered determination, but if a request for reconsideration has been filed the request for hearing may not be filed until after the mailing of notice of the reconsidered determination unless such notice has not been mailed within 45 days after the filing of the request for reconsideration. However, if the request for hearing is filed more than 60 days after the expiration of the fourth calendar year following the year in which the wages in question were paid or are alleged to have been paid, except as provided in § 403.701 (j), no hearing will be held with respect to the revision of the wage records except as is provided in section 205 (c) of the act (see § 403.703).

(c) Parties to a hearing. The parties to a hearing shall be the person or persons who were parties to the initial determination in question and the reconsideration, if there has been reconsideration. Any other individual shall be a party, if such individual's rights with respect to benefits or a lump sum may be prejudiced and if notice is given to him by the referee to appear at the hearing and answer as to his interests.

The following individuals, in addition to those named above, may also be parties to the hearing: Unless the hearing is with respect to the revision of the Administration's wage records, any individual may be a party to the hearing who makes a showing in writing that his right to benefits or a lump sum may be prejudiced. Where the hearing is with respect to the revision of the Administration's record of an individual's wages, the widow, child, or parent of such individual may be, after his death, a party to the hearing upon filing a written notice of desire to be a party.

(d) Referee. The hearing provided for in this section shall be, except as herein provided, conducted by a referee designated by the Chairman of the Appeals Council. The Chairman may designate a member of the Appeals Council to conduct a hearing. The Regional Director of the Social Security Administration may conduct hearings in the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii. The provisions of this section governing the referee shall be applicable to a member of the Appeals Council or a Regional Director in conducting a hearing.

No referee shall conduct a hearing in which he is personally prejudiced or partial with respect to any party. Notice of any objections which a party may have to the referee shall be made by such party at his earliest opportunity. The referee shall consider such objections and shall, according to his determination, either proceed with the hearing or withdraw. If the referee withdraws, another referee shall be designated by the Chairman of the Appeals Council to conduct the hearing. If the referee does not withdraw, the objecting party may, after the hearing, present his objections to the Appeals Council, as provided in § 403.710, as a reason why the referee's decision should be revised or a new hearing held before another referee.

(e) Time and place of hearing, and hearings on new issues. The referee shall fix a time and place for the hearing. Written notice of the time and place of hearing, unless waived by a party, shall be mailed not less than 10 days prior to such time, to the parties at their last known addresses or given to them by personal service. Written notice of the objections of any party to the time and place fixed for a hearing shall be filed with the referee at the earliest opportunity of the objecting party. The notice shall state the reasons for the party's objections and his desires as to the time and place for hearing.

At any time after a request for a hearing has been made as provided in this section, but prior to the mailing of notice of the decision, the referee may in his discretion, either on the application of a party or on his own motion, in addition to the matters brought before him by the request for hearing, raise an issue on any other matter (whether similar or different in nature) designated in § 403.706 (a) which may affect the rights of any party to the matter pending before him, even though the Bureau has not made an initial or reconsidered determination with respect to such new issue: Provided, however, That notice of the time and place of the hearing on such new issue shall, unless waived, be given to the parties within the time and in the manner specified in this paragraph. Upon the giving of such notice, the matter shall, except as otherwise provided, proceed to hearing and be treated in the same manner as a matter on which an initial or reconsidered determination has been made by the Bureau and a hearing requested with respect thereto by a party entitled to such hearing.

The referee may change the time and place for the hearing, either upon his own motion or for good cause shown by a party. The referee may adjourn or postpone the hearing, or reopen the hearing for the receipt of additional evidence at any time prior to the mailing of notice of the decision in the case. Reasonable notice shall be given to the parties of any change in the time or place of hearing or of an adjournment or a reopening of the hearing.

(f) Subpenas. When reasonably necessary for the full presentation of a case, the referee, a member of the Appeals Council, or other duly authorized employee of the Administration, may, either upon his own motion or upon the request of a party, issue subpenas for the attendance and testimony of witnesses and for the production of books, records, correspondence, papers, or other documents which are material and relevant to any matter in issue at the hearing. Parties who desire the issuance of a subpena shall, within 5 days prior to the time fixed for the hearing, file with the referee or a field office of the Bureau a written request therefor designating the witness or document to be produced, and the address or location thereof, with sufficient particularity to permit such witness or document to be found. The request for a subpena shall state the pertinent facts which the party expects to establish by such witness or document and as to whether such facts may reasonably be established by other evidence without the use of a subpena.

Subpenas, as provided in this paragraph, shall be issued in the name of the Federal Security Administrator or the Commissioner for Social Security, and the Administration shall pay the cost of issuance and the fees and mileage of the witnesses so subpenaed as provided in section 205 (d) of the act.

(g) Conduct of hearing and evidence. Hearings shall be open to the parties and to such other persons as the referee deems necessary and proper.

The referee shall inquire fully into the matters at issue and shall receive in evidence the testimony of witnesses and any documents which are relevant and material to the issues. If the referee believes that there is relevant and material evidence available which has not been presented at the hearing, the referee may adjourn the hearing, or at any time prior to the mailing of notice of the decision, reopen the hearing for the receipt of such evidence.

Evidence may be received at the hearing even though inadmissible under rules of evidence applicable to court procedure. However, if the request for the hearing was filed more than 60 days after the fourth calendar year following any year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid an individual, the records of the Administration as to the wages of such individual for any such year shall be conclusive and no evidence other than the Administration's wage records shall be introduced with respect to the wages for any such year except evidence with respect to the conformity of the Administration's wage records with tax returns or portions of tax returns (including information returns and other written statements) filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Title VIII of the Social Security Act or the Federal Insurance Contributions Act or under regulations made under authority thereof.

Witnesses at the hearing shall testify under oath or affirmation, unless they are excused by the referee for cause. The referee may examine the witnesses or allow the parties or their representatives to do so. If the referee conducts the examination of a witness, he shall allow the parties to suggest matters as to which they desire the witness to be questioned, and the referee shall question the witness with respect to such matters if they are relevant and material to the issues.

The parties, upon their request, shall be allowed a reasonable time for the presentation of oral arguments or for the filing of briefs or other written statements of contentions. Where there is more than one party to the hearing, copies of any brief or other written statement shall be filed in a sufficient number that they may be made available to any party requesting a copy and to such other parties as the referee may designate.

The order in which evidence and contentions shall be presented and the procedure at the hearing generally, except as is expressly provided by these regulations, shall be in the discretion of the referee and shall be of such nature as to afford the parties a reasonable opportunity for a fair hearing.

A complete stenographic record of the proceedings at the hearing shall be made. When directed by the Appeals Council or the referee, the record shall be transcribed where the case is certified to or reviewed by the Appeals Council (see paragraph (k) of this section and § 403.710 (a) and (b)).

(h) Joint hearings and consolidated issues. When two or more hearings are to be held, and the same or substantially similar evidence is relevant and material to the matters in issue at each such hearing, the referee may fix the same time and place for each hearing and conduct all such hearings jointly. Where joint hearings are held, a single record of the proceedings shall be made and the evidence introduced in one case may be considered as introduced in the others, but a separate decision shall be made in each case.

When one or more new issues are raised by the referee pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section, such new issues may, in the discretion of the referee, be consolidated for hearing and decision with other issues pending before him upon the same application, whether or not the same or substantially similar evidence is relevant and material to the matters in issue, and a single decision may be made upon all such issues.

(i) Waiver of right to appear and present evidence. If all parties waive their right to appear and present evidence and contentions at a hearing, it shall not be necessary for the referee to give notice of and conduct a hearing, as provided in this section. The waiver of the right to appear and present evidence and contentions shall be made in writing and filed with the referee. Such waiver may be withdrawn by a party at any time prior to the mailing of notice of the decision in such case.

Where all of the parties have filed a waiver of the right to appear and present evidence at a hearing before the referee, the referee may, nevertheless, give notice of a time and place and conduct a hearing as provided in this section if he believes that such action is reasonably necessary in order to ascertain the facts in issue. Where such waiver has been filed by all parties, and a hearing is not held, the referee shall make a record of the relevant certificates, affidavits, reports, and other documents which were considered in connection with the initial determination and reconsideration if there has been reconsideration. Such documents shall be considered as all of the evidence in the case and the decision, as provided for in paragraph (k) of this section, shall be based upon them.

(j) Dismissal of request for hearing. The referee may, at any time prior to the mailing of the notice of the decision, dismiss a request for hearing if all parties have consented to or requested the dismissal or have abandoned the hearing. Notice of the referee's action of dismissal shall be given to the parties or mailed to them at their last known addresses.

A party may consent to or request the dismissal by filing a written notice of such request or consent with the referee or orally stating such request or consent at the hearing.

A party shall be deemed to have abandoned a hearing if neither the party nor his representative appears at the time and place fixed for the hearing and, either (1) prior to the time for hearing such party does not show good cause as to why neither he nor his representative can appear or (2) within 15 days after the mailing of a notice to him by the referee to show cause, such party does not show good cause for such failure to appear and failure to notify the referee prior to the time fixed for hearing.

(k) Referee's decision, remanding to Bureau, or certification to Appeals Council. As soon as practicable after the close of a hearing, the referee, except as herein provided, shall make a decision in the case or certify the case to the Appeals Council for decision (see § 403.710 (a)). However, if new and material evidence has been presented at the hearing which was not before the Bureau when the initial or reconsidered determination was made, the referee may, in his discretion, remand the case to the Bureau in the event that he believes such procedure to be advisable.

If a case is remanded to the Bureau, the Bureau may, upon the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing, revise its previous determination. If the Bureau does so revise its previous determination, written notice of such revision, containing findings of fact and a statement of reasons, shall be mailed to the parties to the hearing at their last known addresses. If the Bureau does not revise its determination, when a case is remanded, the Bureau shall return the case to the referee for his decision or for certification by him to the Appeals Council.

If the referee makes a decision in the case, such decision shall, except as is provided in paragraph (i) of this section, be based upon the evidence adduced at the hearing. The decision shall be made in writing and contain findings of fact and a statement of reasons. A copy of the decision shall be mailed to the parties at their last known address.

(l) Effect of referee's decision or revision by the Bureau. The referee's decision or the revised determination of the Bureau, provided for in paragraph (k) of this section, shall be final and binding upon all parties to the hearing unless it is reviewed by the Appeals Council (see § 403.710 (b)) or unless it is revised in accordance with § 403.711 (b). If a party's request for review of the referee's decision or the revised determination of the Bureau is denied (see § 403.711 (b)), such decision or revised determination shall be final and binding upon all parties to the hearing unless a civil action is filed in a district court of the United States, as is provided in section 205 (g) of the act, or unless the decision is revised in accordance with § 403.711 (b).

§ 403.710 Appeals Council proceedings on certification and review—(a) Procedure before Appeals Council on certification by the referee. The Office of the Appeals Council in the Social Security Administration shall, when a case has been certified to it by a referee without decision (see § 403.709 (k)), mail notice of such action to the parties at their last known addresses. A copy of the transcript of evidence adduced at the hearing or a condensed statement thereof or, where the hearing before the referee has been waived (see § 403.709 (i)), copies or a statement of the contents of the documents which are evidence in the case, shall be made available to any party upon request.

When a case has been certified to the Appeals Council for decision, the parties shall be given, upon their request, a reasonable opportunity to appear before the Appeals Council for the purpose of presenting oral argument. The parties shall also be given, upon their request, a reasonable opportunity to file briefs or other written statements of contentions. Where there is more than one party, copies of such a brief or written statement shall be filed in a sufficient number that they may be made available to any party requesting a copy or any other party designated by the Appeals Council.

Evidence in addition to the evidence introduced at the hearing before the referee, or the documents before the referee where the hearing is waived, may not be presented except where it appears to the Appeals Council that additional material evidence is available which may affect its decision. If it appears that such additional evidence is available, the Appeals Council shall receive such evidence or designate a referee or member of the Council before whom the evidence shall be introduced. Before additional evidence may be presented, as above provided, notice shall be mailed to the parties, unless such notice is waived, at their last known addresses, that evidence will be received with respect to certain matters, and the parties shall be given a reasonable opportunity to present evidence which is relevant and material to such matters. When the additional evidence is introduced before a referee or a member of the Appeals Council, a transcript or a condensed statement of such evidence shall be made available to any party upon request.

The decision of the Appeals Council, when a case has been certified to it by a referee, shall be made in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (d) of this section.

(b) Review of referee's decision or Bureau's revised determination. If a referee has made a decision or the Bureau has revised its determination, as provided in § 403.709 (k), any party thereto may request the Appeals Council to review such decision or revised determination. The request for review shall be made in writing and filed with an office of the Bureau, a referee, or the Appeals Council. The request for review shall be filed within 30 days from the date of mailing notice of the referee's decision or the Bureau's revised determination except as is provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a).

The Appeals Council may, in its discretion, decline a party's request for the review of a referee's decision or the Bureau's revised determination, or the Council may, within 90 days from the date of mailing notice of such decision or revised determination, review such decision or revised determination on its own motion. Notice of the action by the Appeals Council in determining to review on its own motion or granting or declining a party's request for review shall be mailed to the parties at their last known addresses.

(c) Procedure before Appeals Council on review of referee's decision or Bureau's revised determination. Whenever the Appeals Council determines to review a referee's decision or the revised determination of the Bureau, the council shall make available to any party upon request a copy of the transcript of evidence adduced at the hearing or a condensed statement thereof or, where the hearing before the referee was waived (see § 403.709 (i)), copies or a statement of the contents of the documents upon which the referee's decision was based. The parties shall be given, upon their request, a reasonable opportunity to file briefs or other written statements of contentions. Copies of such brief or other written statement, where there is more than one party, shall be filed in a sufficient number that they may be made available to any party requesting a copy and to any other party designated by the Appeals Council.

Evidence in addition to the evidence introduced at the hearing before the referee, or the documents before the referee where the hearing is waived, may not be presented except where it appears to the Appeals Council that additional material evidence is available which may affect its decision. If it appears that such additional evidence is available, the Appeals Council shall receive such evidence or designate a referee or member of the Council before whom the evidence shall be introduced. Before additional evidence may be presented, as provided in this paragraph, notice shall be mailed to the parties, unless such notice is waived, at their last known addresses, that evidence will be received with respect to certain matters, and the parties shall be given a reasonable opportunity to present evidence which is relevant and material to such matters. When the additional evidence is introduced before a referee or a member of the Appeals Council, a transcript or a condensed statement of such evidence shall be made available to any party upon request.

(d) Decision by Appeals Council or remanding of case. If a case is certified to the Appeals Council by a referee or if the Council reviews a referee's decision or the Bureau's revised determination, as provided in this section, the Appeals Council shall, except as hereafter stated, make a decision. If, in the proceedings before the referee, there has been a substantial failure to comply with the provisions of § 403.709 governing the hearing, the Appeals Council may, where such action is reasonably necessary for the correction of the error, remand the case to a referee for further hearing and decision in accordance with such section.

The decision of the Appeals Council, where the case is not remanded to the referee, shall be based upon the evidence adduced at the hearing or, where the hearing before the referee was waived (see § 403.709 (i)), the documents upon which the referee's decision was based, and such further evidence as the Appeals Council may receive, as provided in paragraphs (a) and (c) of this section. The decision shall be made in writing and contain findings of fact and a statement of reasons. A copy of the decision shall be mailed to the parties at their last known addresses.

(e) Effect of Appeals Council's decision or refusal to review. The decision of the Appeals Council, or the decision of the referee, or revised determination of the Bureau where the request for review of such decision or revised determination is denied (see paragraph (b) of this section), shall be final and binding upon all the parties to the hearing unless a civil action is filed in a district court of the United States, as provided in section 205 (g) of the act, or unless the decision is revised in accordance with § 403.711 (b).

(f) Procedure in cases involving wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States. Special provisions concerning reviews of decisions with respect to matters determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration (see § 403.706 (a) (6)), are contained in § 403.711a.

§ 403.711 Extension of time and revision—(a) Extension of time. If a party to an initial determination desires to file a request for reconsideration, after the time for filing such request has passed (see § 403.708 (b)), such party may file a petition with the Bureau for an extension of time for the filing of such request. Such petition shall be in writing and shall state the reasons why the request for reconsideration was not filed within the required time. For good cause shown the Bureau may extend the time for filing the request for reconsideration.

Any party to an initial determination, a reconsidered determination, a revised determination of the Bureau in a remanded case (see § 403.709 (k)), a decision of a referee, or a decision of the Appeals Council may petition for an extension of time for filing a request for hearing or review or commencing a civil action in a district court, as the case may be, although the time for filing such request or commencing such action (see §§ 403.709 (b) and 403.710 (b) and section 205 (g) of the act) has passed. Such petition may be filed with a referee or the Appeals Council if an extension of the time fixed by § 403.709 (b) for requesting a hearing before such referee is sought, and shall be filed with the Appeals Council in any other case. The petition shall be in writing and shall state the reasons why the request or action was not filed within the required time. For good cause shown a referee or the Appeals Council, as the case may be, may extend the time for filing such request or action.

(b) Revision for error. An initial determination or reconsidered determination of the Bureau, provided for in §§ 403.706 (a) and 403.708 (e), or a determination of the Bureau which has been revised by it when the case has been remanded, as provided for in § 403.709 (k), may be revised by the Bureau, either upon the Bureau's own motion or upon the petition of any party when it clearly appears that there was an error of fact or law in such determination or that such determination was procured by misrepresentation or fraud. However, except as provided in § 403.701 (j), no determination as to the wages of an individual will be revised, except for the purposes provided in section 205 (c) (4) of the act, after the fourth calendar year following the year in which the wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid, unless a party's petition for such revision was filed prior to the expiration of such fourth year and 60 days thereafter.

Either upon the referee's or the Appeals Council's own motion, as the case may be, or upon the petition of any party to a hearing, any decision of a referee provided for in § 403.709 (k), may be revised by such referee or the Appeals Council, and any decision of the Appeals Council provided for in § 403.710 (d) may be revised by the Appeals Council, when it clearly appears that there was an error of fact or law in such decision or that such decision was procured by fraud or misrepresentation. However, except as provided in § 403.701 (j), no decision as to the wages of an individual will be revised, except for the purposes provided in section 205 (c) (4) of the act, after the fourth calendar year following the year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid, unless a party's petition for such revision was filed prior to the expiration of such fourth year and 60 days thereafter.

When any determination or decision is revised, as provided in this paragraph, notice of such revision shall be mailed to the parties to such determination or decision at their last known addresses. The notice of revision, which is mailed to the parties, shall state the basis for the revision and inform the parties of their right to a hearing, as provided herein. Except as provided in § 403.701 (j), the revision of the determination or decision shall be final and binding upon all such parties unless such a party, within 60 days after the date of mailing notice of the revision, files a written request for a hearing. Upon the filing of such a request, a hearing with respect to such revision shall be held and decision made in accordance with the provisions of § 403.709.

§ 403.711 Hearing and review in cases involving wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States. The provisions of this section shall govern hearings and reviews in all cases in which issues appear or are presented involving wartime maritime services constituting employment in the employ of the United States (see § 403.803 (d)).

The Appeals Council, its members and referees, and the Regional Directors of the Administration for the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, in matters determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, pursuant to section 209 (o) of the Social Security Act (see §§ 403.803 (d) and 403.827 (c)) and involved in or presented at hearings conducted pursuant to section 205 (b) of the Social Security Act, as amended, will make determinations of such matters under their designation as agents of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration. Such designation is set out in General Order No. 50 of that Administrator. When hearing or reviewing a case involving such wartime maritime service, the Appeals Council, its members and referees and the Regional Directors of the Social Security Administration for the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii will function in a dual capacity, on the one hand as designated agents of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and on the other as referee or Appeals Council, as the case may be, of the Social Security Administration. All issues involved in such a case may be disposed of at a single hearing or review and by a single decision.

(a) Right to hearing. Any party designated in § 403.709 (c) shall be entitled to a hearing with respect to any matter designated in § 403.706 (a) after an initial determination has been made by the Bureau, if such party files, as provided in § 403.709 (b), a written request for such hearing.

(b) Parties to hearing. The parties to a hearing shall be those specified in § 403.709 (c) together with the General Agent of the War Shipping Administration who shall have filed the tax return or made the certification referred to in § 403.706 (a) (6), or, in the event that there is no such General Agent, the Administrator, War Shipping Administration.

(c) Conduct of hearing. The hearing shall be conducted in accordance with § 403.709 (d) (e) (f) (g) (h) (i) and (j), except as hereinafter set forth. Evidence shall be received from any party as to the performance of services claimed to be wartime maritime services constituting employment in the employ of the United States (see § 403.803 (d)), the period of performance of such services, the remuneration therefor, and the periods in which and for which such remuneration was paid (see § 403.827 (c)).

(d) Referee's decision or certification to Appeals Council. As soon as practicable after the close of a hearing, the referee shall make a decision in the case or certify the case to the Appeals Council for decision. The referee shall not remand to the Bureau for revision any case heard pursuant to the provisions of this section.

The referee's decision shall be based upon the evidence adduced at the hearing. The decision shall be made in writing and be divided into two parts. The first part shall consist of a determination relative to the question of wartime maritime service constituting employment in the employ of the United States as defined by section 209 (o) (1) of the act, specifically whether the performance of the services in question constitute such employment, the period of such employment, the remuneration therefor, and the periods in which and for which such remuneration was paid. The determination shall contain findings of fact and a statement of reason. Such determination shall be made by the referee as agent for the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and shall be so subscribed by him. In reaching and making such determinations as designated agent, the referee shall follow the provisions of section 209 (o) of the act as amended (see §§ 403.803 (d) and 403.827 (c)) and the regulations or orders issued pursuant thereto from time to time by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration. The second part of the decision shall consist of the referee's findings and statements of reasons upon all matters not determinable by the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, together with his decision in the entire case, based upon both his determination as designated agent of that Administrator and his findings as referee of the Social Security Administration. In reaching the conclusions required by the second part of the decision he shall be governed by all rules and regulations of the Social Security Administration.

A copy of the decision shall be mailed to the parties at their last known addresses.

(e) Procedure before Appeals Council on certified case. The procedure before the Appeals Council when a case has been certified to it by a referee without decision shall be as set forth in § 403.710 (a), except that the decision of the Appeals Council shall be in the form prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section.

(f) Procedure before Appeals Council on review of referee's decision. The decision of a referee made as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, shall be subject to review by the Appeals Council in the manner provided by § 403.710 (b). The procedure before the Appeals Council on such review shall be as provided in § 403.710 (c), and a case may be remanded to a referee as provided in § 403.710 (d). The decision of the Appeals Council, where the case is not remanded, shall be in the form and mailed as prescribed by § 403.710 (d) except that it shall be divided into two parts in the form prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section.

(g) Extension of time and revision. The provisions for extensions of time, revision, and extensions of time for commencing a civil action in a district court of the United States, set forth in § 403.711, shall be applicable to proceedings under this section.

(h) Effect of decisions. Decisions of the Appeals Council and decisions of referees not reviewed by the Appeals Council, rendered under this section, shall be final and binding upon all parties to the hearing, subject only to review by a civil action filed in a district court of the United States as provided by section 205 (g) of the act as amended, or as provided in paragraph (g) of this section. That portion of the final decision which represents the determination of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, by his designated agent, shall supersede all previous determinations and certifications of such Administrator or his designated agents as to the matters involved in such factor of the final decision.

SECTION 205 (l) OF THE ACT

Upon final decision of the Board, or upon final judgment of any court of competent jurisdiction, that any person is entitled to any payment or payments under this title, the Board shall certify to the Managing Trustee the name and address of the person so entitled to receive such payment or payments, the amount of such payment or payments, and the time at which such payment or payments should be made, and the Managing Trustee, through the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department, and prior to any action thereon by the General Accounting Office, shall make payment in accordance with the certification of the Board: Provided, That where a review of the Board's decision is or may be sought under subsection (g) the Board may withhold certification of payment pending such review. The Managing Trustee shall not be held personally liable for any payment or payments made in accordance with a certification by the Board.

SECTION 207 OF THE ACT

The right of any person to any future payment under this title shall not be transferable or assignable, at law or in equity, and none of the moneys paid or payable or rights existing under this title shall be subject to execution, levy, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process, or to the operation of any bankruptcy or insolvency law.

§ 403.712 Certification of payments—(a) Determination or decision providing for payment. When a determination or decision has been made under any of §§ 403.706 to 403.711, inclusive, to the effect that a payment or payments under Title II of the act should be made to any person, the Administration shall, except as hereafter provided, certify to the Managing Trustee of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund the name and address of the person to be paid (see § 403.705), the amount of the payment or payments, and the time at which such payment or payments should be made.

When a determination or decision, as above-described, has been made, the Administration may withhold certification to the Managing Trustee, or if certification has been made, may notify the Managing Trustee to withhold payments, to the extent and during such time that the payment or payments, to be made pursuant to such determination or decision, are in question by reason of the fact that:

(1) A reconsideration, hearing, or review, is being conducted, or a civil action has been filed in a distict court of the United States, with respect to such determination or decision; or

(2) An application or request is pending with respect to the payment of benefits or a lump sum to another person and such application or request is inconsistent, in whole or in part, with the payment or payments under such determination or decision:

Provided, however, That certification or payment shall not be withheld, under the above circumstances, unless, in connection with the request or application described in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, evidence is submitted which is sufficient to raise a substantial question with respect to the correctness of the payment or payments under the determination or decision. The Administration shall, however, certify for payment, as above provided, the amount of the payment or payments which is not in question. The acceptance of any payment or payments by a person entitled thereto shall be without prejudice to his rights to reconsideration, hearing, or review, as to any additional payment or payments claimed by such person.

(b) Transfer or assignment. The Administration shall not certify, as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, any amount for payment to the assignee or transferee of the person entitled to such payment under the act, nor shall the Administration certify such amount for payment to any person claiming such payment by virtue of an execution, levy, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process or by virtue of bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding against or affecting the person entitled to the payment under the act.

SECTION 206 OF THE ACT

The Board may prescribe rules and regulations governing the recognition of agents or other persons, other than attorneys as hereinafter provided, representing claimants before the Board, and may require of such agents or other persons, before being recognized as representatives of claimants that they shall show that they are of good character and in good repute, possessed of the necessary qualifications to enable them to render such claimants valuable service, and otherwise competent to advise and assist such claimants in the presentation of their cases. An attorney in good standing who is admitted to practice before the highest court of the State, Territory, District, or insular possession of his residence or before the Supreme Court of the United States or the inferior Federal courts, shall be entitled to represent claimants before the Board upon filing with the Board a certificate of his right to so practice from the presiding judge or clerk of any such court. The Board may, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, suspend or prohibit from further practice before it any such person, agent, or attorney who refuses to comply with the Board's rules and regulations or who violates any provision of this section for which a penalty is prescribed. The Board may, by rule and regulation, prescribe the maximum fees which may be charged for services performed in connection with any claim before the Board under this title, and any agreement in violation of such rules and regulations shall be void. Any person who shall, with intent to defraud, in any manner willfully and knowingly deceive, mislead, or threaten any claimant or prospective claimant or beneficiary under this title by word, circular, letter or advertisement, or who shall knowingly charge or collect directly or indirectly any fee in excess of the maximum fee, or make any agreement directly or indirectly to charge or collect any fee in excess of the maximum fee, prescribed by the Board shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall for each offense be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

§ 403.713 Representation of parties—(a) Appointment of representatives. A party to an initial determination, reconsideration, hearing, or review, as provided for in §§ 403.706 to 403.711a, inclusive, may appoint as his representative in such proceeding any individual who is qualified under paragraph (b) of this section to act as a representative. Notice of the appointment of a representative shall be made in writing, signed by the party appointing the representative, and shall be acknowledged by the representative appointed. The notice of appointment shall be filed at an office of the Bureau or with a referee or with the Office of the Appeals Council in the Social Security Administration.

(b) Qualifications of representatives. Any individual, appointed in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, unless otherwise prohibited by law, may act as a representative, except that no individual may act as a representative who is disbarred or under suspension from acting as a representative in proceedings before the Social Security Administration (see paragraph (f) of this section).

(c) Authority of representatives. A representative, appointed and qualified as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, may make or give, on behalf of the party he represents, any request or notice relative to the proceedings except that such representative may not execute an application for benefits or a lump sum, a request for reconsideration, hearing, or review, unless he is a person designated in § 403.701 (c) as authorized to execute the application for benefits or a lump sum. A representative shall be entitled to present evidence and contentions in any proceedings affecting the party he represents and to obtain information with respect to the claim of such party to the same extent as such party. Notice to any party of any action, determination, or decision, or request to any party for the production of evidence, may be sent to the representative of such party, and such notice or request shall be of the same force and effect as if sent to the party represented.

(d) Fees for services. Fees for the services of a representative, appointed and qualified in accordance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, may be charged and received from the party represented only as is provided in this paragraph.

A fee in an amount not greater than $10.00 may be charged and received by an attorney who is admitted to practice before the highest court, or an inferior court of a State, Territory, District, or insular possession, or before the Supreme Court of the United States or an inferior Federal court, and who is not otherwise prohibited by law from charging or receiving such a fee. Upon the petition of such an attorney the Bureau, a referee, or the Appeals Council may, for good cause shown, authorize the attorney to charge and receive a maximum fee in excess of $10.00.

No individual other than an attorney, as provided in this paragraph, may charge or receive a fee unless he is authorized to do so by the Bureau, a referee, or the Appeals Council as herein stated. An individual other than an attorney who desires authorization to charge or receive a fee shall file a written petition therefor and make a showing that he is not otherwise prohibited from charging or receiving a fee, that he has special qualifications which enable him to render valuable services to a party, and that he has rendered such services to the party he represents. Upon the filing of such petition and the making of such showing the amount of the fee, if any, which may be charged or received, shall be determined in each case by the Bureau, a referee, or the Appeals Council, and no fee shall be charged or received in excess thereof.

(e) Rules governing the representation and advising of claimants and parties. No attorney or other person shall:

(1) With intent to defraud, in any manner willfully and knowingly deceive, mislead, or threaten (by word, circular, letter, or advertisement) any claimant or prospective claimant or beneficiary with respect to benefits, lump sums, or wage records; or

(2) Knowingly charge or collect, directly or indirectly, or make any agreement, directly or indirectly, to charge or collect, any fee in connection with any claim except under the circumstances stated in paragraph (d) of this section and not in excess of the amount provided for in paragraph (d) of this section; or

(3) Knowingly make or participate in the making or presentation of any false statement, representation, or claim as to the amount of wages paid an individual, or the time of payment, or as to any material fact affecting the right of any person to benefits or a lump sum, or the amount thereof; or

This section of the regulations in this part, §§ 403.804 and 403.805 (relating to who are employees and employers), § 403.806 (relating to excepted services in general), § 403.807 (relating to included and excluded services), and §§ 403.808 to 403.826a, inclusive (relating to the several classes of excepted services), apply with respect only to services performed on or after January 1, 1940. (For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which do not constitute employment are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which constitute employment are nevertheless deemed not to be employment, see § 403.807. For provisions relating to services performed prior to January 1, 1940, see § 403.802.

(b) Services performed within the United States. Services performed on or after January 1, 1940, within the United States, that is, within any of the several States, the District of Columbia, or the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, by an employee for the person employing him, unless specifically excepted by section 209 (b) or (o) of the act, constitute employment within the meaning of the act. Services performed outside the United States, that is, outside the several States, the District of Columbia, and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii (except certain services performed on or in connection with an American vessel, and except certain services performed as an employee of the United States on or in connection with a vessel by an officer or member of the crew—see paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section), do not constitute employment.

With respect to services performed within the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into and the citizenship or residence of the employee or of the person employing him are immaterial. Thus, the employee and the person employing him may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract actually performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment within the meaning of the act.

(c) Services performed outside the United States, other than as an employee of the United States. Services performed on or after January 1, 1940, by an employee for the person employing him "on or in connection with" an American vessel outside the United States constitute employment provided:

(1) The employee is also employed "on and in connection with" such vessel when outside the United States; and

(2) The services are performed under a contract of service, between the employee and the person employing him, which is entered into within the United States, or during the performance of which the vessel touches at a port within the United States; and

(3) The services are not excepted under section 209 (b) of the act. (See particularly § 403.825, relating to fishing.)

An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel if he performs services on the vessel which are also in connection with the vessel. Services performed on the vessel as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Services may be performed on the vessel, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on the vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

If services are performed by an employee "on and in connection with" an American vessel when outside the United States and conditions provided in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph are met, then the services of that employee performed on or in connection with the vessel constitute employment. The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel but also to services connected with the vessel which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel).

Services performed by a member of the crew or other employee whose contract of service is not entered into within the United States, and during the performance of which the vessel does not touch at a port within the United States, do not constitute employment, notwithstanding similar services performed by others on or in connection with the vessel constitute employment.

The word "vessel" includes every description of watercraft, or other contrivance, used as a means of transportation on water. It does not include any type of aircraft.

The term "American vessel" means any vessel which is documented (that is, registered, enrolled, or licensed) or numbered in conformity with the laws of the United States. It also includes any vessel which is neither documented nor numbered under the laws of the United States, nor documented under the laws of any foreign country, if the crew of such vessel is employed solely by one or more citizens or residents of the United States or corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State (including the District of Columbia or the Territories of Alaska or Hawaii).

With respect to services performed outside the United States, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial, and the citizenship or residence of the person employing him is material only in case it has a bearing in determining whether a vessel is an American vessel.

This paragraph does not apply with respect to services which constitute employment by reason of section 209 (o) of the act (see paragraph (d) of this section).

(d) Wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States. Services performed, either within or outside the United States, by an officer or member of the crew of any vessel, as an employee of the United States, constitute employment if performed on or after October 1, 1941, and prior to the termination of title I of the First War Powers Act, 1941 (i. e., six months after termination of World War II, or such earlier time as the Congress by concurrent resolution, or the President, may designate): Provided,

(1) The employee is so employed through the War Shipping Administration or, as respects services performed before February 11, 1942, through the United States Maritime Commission; and

(2) The services are performed "on or in connection with" such vessel; and

(3) Such vessel, if documented under the laws of a foreign country, is not bareboat chartered to the War Shipping Administration; and

(4) The services are performed under a contract of service which is entered into within the United States or during the performance of which the vessel touches at a port within the United States.

The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel but also to services connected with the vessel which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew).

Services performed by an officer or member of the crew whose contract of service is not entered into within the United States, and during the performance of which the vessel does not touch at a port within the United States, do not constitute employment, notwithstanding similar services performed by others on or in connection with the vessel may constitute employment.

The word "vessel" shall have the meaning assigned to it in paragraph (c) of this section.

The citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial.

In making decisions (see §§ 403.706 to 403.711a, inclusive), the Administration will accept as conclusive upon it final determinations of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and his designated agents, under section 209 (o) of the act, as to whether an individual has performed services, described herein, which are employment by reason of such section, or as to the periods of such services.

§ 403.804 Who are employees. Every individual is an employee if the relationship between him and the person for whom he performs services is the legal relationship of employer and employee.

Generally such relationship exists when the person for whom services are performed has the right to control and direct the individual who performs the services, not only as to the result to be accomplished by the work but also as to the details and means by which that result is accomplished. That is, an employee is subject to the will and control of the employer not only as to what shall be done but how it shall be done. In this connection, it is not necessary that the employer actually direct or control the manner in which the services are performed; it is sufficient if he has the right to do so. The right to discharge is also an important factor indicating that the person possessing that right is an employer. Other factors characteristic of an employer, but not necessarily present in every case, are the furnishing of tools and the furnishing of a place to work to the individual who performs the services. In general, if an individual is subject to the control or direction of another merely as to the result to be accomplished by the work and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result, he is an independent contractor. An individual performing services as an independent contractor is not as to such services an employee.

Generally, physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, contractors, subcontractors, public stenographers, auctioneers, and others who follow an independent trade, business or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are independent contractors and not employees.

Whether the relationship of employer and employee exists will in doubtful cases be determined upon an examination of the particular facts of each case.

If the relationship of employer and employee exists, the designation or description of the relationship by the parties as anything other than that of employer and employee is immaterial. Thus, if such relationship exists, it is of no consequence that the employee is designated as a partner, coadventurer, agent, or independent contractor.

The measurement, method, or designation of compensation is also immaterial, if the relationship of employer and employee in fact exists.

No distinction is made between classes or grades of employees. Thus, superintendents, managers, and other superior employees are employees. An officer of a corporation is an employee of the corporation, but a director as such is not. A director may be an employee of the corporation, however, if he performs services for the corporation other than those required by attendance at and participation in meetings of the board of directors.

Although an individual may be an employee under this section, his services may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment within the meaning of the act. (See § 403.803.)

§ 403.805 Who are employers. Every person is an employer if he employs one or more employees. Neither the number of employees employed, nor the period during which any such employee is employed is material.

An employer may be an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust, an estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, group, or entity. A trust or estate, rather than the fiduciary acting for or on behalf of the trust or estate, is generally the employer.

Although a person may be an employer under this section, services performed in his employ may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment within the meaning of the act (see § 403.803).

SECTION 209 (b) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

• • • • •

§ 403.806 Excepted services in general. Except as provided by section 209 (o) of the act (see paragraph (d) of § 403.803), services performed on or after January 1, 1940, by an employee for the person employing him do not constitute employment under title II of the act if they are specifically excepted by any of the numbered paragraphs of section 209 (b) of the act; that is, section 209 (b), as amended, effective January 1, 1940, by section 201 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939. Such services do not constitute employment under Title II of the act even though they are performed within the United States or are performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel.

The exception attaches to the services performed by the employee and not to the employee as an individual; that is, the exception applies only to the services rendered by the employee in an excepted class.

EXAMPLE: A is an individual who is employed part time by B to perform services which constitute "agricultural labor" (see § 403.808). A is also employed by C part time to perform services as a grocery clerk in a store owned by him. While the services performed in the employ of B are excepted, the exception does not embrace the services performed by A in the employ of C and such services constitute employment.

This section, and the sections which follow it relating to included and excluded services and the several classes of excepted services, apply with respect only to services performed on or after January 1, 1940 (see § 403.803 (a)). (For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which are excepted are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which are not excepted are nevertheless deemed not to be employment (see § 403.807. For provisions relating to services performed prior to January 1, 1940 see § 403.802.)

SECTION 209 (c) OF THE ACT

If the services performed during one-half or more of any pay period by an employee for the person employing him constitute employment, all the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment; but if the services performed during more than one-half of any such pay period by an employee for the person employing him do not constitute employment, then none of the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment. As used in this subsection the term "pay period" means a period (of not more than thirty-one consecutive days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the person employing him. This subsection shall not be applicable with respect to services performed in a pay period by an employee for the person employing him, where any of such service is excepted by paragraph (9) of subsection (b).

§ 403.807 Included and excluded services. If a portion of the services performed by an employee for the person employing him during a pay period constitutes employment, and the remainder does not constitute employment, all the services of the employee during the period shall be treated alike, that is, all as included or as excluded. The time during which the employee performs services which under section 209 (b) or (o) of the act constitute employment, and the time during which he performs services which under such section do not constitute employment, within the pay period, determine whether all the services during the pay period shall be deemed to be included or excluded.

If one-half or more of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then all the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

If less than one-half of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then none of the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

Example 1: Employee A is employed by B who operates a farm and a store. A's services on the farm are such that they are excepted as agricultural labor and do not constitute employment, and his services in the store constitute employment. He is paid at the end of each month. During a particular month A works 120 hours on the farm and 80 hours in the store. None of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since less than one-half of his services during the month constitutes employment.

During another month A works 75 hours on the farm and 120 hours in the store. All of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since one-half or more of his services during the month constitutes employment.

Example 2: Employee C is employed as a maid by D, a medical doctor, whose home and office are located in the same building. C's services in the home are excepted as domestic service and do not constitute employment, and her services in the office constitute employment. She is paid each week. During a particular week C works 20 hours in the home and 20 hours in the office. All of C's services during that week are deemed to be employment, since one-half or more of her services during the week constitutes employment.

During another week C works 22 hours in the home and 15 hours in the office. None of C's services during that week are deemed to be employment, since less than one-half of her services during the week constitutes employment.

For purposes of this section, a "pay period" is the period (of not more than 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the person employing him. Thus, if the periods for which payments of remuneration are made to the employee by such person are of uniform duration, each such period constitutes a "pay period." If, however, the periods occasionally vary in duration, the "pay period" is the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by such person, even though that period does not coincide with the actual period for which a particular payment of remuneration is made. For example, if a person ordinarily pays a particular employee for each calendar week at the end of the week, but the employee receives a payment in the middle of the week for the portion of the week already elapsed and receives the remainder at the end of the week, the "pay period" is still the calendar week; or if, instead, that employee is sent on a trip by such person and receives at the end of the third week a single remuneration payment for 3 weeks' services, the "pay period" is still the calendar week.

If there is only one period (and such period does not exceed 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is made to the employee by the person employing him, such period is deemed to be a "pay period" for purposes of this section.

The rules set forth in this section do not apply (a) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the person employing him if the periods for which such person makes payments of remuneration to the employee vary to the extent that there is no period "for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee," or (b) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the person employing him if the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by such person exceeds 31 consecutive calendar days, or (c) with respect to any service performed by the employee for the person employing him during a pay period if any of such service is excepted by section 209 (b) (9) of the act (see § 403.816 of the regulations in this part).

If during any period for which a person makes a payment of remuneration to an employee only a portion of the employee's services constitutes employment under section 209 (b) of the act, but the rules prescribed herein are not applicable, such portion of the services is employment.

SECTION (b) (1) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(1) Agricultural labor (as defined in subsection (l) of this section);

SECTION 209 (l) OF THE ACT

The term "agricultural labor" includes all service performed—

(1) On a farm, in the employ of any person, in connection with cultivating the soil, or in connection with raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity, including the raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, and management of livestock, bees, poultry, and fur-bearing animals and wildlife.

(2) In the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm, in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of such farm and its tools and equipment, or in salvaging timber or clearing land of brush and other debris left by a hurricane, if the major part of such service is performed on a farm.

(3) In connection with the production or harvesting of maple sirup or maple sugar or any commodity defined as an agricultural commodity in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended, or in connection with the raising or harvesting of mushrooms, or in connection with the hatching of poultry, or in connection with the ginning of cotton, or in connection with the operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways used exclusively for supplying and storing water for farming purposes.

(4) In handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, any agricultural or horticultural commodity; but only if such service is performed as an incident to ordinary farming operations or, in the case of fruits and vegetables, as an incident to the preparation of such fruits or vegetables for market. The provisions of this paragraph shall not be deemed to be applicable with respect to service performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any agricultural or horticultural commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption.

As used in this subsection, the term "farm" includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing, animal and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, greenhouses or other similar structures used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities, and orchards.

SECTION 15 (g) OF THE AGRICULTURAL MARKETING ACT, AS AMENDED

(46 STAT. 1550; 12 U. S. C. 1141 J (g))

As used in this Act, the term "agricultural commodity" includes, in addition to other agricultural commodities, crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree, and the following products as processed by the original producer of the crude gum (oleoresin) from which derived: Gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, as defined in the Naval Stores Act, approved March 3, 1923.

SECTION 2 (c) AND (h) OF THE NAVAL STORES ACT

(42 STAT. 1345; 7 U. S. C. 92 (c), (h))

• • • • • •

(c) "Gum spirits of turpentine" means spirits of turpentine made from gum (oleoresin) from a living tree.

• • • • • •

(h) "Gum rosin" means rosin remaining after the distillation of gum spirits of turpentine.

§ 403.808. Agricultural labor—(a) In general. Services performed by an employee for the person employing him which constitute "agricultural labor" as defined in section 209 (l) of the act are excepted. The term as so defined includes services of the character described in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), and (e) of this section.

In general, however, the term does not include services performed in connection with forestry, lumbering, or landscaping.

(b) Services described in section 209 (l) (1) of the act. Services performed on a farm by an employee of any person in connection with any of the following activities are excepted as agricultural labor:

(1) The cultivation of the soil;

(2) The raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, or management of livestock, bees, poultry, fur-bearing animals, or wildlife; or

(3) The raising or harvesting of any other agricultural or horticultural commodity.

The term "farm" as used in this and succeeding paragraphs of this section includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animal, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, orchards, and such greenhouses and other similar structures as are used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities. Greenhouses and other similar structures used primarily for other purposes (for example, display, storage, and fabrication of wreaths, corsages, and bouquets), do not constitute "farms."

(c) Services described in section 209 (l) (2) of the act. The following services performed by an employee in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of one or more farms are excepted as agricultural labor, provided the major part of such services is performed on a farm:

(1) Services performed in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of any of such farms or its tools or equipment; or

(2) Services performed in salvaging timber, or clearing land of brush and other debris, left by a hurricane.

The services described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph may include, for example, services performed by carpenters, painters, mechanics, farm supervisors, irrigation engineers, bookkeepers, and other skilled or semiskilled workers, which contribute in any way to the conduct of the farm or farms, as such, operated by the person employing them, as distinguished from any other enterprise in which such person may be engaged.

Since the services described in this paragraph must be performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of the farm, the exception does not extend to services performed by employees of a commercial painting concern, for example, which contracts with a farmer to renovate his farm properties.

(d) Services described in section 209 (l) (3) of the act. Services performed by an employee in the employ of any person in connection with any of the following operations are excepted as agricultural labor without regard to the place where such services are performed:

(1) The ginning of cotton;

(2) The hatching of poultry;

(3) The raising or harvesting of mushrooms;

(4) The operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways used exclusively for supplying or storing water for farming purposes;

(5) The production or harvesting of maple sap or the processing of maple sap into maple sirup or maple sugar (but not the subsequent blending or other processing of such sirup or sugar with other products); or

(6) The production or harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree or the processing of such crude gum into gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, provided such processing is carried on by the original producer of such crude gum.

(e) Services described in section 209 (l) (4) of the act. (1) Services performed by an employee in the employ of a farmer or a farmers' cooperative organization or group in the handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of any agricultural or horticultural commodity, other than fruits and vegetables (see subparagraph (2) of this paragraph) produced by such farmer or farmer-members of such organization or group of farmers are excepted, provided such services are performed as an incident to ordinary farming operations.

Generally services are performed "as an incident to ordinary farming operations" within the meaning of this paragraph if they are services of the character ordinarily performed by the employees of a farmer or of a farmers' cooperative organization or group as a prerequisite to the marketing, in its unmanufactured state, of any agricultural or horticultural commodity produced by such farmer or by the members of such farmers' organization or group. Services performed by employees of such farmer or farmers' organization or group in the handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of commodities produced by persons other than such farmer or members of such farmers' organization or group are not performed "as an incident to ordinary farming operations."

(2) Services performed by an employee in the employ of any person in the handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of fruits and vegetables, whether or not of a perishable nature, are excepted as agricultural labor, provided such services are performed as an incident to the preparation of such fruits and vegetables for market. For example, if services in the sorting, grading, or storing of fruits, or in the cleaning of beans, are performed as an incident to their preparation for market, such services may be excepted whether performed in the employ of a farmer, a farmers' cooperative, or a commercial handler of such commodities.

(3) The services described in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, do not include services performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption. Moreover, since the excepted service described in such subparagraphs must be rendered in the actual handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of the commodity, such services do not, for example, include services performed as stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks, and other office employees, even though such services may be in connection with such activity. However, to the extent that the services of such individuals are performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm and are rendered in major part on a farm, they may be within the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

SECTION 209 (b) (2) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(2) Domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority;

§ 403.809 Domestic service. Services of a household nature performed by an employee in or about the private home of the person by whom he is employed, or performed in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority by which he is employed, are included within the above exception.

A private home is the fixed place of abode of an individual or family.

A local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority does not include an alumni club or chapter.

If the home is utilized primarily for the purpose of supplying board or lodging to the public as a business enterprise, it ceases to be a private home and the services performed therein are not excepted. Likewise, if the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority is used primarily for such purpose, the services performed therein are not within the exception.

In general, services of a household nature in or about a private home include services rendered by cooks, maids, butlers, valets, laundresses, furnacemen, gardeners, footmen, grooms, and chauffeurs of automobiles for family use. In general, services of a household nature in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority include services rendered by cooks, maids, butlers, laundresses, furnacemen, waiters and housemothers.

The services above enumerated are not within the exception if performed in or about rooming or lodging houses, boarding houses, clubs (except local college clubs), hotels, or commercial offices or establishments.

Services performed as a private secretary, even though performed in the employer's home, are not within the exception.

SECTION 209 (b) (3) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(3) Casual labor not in the course of the employer's trade or business;

§ 403.810 Casual labor not in the course of employer's trade or business. The term "casual labor" includes labor which is occasional, incidental, or irregular.

The expression "not in the course of the employer's trade or business" includes labor that does not promote or advance the trade or business of the employer.

Thus, labor which is occasional, incidental, or irregular, and does not promote or advance the employer's trade or business is excepted.

Example 1: A's business is that of operating a sawmill. He employs B, a carpenter, at an hourly wage to repair his home. B works irregularly and spends the greater part of 2 days in completing the work. Since B's labor is casual and is not in the course of A's trade or business, such services are excepted.

Casual labor, that is, labor which is occasional, incidental, or irregular, but which is in the course of the employer's trade or business, does not come within the above exception.

Example 2: C's business is that of operating a sawmill. He employs D for two hours, at an hourly wage, to remove sawdust from his mill. D's labor is casual since it is occasional, incidental, or irregular, but it is in the course of C's trade or business and is not excepted.

Example 3: E is engaged in the business of operating a department store. He employs additional clerks for short periods. While the services of the clerks may be casual, they are in the course of the employer's trade or business and, therefore, not excepted.

Casual labor performed for a corporation does not come within this exception.

SECTION 209 (b) (4) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(4) Service performed by an individual in the employ of his son, daughter, or spouse, and service performed by a child under the age of twenty-one in the employ of his father or mother;

§ 403.811 Family employment. Certain services are excepted because of the existence of a family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. The exceptions are as follows:

(a) Services performed by an individual in the employ of his or her spouse;

(b) Services performed by a father or mother in the employ of his or her son or daughter; and

(c) Services performed by a son or daughter under the age of 21 in the employ of his or her father or mother.

Under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, the exception is conditioned solely upon the family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. Under paragraph (c) of this section, in addition to the family relationship, there is a further requirement that the son or daughter shall be under the age of 21, and the exception continues only during the time that such son or daughter is under the age of 21.

Services performed in the employ of a corporation are not within the exception. Services performed in the employ of a partnership are not within the exception unless the requisite family relationship exists between the employee and each of the individual partners comprising the partnership.

SECTION 209 (b) (5) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(5) Service performed [on] or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel by an employee, if the employee is employed on and in connection with such vessel when outside the United States;

§ 403.812 Vessel not an American vessel. Certain services performed within the United States "on or in connection with" a vessel not an American vessel are excepted. In order to be excepted, the services must be performed by an employee who is also employed "on and in connection with" the vessel when outside the United States.

An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel if he performs services on the vessel when outside the United States which are also in connection with the vessel. Services performed on the vessel outside the United States as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Services may be performed on the vessel, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on a vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel but also to services connected with the vessel which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel.)

The citizenship or residence of the employee and the place where the contract of service is entered into are immaterial for purposes of this exception, and the citizenship or residence of the person employing him is material only in case it has a bearing in determining whether the vessel is an American vessel. (For definitions of "vessel" and "American vessel," see § 403.803 (c).)

Since the only services performed outside the United States which constitute employment are those described in § 403.803 (c) (relating to services performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel) and § 403.803 (d) (relating to wartime maritime services in the employ of the United States), services performed outside the United States on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel in any event do not constitute employment unless they are employment by reason of section 209 (o) of the act (see § 403.803 (d).

SECTION 209 (b) (6) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(6) Service performed in the employ of the United States Government, or of an instrumentality of the United States which is (A) wholly owned by the United States, or (B) exempt from the tax imposed by section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code by virtue of any other provision of law;

§ 403.813 United States and instrumentalities thereof. Services performed in the employ of the United States Government (except as provided in section 209 (o) of the act, as to which (see § 403.803 (d)), are excepted. Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States are also excepted if the instrumentality is either wholly owned by the United States, or exempt from the tax imposed on employers by section 1410 of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of Chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code) by virtue of any other provision of law.

Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States which is neither wholly owned by the United States nor exempt from the tax imposed on employers by such section 1410 of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act by virtue of any other provision of law are not within the exception.

Services performed in the employ of a national bank or a State member bank of the Federal Reserve System, for example, are not within the exception.

SECTION 209 (b) (7) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(7) Service performed in the employ of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing which is wholly owned by one or more States or political subdivisions; and any service performed in the employ of any instrumentality of one or more States or political subdivisions to the extent that the instrumentality is, with respect to such service, immune under the Constitution of the United States from the tax imposed by section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code;

§ 403.814 States and their political subdivisions and instrumentalities. Services performed in the employ of any State, or of any political subdivision thereof, are excepted. Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of 1 or more States or political subdivisions thereof are excepted if the instrumentality is wholly owned by 1 or more of the foregoing. Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of 1 or more of the several States or political subdivisions thereof which is not wholly owned by 1 or more of the foregoing are excepted only to the extent that the instrumentality is with respect to such services immune under the Constitution of the United States from the tax imposed on employers by section 1410 of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code).

The term "State" includes the District of Columbia and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii.

SECTION 209 (b) (8) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(8) Service performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation;

§ 403.815 Religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and educational organizations and community chests. Services performed by an employee in the employ of an organization of the class specified in section 209 (b) (8) of the act are excepted.

For purpose of this exception the nature of the service is immaterial; the statutory test is the character of the organization for which the services are performed.

In all cases, in order for an organization to be within the statutory classification, the organization must meet three tests:

(1) It must be organized and operated exclusively for one or more of the specified purposes;

(2) Its net income must not inure in whole or in part to the benefit of private shareholders or individuals; and

(3) It must not by any substantial part of its activities attempt to influence legislation by propaganda or otherwise.

Corporations or other institutions organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes comprise, in general, organizations for the relief of the poor. The fact that an organization established for the relief of indigent persons may receive voluntary contributions from the persons intended to be relieved will not necessarily affect its status under the law.

An educational organization within the meaning of section 209 (b) (8) of the act is one designed primarily for the improvement or development of the capabilities of the individual but, under exceptional circumstances, may include an association whose sole purpose is the instruction of the public, or an association whose primary purpose is to give lectures on subjects useful to the individual and beneficial to the community, even though an association of either class has incidental amusement features. An organization formed, or availed of, to disseminate controversial or partisan propaganda is not an educational organization. However, the publication of books or the giving of lectures advocating a cause of a controversial nature, shall not of itself be sufficient to take an organization out of the exemption, if carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation form no substantial part of its activities, its principal purpose and substantially all of its activities being clearly of a nonpartisan, noncontroversial, and educational nature.

Since a corporation or other institution to be within the prescribed class must be organized and operated exclusively for one or more of the specified purposes, an organization which has certain religious purposes and which also manufactures and sells articles to the public for profit is not within the statutory class even though its property is held in common and its profits do not inure to the benefit of individual members of the organization.

An organization otherwise within the statutory class does not lose its status as such by receiving income such as rent, dividends, and interest from investments, provided such income is devoted exclusively to one or more of the specified purposes.

SECTION 209 (b) (9) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(9) Service performed by an individual as an employee or employee representative as defined in section 1532 of the Internal Revenue Code;

SECTION 1532 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE DEFINITIONS

As used in this subchapter [subchapter B, chapter 9, Internal Revenue Code]—

(a) Employer. The term "employer" means any carrier (as defined in subsection (h) of this section), and any company which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by one or more such carriers or under common control therewith, and which operates any equipment or facility or performs any service (except trucking service, casual service, and the casual operation of equipment or facilities) in connection with the transportation of passengers or property by railroad, or the receipt, delivery, elevation, transfer in transit, refrigeration or icing, storage, or handling of property transported by railroad, and any receiver, trustee, or other individual or body, judicial or otherwise, when in the possession of the property or operating all or any part of the business of any such employer: Provided, however, That the term "employer" shall not include any street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam-railroad system of transportation, but shall not exclude any part of the general steam-railroad system of transportation now or hereafter operated by any other motive power. The Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby authorized and directed upon request of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of this proviso. The term "employer" shall also include railroad associations, traffic associations, tariff bureaus, demurrage bureaus, weighing and inspection bureaus, collection agencies and other associations, bureaus, agencies, or organizations controlled and maintained wholly or principally by two or more employers as hereinbefore defined and engaged in the performance of services in connection with or incidental to railroad transportation; and railway labor organizations, national in scope which have been or may be organized in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended, and their State and National legislative committees and their general committees and their insurance departments and their local lodges and divisions, established pursuant to the constitution and bylaws of such organizations. The term "employer" shall not include any company by reason of its being engaged in the mining of coal, the supplying of coal to an employer where delivery is not beyond the mine tipple, and the operation of equipment or facilities therefor, or in any of such activities. (As retroactively amended by section 1 of the Act approved August 13, 1940, 54 Stat. 785.)

(b) Employee. The term "employee" means any person in the service of one or more employers for compensation: Provided, however, That the term "employee" shall include an employee of a local lodge or division defined as an employer in subsection (a) only if he was in the service of or in the employment relation to a carrier on or after August 29, 1935. An individual is in the employment relation to a carrier if he is on furlough, subject to call for service within or outside the United States and ready and willing to serve, or on leave of absence, or absent on account of sickness or disability; all in accordance with the established rules and practices in effect on the carrier: Provided, however, That an individual shall not be deemed to be in the employment relation to a carrier unless during the last pay-roll period in which he rendered service to it he was with respect to that service in the service of an employer in accordance with subsection (d) of this section.

The term "employee" includes an officer of an employer.

The term "employee" shall not include any individual while such individual is engaged in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard railroad locomotives) of coal not beyond the mine tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple. (As retroactively amended by section 3 of the Joint Resolution approved June 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 264, and section 3 of the Act approved August 13, 1940, 54 Stat. 786.)

(c) Employee representative. The term "employee representative" means any officer or official representative of a railway labor organization other than a labor organization included in the term "employer" as defined in subsection (a), who before or after June 29, 1937, was in the service of an employer as defined in subsection (a) and who is duly authorized and designated to represent employees in accordance with the Railway Labor Act, 44 Stat. 577 (U. S. C., Title 45, c. 18), as amended, and any individual who is regularly assigned to or regularly employed by such officer or official representative in connection with the duties of his office.

(d) Service. An individual is in the service of an employer whether his service is rendered within or without the United States if he is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service, which service he renders for compensation: Provided, however, That an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of an employer, other than a local lodge or division or a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer, not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States only when he is rendering service to it in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a local lodge or division only if (1) all, or substantially all, the individuals constituting its membership are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or (2) the headquarters of such local lodge or division is located in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a general committee only if (1) he is representing a local lodge or division described in clauses (1) or (2) immediately above; or (2) all, or substantially all, the individuals represented by it are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or (3) he acts in the capacity of a general chairman or an assistant general chairman of a general committee which represents individuals rendering service in the United States to an employer, but in such case if his office or headquarters is not located in the United States and the individuals represented by such general committee are employees of an employer not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States, only such proportion of the remuneration for such service shall be regarded as compensation as the proportion which the mileage in the United States under the jurisdiction of such general committee bears to the total mileage under its jurisdiction, unless such mileage formula is inapplicable, in which case such other formula as the Railroad Retirement Board may have prescribed pursuant to subsection (c) of section 1 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 shall be applicable: Provided further, That an individual not a citizen or resident of the United States shall not be deemed to be in the service of an employer when rendering service outside the United States to an employer who is required under the laws applicable in the place where the service is rendered to employ therein, in whole or in part, citizens or residents thereof; and the laws applicable on August 29, 1935, in the place where the service is rendered shall be deemed to have been applicable there at all times prior to that date. (As retroactively amended by section 3 of the Joint Resolution approved June 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 264, and by section 14 of the Act approved April 8, 1942, 56 Stat. 209.)

(e) Compensation. The term "compensation" means any form of money remuneration earned by an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers, or as an employee representative, including remuneration paid for time lost as an employee, but remuneration paid for time lost shall be deemed earned in the month in which such time is lost. Such term does not include tips, or the voluntary payment by an employer, without deduction from the remuneration of the employee, of the tax imposed on such employee by section 1500. Compensation which is earned during the period for which the Commissioner shall require a return of taxes under this subchapter to be made and which is payable during the calendar month following such period shall be deemed to have been paid during such period only. • • •

(f) United States. The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense means the States, Alaska, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

(g) Company. The term "company" includes corporations, associations, and joint-stock companies.

(h) Carrier. The term "carrier" means an express company, sleeping-car company, or carrier by railroad, subject to Part I of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Services by an individual in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard railroad locomotives) of coal not beyond the mine tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple, upon the basis of which any annuity or pension was granted under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 or the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 prior to August 13, 1940, are also excepted.

(iii) Such service is performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university;

SECTION 101 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EXEMPTIONS FROM TAX ON CORPORATIONS

The following organizations shall be exempt from taxation under this chapter—

(1) Labor • • • organizations;

(2) Mutual savings banks not having a capital stock represented by shares;

(3) Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations, (A) operating under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system; and (B) providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such society, order, or association or their dependents;

(4) Domestic building and loan associations substantially all the business of which is confined to making loans to members; and cooperative banks without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit;

(5) Cemetery companies owned and operated exclusively for the benefit of their members or which are not operated for profit; and any corporation chartered solely for burial purposes as a cemetery corporation and not permitted by its charter to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;

• • • • • •

(7) Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real-estate boards, or boards of trade, not organized for profit and no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;

(8) Civic leagues or organizations not organized for profit but operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare, or local associations of employees, the membership of which is limited to the employees of a designated person or persons in a particular municipality, and the net earnings of which are devoted exclusively to charitable, educational, or recreational purposes;

(9) Clubs organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder;

(10) Benevolent life insurance associations of a purely local character, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, or like organizations; but only if 85 per centum or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members for the sole purpose of meeting losses and expenses;

(11) Farmers' or other mutual hail, cyclone, casualty, or fire insurance companies or associations (including inter-insurers and reciprocal underwriters) the income of which is used or held for the purpose of paying losses or expenses [for amendment to section 101 (11) by Revenue Act of 1942, see below];

(12) Farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operating on a cooperative basis (a) for the purpose of marketing the products of members or other producers, and turning back to them the proceeds of sales, less the necessary marketing expenses on the basis of either the quantity or the value of the products furnished by them, or (b) for the purpose of purchasing supplies and equipment for the use of members or other persons, and turning over such supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus necessary expenses. Exemption shall not be denied any such association because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 per centum per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the association, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association; nor shall exemption be denied any such association because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose. Such an association may market the products of nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the products marketed for members, and may purchase supplies and equipment for nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the supplies and equipment purchased for members, provided the value of the purchases made for persons who are neither members nor producers does not exceed 15 per centum of the value of all its purchases. Business done for the United States or any of its agencies shall be disregarded in determining the right to exemption under this paragraph;

(13) Corporations organized by an association exempt under the provisions of paragraph (12), or members thereof, for the purpose of financing the ordinary crop operations of such members or other producers, and operated in conjunction with such association. Exemption shall not be denied any such corporation because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 per centum per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the corporation, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by such association, or members thereof; nor shall exemption be denied any such corporation because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose;

(14) Corporations organized for the exclusive purpose of holding title to property, collecting income therefrom, and turning over the entire amount thereof, less expenses, to an organization which itself is exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter;

(15) Corporations organized under Act of Congress, if such corporations are instrumentalities of the United States and if, under such act, as amended and supplemented, such corporations are exempt from Federal income taxes;

• • • • • •

(17) Teachers' retirement fund associations of a purely local character, if (A) no part of their net earnings inures (other than through payment of retirement benefits) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and (B) the income consists solely of amounts received from public taxation, amounts received from assessments upon the teaching salaries of members, and income in respect of investments;

(18) Religious or apostolic associations or corporations, if such associations or corporations have a common treasury or community treasury, even if such associations or corporations engage in business for the common benefit of the members, but only if the members thereof include (at the time of filing their returns) in their gross income their entire pro-rata shares, whether distributed or not, of the net income of the association or corporation for such year. Any amount so included in the gross income of a member shall be treated as a dividend received.

SECTION 165 (a) OF THE REVENUE ACT OF 1942, APPROVED OCTOBER 21, 1942 (56 STAT. 872)

Exempt companies. Section 101 (11) is amended to read as follows:

(11) Mutual insurance companies or associations other than life or marine (including interinsurers and reciprocal underwriters) if the gross amount received during the taxable year from interest, dividends, rents, and premiums (including deposits and assessments) does not exceed $75,000;

SECTION 101 OF THE REVENUE ACT OF 1942, APPROVED OCTOBER 21, 1942 (56 STAT. 802)

Except as otherwise expressly provided, the amendments made by this title shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

§ 403.817 Organizations exempt from income tax—(a) In general. This section deals with the exception of services performed in the employ of certain organizations exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the services meet the tests set forth in paragraph (b), (c), or (d) of this section, such services are excepted.

(See also § 403.815 for provisions relating to the exception of services performed in the employ of religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and educational organizations and community chests of the type described in section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code; § 403.818 for provisions relating to the exception of services performed in the employ of agricultural and horticultural organizations exempt from income tax under section 101 (1) of the Internal Revenue Code; § 403.819 for provisions relating to the exception of services performed in the employ of voluntary employees' beneficiary associations of the type described in section 101 (16) of the Internal Revenue Code; and § 403.820 for provisions relating to the exception of services in the employ of Federal employees' beneficiary associations of the type described in section 101 (19) of the Internal Revenue Code. Since services performed in the employ of such organizations are excepted from employment regardless of whether they meet the tests set forth in this section, provisions of section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code relating to them have been omitted from the quotation of section 101 preceding this section. An amendment to section 101 (16) of the Internal Revenue Code, effectuated by section 137 of the Revenue Act of 1942 and broadening the exemption from income tax, has likewise been omitted from such quotation because inapplicable to the reference to section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code in section 209 (b) (10) (A) of the act.)

(b) Remuneration not in excess of $45 for calendar quarter. Services performed by an employee in a calendar quarter in the employ of an organization exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted, if the remuneration for the services does not exceed $45. The exception applies separately with respect to each organization for which the employee renders services in a calendar quarter. A calendar quarter is a period of three calendar months ending on March 31, June 30, September 30, or December 31. The type of services performed by the employee and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed and the amount of the remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter.

Example 1: X is a local lodge of a fraternal organization and is exempt from income tax under section 101 (3) of the Internal Revenue Code. X has two paid employees, A, who serves exclusively as recording secretary for the lodge, and B, who performs services for the lodge as janitor of its club house. For services performed during the first calendar quarter of 1940 (that is, January 1, 1940, through March 31, 1940, both dates inclusive) A earns a total of $30. For services performed during the same calendar quarter B earns $180. Since the remuneration for the services performed by A during such quarter does not exceed $45, all of such services are excepted. Since the remuneration for the services performed by B during such quarter, however, does exceed $45, none of such services are excepted.

Example 2: The facts are the same as in example 1, above, except that on April 1, 1940, A's salary is increased and, for services performed during the calendar quarter beginning on that date (that is, April 1, 1940, through June 30, 1940, both dates inclusive), A earns a total of $60. Although all of the services performed by A during the first quarter were excepted, none of A's services performed during the second quarter are excepted since the remuneration for such services exceeds $45.

Example 3: The facts are the same as in example 1, above, except that A earns $120 for services performed during the year 1940, and such amount is paid to him in a lump sum at the end of the year. The services performed by A in any calendar quarter during the year are excepted if the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in that quarter does not exceed $45. If, however, the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in any calendar quarter during the year does exceed $45, the services during that quarter are not excepted.

(c) Collection of dues or premiums for fraternal beneficiary societies, and ritualistic services in connection with such societies. The following services performed by an employee in the employ of a fraternal beneficiary society, order, or association exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted:

(1) Services performed away from the home office of such a society, order, or association in connection with the collection of dues or premiums for such society, order, or association; and

(2) Ritualistic services (wherever performed) in connection with such a society, order, or association.

For purposes of this paragraph the amount of the remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter is immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed, the type of services, and, in the case of collection of dues or premiums, the place where the services are performed.

(d) Students employed by organizations exempt from income tax. Services performed in the employ of an organization exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university are excepted. For purposes of this paragraph, the amount of remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter, the type of services, and the place where such services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university.

The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

(For provisions relating to services performed by a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university not exempt from income tax in the employ of such school, college, or university, see § 403.821.)

SECTION 209 (b) (10) (B) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(10) (B) Service performed in the employ of an agricultural or horticultural organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (1) of the Internal Revenue Code;

SECTION 101 (1) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EXEMPTIONS FROM TAX ON CORPORATIONS

The following organizations shall be exempt from taxation under this chapter—

(1) • • • agricultural, or horticultural organizations;

§ 403.818 Agricultural and horticultural organizations exempt from income tax. Services performed by an employee in the employ of an agricultural or horticultural organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (1) of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted.

For purposes of this exception, the type of services performed by the employee, the amount of remuneration for such services, and the place where such services are performed are immaterial; the statutory test is the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed.

SECTION 209 (b) (10) (C) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(10) (C) Service performed in the employ of a voluntary employees' beneficiary association providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such association or their dependents, if (I) no part of its net earnings inures (other than through such payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and (II) 85 per centum or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members for the sole purpose of making such payments and meeting expenses;

§ 403.819 Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations. Services performed by an employee in the employ of an organization of the character described in section 209 (b) (10) (C) of the act are excepted.

For purposes of this exception, the type of services performed by the employee, the amount of remuneration for such services, and the place where such services are performed are immaterial; the statutory test is the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed.

SECTION 209 (b) (10) (D) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(10) (D) Service performed in the employ of a voluntary employees' beneficiary association providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such association or their dependents or their designated beneficiaries, if (I) admission to membership in such association is limited to individuals who are officers or employees of the United States Government, and (II) no part of the net earnings of such association inures (other than through such payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;

§ 403.820 Federal employees' beneficiary associations. Services performed by an employee in the employ of an organization of the character described in section 209 (b) (10) (D) of the act are excepted.

For purposes of this exception, the type of services performed by the employee, the amount of remuneration for such services, and the place where such services are performed are immaterial; the statutory test is the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed.

SECTION 209 (b) (10) (E) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(10) (E) Service performed in any calendar quarter in the employ of a school, college, or university, not exempt from income tax under section 101, of the Internal Revenue Code, if such service is performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university, and the remuneration for such service does not exceed $45 (exclusive of room, board, and tuition);

§ 403.821 Students employed by schools, colleges, or universities not exempt from income tax. Services performed in a calendar quarter by a student in the employ of a school, college, or university not exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted, provided:

(a) The services are performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university; and

(b) The remuneration for such services performed in such calendar quarter does not exceed $45, exclusive of room, board, and tuition furnished by the school, college, or university.

A calendar quarter is a period of three calendar months ending on March 31, June 30, September 30, or December 31.

For purposes of this exception, the type of services performed by the employee and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in whose employ the services are performed, the amount of remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at the school, college, or university in whose employ he performs the services.

The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

SECTION 209 (b) (11) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(11) Service performed in the employ of a foreign government (including service as a consular or other officer or employee or a nondiplomatic representative);

§ 403.822 Foreign governments. Services performed by an employee in the employ of a foreign government are excepted. The exception includes not only services performed by ambassadors, ministers, and other diplomatic officers and employees but also services performed as a consular or other officer or employee of a foreign government, or as a nondiplomatic representative thereof.

For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial. It is also immaterial whether the foreign government grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar services performed in the foreign country by citizens of the United States.

SECTION 209 (b) (12) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(12) Service performed in the employ of an instrumentality wholly owned by a foreign government—

(A) If the service is of a character similar to that performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(B) If the Secretary of State shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar service performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof;

§ 403.823 Wholly owned instrumentalities of a foreign government. Services performed by an employee in the employ of certain instrumentalities of a foreign government are excepted. The exception includes all services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the government of a foreign country, Provided:

(1) The instrumentality is wholly owned by the foreign government;

(2) The services are of a character similar to those performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(3) The Secretary of State certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to services performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof.

For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial.

SECTION 209 (b) (13) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(13) Service performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school by an individual who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school chartered or approved pursuant to State law; and service performed as an interne in the employ of a hospital by an individual who has completed a four years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law;

§ 403.824 Student nurses and hospital internes. Services performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school are excepted provided the student nurse is enrolled and regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school, and such nurses' training school is chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

Services performed as an interne (as distinguished from a resident doctor) in the employ of a hospital are excepted, provided the interne has completed a 4 years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

SECTION 209 (b) (14) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(14) Service performed by an individual in (or as an officer or member of the crew of a vessel while it is engaged in) the catching, taking, harvesting, cultivating, or farming of any kind of fish, shellfish, crustacea, sponges, seaweeds, or other aquatic forms of animal and vegetable life (including service performed by any such individual as an ordinary incident to any such activity), except (A) service performed in connection with the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, and (B) service performed on or in connection with a vessel of more than ten net tons (determined in the manner provided for determining the register tonnage of merchant vessels under the laws of the United States); or

§ 403.825 Fishing—(a) In general. Subject to the limitations prescribed in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the services described in this paragraph are excepted. Services performed by an individual in the catching, taking, harvesting, cultivating, or farming of any kind of fish, shellfish (for example, oysters, clams, and mussels), crustacea (for example, lobsters, crabs, and shrimps), sponges, seaweeds, or other aquatic forms of animal and vegetable life are excepted. The exception extends to services performed as an officer or member of the crew of a vessel while the vessel is engaged in any such activity whether or not the officer or member of the crew is himself so engaged. In the case of an individual who is engaged in any such activity in the employ of any person, the services performed, by such individual in the employ of such person, as an ordinary incident to any such activity are also excepted. Similarly, for example, the shore services of an officer or member of the crew of a vessel engaged in any such activity are excepted if such services are an ordinary incident to any such activity. Services performed as an ordinary incident to any such activity may include, for example, services performed in such cleaning, icing, and packing of fish as are necessary for the immediate preservation of the catch.

(b) Salmon and halibut fishing. Services performed in connection with the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, are not within the exception. Thus, neither the services of an officer or member of the crew of a vessel (irrespective of its tonnage) which is engaged in the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, nor the services of any other individual in connection with such activity, are within the exception.

(c) Vessels of more than 10 net tons. Services described in paragraph (a) performed on or in connection with a vessel of more than 10 net tons are not within the exception. For purposes of the exception, the tonnage of the vessel shall be determined in the manner provided for determining the register tonnage of merchant vessels under the laws of the United States.

SECTION 209 (b) (15) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after December 31, 1939, by an employee for the person employing him • • • except—

(15) Service performed by an individual under the age of eighteen in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution.

§ 403.826 Delivery and distribution of newspapers and shopping news. Services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution, are excepted. Thus, the services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in making house-to-house delivery of newspapers or shopping news, including handbills and other similar types of advertising material, are excepted.

The exception continues only during the time that the employee is under the age of 18.

SECTION 209 (b) (16) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, • • • by an employee for the person employing him • • • except:

(16) Service performed in the employ of an international organization entitled to enjoy privileges, exemptions, and immunities as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunities Act. (As amended effective January 1, 1946, by section 5 (a) of the Act approved December 29, 1945, 59 Stat. 669.)

SECTION 1 OF THE ACT APPROVED DECEMBER 29, 1945 (59 STAT. 669)

For the purposes of this title, the term "international organization" means a public international organization in which the United States participates pursuant to any treaty or under the authority of any act of Congress authorizing such participation or making an appropriation for such participation, and which shall have been designated by the President through appropriate Executive order as being entitled to enjoy the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided. The President shall be authorized, in the light of the functions performed by any such international organization, by appropriate Executive order to withhold or withdraw from any such organization or its officers or employees any of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities provided for in this title (including the amendments made by this title) or to condition or limit the enjoyment by any such organization or its officers or employees of any such privilege, exemption, or immunity. The President shall be authorized, if in his judgment such action should be justified by reason of the abuse by an international organization or its officers and employees of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided or for any other reason, at any time to revoke the designation of any international organization under this section, whereupon the international organization in question shall cease to be classed as an international organization for the purposes of this title.

§ 403.826a International organization. Services performed after December 31, 1945, by an employee in the employ of an organization of the class specified in section 209 (b) (16) of the act are excepted. For an organization to be within the statutory classification the following conditions must be met:

(a) It must be a public international organization in which the United States participates pursuant to treaty or authority of an act of Congress authorizing, or making an appropriation for, such participation:

(b) It must have been designated by executive order to be entitled to enjoy the privileges, exemptions, and immunities provided in the International Organizations Immunities Act;

(c) The designation must be in effect, and all conditions and limitations thereof must be met.

Such services will not be excepted if any of the foregoing conditions are not met. Nor will they be excepted after such designation is withheld or withdrawn by Executive order from the employing organization.

WAGES

SECTION 209 (a) OF THE ACT

The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

(1) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has been paid to an individual by an employer with respect to employment during any calendar year prior to 1940, is paid to such individual by such employer with respect to employment during such calendar year;

(2) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has been paid to an individual with respect to employment during any calendar year after 1939, is paid to such individual with respect to employment during such calendar year;

(3) The amount of any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally or for a class or classes of his employees (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment), on account of (A) retirement, or (B) sickness or accident disability, or (C) medical and hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, or (D) death, provided the employee (i) has not the option to receive, instead of provision for such death benefit, any part of such payment or, if such death benefit is insured, any part of the premiums (or contributions to premiums) paid by his employer, and (ii) has not the right, under the provisions of the plan or system or policy of insurance providing for such death benefit, to assign such benefit, or to receive a cash consideration in lieu of such benefit either upon his withdrawal from the plan or system providing for such benefit or upon termination of such plan or system or policy of insurance or of his employment with such employer;

(4) The payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of the employee) (A) of the tax imposed upon an employee under section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code or (B) of any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law;

(5) Dismissal payments which the employer is not legally required to make; or

(6) Any remuneration paid to an individual prior to January 1, 1937.

SECTION 209 (o) (2), (3), AND (4) OF THE ACT

(2) The Social Security Board shall not make determinations as to whether an individual has performed services which are employment by reason of [paragraph 1 of] this subsection, or the periods of such services, or the amounts of remuneration for such services, or the periods in which or for which such remuneration was paid, but shall accept the determination with respect thereto of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and such agents as he may designate, as evidenced by returns filed by such Administrator as an employer pursuant to section 1426 (1) of the Internal Revenue Code and certifications made pursuant to this subsection. Such determinations shall be final and conclusive.

(3) The Administrator, War Shipping Administration, is authorized and directed, upon written request of the Social Security Board, to make certification to it with respect to any matter determinable for the Board by the War Shipping Administrator under this subsection, which the Board finds necessary in administering this title.

(4) This subsection shall be effective as of September 30, 1941. (As retroactively added by section 1 (b) (2) of the act of March 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 47, as amended by the act approved April 4, 1944, 58 Stat. 188.)

§ 403.827 Wages — (a) In general. Whether remuneration for employment constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with this section of these regulations and § 403.828 (relating to exclusions from wages); except that any such determination with respect to remuneration for employment, paid after December 31, 1936, and prior to January 1, 1940, shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Regulations No. 2, unless such regulations are inapplicable (as for example, to the extent that such determination involves the $3,000 limitation with respect to remuneration paid prior to January 1, 1940, for employment to be performed on or after such date; see § 403.828 (a) (2)):

The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment unless specifically excepted under section 209 (a) of the act (see § 403.828).

The name by which the remuneration for employment is designated is immaterial. Thus, salaries, fees, bonuses, and commissions on sales or on insurance premiums, are wages within the meaning of the act if paid as compensation for employment.

The basis upon which the remuneration is paid is immaterial in determining whether the remuneration constitutes wages. Thus, it may be paid on the basis of piecework, or a percentage of profits; and it may be paid hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, or annually.

The medium in which the remuneration is paid is also immaterial. It may be paid in cash or in something other than cash, as for example goods, lodging, food, or clothing. Remuneration paid in items other than cash shall be computed on the basis of the fair value of such items at the time of payment.

Ordinarily, facilities or privileges (such as entertainment, medical services, or so-called "courtesy" discounts on purchases) furnished or offered by an employer to his employees generally are not considered as remuneration for employment if such facilities or privileges are of relatively small value and are offered or furnished by the employer merely as a means of promoting the health, good will, contentment, or efficiency of his employees. The term "facilities or privileges," however, does not ordinarily include the value of meals or lodging furnished, for example, to restaurant or hotel employees, or to seamen or other employees aboard vessels, since generally these items constitute an appreciable part of the total remuneration of such employees.

Remuneration for employment, unless such remuneration is specifically excepted under section 209 (a) of the act, constitutes wages even though at the time paid the relationship of employer and employee no longer exists between the person in whose employ the services were performed and the individual who performed them.

Example: A is employed by B during the month of January 1940 in employment and is entitled to receive remuneration of $100 for the services performed for B, the employer, during the month. A leaves the employ of B at the close of business on January 31, 1940. On February 15, 1940 (when A is no longer an employee of B) B pays A the remuneration of $100 which was earned for the services performed in January. The $100 is wages within the meaning of the act.

(b) Certain items included as wages— (1) Vacation allowances. Amounts of so-called "vacation allowances" paid to an employee constitute wages. Thus, the salary of an employee on vacation, paid notwithstanding his absence from work, constitutes wages.

(2) Deductions by an employer from wages of an employee. The amount of any tax which is required by section 1401 (a) of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code) to be deducted by the employer from the wages of an employee is considered to be a part of the employee's wages, and is deemed to be paid to the employee as wages at the time that the deduction is made. Other amounts deducted from the wages of an employee by an employer also constitute wages paid to the employee at the time of deduction. It is immaterial that the act, or any act of Congress, or the law of any State, requires or permits such deduction and the payment of the amount thereof to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof.

(c) Determination of remuneration for certain wartime services by employees of the United States. In making decisions (see §§ 403.706 to 403.711a, inclusive), the Social Security Administration will accept as conclusive upon it final determination of the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, and his designated agents, under section 209 (o) of the act, as to the amounts of remuneration for certain wartime services by employees of the United States which are employment by reason of such section (see § 403.803 (d)), or as to the periods in which or for which such remuneration was paid.

§ 403.828 Exclusions from wages—(a) (1) $3,000 limitation with respect to remuneration paid in 1940 or thereafter for employment during a calendar year prior to 1940. Under section 209 (a) (1) of the act, any remuneration paid by an employer to an employee in 1940 or thereafter for employment performed during any one calendar year after 1936 and prior to 1940, which is in excess of the first $3,000 of remuneration paid (whether before or after January 1, 1940) for employment performed during such year, is excluded. Thus, section 209 (a) (1) of the act excludes from wages such remuneration paid in 1940 or thereafter for employment performed during the calendar year 1937, 1938, or 1939, as is in excess of the first $3,000 of remuneration paid for employment performed during any single one of such years.

Example 1: Employee A, in 1939, was paid remuneration of $2,500 by employer B on account of $4,000 due him for employment during 1939. In 1940 A receives from employer B the balance of $1,500 due him for the employment during 1939. Only $500 of this $1,500 constitutes wages, the balance of $1,000 being an amount in excess of $3,000 with respect to employment during a single year (1939) prior to 1940 and thus excluded.

The limitation relates to the remuneration for employment performed by an employee for the same employer during any single one of the calendar years after 1936 and prior to 1940 and not to the amount of remuneration (irrespective of the year of employment) which is paid in any one year.

Example 2: Employee C, in 1939, was paid remuneration of $2,500 by employer D on account of $3,000 due him for employment during 1939. In 1940, C is paid by employer D the balance of $500 due him for employment during 1939 and also $3,000 for employment during 1940. None of such amount paid in 1940 is excluded, since the $500 paid in 1940 with respect to the employment during 1939 when added to the $2,500 already paid for employment during that year does not exceed $3,000.

The limitation applies separately with respect to each employer for whom the employee performed services during any one of the calendar years after 1936 and prior to 1940.

Example 3: Employee E, in 1939, was paid by employer F $3,000 on account of $4,000 due him for employment in the employ of F during that year, and also $2,000 by employer G on account of $3,000 due him for employment in the employ of G during the same year (1939). In 1940, E is paid the balance of $1,000 due him from each of such employers for the employment during 1939. The $1,000 paid in 1940 by employer F is excluded from wages, since $3,000 has already been paid to E by employer F for employment during 1939. The $1,000 paid to E in 1940 by employer G, however, is not excluded, since that amount when added to the $2,000 theretofore paid by employer G with respect to employment during 1939 does not exceed $3,000.

(2) $3,000 limitation with respect to remuneration for employment during 1940 or thereafter. Under section 209 (a) (2) of the act, remuneration paid to an employee (whether or not by one or more employers) for employment during any one calendar year after 1939 in excess of the first $3,000 paid to the employee, is excluded from "wages."

Example 1: Employee A in the calendar year 1940 is employed in employment by three separate employers, B, C, and D. In the year 1940 A is paid $2,000 by B for employment during such year in his employ, $3,000 by C for employment during such year in his employ, and $4,000 by D for employment during such year in his employ. Of the total remuneration of $9,000 with respect to employment during the calendar year 1940, only $3,000 constitutes wages. The remuneration paid to A in excess of $3,000 for employment during this year, that is, $6,000, is excluded and does not constitute wages.

Example 2: Employee E, in 1940, is paid $2,500 by employer F on account of $3,500 due him for employment during that year. In 1941 E is paid by employer F the balance of $1,000 due him for employment during the prior year (1940) and also $3,500 for employment during 1941. Of the total remuneration of $4,500 paid to E in 1941, only $3,500 is included in wages, that is, $3,000 (the maximum) with respect to employment during 1941 and $500 with respect to employment during 1940 (this $500 plus the $2,500 paid in 1940 with respect to employment during that year totals $3,000, the maximum wages which could be received by E with respect to employment during the calendar year 1940).

Example 3: Employee G, in 1939, is paid remuneration of $1,500 by employer H for services in employment to be performed in 1940. G performs the services for H in 1940 for which he was paid in 1939, and also performs services in employment in 1940 for employer I for which he is paid $2,500. Of the total remuneration of $4,000 paid to G with respect to employment during 1940, only $3,000 is included in wages. The remuneration received by G in excess of $3,000 for employment during 1940, that is, $1,000, is excluded and does not constitute wages.

(b) Employers' plans providing for payments on account of retirement, sick- ness or accident disability, medical and hospitalization expenses, or death. Under section 209 (a) (3) of the act, the term "wages" does not include the amount of any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally or for a class or classes of his employees (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment), on account of:

(1) Retirement;

(2) Sickness or accident disability;

(3) Medical and hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability; or

(4) Death, provided the employee (i) has not the option to receive, instead of provision for such death benefit, any part of such payment or, if such death benefit is insured, any part of the premiums (or contributions to premiums) paid by his employer, and (ii) has not the right, under the provisions of the plan or system or policy of insurance providing for such death benefit, to assign such benefit, or to receive a cash consideration in lieu of such benefit either upon his withdrawal from the plan or system providing for such benefit or upon termination of such plan or system or policy of insurance or of his employment with such employer.

The plan or system established by an employer need not provide for payments on account of all of the specified items, but such plan or system may provide for any one or more of such items.

It is immaterial for purposes of this exclusion whether the amount or possibility of such benefit payments is taken into consideration in fixing the amount of an employee's remuneration or whether such payments are required, expressly or impliedly, by the contract of service.

(c) Payment by an employer of employees' tax, or employees' contributions under a State law. The term "wages" does not include the amount of any payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of, or other reimbursement from, the employee) of either (1) the employees' tax imposed by section 1400 of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code), or (2) any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law.

(d) Dismissal payments. Any payments made by an employer to an employee on account of dismissal, that is, involuntary separation from the service of the employer, are excluded from "wages", provided the employer is not legally bound by contract, statute, or otherwise, to make such payments.

(e) Miscellaneous. In addition to the exclusions specified in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section, the following types of payments are excluded from wages:

(1) Remuneration for services which do not constitute employment under section 209 (b) of the act.

(2) Remuneration for services which are not deemed to be employment under section 209 (c) of the act.

(3) Tips or gratuities paid directly to an employee by a customer of an employer, and not accounted for by the employee to the employer.

(4) Ordinarily, amounts paid to traveling salesmen or other employees, as allowance or reimbursement for traveling or other expenses incurred in the business of the employer are excluded from wages only to the extent actually incurred and accounted for by the employee to the employer.

(5) Remuneration paid prior to January 1, 1937.

SECTION 209 (m) OF THE ACT

In determining whether an applicant is the wife, widow, child, or parent of a fully insured or currently insured individual for purposes of this title, the Board shall apply such law as would be applied in determining the devolution of intestate personal property by the courts of the State in which such insured individual is domiciled at the time such applicant files application, or, if such insured individual is dead, by the courts of the State in which he was domiciled at the time of his death, or if such insured individual is or was not so domiciled in any State, by the courts of the District of Columbia. Applicants who according to such law would have the same status relative to taking intestate personal property as a wife, widow, child, or parent shall be deemed such.

§ 403.829 Applicable State law and status—(a) Applicable State law defined. "Applicable State law" is the law which the courts of the domicile of the wage earner, with respect to whose wages an applicant claims benefits or a lump sum, would apply in deciding who is a wife, widow or widower, child, or parent, when determining the devolution of intestate personal property. A living wage earner's domicile is determined as of the time the applicant filed his claim for benefits or a lump sum. A deceased wage earner's domicile is determined as of the time of such wage earner's death. If the wage earner was not domiciled in any State, applicable State law is the law which the courts of the District of Columbia would apply when determining the devolution of such property.

Example 1: W, who was the wife of H, is determined after his death to be his widow under the law relating to the devolution of intestate personal property but held not entitled to share in the distribution of H's intestate personal property, solely on the ground that by a valid antenuptial contract she waived her right to share in such property.

W is a widow under applicable State law within the meaning of section 209 (m) of the act. It is immaterial for the purposes of that subsection whether she is actually entitled to inherit.

Example 2: H and W, husband and wife, are domiciled in State X. W secures a divorce decree in another State under circumstances which would render the decree invalid in State X. W returns to State X and marries F. F is domiciled in State X at the time W's application for wife's insurance benefits is filed as the alleged wife of F.

W is not the wife of F under the law which would be applied by the courts of State X when determining the devolution of intestate personal property. She is therefore not F's wife under applicable State law, within the meaning of section 209 (m) of the act.

(b) Status under applicable State law. An individual who is not a wife, widow or widower, child, or parent under applicable State law, but who is treated as such under such law for the purpose of determining the devolution of intestate personal property, has the same "status" as a wife, widow or widower, child, or parent. Thus, under the law of some States, an individual who is not a wife because her supposed marriage was void, may nevertheless be treated as a wife under such law, under certain strictly limited conditions. Such an individual has the "status" of a wife.

SECTION 209 (i) OF THE ACT

The term "wife" means the wife of an individual who either (1) is the mother of such individual's son or daughter, or (2) was married to him prior to January 1, 1939, or if later, prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty.

§ 403.830 Definition of "wife". An individual is the "wife" of a wage earner as that term is used in Title II of the act, if she meets the following requirements:

(a) She is the wife of such wage earner, or has the same status as a wife, under applicable State law (see § 403.829); and

(b) She either:

(1) Is the mother of the wage earner's son or daughter; or

(2) Was married to such wage earner (became his wife or acquired the status as such, under applicable State law)

(i) Prior to January 1, 1939, or, if later

(ii) Prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty.

An individual is the mother of a wage earner's son or daughter within the meaning of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, if a son or daughter was born to her and such wage earner, even though such son or daughter died before a claim for benefits was filed which involved the determination of whether such individual is a "wife."

Example 1: H at the age of 70 married W in December 1938. W is a wife under applicable State law.

Since H married W prior to January 1, 1939, and since W is a wife under applicable State law, she is the "wife" of H within the meaning of this section.

Example 2: H at the age of 61 married W on January 2, 1939. On January 3, 1940, a son was born to W by H. The son died January 5, 1940. W, who is a wife under applicable State law, applies for wife's insurance benefits after the death of her son.

Although W did not marry H prior to January 1, 1939, and married him after the date on which he attained age 60, she is the "wife" of H within the meaning of this section, since she is his wife under applicable State law and is the mother of his son.

SECTION 209 (j) OF THE ACT

The term "widow" (except when used in section 202 (g)) means the surviving wife of an individual who either (1) is the mother of such individual's son or daughter, or (2) was married to him prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which he died.

§ 403.831 Definition of "widow." An individual is the "widow" of a wage earner, as that term is used in Title II of the act (except as stated in § 403.408 (d) (2) under section 202 (g) of the act), if she meets the following requirements:

(a) She is the widow of the wage earner, or has the same status as a widow, under applicable State law (see § 403.829); and

(b) She either (1) is the mother of the wage earner's son or daughter, or (2) was married to the wage earner (became his wife, or acquired the status as such, under applicable State law) prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which he died.

An individual is the mother of a wage earner's son or daughter within the meaning of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, if a son or daughter was born to her and such wage earner, even though such son or daughter died before a claim for benefits was filed which involved the determination of whether such individual is a "widow", and even though such son or daughter was born after the death of such wage earner.

Example: W married H in March 1939, when he was 61. H died in April 1940. W is his widow under applicable State law. There were no children born to them. Although there were no children born to W and H, W is the "widow" within the meaning of this section since she was married to him prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which he died. Had H died in March 1940, instead of in April, W would not meet the requirement of this section.

The term "child" (except when used in section 202 (g)) means the child of an individual, and the stepchild of an individual by a marriage contracted prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which he died, and a child legally adopted by an individual prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which he died.

§ 403.832 Definition of "child." An individual is a "child" as that term is used in Title II of the act (except as stated in § 403.408 (d) (2), under section 202 (g) of the act), if he meets the requirements under paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section:

(a) Children. A son or daughter (by blood) of a wage earner, who is the child of such wage earner or has the same status as a child, under applicable State law (see § 403.829), is the "child" of such wage earner.

Example: A child C was born out of wedlock to M. Under the law of the State where M was domiciled (applicable State law), C is the child of M. C is the "child" of M within the meaning of this section.

(b) Stepchildren. An individual who is the stepchild of a wage earner by virtue of a marriage valid under applicable State law, which was contracted prior to the date upon which the wage earner attained the age of 60 and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which the wage earner died, is a "child" of such wage earner.

Example: H and W, husband and wife, had a child, C. H died. W then contracted a marriage with F, which was valid under the law of the State where she and F were domiciled (applicable State law). F was 35 at the time. Two years later F died. Under applicable State law a stepchild is not a child. C is nevertheless a "child" of F, since he was a stepchild of F by virtue of a marriage contracted prior to the date on which F attained the age of 60, and prior to the twelfth month before the month in which F died.

(c) Adopted children. An individual who was legally adopted by a wage earner in accordance with applicable State law, prior to the date upon which the wage earner attained the age of 60 and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which the wage earner died, is a "child" of such wage earner.

Example: F, at the age of 55, legally adopted C, in accordance with applicable State law. Two years later F died. C is the "child" of F, since he was adopted in accordance with applicable State law prior to the date upon which F attained age 60, and prior to the twelfth month before the month in which F died. It is immaterial whether C is considered a child under applicable State law.

SECTION 202 (f) (3) OF THE ACT

As used in this subsection, the term "parent" means the mother or father of an individual, a stepparent of an individual by a marriage contracted before such individual attained the age of sixteen, or an adopting parent by whom an individual was adopted before he attained the age of sixteen.

§ 403.833 Definition of "parent." An individual is a "parent" of a wage earner, as that term is used in section 202 (f) of the act (see § 403.407) if he meets the requirements under paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section:

(a) Parents. A mother or father (by blood) of a wage earner, who is the parent of such wage earner or has the same status as a parent, under applicable State law (see § 403.829), is the "parent" of such wage earner.

Example: A child, C, was born to W, the wife of H. The child was adopted by F and M. Under the law of the domicile of C (applicable State law), an adoption severs the relationship between a child and its natural parents and they no longer are considered parents in the determination of the devolution of intestate personal property of C. Therefore, H and W are not "parents" of C within the meaning of this section.

(b) Stepparents. An individual who is a stepparent of a wage earner by reason of a marriage valid under applicable State law, which was contracted before such wage earner attained the age of 16, is a "parent" of such wage earner.

Example: H and W were married and had a son C. H died. W later contracted a marriage with F when C was 6 years of age, which was valid under applicable State law. F is a "parent" of C regardless of his status under applicable State law, since F married W before C attained age 16.

(c) Adopting parents. An individual who legally adopted a wage earner in accordance with applicable State law, before the wage earner attained the age of 16, is a "parent" of such wage earner.

Example: H and W adopted C when the latter was 10. The adoption was recognized as legal under applicable State law. Under that law H and W would not be considered as parents. H and W are nevertheless "parents" of C, since they adopted C before he attained age 16.

SECTION 209 (n) OF THE ACT

A wife shall be deemed to be living with her husband if they are both members of the same household, or she is receiving regular contributions from him toward her support, or he has been ordered by any court to contribute to her support; and a widow shall be deemed to have been living with her husband at the time of his death if they were both members of the same household on the date of his death, or she was receiving regular contributions from him toward her support on such date, or he had been ordered by any court to contribute to her support.

§ 403.834 Definition of "living with." A wife shall be deemed to be "living with" her husband at the time of her application for a benefit is filed, and a widow shall be deemed to have been living with her husband at the time of his death, if, at such time, either of the three following conditions exist:

(a) The husband and wife were at such time members of the same household.

A husband and wife were members of the same household if they were living together, and customarily lived together, in the same place of abode.

A husband and wife who customarily lived together in the same place of abode but who were not actually doing so at such time, may nevertheless be members of the same household, if they were apart only temporarily and intended to resume living together in the same place of abode.

Example: H and W, husband and wife, regularly occupied a room in a boarding house. Due to ill health, H went south intending to return in 6 months. After H's departure, W obtained another room pending H's return. H died 5 months later in the south. W and H were members of the same household and therefore W was "living with" H, at the time of his death, since they customarily lived together in the same place of abode, were absent therefrom only temporarily, and intended to resume living together.

(b) If the wife was at such time receiving regular contributions from her husband toward her support.

Contributions must be substantial, and may be made in cash or other medium. In determining the sufficiency of contributions under this subsection, the surrounding circumstances with respect to both the time when contributions are made and the amount thereof shall be taken into consideration.

Example: H left his wife W, telling her she might occupy the house which he owned but that he would never return to her. She lived in the house (without paying rent) until his death, and he made no other provision for her support.

W was "living with" H at the time of his death since her use and occupancy of the house constituted regular contributions from H toward her support.

(c) If the husband had, at such time been ordered by any court to contribute to his wife's support.

This condition is met if the husband is legally obligated to contribute to the support of his wife at such time by virtue of any order, judgment, or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction, regardless of whether he actually made any such contribution. In determining the existence of such a legal obligation, any such order, judgment, or decree shall be considered as in full force and effect unless it has expired or has been vacated.

Example 1: H abandoned his wife W and never thereafter contributed to her support. W secured a valid court decree for separate maintenance which directed that H pay $5 a week to the support of W. H left the jurisdiction of the court and never complied with the terms of the decree. He filed application for primary insurance benefits at the age of 65 while living in another State. W thereupon filed application for wife's insurance benefits.

W was "living with" H at the time of filing application since H was legally obligated to contribute to the support of W at such time, by virtue of a decree of a court of competent jurisdiction.

Example 2: After H abandoned his wife W, W secured a valid court decree requiring H to pay $5 a week to the support of W. Later, because of H's illness the order was suspended. H died while this suspension was in effect. W filed a claim for widow's insurance benefits.

W was "living with" H at the time of his death since H was legally obligated to contribute to the support of W at such time, by virtue of a decree of a court of competent jurisdiction. Although the decree was suspended at the time of H's death, it had not expired nor had it been vacated.

[Reg. No. 3,[1] Further Amended]

PART 403—FEDERAL OLD-AGE AND SURVIVORS INSURANCE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Regulations No. 3, as amended (20 CFR, Cum. Sup., 403.1 et seq.), are further amended as follows:

1. Section 403.1 is amended by adding at the end of paragraph (b) (1) the following undesignated paragraph:

§ 403.1 Chronological description of pertinent statutes and regulations. • • •

(b) Title II of the Social Security Act, as amended, effective January 1, 1940, and regulations of the Social Security Administration thereunder—(1) Statutes. • • •

The act approved August 10, 1946 (Public Law 719, 79th Congress; 60 Stat. 978), adds to Title II of the Social Security Act, as amended, a new section 210 designated "Benefits in case of deceased World War II Veterans," and amends sections 202, 203, and 209 of said Title II of the Social Security Act, as amended. Details of these amendments appear in appropriate sections of this chapter.

2. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.202 are amended by inserting at the end thereof the following:

SECTION 407 OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 988)

(a) Section 209 (h) of such act is amended to read as follows:

[1] 5 F. R. 1849.

(h) The term "currently insured individual" means any individual with respect to whom it appears to the satisfaction of the Administrator that he had not less than six quarters of coverage during the period consisting of the quarter in which he died and the twelve quarters immediately preceding such quarter.

(b) The amendment made by subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable only in cases of applications for benefits under this title filed after December 31, 1946.

3. Section 403.202, paragraph (b), is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.202 Currently insured status. • • •

(b) Determination of currently insured status—(1) Effect of 1946 amendment. Under section 209 (h) of the act prior to the 1946 amendments, currently insured status is based on wages paid for at least 6 of the 12 quarters immediately preceding the quarter of death. Under the 1946 amendment, a "currently insured individual" is one having at least 6 quarters of coverage during the period consisting of the quarter in which he died and the 12 quarters immediately preceding such quarter. Since the act defines quarters of coverage in terms of wages paid in a quarter (see § 403.201 (b)), the amendment eliminates, in the cases to which it applies, the necessity to inquire whether wages were paid for any quarter.

(2) Currently insured status under 1946 law. An individual who had not less than 6 quarters of coverage (see § 403.201 (b)) during the period consisting of the quarter in which he died and the 12 quarters immediately preceding such quarter, is a currently insured individual. Quarters of coverage need not have been consecutive within such 13-quarter period. The age of the individual at death is immaterial.

(3) Currently insured status under 1939 law. An individual who has been paid wages of not less than $50 for each of not less than 6 of the 12 calendar quarters immediately preceding the quarter in which he died, is a currently insured individual. Such wages need not have been paid for consecutive quarters within such 12-quarter period. The age of the individual at death is immaterial.

4. The heading of § 403.202 (c) is amended to read: "(c) "Wages" paid "for" a quarter under 1939 law."

5. Section 403.202 is further amended by adding at the end of Example 3 thereof a new example designated Example 4 as follows:

Example 4. A is paid wages of $30 in each month during the entire year 1945 and from January through May 1947. He dies in June 1947.

A died a currently insured individual since under the 1946 law the quarter in which he died is included to give him 6 quarters of coverage during the period consisting of the quarter of death and the 12 quarters immediately preceding such quarter. His status is not affected by the fact that such quarters of coverage were not consecutive.

6. Section 403.202 is further amended by adding a new paragraph (d) and example as follows:

(d) Applicable law. The 1946 law for establishing currently insured status applies to applications filed after December 31, 1946, except that where the requirements of the 1946 law cannot be met, and all elements of entitlement under the 1939 law other than the filing of an application existed prior to January 1, 1947, the 1939 law for establishing currently insured status shall apply.

Example: A is paid wages of $50 or more in each quarter during the year 1945. In the second quarter of 1946 he is paid wages of $1500 for the first two quarters of that year. A dies in November 1946. Applications for widow's current and child's benefits are filed in May 1947.

A died currently insured under section 209 (h) of the 1939 law since he was paid wages of more than $50 for each of 6 out of 12 calendar quarters immediately preceding the quarter in which he died. A currently insured status under the 1946 law cannot be found since A had only 5 quarters of coverage on a wages paid in a quarter basis. However, entitlement may be established under the 1939 law, even though application is filed after December 31, 1946, because A died prior to January 1, 1947.

7. The following statutory material and new § 403.203 is inserted after § 403.202:

SECTION 209 (r)

[Section 411 of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 989)]

With respect to wages paid to an individual in the six-month periods commencing either January 1, 1937, or July 1, 1937; (A) if wages of not less than $100 were paid in any such period, one-half of the total amount thereof shall be deemed to have been paid in each of the calendar quarters in such periods; and (B) if wages of less than $100 were paid in any such period, the total amount thereof shall be deemed to have been paid in the latter quarter of such period, except that if in any such period, the individual attained age sixty-five, all of the wages paid in such period shall be deemed to have been paid before such age was attained.

§ 403.203 Allocation of 1937 wages. Under articles 401 and 402 of U. S. Treasury Regulations 91, as amended by T. D. 4778, employers are required to make information returns on Forms SS–2 and SS–2a for the periods January 1, 1937, to June 30, 1937, both dates inclusive, and July 1, 1937, to December 31, 1937, both dates inclusive. Thereafter information returns are required to be made by employers quarterly for periods of 3 calendar months ending March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31 of each year subsequent to 1937. With regard to benefits payable for and after August 1946, section 209 (r) of the Social Security Act, as amended, authorizes and directs that wages reported in the semi-annual returns for 1937 be allocated on a quarterly return basis for the purpose of computing "quarters of coverage" and "expired quarters" for 1937.

Where wages (see §§ 403.827 and 403.828) of $100 or more were paid to an individual in a 6-month period in 1937 commencing either January 1, 1937, or July 1, 1937, one-half of the wages are credited to each of the calendar quarters in such 6-month period.

Example 1: Employee A was paid wages of $137 in the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937, and was paid wages of $230 in the 6-month period commencing July 1, 1937. A has 4 quarters of coverage for 1937, being deemed to have been paid $68.50 (one-half of $137) for the first quarter, $68.50 for the second quarter, $115 (one-half of $230) for the third quarter, and $115 for the fourth quarter.

Example 2: Employee C attained age 22 in December 1937 and died in January 1945. He was paid wages of $147 for the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937, and was paid wages of $210 in the 6-month period commencing July 1, 1937. C has 4 quarters of coverage for 1937 and is charged with 4 expired quarters for 1937, being deemed to have been paid $73.50 (one-half of $147) for the first quarter, $73.50 for the second quarter, $105 (one-half of $210) for the third quarter, and $105 for the fourth quarter.

Where wages of $100 or more were paid to an individual during a 6-month period in which he attained age 65, he is to receive 2 quarters of coverage for such period even if the attainment date was in the first quarter of the period.

Where wages of less than $100 were paid to an individual in a 6-month period in 1937 commencing either January 1, 1937, or July 1, 1937, all of the wages are credited to the latter quarter in such period. There is an exception to this provision, however. Where the individual attained age 65 in any such period, then the wages are deemed to have been paid before such age was attained and are credited to the quarter in which the individual attained age 65.

Example 1: Employee A attained age 65 on February 5, 1937. He was paid wages of $86 for the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937. A has 1 quarter of coverage in 1937. Since the payment of $86 is deemed to have been paid prior to attainment of age 65, A is credited with $86 wages for the calendar quarter January 1, 1937, to March 31, 1937.

Example 2: Employee C attained age 65 on December 19, 1937. He was paid wages of $59 in the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937, and wages of $63 in the 6-month period commencing July 1, 1937. C has 2 quarters of coverage in 1937. $59 is deemed to have been paid in the latter quarter of the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937. $63 is deemed to have been paid in the quarter in which C attained age 65.

Example 3: Employee E attained age 65 on July 14, 1937. He was paid wages of $98 in the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937, and wages of $119 in the 6-month period commencing July 1, 1937. E has 3 quarters of coverage in 1937. E is credited with 1 quarter of coverage for the 6-month period commencing January 1, 1937. Since E received wages of $100 or more in a 6-month period in 1937, he is credited with 2 quarters of coverage for that period without regard for the date of attainment of age 65.

8. The words "see § 403.704 (c)" appearing in the second undesignated subparagraph of paragraph (c) of § 403.301 and in the second and third undesignated paragraphs of § 403.302 are deleted.

9. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.301 are amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

SECTION 209 (q)

[Section 410 of the act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 989)]

Subject to such limitation as may be prescribed by regulation, the Administrator shall determine (or upon application shall recompute) the amount of any monthly benefit as though application for such benefit (or for recomputation) had been filed in the calendar quarter in which, all other conditions of entitlement being met, an application for such benefit would have yielded the highest monthly rate of benefit. This subsection shall not authorize the payment of a benefit for any month for which no benefit would, apart from this subsection, be payable, or, in the case of recomputation of a benefit, of the recomputed benefit for any month prior to the month for which application for recomputation is filed.

10. Two new sections numbered 403.303 and 403.304, respectively, are added immediately following § 403.302 as follows:

§ 403.303 Computation of primary insurance benefit—(a) For living wage earner. The primary insurance benefit of a living wage earner is computed in accordance with the provisions of §§ 403.301 and 403.302 of this chapter:

(1) As of the date he becomes entitled to primary insurance benefits on filing application therefor, and

(2) As though he became entitled to primary insurance benefits on the last day of the quarter in which he could first have become entitled to primary insurance benefits, and

(3) As though he became entitled to primary insurance benefits on each intervening March 31 between the dates specified in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

The highest rate obtained from the foregoing computations is the wage earner's primary insurance benefit.

(b) When wage earner is dead. The primary insurance benefit of a deceased wage earner who is over 65 and fully insured at the time of his death is computed in accordance with the provisions of §§ 403.301 and 403.302:

(1) As of the date of the wage earner's death, and

(2) As though the wage earner became entitled to primary insurance benefits on the last day of the quarter in which he could first have become entitled to primary insurance benefits on filing application therefore, and

(3) As though the wage earner became entitled to primary insurance benefits on each intervening March 31 between the dates specified in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

The highest rate obtained from the foregoing computations is the deceased wage earner's primary insurance benefit.

The primary insurance benefit of a deceased wage earner who either was not 65 or was not fully insured at the time of his death is computed in accordance with the provisions of §§ 403.301 and 403.302 as of the date of the wage earner's death only.

§ 403.304 Recomputation of benefits—(a) When permitted—(1) For wage earner. In order for a wage earner to secure a recomputation of his primary insurance benefit:

(i) He must file application therefor, and

(ii) At the time of filing application for recomputation he must not be working in employment covered by the Social Security Act for wages of more than $14.99 per month, and

(iii) He must not have had a recomputation of his benefit rate in the 12-month period preceding his application for recomputation, except that the first recomputation may be had at any time subsequent to the initial computation.

(2) For survivors. Survivors may secure recomputation of the primary insurance benefit by filing application therefore at any time.

(b) Method of first recomputation—(1) For wage earner. The primary insurance benefit of a wage earner who applies for recomputation shall be recomputed in the manner provided for the computation of benefits in §§ 403.301 and 403.302 of this chapter:

(i) As though the wage earner became entitled to primary insurance benefits on the last day of the quarter in which he could first have become entitled to primary insurance benefits on filing application therefor, and

(ii) As though he became entitled to primary insurance benefits as of the first day after the last quarter for which wages have been posted to his account at the time he files application (provided however that if wages have not been posted for more than 6 months prior to the quarter of filing application, such wages will be developed for the period exceeding 6 months), and

(iii) As though he became entitled to primary insurance benefits on each March 31 intervening between the dates specified in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph.

The highest rate obtained from the foregoing computations if in excess of the individual's existing primary insurance benefit is the individual's recomputed primary insurance benefit.

(2) For survivors. The primary insurance benefit of a deceased wage earner shall be recomputed in the manner provided for the computation of benefits in §§ 403.301 and 403.302 of this chapter:

(i) As though the wage earner became entitled to primary insurance benefits on the last day of the quarter in which he could first have become entitled to primary insurance benefits on filing application therefor, and

(ii) As though he became entitled to primary insurance benefits on each intervening March 31 between the date mentioned in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph and the date of the wage earner's death.

The highest rate obtained from the foregoing computations if in excess of the individual's existing primary insurance benefit is the individual's recomputed primary insurance benefit.

(c) Second and subsequent recomputations. Second and subsequent recomputations will be made in the manner described in paragraph (b) of this section except that the primary insurance benefit will also be recomputed as though the wage earner became entitled to primary insurance benefits as of the date he filed his previous application for recomputation.

(d) Effect of recomputation. Benefits computed on the basis of a prior application or application for recomputation terminate with the month before the month in which the application for recomputation is filed if the recomputed benefit is higher, and benefits as recomputed are payable beginning with the month in which such application is filed. If, upon a second or subsequent recomputation (see paragraph (c) of this section), it is determined that the primary insurance benefit computed as of the date of the filing of application for the previous recomputation was higher than the amount of the benefit rate as previously computed or recomputed, the difference in the rate will be payable retroactively for the months elapsing since the date of application for the previous recomputation.

11. The statutory provision immediately preceding § 403.404 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 202 (c) OF THE ACT

(1) Every child (as defined in section 209 (k)) of an individual entitled to primary insurance benefits, or of an individual who died a fully or currently insured individual (as defined in section 209 (g) and (h)) after December 31, 1939, if such child (A) has filed application for child's insurance benefits, (B) at the time such application was filed was unmarried and had not attained the age of 18, and (C) was dependent upon such individual at the time such application was filed, or, if such individual has died, was dependent upon such individual at the time of such individual's death, shall be entitled to receive a child's insurance benefit for each month, beginning with the month in which such child becomes so entitled to such insurance benefits, and ending with the month immediately preceding the first month in which any of the following occurs: such child dies, marries, is [adopted] adopted (except for adoption by a stepparent, grandparent, aunt, or uncle subsequent to the death of such fully or currently insured individual), or attains the age of 18.

(2) Such child's insurance benefit for each month shall be equal to one-half of a primary insurance benefit of the individual with respect to whose wages the child is entitled to receive such benefit, except that, when there is more than one such individual such benefit shall be equal to one-half of whichever primary insurance benefit is greatest.

(3) A child shall be deemed dependent upon a father or adopting father, or to have been dependent upon such individual at the time of the death of such individual, unless, at the time of such death, or, if such individual was living, at the time such child's application for child's insurance benefits was filed, such individual was not living with or contributing to the support of such child and—

(A) such child is neither the legitimate nor adopted child of such individual, or

(B) such child had been adopted by some other individual, or

(C) such child [, at the time of such individual's death,] was living with and was chiefly supported by such child's stepfather.

(4) A child shall be deemed dependent upon a mother, adopting mother, or stepparent, or to have been dependent upon such individual at the time of the death of such individual, only if, at the time of such death, or, if such individual was living, at the time such child's application for child's insurance benefits was filed, no parent other than such individual was contributing to the support of such child and such child was not living with its father or adopting father. [As amended by section 402 of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 986). The words in italics were added and the words in brackets were deleted by the amendment.]

12. Section 403.404, paragraph (b), subparagraph (3), is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.404 Child's insurance benefits. • • •

(b) Duration of benefits. • • •

(3) The child is adopted by an individual other than the wage earner with respect to whose wages such child is entitled to benefits; except where the benefits are for or after August 1946, and the child is adopted by a stepparent, grandparent, aunt or uncle of the child subsequent to the death of such wage earner; or

13. Section 403.404, paragraph (d), is amended to read as follows:

(d) Dependency upon a father or adopting father—(1) Effect of 1946 amendment. The conditions under which a child who lives with and is supported by his stepfather is deemed dependent upon his natural or adopting father who does not contribute to the child's support, have been made the same whether such natural or adopting father is living or deceased. Under the 1939 Act, such a child generally was deemed dependent on the natural or adopting father if such father was a primary beneficiary. However, if such father died, the child was not deemed to be his dependent. Under the amendment, such a child is not deemed dependent in either case.

(2) When child is deemed dependent. A child who has filed application for child's insurance benefits based on the wages of a father or adopting father is deemed to have been dependent upon such individual at the time such application was filed, if such indivdual is then living, or if such individual has died, at the time of such individual's death, if, at such time, such individual was either living with or contributing to the support of the child.

Even though the father or adopting father was not living with or contributing to the support of the child at the time the child's application was filed, if such individual was then living, or at the time of such individual's death, the child is deemed to have been dependent upon such individual at such time if the child:

(i) Was either the legitimate or adopted child of such individual; and

(ii) Was not then the adopted child of some other individual; and

(iii) Was not living with and being chiefly supported by its stepfather.

Example: F and M, the parents of C, are divorced. M marries S. C is living with M and his stepfather S. K, an uncle, contributes $10 each month for the support of C. S provides C with a home, food and clothing valued at $20 each month. Since S is furnishing the major portion of C's support, C is being chiefly supported by S.

If F becomes entitled to primary insurance benefits or dies, and an application for child's insurance benefits is filed on behalf of C, C cannot become entitled to child's insurance benefits based on F's wage record, since F was not living with or contributing to the support of C and C was living with and being chiefly supported by S.

14. The statutory provision immediately preceding § 403.407 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 202 (f) OF THE ACT

(1) Every parent (as defined in this subsection) of an individual who died a fully insured individual after December 31, 1939, [leaving no widow and no unmarried surviving child under the age of eighteen,] if such individual did not leave a widow who meets the conditions in subsection (d) (1) (D) and (E) or an unmarried child under the age of eighteen deemed dependent on such individual under subsection (c) (3) or (4), and if such parent (A) has attained the age of sixty-five, (B) was [wholly] chiefly dependent upon and supported by such individual at the time of such individual's death and filed proof of such dependency and support within two years of such date of death, (C) has not married since such individual's death, (D) is not entitled to receive any other insurance benefits under this section, or is entitled to receive one or more of such benefits for a month, but the total for such month is less than one-half of a primary insurance benefit of such deceased individual, and (E) has filed application for parent's insurance benefits, shall be entitled to receive a parent's insurance benefit for each month, beginning with the month in which such parent becomes so entitled to such parent's insurance benefits and ending with the month immediately preceding the first month in which any of the following occurs: such parent dies, marries, or becomes entitled to receive for any month an insurance benefit or benefits (other than a benefit under this subsection) in a total amount equal to or exceeding one-half of a primary insurance benefit of such deceased individual.

(2) Such parent's insurance benefit for each month shall be equal to one-half of a primary insurance benefit of such deceased individual, except that, if such parent is entitled to receive an insurance benefit or benefits for any month (other than a benefit under this subsection), such parent's insurance benefit for such month shall be reduced by an amount equal to the total of such other benefit or benefits for such month. When there is more than one such individual with respect to whose wages the parent is entitled to receive a parent's insurance benefit for a month, such benefit shall be equal to one-half of whichever primary insurance benefit is greatest.

(3) As used in this subsection, the term "parent" means the mother or father of an individual, a stepparent of an individual by a marriage contracted before such individual attained the age of sixteen, or an adopting parent by whom an individual was adopted before he attained the age of sixteen. [As amended by section 403 of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 987). Applicable only to applications for benefits filed after December 31, 1946. The words in italics were added and the words in brackets were deleted by the amendment.]

15. Section 403.407, paragraph (a), is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.407 Parent's insurance benefits—(a) Conditions of entitlement: Effect of 1946 amendments. Section 403 of the 1946 amendments to the act, which is applicable in cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, provides that entitlement of a dependent parent will be prevented if there is a widow or child who could become entitled to monthly benefits by filing an application in the month in which the wage earner died or in any subsequent month. Under the act prior to the amendment, the mere survival of a widow or unmarried child under 18 prevents entitlement to parent's benefits even though such widow or child might fail to meet the qualifications for entitlement. The amendment also changes the dependency requirement from wholly dependent to chiefly dependent.

A parent is entitled to parent's insurance benefits if he:

(1) Is the parent (see § 403.833) of an individual who:

(i) Died after December 31, 1939; and

(ii) Was fully insured (see § 403.201) at the time of death; and

(iii) In cases of applications filed before January 1, 1947, was survived neither by a widow (see § 403.831) nor an unmarried child under the age of 18 (see paragraph (d) of this section) or

(iv) In cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, was survived neither by a widow (see § 403.831) nor an unmarried child under the age of 18 (see paragraph (d) of this section) who could on filing application therefor in the month the wage earner died or in any month thereafter become entitled to monthly benefits; and

(2) Has attained the age of 65 (see § 403.801); and

(3) In cases of applications filed before January 1, 1947, was wholly dependent upon and supported by, or in cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, was chiefly dependent upon and supported by (see paragraph (e) of this section) such individual at the time of such individual's death and except as otherwise provided in § 403.701 (j) has filed proof of such dependency and support within 2 years after the date of such death; and

(4) Has not married since the death of such individual; and

(5) Is not entitled to any other benefit or benefits under section 202 of the act (see §§ 403.402, 403.403, 403.405, and 403.406) in a total amount for any month which is equal to or in excess of one-half of the primary insurance benefit of such deceased individual; and

(6) Has filed an application (see § 403.701) for parent's insurance benefits.

One or more parents of a fully insured individual may become entitled to benefits hereunder.

Example: P, aged 66, is the parent of A. P has been chiefly dependent upon and supported by A for many years until A's death in December 1946. A was fully insured at the time of his death and was survived by a widow who was not living with him at the time of his death.

P, upon filing application after December 31, 1946, and meeting the other conditions of entitlement will be entitled to parent's insurance benefits based upon the wages of A.

16. The example in § 403.407, paragraph (c), is amended to read as follows:

(c) Rate of benefit. • • •

Example: P, aged 60, is the parent of A and B. P is chiefly dependent upon and supported by A during 1945; A dies in December of that year. P, is thereafter chiefly dependent upon and supported by B until B's death in 1947. Both A and B were fully insured at the time of their deaths and neither was survived by a widow or unmarried child under the age of 18. P, upon attaining age 65 in 1947 and meeting the other conditions of entitlement, will be entitled to parent's insurance benefits based upon the primary insurance benefit of A or B, whichever is the larger, since he was chiefly dependent upon and supported by A at A's death and chiefly dependent upon and supported by B at B's death.

17. Section 403.407, paragraph (e), is amended to read as follows:

(e) Wholly or chiefly dependent upon and supported by—(1) Effect of 1946 amendment. Section 403 of the 1946 amendments to the act, which is applicable to cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, changes the former requirement that the parent must have been "wholly" dependent upon and supported by the wage earner to "chiefly" dependent upon and supported by the wage earner.

(2) Wholly dependent. A parent is "wholly dependent upon and supported by" an individual if such parent is supported by such individual and

(i) Has no income or means of support other than the income or support received from such individual; or

(ii) Has only inconsequential income or means of support other than that received from such individual.

(3) Chiefly dependent. A parent is "chiefly dependent upon and supported by" an individual if such parent is dependent upon the individual and receives more than 50% of his maintenance from such individual.

18. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.408 are amended by inserting at the end thereof the following:

SECTION 404 OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 987)

(a) Section 202 (g) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

(g) Upon the death, after December 31, 1939, of an individual who died a fully or currently insured individual leaving no surviving widow, child, or parent who would, on filing application in the month in which such individual died, be entitled to a benefit for such month under subsection (c), (d), (e), or (f) of this section, an amount equal to six times a primary insurance benefit of such individual shall be paid in a lump sum to the person, if any, determined by the Administrator to be the widow or widower of the deceased and to have been living with the deceased at the time of death. If there is no such person, or if such person dies before receiving payment, then such amount shall be paid to any person or persons, equitably entitled thereto, to the extent and in the proportions that he or they shall have paid the expenses of burial of such insured individual. No payment shall be made to any person under this subsection, unless application therefor shall have been filed, by or on behalf of any such person (whether or not legally competent), prior to the expiration of two years after the date of death of such insured individual.

(b) The amendment made by subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable only in cases where the death of the insured individual occurs after December 31, 1946.

(c) In the case of any individual who, after December 6, 1941, and before the date of the enactment of this Act, died outside the United States (as defined in section 1101 (a) (2) of the Social Security Act, as amended), the two-year period prescribed by section 202 (g) of such Act for the filing of application for a lump-sum death payment shall not be deemed to have commenced until the date of enactment of this Act.

19. Section 403.408, paragraph (a), subparagraph (3), is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.408 Lump-sum death payments—(a) Conditions of entitlement. • • •

(3) An application (see § 403.701) for such lump sum has, except as otherwise provided in §§ 403.701 (g) and 403.701 (j), been filed within 2 years following the death of such individual.

20. Section 403.408, paragraph (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Persons entitled to receive payments—(1) Survivors of deceased—(i) Effect of 1946 amendments. Section 404 (a) of the 1946 amendments, which is applicable in cases where the wage earner dies after December 31, 1946, adds an additional requirement for the entitlement of a spouse to a lump sum by providing that such individual will be paid the lump sum only if he or she was living with (see §§ 403.834 and 403.835) the wage earner at the time of the wage earner's death. It also eliminates children (and individuals entitled to share with them as distributees of intestate property) and parents as beneficiaries of lump-sum death payments except where such persons may be equitably entitled (see § 403.408 (b) (2)) because of having paid the burial expenses. Thus, if no spouse is living with the wage earner at the time of his death, the lump sum will be paid to the person or persons equitably entitled thereto.

(ii) Survivors of individual who died prior to January 1, 1947. The following person or persons whose relationship to the deceased insured individual is determined by the Administration, and who are living at the time of such determination, are, in the order named, entitled to a lump sum under the conditions stated in paragraph (a) of this section:

(a) The widow or widower (see paragraph (d) (2) of this section) of such individual. If there is no such widow or widower, the lump sum is payable to

(b) The child or children (see paragraph (d) (2) of this section) of the deceased and any other person or persons who are, under the intestacy law of the State where the deceased was domiciled, entitled to share with such child or children in the distribution of intestate personal property of such deceased invidual. Persons entitled to share with such child or children are not precluded from receiving the lump sum by reason of the fact that no child survived such deceased individual or was living at the time of the Administration's determination of relationship. If there is no such child or other person, then the lump sum is payable to

(c) The parent or parents (see paragraph (d) (2) of this section) of the deceased.

(iii) Survivors of individual who died after December 31, 1946. The person who is determined by the Administration to be the widow or widower (see paragraph (d) (2) of this section) of the deceased insured individual and to have been living with (see §§ 403.834 and 403.835) such individual at the time of death is entitled to the lump sum under the conditions stated in paragraph (a) of this section.

21. Section 403.408, paragraph (b), subparagraph (2), is amended to read:

(2) Persons equitably entitled. If there is no such person as is described in the applicable subdivisions under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, or if such person dies before receiving payment, the lump sum will be payable to any person or persons equitably entitled thereto, to the extent and in the proportions that he or they shall have paid the burial expenses of the deceased insured individual.

Where an estate is a person equitably entitled, payment will be made to the legal representative of such estate. On and after June 18, 1946, when it appears reasonably certain that a legal representative has not been and will not be appointed, application may be filed and payment made on behalf of such estate in accordance with the following rules:

Where an individual paid part of the burial expenses and the balance was paid from funds belonging to the wage earner, the proportionate share of the lump sum due to the estate may be paid to reimburse such individual to the extent of his contribution, provided there are no outstanding debts for last illness expenses which under state law would be entitled to equal preference with or priority to claims for burial expenses.

Where burial expenses were paid in whole or in part from funds belonging to the wage earner, the entire lump sum or such part thereof as remains after fully reimbursing individuals who have paid part of the burial expenses, may be paid to a blood relative or brother or sister by adoption of the wage earner, provided, the wage earner left no unpaid debts, all of the readily available heirs consent to such payment, and the applicant promises to distribute the payment to the person or persons entitled thereto and to account therefor to a legal representative if any should be appointed.

Where an individual who has paid the wage earner's burial expenses dies before collecting the lump sum, payment may be made as in the case where the burial expenses were paid from funds belonging to the wage earner, except that the deceased individual's spouse may be preferred as payee on behalf of the estate in which event consent of the other heirs may be waived.

The term "person or persons equitably entitled" does not include, among others, any of the following:

(i) The United States Government or any wholly owned instrumentality thereof

(ii) Any person under contractual obligation to pay the burial expenses of the deceased, to the extent of such obligation.

(iii) Any person paying the expenses of the burial of a member or employee of such person, to the extent of any payment under a plan, system, or general practice.

(iv) Any person furnishing goods or services in connection with the burial of the deceased, to the extent that goods or services are furnished.

(v) Any person who has been, or will be, wholly or partially reimbursed, to the extent of such reimbursement.

22. The first paragraph of § 403.501 is amended to read:

§ 403.501 Moaification in amount of benefits and lump-sum death payments. Under certain conditions the amount of benefits and lump sums, as calculated under section 202 of the act, must be modified upward or downward in determining the amount actually to be paid to the beneficiary. The modifications in the amount calculated under section 202 of the act occur where (1) reductions or increases of benefits (other than primary insurance benefits) are required under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act, or (2) deductions from benefits or lump sums are required under section 203 (d), (e), (g), or (h) of the act or under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, or (3) adjustment is required under section 204 (a) of the act. Reductions under section 202 (h) of the act, as amended, and reductions and increases under section 203 (a) or (b) are always made before any deductions or adjustments are made under sections 203 (d), (e), (g), or (h) of the act, section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, or section 204 (a) of the act.

23. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.502 are amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

(a) Section 202 (h) of such act is amended to read as follows:

(h) • • • Any benefit for a month prior to the month in which application is filed shall be reduced, to any extent that may be necessary, so that it will not render erroneous any benefit which, before the filing of such application, the Administrator has certified for payment for such prior month.

(b) The amendment made by subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable only in cases of applications for benefits under this title filed after December 31, 1946.

24. Section 403.502, paragraph (b), is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.502 Reductions and increases of benefits. • • •

(b) Conditions requiring reduction and amount of reduction. Reductions are made when there are two or more benefits for a month based upon the wages of one individual, and when the total amount of such benefits for such month, as calculated under section 202 of the Act, is more than $20 and also exceeds one of the following amounts:

(1) $85, or

(2) Twice the primary insurance benefit of such individual, or

(3) 80 per centum of such individual's average monthly wage.

If these conditions exist each of such benefits (except a primary insurance benefit) must be proportionately reduced so that the total of the benefits will be the amount stated in subparagraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph, whichever is least. If, however, such least amount is under $20, the total is reduced only to $20.

Reductions are also made where application is filed after December 31, 1946, for any benefit (other than a primary insurance benefit) for any month prior to the month in which such application is filed (see § 403.701 (f)), where payment of benefits for any such prior month would result in an overpayment (see § 403.601). In such case the applicant's benefit for any month prior to the month in which such application is filed shall be reduced to the extent that may be necessary so that payment thereof will not render erroneous any benefit for such prior month which has been certified for payment before the filing of such application.

25. Section 403.502, paragraph (b), is further amended by adding thereto a new example 5 as follows:

Example 5: A widow, W, and two children, A and B, are entitled effective March 1947 to benefits totaling $47.25 based on a primary insurance benefit of $27. They are receiving benefits currently when an application on behalf of another child, C, is filed on August 28, 1947. C's benefits for May, June, and July will be reduced to $6.75 per month so that the maximum of $54 will not be exceeded. If C's benefits are not so reduced, appropriate adjustment must be made against benefits subsequently payable to him. Beginning with August, the benefit rates will be $18 for W and $12 for each child. If benefits for August or thereafter are paid W, A, and B at the former higher rate, appropriate adjustment must be made against their subequent benefits.

If, on August 28, 1947, no benefits for any of the 3 months prior to August had yet been certified for payment to W, A, and B, the benefits of C for any such month would not be subject to this reduction. In such case, if any payments should be made to W, A, and B at the higher rate, the overpayments would be adjusted against their subsequent benefits.

26. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.503 are amended by inserting between section 203 (d) and section 203 (e) of the act the following:

SECTION 406 (a) OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 988)

Section 203 (d) (2) of such Act (relating to deductions for failure to attend school) is repealed.

27. Section 403.503, paragraph (b), is amended to read:

§ 403.503 Deductions because of employment, etc. • • •

(b) Failure of child to attend school. With respect only to any month before August 1946, if a child under 18 and over 16 years of age fails, in any month for which he is entitled to a benefit, to attend school regularly, and the Administration finds that attendance was feasible, deductions are made from any benefit or benefits to which such child is or becomes entitled. The amount to be deducted is equal to the benefit to which such child was entitled for the month in which he failed to attend school regularly.

28. Section 403.503, paragraph (f), is amended to read:

(f) Relation to provisions for reductions and increases. In effecting a deduction, no amount can be considered as having been withheld from a benefit for a particular month, which is in excess of the amount of such benefit as reduced or increased (if required) under section 203 (a) or (b) of the Act or reduced under section 202 (h) of the act, as amended (see § 403.502). Likewise, the amount of a benefit by which a deduction is measured (i. e., a benefit for the month in which the event occasioning the deduction occurred) is the amount of such benefit as so reduced or increased. See example under paragraph (d) of this section.)

29. The statutory provision immediately preceding § 403.504 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 203 (g) OF THE ACT

Any individual in receipt of benefits subject to deduction under subsection (d) or (e) (or who is in receipt of such benefits on behalf of another individual), because of the occurrence of an event enumerated therein, shall report such occurrence to the Board prior to the receipt and acceptance of an insurance benefit for the second month following the month in which such event occurred. Any such individual having knowledge thereof, who fails to report any such occurrence, shall suffer an additional deduction equal to that imposed under subsection (d) or (e), except that the first additional deduction imposed by this subsection in the case of any individual shall not exceed an amount equal to one month's benefit even though the failure to report is with respect to more than one month. [As amended by section 406 (b) of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 988). The words in italics were added.]

30. The third paragraph of §403.504 is amended to read:

§ 403.504 Reports to the Administration of events occasioning deductions. • • •

The amount of an additional deduction required hereunder and the manner in which it is effected are the same as provided for deductions under section 203 (d) or (e) of the act on account of the event which such individual failed to report, except that the amount of the first additional deduction imposed against any individual shall not exceed an amount equal to one month's benefit even though the failure to report is with respect to more than one month.

31. Section 403.504 is further amended by amending the example thereunder to read as follows:

Example: H is entitled to receive a primary insurance benefit of $25 for each month and W, his wife, is entitled to a wife's insurance benefit of $12.50. H renders services for wages of not less than $15 in each of 2 months. If either H or W or any person in receipt of benefits on their behalf reported this fact to the Administration, within the time stated in this section, the deduction from H's benefits would be $50, and the deduction from W's benefits would be $25. No additional deduction would be imposed against either.

If neither H nor W nor any person in receipt of benefits on their behalf reported to the Administration as required, and an additional deduction had previously been imposed against them for a prior failure to report, the deduction would be $100 from his benefits and $50 from W's benefits.

If no additional deduction had previously been imposed against H or W, the deduction as to H would be $75 and as to W would be $37.50.

If an additional deduction had previously been imposed against H but not against W, the deduction as to H would be $100 and as to W would be $37.50.

32. The first paragraph of § 403.505 (d) is amended to read:

§ 403.505 Deductions because of lump-sum payments under original act and failure to pay taxes. • • •

(d) Relation to other provisions. Amounts to be deducted hereunder are measured by and are withheld from amounts of benefits as reduced or increased under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act, or as reduced under section 202 (h) of the act, as amended, as set forth in § 403.503 (f).

33. The first paragraph in § 403.601 is amended so as to read:

§ 403.601 Overpayments and underpayments. Subsection (a) of section 204 of the act provides for adjustments, as set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, in cases where an error has been made which results in an overpayment or underpayment to an individual under Title II of the act, including overpayments and underpayments prior to January 1, 1940. The provisions for adjustments also apply in cases where, through error, a reduction or increase required under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act, or a reduction under section 202 (h) of the act, as amended, or a deduction under section 203 (d), (e), or (h) of the act or under section 907 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, is not made, and where such a reduction, increase, or deduction is made which is either larger or smaller than required (see §§ 403.502 to 403.505, inclusive). The term "overpayment," as used herein, includes a payment where nothing was payable under Title II of the act. The term "underpayment," as used herein, includes n o n p a y m e n t where some amount was payable under that title.

34. Section 403.601, paragraph (c), is amended to read:

(c) Relation to provisions for reductions and increases. The amount of an overpayment or underpayment of a benefit is the difference between the amount paid to the beneficiary and the amount of such benefit as reduced or increased (if required) under section 203 (a) or (b) of the act or as reduced under section 202 (h) of the act, as amended (see § 403.502). Likewise, in effecting an adjustment with respect to an overpayment, no amount can be considered as having been withheld from a particular benefit, which is in excess of the amount of such benefit as so decreased.

35. The statutory provision from section 202 (h) of the act preceding § 403.701 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 202 (h) OF THE ACT

An individual who would have been entitled to a benefit under subsection (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) for any month had he filed application therefor prior to the end of such month, shall be entitled to such benefit for such month if he files application therefor prior to the end of the third month immediately succeeding such month. • • • [As amended by section 405 of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 987). The letter italicized was added. Applicable only to application for benefits filed after December 31, 1946.]

36. The statutory provisions preceding § 403.701 are further amended by inserting after section 202 (g) of the act and immediately preceding section 5 of the act approved August 13, 1940 (54 Stat. 785), the following:

SECTION 404 (c) OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 987)

In the case of any individual who, after December 6, 1941, and before the date of the enactment of this act, died outside the United States (as defined in section 1101 (a) (2) of the Social Security Act, as amended), the two-year period prescribed by section 202 (g) of such act for the filing of application for a lump-sum death payment shall not be deemed to have commenced until the date of enactment of this act.

37. The first paragraph in § 403.701 (f) is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.701 Filing of applications and other forms. • • •

(f) Time of filing applications for benefits. An application for benefits will be accepted as an application for the purposes of this title if it is filed not more than three months prior to the first month for which the applicant could become entitled to such benefits. An application filed at any time after the first month for which the applicant could have been entitled to benefits will be accepted as an application for benefits for the purposes of this title, beginning with any of the three months immediately preceding the month in which it is filed, except that an application for primary insurance benefits filed prior to January 1, 1947, will not be accepted as an application, for the purposes of this title, for any month preceding the month in which it is filed.

38. Section 403.701, paragraph (f), is further amended by deleting the last paragraph of subparagraph (2) and Example 4.

39. Section 403.701, paragraph (g), is amended to read as follows:

(g) Time of filing applications for lump sums. An application for a lump sum must be filed within 2 years after the date of the death of the individual upon the basis of whose wages such lump sum is claimed (see § 403.408 (a) (3)) with the following exceptions:

(1) As provided in paragraph (j) of this section; and

(2) Where the death of such individual occurred outside the United States after December 6, 1941, and before August 10, 1946, such applications may be filed up to and including August 9, 1948.

40. The heading of § 403.704 is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.704 Abandonment and withdrawal of applications and requests for wage-record revisions.

41. Section 403.704 is further amended by deleting therefrom paragraph (c) and the example following.

42. The statutory provisions preceding § 403.827 are amended by inserting at the end thereof the following:

SECTION 414 OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 990)

(a) So much of section 209 (a) of the Social Security Act, as amended, as precedes paragraph (3) thereof is amended to read as follows:

(a) The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

(1) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has been paid to an individual by an employer with respect to employment during any calendar year prior to 1940, is paid, prior to January 1, 1947, to such individual by such employer with respect to employment during such calendar year;

(2) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has been paid to an individual with respect to employment during any calendar year after 1939, is paid to such individual, prior to January 1, 1947, with respect to employment during such calendar year;

(3) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 with respect to employment has been paid to an individual during any calendar year after 1946, is paid to such individual during such calendar year;

(b) The paragraphs of section 209 (a) of such act heretofore designated "(3)", "(4)", "(5)", and "(6)" are redesignated "(4)", "(5)", "(6)", and "(7)", respectively.

43. Section 403.828, paragraph (a), subparagraph (1), is amended to read as follows:

44. Section 403.828, paragraph (a), subparagraph (2), is amended to read as follows:

(2) $3,000 limitation with respect to remuneration for employment during 1940 or thereafter. Under section 209 (a) (2) of the act, remuneration paid to an employee prior to January 1, 1947 (whether or not by one or more employers), for employment during any one calendar year after 1939 in excess of the first $3,000 paid to the employee, is excluded from "wages."

45. Section 403.828, paragraph (a), is amended by adding thereto a new subparagraph (3) with example as follows:

(3) $3,000 limitation with respect to remuneration paid in 1947 or thereafter for employment. Under section 209 (a) (3) of the act, remuneration paid to an employee after December 31, 1946 (whether or not by one or more employers), for employment in excess of the first $3,000 paid to the employee during any such calendar year is excluded from wages. Thus section 209 (a) (3) of the act excludes from wages such remuneration paid in any calendar year after 1946 which is in excess of the first $3,000 paid in such calendar year whether the remuneration is attributable to employment in such calendar year or to employment in prior calendar years subsequent to 1936.

Example: Employee A, in 1946, is paid $2,500 by employer B on account of $3,500 due him for employment during that year. In 1947 A is paid by B the balance of $1,000 due him for employment during the prior year (1946) and also $3,000 for employment during 1947. Of the total remuneration of $4,000 paid to A in 1947 only $3,000 (the maximum creditable) is included in wages.

46. The statutory reference in the first line of § 403.828 (b) is amended to read "section 209 (a) (4) of the act."

47. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.830 are amended to read as follows:

SECTION 209 (i) OF THE ACT

The term "wife" means the wife of an individual who either (1) is the mother of such individual's son or daughter, or (2) was married to him [prior to January 1, 1939, or if later, prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty] for a period of not less than thirty-six months immediately preceding the month in which her application is filed. [As amended by section 408 of the Act of August 10, 1946 (60 Stat. 988). Applicable only to applications for benefits filed after December 31, 1946. The words in italics were added and the words in brackets were deleted by the amendment.]

48. Section 403.830 and examples 1 and 2 are amended to read as follows:

§ 403.830 Definition of "wife." Section 408 of the 1946 amendments to the act, which is applicable in cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, eliminates the provision that a wife who is not the mother of the wage earner's son or daughter cannot qualify for wife's benefits unless she had been married to the wage earner before he attained age 60 or before January 1, 1939. The amendment permits a wife otherwise eligible for a wife's benefit to qualify after having been married to the wage earner for not less than 36 months immediately preceding the month in which her application is filed even though she is not the mother of the wage earner's son or daughter.

An individual is the "wife" of the wage earner as that term is used in Title II of the Act if she meets the following requirements:

(a) She is the wife of such wage earner, or has the same status as a wife, under applicable State law (see § 403.829); and

(b) She either

(1) Is the mother of the wage earner's son or daughter; or

(2) Only in cases of applications filed prior to January 1, 1947. Was married to such wage earner (became his wife or acquired the status as such, under applicable State law) (i) prior to January 1, 1939, or, if later (ii) prior to the date upon which he attained the age of sixty; or

(3) In cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946. Was married to such wage earner (was his wife or held the status as such under applicable State law) for a period of not less than 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which her application is filed.

An individual is the mother of a wage earner's son or daughter within the meaning of paragraph (b) (1) of this section if a son or daughter was born to her and such wage earner, even though such son or daughter died before a claim for benefits was filed which involved the determination of whether such individual is a "wife."

Example 1: H, at the age of 66, married W on November 5, 1943. W is a wife under applicable State law.

In February 1946 H became entitled to a primary insurance benefit. In February 1947 W attained age 65 and applied for wife's insurance benefits.

Because H was married to W for a period of 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which she filed her application and because W is a wife under applicable State law, she is the "wife" of H within the meaning of this section.

Example 2: H and W who had been married for many years and were the parents of an adult son were divorced in 1939.

They remarried in October 1945. W is the wife of H under applicable State law.

In January 1946 H became entitled to a primary insurance benefit. In March 1947 W attained age 65 and applied for wife's insurance benefits.

Although W had not been married to H for a period of 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which she filed her application, she is the "wife" of H within the meaning of this section because she is his wife under applicable State law and is the mother of his son.

49. The statutory provisions immediately preceding § 403.832 are amended by inserting at the end thereof the following:

SECTION 409 OF THE ACT OF AUGUST 10, 1946 (60 STAT. 988)

(a) Section 209 (k) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

(k) The term "child" means (1) the child of an individual, and (2) in the case of a living individual, a stepchild or adopted child who has been such stepchild or adopted child for thirty-six months immediately preceding the month in which application for child's benefits is filed, and (3) in the case of a deceased individual, a stepchild or adopted child who was such stepchild or adopted child for twelve months immediately preceding the month in which such individual died.

(b) The amendment made by subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable only in cases of applications for benefits under this title filed after December 31, 1946.

50. Section 403.832 is amended to read as follows:

§ 403.832 Definition of "child". Section 409 of the 1946 amendments to the act, which is applicable in cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946, changes the definition of stepchild and adopted child contained in the 1939 Act. This section eliminates the requirement that in order for a stepchild or adopted child to qualify for a child's benefits, the relationship between the child and the wage earner must have been created by a marriage or an adoption which took place before the wage earner attained age 60 and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which the wage earner died. The amendment permits a stepchild and an adopted child otherwise eligible for a child's benefit to qualify after the step-relationship or adoptive relationship has existed, where the wage earner is alive, for not less than 36 months immediately preceding the month in which application for child's benefits is filed; or where the wage earner is dead, for not less than 12 months immediately preceding the month in which the wage earner died.

An individual is a "child" as that term is used in Title II of the act (except as stated in § 403.408 (d) (2), under section 202 (g) of the act), if he meets the requirements under paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section:

(a) Children. A son or daughter (by blood) of a wage earner, who is the child of such wage earner or has the same status as a child, under applicable State law (see § 403.829), is the "child" of such wage earner.

Example: A child C was born out of wedlock to M. Under the law of the State where M was domiciled (applicable State law), C is the child of M. C is the "child" of M within the meaning of this section.

(b) Stepchildren—(1) Only in cases of applications filed prior to January 1, 1947. An individual who is the stepchild of a wage earner by virtue of a marriage valid under applicable State law, which was contracted prior to the date upon which the wage earner attained the age of 60 and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which the wage earner died, is a "child" of such wage earner.

Example: H and W, husband and wife, had a child C. H died. W then contracted a marriage with F, which was valid under the law of the State where she and F were domiciled (applicable State law). F was 35 at the time. Two years later F died. Under applicable State law a stepchild is not a child. C is nevertheless a "child" of F, since he was a stepchild of F by virtue of a marriage contracted prior to the date on which F attained the age of 60, and prior to the twelfth month before the month in which F died.

(2) In cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946. A stepchild of a wage earner is a "child" of such wage earner if the relationship was created by virtue of a marriage, valid under applicable State law, which was contracted:

(i) In the case of a living wage earner, at least 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which application for child's benefits is filed; or

(ii) In the case of a deceased wage earner, at least 12 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which such wage earner died.

Example: H and W, husband and wife, had a child C. H died. W then contracted a marriage with F on March 19, 1946, which was valid under the law of the State where she and F were domiciled (applicable State law). In April 1947, F dies. Under applicable State law a stepchild is not a child. C, is nevertheless, a "child" of F, since he was a stepchild of F by virtue of a marriage contracted at least 12 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which F died.

(c) Adopted children—(1) Only in cases of applications filed prior to January 1, 1947. An individual who was legally adopted by a wage earner in accordance with applicable State law, prior to the date upon which the wage earner attained the age of 60 and prior to the beginning of the twelfth month before the month in which the wage earner died, is a "child" of such wage earner.

Example: F, at the age of 55, legally adopted C, in accordance with applicable State law. Two years later F died. C is the "child" of F, since he was adopted in accordance with applicable State law prior to the date upon which F attained age 60, and prior to the twelfth month before the month in which F died. It is immaterial whether C is considered a child under applicable State law.

(2) In cases of applications filed after December 31, 1946. A child who was legally adopted by a wage earner in accordance with applicable State law is a "child" of such wage earner if the adoption which created the relationship occurred:

(i) In the case of a living wage earner, at least 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which application for child's benefits is filed; or

(ii) In the case of a deceased wage earner, at least 12 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which such wage earner died.

Example: F, at age 62, legally adopted C, age 6, on November 5, 1943, in accordance with applicable State law. In February 1947, F becomes entitled to primary insurance benefits and applies for child's benefits on behalf of C. C is the "child" of F, since he was adopted in accordance with applicable State law at least 36 calendar months immediately preceding the month in which application for child's benefits is filed.

51. The heading of § 403.834 is amended to read:

§ 403.834 Definition of "living with.": Wife or widow.

52. A new § 403.835 is added immediately following § 403.834 as follows:

§ 403.835 Definition of "living with.": Widower. A widower shall be deemed to have been living with his wife at the time of her death if at such time they were members of the same household (see § 403.834 (a)).

§ 803.1 Surplus building materials and equipment for the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and the Veterans Administration Construction Program.—(a) What this section provides. This section, Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 1, provides for channeling certain surplus building materials and equipment held by the War Assets Administration into the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and the Veterans Administration Construction Program. The materials and equipment will be used in the first program for the construction of low and moderate cost housing accommodations, in the second for the construction of veterans' hospitals and other facilities. This section is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

The materials listed at the end of this section are suitable for the construction of housing accommodations and are in short supply. These materials, referred to in this section as "building materials and equipment," are not now available in sufficient quantities from new production. Unless otherwise directed by the Housing Expediter or the Civilian Production Administration, any disposal of any of the building materials and equipment covered by this section which are held as surplus by WAA must be made subject to this section.

RESTRICTIONS ON DISPOSALS BY WAA

(b) Building materials and equipment covered by this section. This section applies only to the building materials and equipment listed at the end of this section. It applies whether the listed building materials and equipment are new or used, and includes building materials and equipment recovered or salvaged from dismantled surplus property, if the dismantling is done under WAA direction and not by the purchaser. (Sales of surplus structures for dismantlement or other removal by the purchaser are governed by Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 7.) As used in this section, the term "materials" includes items customarily referred to as "supplies."

(c) Agencies eligible during period prior to sale. During a period of time depending upon the type of building material or equipment and the method of sale and prior to the time any building materials or equipment covered by this section are first advertised or publicly offered for sale, such building materials or equipment may be transferred only to:

(1) The Veterans Administration for use in the Veterans Administration Construction Program.

(2) The Federal Public Housing Authority, to the extent directed by the Housing Expediter, for use under Title V of the act entitled "An Act to expedite the provision of housing in connection with the national defense, and for other purposes," approved October 14, 1940, as amended.

(3) Holders of unexpired Housing Expediter certificates (issued under Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 4), or unexpired CPA urgency certificates (issued under Direction 16 to CPA Priorities Regulation 13).

As between a request for transfer received during this period from FPHA or VA, and an order from a certificate holder, WAA shall give preference to that which is first received.

Some WAA disposals under this section are of building materials and equipment resulting from the dismantlement of surplus government installations, and are conducted at the location of the dismantling operation. At any such site, during the period described in this paragraph, total transfers to FPHA and VA of building materials and equipment covered by this section shall not exceed 50% of the dollar value of all such materials and equipment available for disposal at the site.

(d) Public advertisement. During a period of time determined by WAA, the building materials or equipment remaining at the end of the period described in paragraph (c) of this section shall be publicly advertised by WAA for disposal to:

(1) Priority groups described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4) of this section.

(2) Priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(3) Other buyers.

Such advertisement shall be addressed to as many of these priority groups, and other buyers, as WAA deems appropriate in view of the probable demand. The advertisement shall indicate that during a specified offering period orders will be filled in the order of preference provided for in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section.

In the case of building materials or equipment which are available in such small quantities that public advertisement would be impracticable, WAA may employ other forms of public offering.

During the advertising period (or other public offering) described in this paragraph, the Veterans Administration and Federal Public Housing Authority may not acquire any of the building materials or equipment covered by this section which are being offered for disposal.

(e) Offering period. During the offering period specified in the public advertisement (or other public offering) provided for in paragraph (d) of this section, WAA shall follow the order of preference set out below in disposing of any building materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) HEPR 4 certificates. Holders of unexpired Housing Expediter certificates, or unexpired CPA urgency certificates.

(2) HH and MM ratings. Persons who give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the War Assets Administration and the Housing Expediter, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that (1) he has been authorized to use an HH rating for the construction of housing accommodations, or for production of prefabricated housing, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program (or an MM rating for construction under the Veterans Administration Construction Program), (2) the following project or serial number(s) has (have) been assigned in connection with such construction or production: ----------, and (3) all the materials and equipment covered by this purchase order are required for and will be used in such construction or production.

(3) Construction permits for veterans' housing. Persons who give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the War Assets Administration and the Housing Expediter, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that (1) he has been issued a construction permit under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program for the construction of housing accommodations by a veteran for his own occupancy or to be sold or rented with preference to veterans (or he is employed as a contractor or subcontractor on such construction for which a VEHP construction permit has been issued), (2) the following VEHP project number(s) has (have) been assigned to such construction: ----------, and (3) all the materials and equipment covered by this purchase order are required for and will be used in such construction.

(4) Other construction permits. Persons who give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the War Assets Administration and the Housing Expediter, subject to the criminal penalties of Section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that (1) he has been issued a construction permit for the construction of housing accommodations under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program (or he is employed as a contractor or subcontractor on construction for which such a permit has been issued), (2) the following VEHP project number(s) has (have) been assigned to such construction: ----------, and (3) all the materials and equipment covered by this purchase order are required for and will be used in such construction.

(Signature)

(5) Surplus Property Act priority groups. Priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(6) Other buyers.

At dismantlement sales of the kind described in paragraph (c) of this section, the above order of preference shall be modified by combining groups (1) through (4) above into one priority group, and giving equal preference to members of all four groups.

During the offering period covered by this paragraph, the Federal Public Housing Authority and Veterans Administration may not acquire any of the building materials or equipment covered by this section which are being offered for disposal, until after the preferences of groups (1) through (4) of this paragraph have been satisfied.

(f) Order of preference within priority groups described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4). Within each priority group (1), (2), (3), or (4) of paragraph (e) of this section, WAA shall follow the order of preference set out below in filling orders for building materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) In order of receipt. Unless the Housing Expediter or WAA makes the determinations described in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, WAA shall accept and fill orders in the sequence in which they are received by WAA.

(2) By drawing of lots. If the Housing Expediter or WAA determines, before the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section begins, that:

(i) The amount of any building material or equipment covered by this section to be offered for disposal by WAA at a particular place will be inadequate to fill the expected orders from persons described in paragraph (e) (2) of this section (or from persons described in paragraph (e) (3) or (4) after the preceding preferences have been satisfied), and

(ii) The geographical distribution of such persons would work an unusual and inequitable hardship upon some of them if the "order of receipt" rule were applied as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph,

WAA shall then fill orders from such persons in a sequence determined by the drawing of lots.

(g) Surplus Property Act priority groups. During the period described in paragraph (c) of this section, any disposal by WAA of building materials or equipment covered by this section shall be made without regard to the priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended. In addition, during the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section, any disposal by WAA of building materials or equipment covered by this section to persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (4) shall be made without regard to the priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act. However, after the preferences of the persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (4) have been satisfied, WAA may dispose of the remainder of any lot of building materials or equipment in accordance with the Surplus Property Act and applicable regulations issued under that Act.

(h) Minimum and maximum quantities. During the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section, WAA may dispose of any materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) In such minimum quantities as WAA may determine.

(2) In such maximum quantities as WAA determines will be most equitable in view of the estimated demand for the particular building materials or equipment offered for disposal. However, if one or more purchase orders from persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (4) of this section remain partially unfilled at the end of the offering period, and if some of the particular building material or equipment covered by such orders remains undisposed of at the end of the offering period, WAA shall apply such material or equipment to the unfilled orders (in the order of preference provided for in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section).

(i) Other terms of disposal. During the periods described in paragraphs (c) and (e) of this section, WAA may dispose of any building materials or equipment covered by this section upon such terms and conditions as are not in conflict with this section.

RESTRICTIONS ON BUYERS

(j) Authorized quantities. The quantities of building materials or equipment obtained by use of the certificate described in paragraph (e) (2) of this section, together with the quantities obtained from other sources by use of the HH rating itself (or MM rating), must not exceed the quantities for which the use of the HH rating (or MM rating) was authorized.

(k) Use by persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (c) (4). As provided in HEPR 4, any person obtaining building materials or equipment by use of a Housing Expediter certificate may use the items only for the purpose for which the certificate was issued. Any person obtaining building materials or equipment by use of the certificate described in paragraph (e) (2), (3), or (4) of this section may use the items so obtained only in accordance with the terms of that certificate.

(l) Sales by persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4). If it becomes impossible for a person who acquired building materials or equipment by use of a Housing Expediter certificate to use them for the purpose for which the certificate was issued, they may be disposed of only as provided in HEPR 4. If it becomes impossible for a person who acquired building materials or equipment by use of the certificate described in paragraph (e) (2) (3), or (4) of this section to use all of them in accordance with the terms of that certificate, he must publicly offer for sale the unused building materials or equipment and must dispose of them only to persons who give a certificate as described in paragraphs (e) (2) through (4) of this section. In addition, he must not dispose of them even to such persons if he knows or has reason to believe, that they will be acquired, used, or disposed of in violation of this section.

(m) Sales by dealers. Any person who obtained building materials or equipment by use of the certificate formerly described in paragraph (e) (2) of this section (for regularly established sellers of building materials or equipment) must dispose of the building materials or equipment so obtained only in accordance with the terms of that certificate. In addition, he must not dispose of them even to persons eligible under the terms of the certificate if he knows, or has reason to believe, that they will be acquired, used, or disposed of in violation of this section.

OTHER PROVISIONS

(n) Effect of Housing Expediter and CPA directives. Directives issued by the Housing Expediter or the Civilian Production Administration shall take precedence over the disposal procedure outlined in this section. CPA directives shall take precedence over Housing Expediter directives.

(o) Appeals. Any person who considers that compliance with any provision in this section would result in an exceptional and unreasonable hardship on him may appeal for relief. An appeal shall be in the form of a letter in triplicate, addressed to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C., clearly stating the specific provision in the section appealed from and the grounds for claiming an exceptional and unreasonable hardship.

(p) Violations. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this section and any person who knowingly makes any statement to any department or agency of the United States, as to any matter within its jurisdiction, which is false in any respect, or who willfully conceals a material fact in any certificate required to be filed under this section, or who willfully falsifies any records required to be kept under this section, shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to fine or imprisonment or both, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946 and other applicable Federal Statutes. Any such person or any other person who violates any provision of this section may be prohibited from making or obtaining any further deliveries of, or from using, any materials or facilities suitable for housing construction, and may be deprived of priorities assistance for such materials or facilities.

(q) Reporting and record-keeping requirements. Each person or agency participating in any transaction to which this section is applicable shall complete and preserve, for at least two years after each such transaction, accurate and complete records of the details of the transaction. All persons affected by this section shall file such information and reports as may be required by the Housing Expediter (or person or agency authorized by him to make such requests), subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942. The record-keeping requirements of this section have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with that Act.

PURPOSE

§ 803.2 Surplus materials and equipment for utilities servicing the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and the Veterans Administration Construction Program—(a) What this section provides. This section, Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 2, provides for the channeling of certain surplus materials and equipment held by the War Assets Administration into the construction and maintenance of utilities (water, power, gas, or sewerage) which are necessary for housing accommodations constructed under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, and for hospitals and other facilities constructed under the Veterans Administration Construction Program. This section is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

The materials listed in the table at the end of this section are suitable for the construction of housing accommodations and are in short supply. These materials, referred to in this section as "materials and equipment," are not now available in sufficient quantities from new production. Unless otherwise directed by the Housing Expediter or the Civilian Production Administration, any disposal by War Assets Administration of any of these materials or equipment held as surplus by WAA must be made subject to this section. Under this section, first opportunity for acquiring such materials and equipment held as surplus property by WAA is given to persons and governmental agencies and instrumentalities acquiring for use in utilities for the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and the Veterans Administration Construction Program. Special provision is made for a utility or governmental agency or instrumentality to use materials or equipment purchased under this section, to meet a public emergency arising within six months after such purchase and endangering the health or safety of a community.

RESTRICTIONS ON DISPOSALS BY WAA

(b) Materials and equipment covered by this section. This section applies only to the materials and equipment listed at the end of this section. It applies whether the listed materials and equipment are new or used, and includes materials and equipment recovered or salvaged from dismantled surplus property, if the dismantling is done under WAA direction and not by the purchaser. (Sales of surplus utilities for removal by the purchaser are governed by Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 7.) As used in this section, the term "materials" includes items customarily referred to as "supplies."

(c) Agencies eligible during period prior to sale. During a period of time depending upon the type of material or equipment and the method of sale, and prior to the time any materials or equipment covered by this section are first advertised or publicly offered for sale, such materials or equipment may be transferred only to:

(1) The Veterans Administration for use in the Veterans Administration Construction Program.

(2) The Federal Public Housing Authority, to the extent directed by the Housing Expediter, for use under Title V of the Act entitled "An Act to expedite the provision of housing in connection with the national defense, and for other purposes," approved October 14, 1940, as amended.

(3) Holders of unexpired Housing Expediter certificates (issued under Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 4), or unexpired CPA urgency certificates (issued under Direction 16 to CPA Priorities Regulation 13).

As between a request for transfer received during this period from FPHA or VA, and an order from a certificate holder, WAA shall give preference to that which is first received.

Some WAA disposals under this section are of materials and equipment resulting from the dismantlement of surplus government installations, and are conducted at the location of the dismantling operation. At any such site, during the period described in this paragraph, total transfers to FPHA and VA of materials and equipment covered by this section shall not exceed 50% of the dollar value of all such materials and equipment available for disposal at the site.

(d) Public advertisement. During a period of time determined by WAA, the materials or equipment remaining at the end of the period described in paragraph (c) of this section shall be publicly advertised by WAA for disposal to:

(1) Priority groups described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4) of this section.

(2) Priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(3) Other buyers.

Such advertisement shall be addressed to as many of these priority groups, and other buyers, as WAA deems appropriate in view of the probable demand. The advertisement shall indicate that during a specified offering period orders will be filled in the order of preference provided for in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section.

In the case of materials or equipment which are available in such small quantities that public advertisement would be impracticable, WAA may employ other forms of public offering.

During the advertising period (or other public offering) described in this paragraph, the Veterans Administration and Federal Public Housing Authority may not acquire any of the materials or equipment covered by this section which are being offered for disposal.

(e) Offering period. During the offering period specified in the public advertisement (or other public offering) provided for in paragraph (d) of this section, WAA shall follow the order of preference set out below in disposing of any materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) Holders of unexpired Housing Expediter certificates, or unexpired CPA urgency certificates.

(2) State or local governmental agencies or instrumentalities that give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the War Assets Administration and the Housing Expediter, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that all the usable materials and equipment covered by this purchase order (1) are required for construction or maintenance of utilities (water, power, gas, sewerage) necessary to service housing accommodations the construction of which has been authorized, prior to the date of this certificate, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program (or construction for which priorities assistance has been assigned under the Veterans Administration Construction Program), and (2) will be used within six months from the date of this order (i) in the construction or maintenance of such utilities, (ii) in replacing equivalent materials which will be used in the construction or maintenance of such utilities, or (iii) for the repair of an essential utility servicing other housing accommodations, if necessary to meet a public emergency in connection with such utility which endangers the health or safety of a community, but not for normal maintenance, repair, or operation of such utility.

Signature

(3) Publicly or privately owned utilities that give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the form set out in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(4) Contractors, subcontractors, or builders who give with their purchase orders a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the War Assets Administration and the Housing Expediter, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that all the usable materials and equipment covered by this purchase order are required for and within six months of the date of this purchase order will be used in construction or maintenance of utilities (water, power, gas, sewerage) necessary to service housing accommodations the construction of which has been authorized, prior to the date of this certificate, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, or construction for which priorities assistance has been assigned under the Veterans Administration Construction Program.

Signature

(5) Priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(6) Other buyers.

At dismantlement sales of the kind described in paragraph (c) of this section, the above order of preference shall be modified by combining groups (1) through (4) above into one priority group, and giving equal preference to members of all four groups.

During the offering period covered by this paragraph, the Federal Public Housing Authority and Veterans Administration may not acquire any of the materials or equipment covered by this section which are being offered for disposal, until after the preferences of groups (1) through (4) of this paragraph have been satisfied.

(f) Order of preference within priority groups described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4). Within each priority group (1), (2), (3), or (4) of paragraph (e) of this section, WAA shall follow the order of preference set out below in filling orders for materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) In order of receipt. Unless the Housing Expediter or WAA makes the determinations described in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, WAA shall accept and fill orders in the sequence in which they are received by WAA.

(2) By drawing of lots. If the Housing Expediter or WAA determines, before the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section begins, that:

(i) The amount of any material or equipment covered by this section to be offered for disposal by WAA at a particular place will be inadequate to fill the expected orders from persons, agencies and instrumentalities described in paragraph (e) (2) of this section (or from persons, agencies, and instrumentalities described in paragraph (e) (3) or (4) after the preceding preferences have been satisfied), and

(ii) The geographical distribution of such persons, agencies and instrumentalities would work an unusual and inequitable hardship upon some of them if the "order of receipt" rule were applied as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph,

WAA shall then fill orders from such persons in a sequence determined by the drawing of lots.

(g) Surplus Property Act priority groups. During the period described in paragraph (c) of this section, any disposal by WAA of materials or equipment covered by this section shall be made without regard to the priority groups established by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended. In addition, during the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section, any disposal by WAA of materials or equipment covered by this section to persons, agencies or instrumentalities described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4) of this section shall be made without regard to the priority groups established in the Surplus Property Act. However, after the preferences of such persons, agencies and instrumentalities have been satisfied, WAA may dispose of the remainder of any lot of materials or equipment in accordance with the Surplus Property Act and applicable regulations issued under that Act.

(h) Minimum and maximum quantities. During the offering period described in paragraph (e) of this section, WAA may dispose of any materials or equipment covered by this section:

(1) In such minimum quantities as WAA may determine.

(2) In such maximum quantities as WAA determines will be most equitable in view of the estimated demand for the particular materials or equipment offered for disposal. However, if one or more purchase orders from persons described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4) of this section remain partially unfilled at the end of the offering period, and if some of the particular material or equipment covered by such orders remains undisposed of at the end of the offering period, WAA shall apply such material or equipment to the unfilled orders (in the order of preference provided for in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section).

(i) Other terms of disposal. During the offering periods described in paragraphs (c) and (e) of this section, WAA may dispose of any materials or equipment covered by this section upon such other terms and conditions as are not in conflict with this section.

RESTRICTIONS ON BUYERS

(j) Use by persons, agencies, or instrumentalities described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4). As provided in HEPR 4, any person or governmental agency or instrumentality obtaining materials or equipment by use of a Housing Expediter certificate may use the items only for the purpose for which the certificate was issued. Any person, agency, or instrumentality obtaining materials or equipment by use of the certificate described in paragraph (e) (2), (e) (3), or (e) (4) of this section may use the materials or equipment so obtained only in accordance with the terms of that certificate.

(k) Sales by persons, agencies or instrumentalities described in paragraphs (e) (1) through (e) (4). If it becomes impossible for a person, agency or instrumentality who acquired materials or equipment by use of a Housing Expediter certificate to use them for the purpose for which the certificate was issued, the items may be disposed of only as provided in HEPR 4. If it becomes impossible for a person, agency, or instrumentality who acquired usable materials or equipment by use of the certificate described in paragraph (e) (2), (3), or (4) of this section to use all of them in accordance with terms of that certificate, he must publicly offer for sale such unused materials or equipment and must dispose of them only to a person or governmental agency or instrumentality as described in paragraphs (e) (2) through (e) (4) of this section. In addition, he must not dispose of them even to such persons, agencies, or instrumentalities if he knows, or has reason to believe, that they will be acquired, used, or disposed of in violation of this section.

OTHER PROVISIONS

(l) Effect of Housing Expediter and CPA directives. Directives issued by the Housing Expediter or the Civilian Production Administration shall take precedence over the disposal procedure outlined in this section. CPA directives shall take precedence over Housing Expediter directives.

(m) Appeals. Any person who considers that compliance with any provisions of this section would result in an exceptional and unreasonable hardship on him may appeal for relief. An appeal shall be in the form of a letter in triplicate, addressed to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C., clearly stating the specific provision of the section appealed from and the grounds for claiming an exceptional and unreasonable hardship.

(n) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this section or who knowingly makes any statement to the Housing Expediter or the War Assets Administration, as to any matter within their respective jurisdictions, which is false in any respect, or who willfully conceals a material fact in any certificate required to be executed under this section, or who wilfully falsifies any records required to be kept under this section, shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to fine or imprisonment or both, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946 and other applicable federal statutes. Any such person or any other person who violates any provision of this section may be prohibited from making or obtaining any further deliveries of, or from using, any materials or facilities suitable for housing construction, and may be deprived of priorities assistance for such materials or facilities.

(o) Reporting and record-keeping requirements. Each person or agency participating in any transaction to which this section is applicable shall complete and preserve, for at least two years after each such transaction, accurate and complete records of the details of the transaction. All persons affected by this section shall file such information and reports as may be required by the Housing Expediter (or any person or agency authorized by him to make such requests), subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942. The record-keeping requirements of this section have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with that Act.

PURPOSE

§ 803.4 Housing Expediter certificates and directives for surplus materials and equipment—(a) What this section provides. This section, Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 4, explains how special assistance, in the form of Housing Expediter certificates, will be extended to qualified persons in obtaining from War Assets Administration surplus materials or equipment which are needed for construction or production under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

The Housing Expediter certificates issued under this section provide the holders with a preference in acquiring from WAA the materials and equipment listed in the certificate. They are good only for government property declared surplus to WAA. Prior to January 16, 1947, Housing Expediter certificates could be used only to obtain surplus property which had not yet been publicly advertised for sale by WAA. These certificates may now be used, as provided in this section, to obtain either unadvertised or advertised surplus.

This section explains: (1) How applications for such certificates should be filed. (2) The standards for approval of applications. (3) How certificates are issued. (4) Effect of certificates.

It also tells how, in unusual cases, Housing Expediter directives may be issued for materials or equipment for use in the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

DEFINITIONS

(b) Definitions. For the purpose of this section:

(1) An "industrially-made house, section or panel" is one which is made in a factory or, in the case of concrete, precast either in a factory or on the building site. The term does not include house trailers.

(2) A "critical product" is one which the Housing Expediter has determined to be in such tight supply that the shortage of the product presents a serious threat to the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program. All such products are listed in the table at the end of this section.

(3) "New type building material" means any building material which possesses some characteristics (such as composition, application, or design) different from existing conventional types of building materials.

(4) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, or any other organized group of persons (whether incorporated or not), or any federal, state or local government, or agency, instrumentality or subdivision thereof.

(5) "VEHP" means the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

(6) "MRO" means maintenance, repair, or operating supplies (including spare and replacement parts).

(7) "CPA urgency certificate" means a certificate issued under Direction 16 to Civilian Production Administration Priorities Regulation 13.

(8) "WAA" means the War Assets Administration.

(9) "OHE" means the Office of the Housing Expediter.

(10) "This section" or "HEPR 4" means Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 4.

MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT COVERED

(c) Types of materials and equipment. A Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for the following types of materials and equipment, if they are in short supply:

(1) Production materials which are to be incorporated directly into a product.

(2) Construction materials (building materials, supplies and equipment), including the items listed in HEPR 1 and 2 and other items in short supply.

(3) Capital equipment to be used for construction, production, or services.

(4) MRO.

NOTE: The table of "critical products" at the end of this section is not a list of the materials and equipment for which certificates will be issued under this section. It is to be used only in determining who is eligible under paragraph (l) of this section.

(d) WAA stocks covered. This section covers all materials and equipment of the types described in paragraph (c) of this section which are held by WAA as government-owned surplus.

APPLICATIONS FOR HOUSING EXPEDITER CERTIFICATES

(e) Filing of applications. Applications under this section should be filed as follows:

(1) Certificates. Applications for Housing Expediter certificates should be made in duplicate on Form OHE 14-82. Copies of this form may be obtained from the offices of the Regional Housing Expediters and Locality Housing Expediters. All applications should be addressed to the Regional Housing Expediter of the Region in which the applicant's place of business is located. Applications filed under paragraph (m) or (n) of this section will be forwarded by the Regional Expediter, with his recommendations, to the Housing Expediter, Washington, D. C.

(2) Renewals. If the holder of a Housing Expediter certificate is unable to obtain the materials or equipment covered by the certificate within 15 days before it expires, he may apply for a renewal to the office which issued the certificate. He should apply by letter, and include a certification in substantially the following form:

> The undersigned hereby certifies, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that the information and statements contained in his application dated ---------- for a Housing Expediter certificate are true, to the best of his knowledge and belief, as of the date of this letter. He also certifies that the items covered by certificate No. ------ issued upon that application are still needed and will be used in the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, in accordance with that application and Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 4.

(f) Consideration of applications. Applications for Housing Expediter certificates, and for renewals of such certificates, will be considered for approval in the following way:

(1) Qualified applications. An application will be considered qualified if it is properly completed and meets the standards for approval described in paragraphs (h) through (n) of this section.

(2) Veterans' set-aside list. A Housing Expediter certificate covering an item on the WAA veterans' set-aside list will be issued only if the applicant is a veteran who holds a WAA veterans' certificate (Form 63, 73, or 1127) for the same item.

(3) Inventory restriction. An application will not be approved which calls for more production materials or operating supplies than the applicant requires to meet his scheduled operations during the 60 days immediately following the date of his application, less the amount he has on hand and expects to receive from other sources during that period.

(g) Issuance of certificates. Housing Expediter certificates, and renewals of such certificates, will be issued in the following way on approved applications:

(1) Applications under paragraphs (i) through (l). If the application is approved, the Regional Housing Expediter will issue a Housing Expediter certificate covering the required materials or equipment. The original will be forwarded to the applicant. A duplicate and triplicate will be forwarded to the appropriate WAA Zone Office.

(2) Applications under paragraphs (m) and (n). When an application is forwarded to the Housing Expediter (see paragraph (e) of this section), he will consider it for approval and issue a Housing Expediter certificate upon a qualified application in the same manner as described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) Renewals. Applications for renewals will be handled in the same way as original applications. If a renewal application is approved, the certificate holder's copy will be marked to indicate this, and a "renewal notice" will be sent to the appropriate WAA Office.

GENERAL CONDITIONS FOR APPROVAL

(h) General conditions for approval of applications. It is not the general policy of the Housing Expediter to channel government surplus materials and equipment to the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program through Housing Expediter certificates. Housing Expediter Priorities Regulations 1 and 2 are designed to channel into the VEHP, on a self-certifying basis, certain materials and equipment listed in those regulations. Except for the equipment listed in paragraph (o) (5) of this section, all materials and equipment not specifically listed in either HEPR 1 or 2 are normally disposed of in accordance with the Surplus Property Act and applicable regulations issued under that Act.

There are circumstances, however, which this regulation is designed to cover, under which Housing Expediter certificates will be issued. These circumstances include certain general conditions which must be met by the applicant. They are as follows:

(1) It must be determined by the Housing Expediter that the applicant's proposed use of the surplus materials or equipment requested will make a substantial contribution to the VEHP.

(2) The applicant must show that he has been unable to get the materials or equipment as soon as he needs them from sources other than government-owned surplus.

(3) In the case of construction equipment, the applicant must show that he has been unable to procure contractual services as soon as he needs them to carry out the work for which the construction equipment is required.

(4) The applicant must purchase the materials or equipment for use and not for resale, except in the case of established service and maintenance organizations who supply both parts and services to producers of any of the critical products listed at the end of this section.

In addition to the general conditions of this paragraph, an applicant must also meet one of the six special conditions described in one of the paragraphs (i) through (n) of this section.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS FOR APPROVAL

(i) Continuous use of construction equipment for VEHP. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of construction equipment which is in short supply if:

(1) The applicant is a builder; building contractor; building subcontractor; erector of industrially-made houses, sections or panels; or a publicly or privately owned utility (water, power, gas, sewerage); and

(2) The Housing Expediter finds that the applicant is likely to make substantially continuous use of the equipment in support of the VEHP.

(j) To avoid serious delays in VEHP. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of production material, construction material, capital equipment, or MRO, if:

(1) The applicant is a builder; building contractor; building subcontractor; erector of industrially made houses, sections or panels; or a publicly or privately owned utility (water, power, gas, sewerage); and

(2) The Housing Expediter finds the item to be in such short supply that if it is not made available from surplus it will delay for a substantial period of time the construction of a large number of housing accommodations which have been partially completed under the VEHP. (If an applicant under this paragraph is a utility, it is not necessary that the housing accommodations be partially completed.)

(k) Industrially made houses, sections or panels. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of production material, construction material, capital equipment, or MRO which is in short supply and is needed by a producer of industrially-made houses, sections, or panels as defined in paragraph (b) (1) of this section.

(l) Critical products. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of production material, construction material, capital equipment, or MRO which is in short supply and is needed by:

(1) A producer of a "critical product" that is listed in the table at the end of this section. (For the definition of "critical product" see paragraph (b) (2) of this section.) It should be emphasized that it is the materials or equipment needed to produce the critical product, rather than the critical product itself, for which a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued under this paragraph.

(2) A person who will use the item to provide a necessary service to a producer of a "critical product," such as a road building contractor providing access roads for a producer of logs.

(3) A person who will use the item to produce production materials or MRO needed by a producer of a "critical product." In order for an applicant to be eligible under this subparagraph, a very high proportion of his output of such production materials or MRO must be sold to producers of "critical products." An example of a person eligible under this subparagraph is a producer of molding sand to be sold to producers of cast iron soil pipe.

(m) New type building materials. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of production material, construction material, capital equipment, or MRO which is in short supply and is needed by a producer of a "new type building material" which has been approved by the Housing Expediter for use in the VEHP.

(n) Basic materials. If the general conditions in paragraph (h) of this section are met, a Housing Expediter certificate may be issued for an item of production material, construction material, capital equipment, or MRO which is in short supply and is needed by a Federal, State, or local governmental agency or instrumentality or persons under contract with such agency or instrumentality for use in a specific program established by the Expediter (in cooperation with the applicant agency or instrumentality) to increase the production of a basic material, such as logs, for the VEHP.

EFFECT OF HOUSING EXPEDITER CERTIFICATES

(o) Effect of Housing Expediter certificates. WAA shall give the following effect to Housing Expediter certificates:

(1) Valid for 60 days. A Housing Expediter certificate shall be valid for 60 days after its date of issuance, and for an additional 60 days if it is renewed.

(2) Search by WAA. Each WAA Zone Office, upon receiving a copy of a Housing Expediter certificate, shall determine promptly whether the materials or equipment described in the certificate are in WAA stocks located within the WAA Zone. However, no such search need be made for items covered by HEPR 1 or 2.

(3) Methods of disposal. If the WAA Zone Office locates the materials or equipment covered by the Housing Expediter certificate, the items shall be disposed of by one of the following methods, as determined by the WAA Zone Administrator:

(i) Through sale by notification (prior to public advertisement) to holders of Housing Expediter certificates and CPA urgency certificates.

(ii) By transfer (prior to public advertisement) to the Federal Public Housing Authority for use under Title V of the Lanham Act, as amended; or to the Veterans Administration for use in the Veterans Administration Construction Program.

(iii) By publicly advertised sale to Housing Expediter certificate holders, CPA urgency certificate holders, and others.

Unless otherwise directed by CPA or the Housing Expediter, disposal must be by one of these three methods.

(4) Order of preference before advertising. In disposing of any of the materials or equipment covered by this section before they have been publicly advertised, each WAA Regional Office shall honor whichever of the following two is received first:

(i) An order from a certificate holder.

(ii) A request for transfer from the Federal Public Housing Authority or the Veterans Administration.

(5) Public advertisement. Before any of the following equipment is disposed of by WAA (other than as described in subparagraphs (3) (i) and (ii) of this paragraph, or upon a Housing Expediter or CPA directive), they shall be publicly advertised by the WAA Regional Office as provided in this subparagraph:

Attachments disposed of separately from cranes: boom, crane, dragline, clamshell, shovel, piledriver, backhoe, or trenchhoe attachments.
Attachments disposed of separately from tractors: bulldozer, angledozer, power control unit, hydraulic pumps, towing winch, loader, or hoists.
Batching plants.
Cranes: Truck mounted and crawler-type of $\frac{3}{8}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{3}{4}$, $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$, $1\frac{3}{4}$ to 2, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ cubic yard capacity. Equipped with shovel, dragline, backhoe, and other types of front ends.
Ditching machines.
Motor graders.
Portable air compressors from 105 c. f. m. to 500 c. f. m. inclusive.
Rock crushers, 35 tons per hour or under.
Straddle-lift trucks.
Tractors (track laying) and front-end loaders.
Tractor type scrapers.
Wheel tractors 100 h. p. or over.

In such advertisements, WAA shall indicate that preference will be given, as provided in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph, to holders of Housing Expediter certificates and CPA urgency certificate holders.

(6) Order of preference after advertising for construction equipment and trucks. This subparagraph applies to the equipment listed in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph, and to all trucks listed on the WAA veterans' set-aside list. Unless otherwise directed by CPA or the Housing Expediter, in disposing of any such items in a publicly advertised sale, each WAA Regional Office shall give preference to the following priority groups, in the order indicated, over all other persons:

(i) Holders of both an unexpired Housing Expediter certificate or CPA urgency certificate, and a WAA veterans' certificate (Form 63, 73, or 1127), for the same item. Within this priority group, certificates shall be honored in the order in which they are presented during the preference period established for them by the public advertisement.

(ii) Holders of an unexpired Housing Expediter certificate or CPA urgency certificate. Within this priority group, certificates shall be honored in the same order as in priority group (i).

[Former paragraph (o) (7) redesignated as (o) (9), and new paragraphs (o) (7) and (o) (8) added January 27, 1947]

(7) Order of preference after advertising for other items. This subparagraph applies to all other materials and equipment covered by this section. Unless otherwise directed by CPA or the Housing Expediter, in disposing of any such items in a publicly advertised sale, each WAA Regional Office shall give preference, over all other persons, to holders of an unexpired Housing Expediter certificate or CPA urgency certificate. Within this priority group, certificates shall be honored in the order in which they are presented during the preference period established for them by the public advertisement.

(The only exception to this rule is disposals under HEPR 1 or 2 of materials or equipment resulting from dismantlement (under WAA direction) of surplus government installations, if the sale is conducted at the location of the dismantling operation. Such a sale is excepted from this subparagraph, and is subject instead to a special rule explained in HEPR 1 and 2.)

(8) Preference period. WAA public advertisements establish a preference period of a certain number of days during which certificate holders must present their orders or bids. After a particular lot of materials or equipment covered by this section has been publicly advertised by WAA to certificate holders, and their preference period established by the advertisement has expired, the certificate holders shall have no further preference under this section in any later offerings of the same lot of materials or equipment.

(9) Terms of sale. WAA may make disposals under this section upon such terms and conditions as are not in conflict with this section or the Housing Expediter certificate upon which the disposal is made.

USE OF HOUSING EXPEDITER CERTIFICATES

(p) How to use a Housing Expediter certificate. The following are the rules governing the use of Housing Expediter certificates:

(1) Sales by notification prior to public advertisement. If WAA notifies a certificate holder that the materials or equipment described in his certificate are available for disposal, the holder shall, within the time specified in the notification, present his copy of the certificate and his written order as required by WAA, together with adequate identification, to the WAA office designated in the notification. (See paragraph (o) (3) (i) of this section on sales by notification.)

(2) Publicly advertised sales. The holder of a Housing Expediter certificate should watch for public advertisements of WAA sales, wherever located, of any materials and equipment covered by his certificate. The certificate holder should submit his order or bid in accordance with the terms of the advertised sale, noting on his order or bid that he holds a Housing Expediter certificate for the items covered by his order. Since preference among certificate holders in paragraphs (o) (6) (i) or (ii) and (o) (7) of this section will be on a first-come, first-served basis, promptness in placing orders of bids is important.

[Former paragraphs (p) (3) and (p) (4) redesignated as (p) (4) and (p) (5), and new paragraph (p) (3) added January 27, 1947]

(3) Sales marked on certificate. If some of the items covered by a Housing Expediter certificate are sold to the holder, his certificate will be marked to indicate this by striking out these items, and he may retain the certificate. If all items are sold to the holder, he must surrender his copy of the certificate to WAA.

(4) Not transferable. A Housing Expediter certificate may be used only by the person named in it, and any rights conferred by it on that person may not be transferred.

(5) No copies to be made. No person shall make, or have made, a photostatic copy or other facsimile of a Housing Expediter certificate.

HOUSING EXPEDITER DIRECTIVES

(q) Issuance of Housing Expediter directives. In addition to Housing Expediter certificates, Housing Expediter directives may be issued covering government-owned surplus needed in the VEHP. The following rules govern the issuance of such directives:

(1) Housing Expediter directives may be issued if (i) the location of the items involved is known, and (ii) because of special circumstances, disposal under HEPR 1 or 2 or issuance of a certificate would not adequately meet the needs of the VEHP.

(2) Housing Expediter directives covering materials or equipment already publicly advertised or publicly offered for sale will, in general, be issued only if very extreme and unusual circumstances present such a serious threat to the VEHP that in the judgment of the Housing Expediter the action is mandatory.

(3) Application for a Housing Expediter directive should be made by letter to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C.

(r) Effect of Housing Expediter and CPA directives. Housing Expediter directives and CPA directives shall take precedence over Housing Expediter certificates. CPA directives shall take precedence over Housing Expediter directives.

RESTRICTIONS ON BUYERS

(s) Use of materials or equipment obtained with Housing Expediter certificate or directive. Any material or equipment obtained from WAA by the use of a Housing Expediter certificate or directive may be used only for the purpose for which the certificate or directive was issued.

(t) Sale of materials or equipment obtained with Housing Expediter certificate or directive. If it becomes impossible for a person who obtained materials or equipment under this section to use them for the purposes for which the Housing Expediter certificate or directive was issued, the unused materials or equipment may be disposed of only on authorization in writing by the Housing Expediter upon the basis of a letter from the person explaining the situation, and plans for disposal, if any. In general, disposal will be authorized only for purposes which would qualify for a Housing Expediter certificate under this section.

OTHER PROVISIONS

(u) Appeals. Any person who considers that compliance with any provision of this section would result in an exceptional and unreasonable hardship on him may appeal for relief. In addition, any person affected by action taken under this section which was based on an interpretation of the section which he considers to be incorrect may file an appeal. An appeal shall be in the form of a letter in triplicate, addressed to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C. The letter must state clearly the specific provision of the section appealed from and the grounds for claiming an exceptional and unreasonable hardship, or the specific action appealed from, as the case may be.

(v) Exceptions. In a very limited number of cases, an exception to the provisions of this section may be granted by the Housing Expediter so that a certificate may be issued for materials or equipment to be used in the VEHP, even though the applicant does not meet all the conditions of eligibility of the section. Any person who considers that the facts of his case are unusual enough to warrant the granting of such an exception should file his application with the Regional Housing Expediter of the Region where his place of business is located. The application will be forwarded by the Regional Expediter, with his recommendations, to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C.

(w) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this section or who knowingly makes any statement to the Housing Expediter or the WAA, as to any matter within their respective jurisdictions, which is false in any respect, or who wilfully conceals a material fact in any certification required to be executed under this section, or who wilfully falsifies any records to be kept under this section, shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to fine or imprisonment, or both, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946 and other applicable Federal Statutes. Any such person or any other person who violates any provisions of this section may be prohibited from making or obtaining any further deliveries of, or from using any materials or facilities suitable for housing construction, and may be deprived of priorities assistance for such materials or facilities.

(x) Reporting and record-keeping requirements. Each person or agency participating in any transaction to which this section is applicable shall complete and preserve, for at least two years after the date of the transaction, accurate and complete records of the details of each such transaction. All persons affected by this section shall file such information and reports as may be required by the Housing Expediter (or any person or agency authorized by him to make such requests), subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942. The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this section have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

PURPOSE

§ 803.7 Sale and removal of surplus government installations—(a) What this section provides. This section, Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 7, provides for the sale of certain surplus government installations for dismantlement or other removal by the purchaser, and channeling of the resulting structures, materials, and equipment into the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program. This section does not apply to the disposal of any surplus government installations with the land.

This section does not affect the priority rights established for various groups by the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, and by applicable regulations of the War Assets Administration issued under that Act. It merely establishes a priority group (called "VEHP self-certifiers") after the Surplus Property Act priority groups and just ahead of the general public, so that the materials resulting from the dismantlement of the surplus installations sold under this section can be channeled into the VEHP.

These materials are suitable for the construction of housing accommodations, and are in short supply. This section is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

DEFINITIONS

(b) Definitions. For the purpose of this section:

(1) "Owning agency," "disposal agency," and "Government agency" have the meanings given the terms by section 3 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(2) "State or local government" and "nonprofit institution" have the meanings given the terms by § 8305.2 of WAA Regulation 5.

(3) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency or instrumentality, or any organized group of persons whether incorporated or not.

(4) "Materials obtained under this section" means (i) materials (including whole structures) resulting from dismantlement or other removal of structures or utilities obtained on a bid filed under this section with an owning agency, a disposal agency, or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and (ii) materials otherwise obtained by self-certification under this section.

(5) "VEHP" means the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

(6) "WAA" means the War Assets Administration.

(7) "Surplus Property Act" means the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(8) "This section" or "HEPR 7" means Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 7.

SALES COVERED BY THIS SECTION

(c) Property covered. This section covers the following types of property if they are surplus and on land owned by or leased to the U. S. Government:

(1) Temporary structures (except sacred structures).

(2) Utilities, above ground and subsurface.

(d) Disposals covered. Property covered by this section will be in the possession of either:

(1) An "owning agency" such as the War Department or Navy Department, or

(2) A "disposal agency" such as War Assets Administration, Department of the Interior, or Department of Agriculture.

Whenever any of these agencies disposes of property covered by this section separate from the land, for dismantlement or other removal, the disposal must be made subject to this section.

(e) Exceptions to this section. The only disposals which fall within the rule stated in paragraph (d) of this section but are nevertheless excepted from this section are the following:

(1) To FPHA, FWA, or VA. Disposals to the Federal Public Housing Authority or Federal Works Agency under Title V of the Lanham Act, as amended, and disposals to the Veterans Administration.

(2) Disposal agency exception. Disposals by a disposal agency of a total of less than 10 structures at one site, if the agency elects not to follow this section.

(3) Owning agency exception. Disposals by an owning agency, if in exceptional cases the agency determines that it would be impracticable to follow this section.

DISPOSAL PROCEDURE

(f) Transfer of property on leased land. In accordance with the Surplus Property Act and applicable WAA regulations, if property covered by this section is on land leased to the U. S. Government, the initial procedure for the disposal of such property shall be as follows:

(1) If the lease is assignable under its terms, the owning or disposal agency may notify other Government agencies of the availability of the property with the land, and may assign the lease to one of the other Government agencies and transfer the structures and utilities to that agency for its use or for removal.

(2) If such assignment is not made or the lease is not assignable, the property may be transferred to the lessor (i) in settlement of a lease (as, for example, in satisfaction of restoration costs), or (ii) to satisfy other contractual obligations.

(g) Public advertisement. If neither of the steps outlined in paragraph (f) of this section is taken, or if property remains to be disposed of after one of the steps has been taken, the property shall be advertised as provided in this paragraph. In addition, all property covered by this section which is on land owned by the U. S. Government shall be publicly advertised in the same manner. All such property shall be publicly advertised, in accordance with the Surplus Property Act and WAA regulations and this section, for disposal to:

(1) The priority groups established by paragraph (k) of this section (for a disposal agency), or

(2) The priority groups established by paragraph (m) of this section (for an owning agency).

The advertising period shall be long enough to give all these priority groups, as well as the general public, adequate notice of the availability of the property and opportunity to file bids.

(h) Size of offerings. Property to be disposed of under this section by an owning or disposal agency may be made available in such minimum and maximum size lots as are determined to be most practicable and equitable by the agency disposing of the property. The maximum lot may include all the property covered by this section which is located at a single site.

(i) Lowest acceptable bid. In accordance with the Surplus Property Act and applicable WAA regulations, each owning or disposal agency disposing of property covered by this section may determine the lowest acceptable bid for each lot of such property offered. However, in every case the lowest acceptable bid must be at least as high as the estimated salvage value of the property, unless a lower figure is approved for a disposal agency by the War Assets Administrator.

(j) Other terms of disposal. Property may be disposed of under this section upon such terms and conditions as are not in conflict with this section.

BUYERS ELIGIBLE FOR PRIORITY

(k) Sales by disposal agencies. In disposing of any property covered by this section, disposal agencies shall give preference to bids from the following four Surplus Property Act priority groups and VEHP self-certifiers, in the order indicated, over all bids from the general public:

(1) Government agencies.

(2) Reconstruction Finance Corporation for sale to small business in accordance with paragraph (r) of this section.

(3) State and local governments.

(4) Nonprofit institutions.

(5) VEHP self-certifiers who file acceptable bids. A "VEHP self-certifier" is any person described in paragraph (l) of this section who gives with his bid or order a certificate in writing in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies to the U. S. Government, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code, that (1) he is eligible under Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 7 to purchase the structures and utilities (or materials) covered by this bid (or order), and (2) he will use or sell the materials derived from the structures and utilities (or covered by this order) in accordance with that Regulation.

Signature

After the priority of the four Surplus Property Act priority groups above has been satisfied, awards shall be made to any VEHP self-certifier filing an acceptable bid, in preference to a member of the general public, even though the bid filed by the latter is a higher figure.

(l) VEHP self-certifiers. The following are eligible as "VEHP self-certifiers" under this section, if they sign the certification set out in paragraph (k) (5) of this section:

(1) HH ratings. A person who (i) has been authorized to use an HH priority in the construction of housing accommodations, or in the production of prefabricated housing, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, and (ii) will use all the suitable and usable materials obtained under this section in such construction or production, or will sell them in accordance with paragraph (p) of this section. This includes builders, contractors, subcontractors and prefabricators.

(2) Construction permits. A person who will (i) use all the suitable and usable materials obtained under this section in the construction of housing accommodations as authorized by a construction permit under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, or (ii) sell them in accordance with paragraph (p) of this section. This includes builders, contractors, and subcontractors.

(3) Utilities. A person who will (i) use all the suitable and usable materials obtained under this section in the construction or maintenance of utilities (water, power, gas, sewerage) necessary to service housing accommodations the construction of which has been authorized under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, or in replacing equivalent materials which will be used for such purposes, or (ii) sell them in accordance with paragraph (p) of this section. This includes utilities (publicly or privately owned), builders, contractors, and subcontractors.

(4) Dismantlers. A person who will (i) dismantle or otherwise remove the structures or utilities covered by his bid, and (ii) resell, in accordance with paragraph (o) of this section, all the suitable and usable materials resulting from such dismantlement or removal.

(5) Dealers. A person who will resell, in accordance with paragraph (o) of this section, all the suitable and usable materials obtained by self-certification under this section.

(m) Sales by owning agencies. In disposing of any property covered by this section, owning agencies shall give preference, over bids from the general public, to bids from VEHP self-certifiers, as defined in paragraph (k) (5) of this section. Awards shall be made to any VEHP self-certifier filing an acceptable bid, in preference to a member of the general public, even though the bid filed by the latter is a higher figure.

RESTRICTIONS ON BUYERS

(n) Use by VEHP self-certifiers. A VEHP self-certifier who obtains materials under this section must (1) use the suitable and usable materials only for the purposes described in paragraph (l) of this section, or (2) offer and dispose of them in accordance with paragraphs (o) or (p) of this section.

(o) Sales by dismantlers and dealers. A VEHP self-certifier who obtains materials under paragraph (l) (4) or (5) of this section must (1) without delay publicly offer for sale all the suitable and usable materials obtained under this section, and (2) dispose of them to VEHP self-certifiers only. (See paragraph (k) (5) of this section.)

(p) Sales by other VEHP self-certifiers. If a VEHP self-certifier does not use all the suitable and usable materials he obtained under paragraph (l) (1), (2), or (3) of this section for the purpose to which he certified, he must (1) without delay publicly offer for sale all such unused materials, and (2) dispose of them to VEHP self-certifiers only.

(q) Prohibited disposals. A reseller as described in paragraph (o) or (p) of this section must not make disposals even to VEHP self-certifiers if he knows, or has reason to believe, that the materials will be acquired, used, or disposed of in violation of this section.

(r) Sales by RFC. All property obtained under paragraph (k) (2) of this section shall be disposed of by Reconstruction Finance Corporation to VEHP self-certifiers only. (See paragraph (k) (5) of this section.)

OTHER PROVISIONS

(s) Appeals. Any person who considers that compliance with any provision of this section would result in an exceptional and unreasonable hardship on him may appeal for relief. In addition, any person affected by action taken under this section which was based on an interpretation of the section which he considers to be incorrect may file an appeal. An appeal shall be in the form of a letter in triplicate, addressed to the Housing Expediter, Washington 25, D. C. The letter must state clearly the specific provision in the section appealed from and the grounds for claiming an exceptional and unreasonable hardship, or the specific action appealed from, as the case may be.

(t) Violations. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this section and any person who knowingly makes any statement to any department or agency of the United States, as to any matter within its jurisdiction, which is false in any respect, or who wilfully conceals a material fact in any certificate required to be filed under this section, or who wilfully falsifies any records required to be kept under this section, shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to fine or imprisonment or both, under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946 and other applicable federal statutes. Any person who violates any provision of this section may be prohibited from making or obtaining any further deliveries of, or from using, any materials or facilities suitable for housing construction, and may be deprived of priorities assistance for such materials or facilities.

(u) Reporting and record-keeping requirements. Each person or agency participating in any transaction to which this section is applicable shall complete and preserve, for at least two years after each such transaction, records sufficient to show that the requirements of this section have been complied with in using or disposing of materials obtained under this section. All persons affected by this section shall file such information and reports as may be required by the Housing Expediter (or person or agency authorized by him to make such requests), subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942. The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this section have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with that Act.

(v) Regulations by agencies to be reported to the Housing Expediter. Each owning or disposal agency subject to this section shall file with the Housing Expediter copies of all regulations, orders, and instructions which it may issue in furtherance of this section.

TITLE 19—CUSTOMS DUTIES

Chapter I—Bureau of Customs, Department of the Treasury

[T. D. 51610]

PART 3—DOCUMENTATION OF VESSELS

1. Section 3.17 of the Customs Regulations of 1943 (19 CFR, Cum. Supp., 3.17), as amended by T. D. 51231, is amended to read as follows:

§ 3.17 Home port; definition; change of. (a) A vessel's home port* is that port where documents may be issued to vessels which has been fixed and determined by the owner with the approval of the Commissioner of Customs or of an officer or employee of the Bureau designated for the purpose by the Commissioner of Customs pursuant to section 103 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946 (11 F. R. 7876). It is the port at which a vessel's permanent documents are issued, but it shall appear in all documents whether they are permanent or temporary.

(b) The owner of a vessel shall submit to the collector the designation of a home port for the vessel on customs Form 1319, signed as provided for in § 3.13 (a). When the designation is filed with the collector at the port designated as the home port of the vessel, the designation shall be in duplicate. When the designation is filed with the collector at any port other than the port designated as the home port of the vessel, the designation shall be in triplicate. If the home port so designated is different from the last previous home port of the vessel, the owner shall also request the collector at the previous home port to forward to the collector at the designated home port an abstract of title on customs Form 1331.

(c) If the home port designated is the port at or nearest the place in the same customs collection district where the vessel business of the owner is conducted, if the vessel has previously been documented as a vessel of the United States, and if the designation is presented to the collector at the port where a temporary document is to be issued to the vessel, or at the home port designated, together with recordable bills of sale establishing the complete chain of title to the vessel from the last owner of record, the collector, after examining the bills of sale of the vessel and the abstract of title on customs Form 1331, shall forward to the Bureau the duplicate copy of the designation, when approved by him or an employee in his office properly designated to grant such approvals. If the designation is presented to the collector at a port other than the home port, he shall forward to the collector at the home port the triplicate copy of the designation.

(d) In all other cases, the collector, after examining the bills of sale of the vessel and the abstract of title on customs Form 1331, shall transmit the original of the application, together with all required copies, to the Bureau. When approved, the original will be returned to the collector transmitting the designation. If the designation is submitted to the Bureau by the collector at a port other than the home port, the Bureau will also forward a copy of the designation to the collector at the home port.

(e) When it is impracticable to establish the complete chain of title by recordable bills of sale, the collector shall inform the Bureau of the facts and circumstances, and shall state whether or not he is of the opinion that the applicant has legal title to the vessel.

(f) If an owner desires that the home port be elsewhere than the port at or nearest the place in the same customs collection district where the vessel business of the owner is conducted, he shall forward to the Bureau through a collector of customs a designation of home port on customs Form 1319 accompanied by a detailed statement setting forth the reasons.

(g) No officer or employee of the Bureau designated to grant approvals of designations of home ports shall approve, nor shall any collector forward to the Bureau for approval, any such designation unless it appears that the vessel will be documented as a vessel of the United States substantially simultaneously with the receipt by him of the approval of the designation. When a designation has been approved and the vessel is not so documented, the approval granted shall be cancelled. The collector in subsequently transmitting a new designation by the same owner shall indicate in his remarks the date of the previous approval and that it was cancelled because of failure to document the vessel. (R. S. 161, 4141, secs. 2, 3, 23 Stat. 118, 119, sec. 1, 43 Stat. 947; 5 U. S. C. 22,

*For the purposes of the navigation laws of the United States * * *, every vessel of the United States shall have a "home port" in the United States, including Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, which port the owner of such vessel, subject to the approval of the Director of the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation of the Department of Commerce (Commissioner of Customs), shall specifically fix and determine, and subject to such approval may from time to time change. Such home port shall be shown in the register, enrollment, and license, or license of such vessel, which documents, respectively, are referred to as the vessel's document. The home port shown in the document of any vessel of the United States in force on February 16, 1925, shall be deemed to have been fixed and determined in accordance with the provisions hereof. * * * (46 U. S. C. 18, sec. 102, Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946; 11 F. R. 7875)

2. Section 3.24 (c) of the Customs Regulations of 1943 (19 CFR, Cum. Supp., 3.24 (c)), is amended to read as follows:

§ 3.24 Change of master. • • •

(c) Every application for the endorsement of the names of one or two alternate masters on the license of a vessel in addition to the name of the master already endorsed on the license shall be filed with the collector of customs at the home port of the vessel and shall contain a statement of the condition of employment of the vessel. The endorsement of the names of one or two alternate masters upon the license shall be authorized by the collector or an employee in his office properly designated to grant such authorization whenever that officer or employee, after examining the application, deems the condition of employment of the vessel warrants such action. Under no circumstances shall the endorsement of the names of more than two alternate masters upon the license be authorized. The same oaths shall be required of such alternate masters as are required in the case of other masters.

(c) The destination in the United States of foreign cargo appearing on the inward foreign manifest may be changed at any domestic port to permit the landing of such cargo at any other domestic port if the vessel's owner or agent files with the collector a written application therefor accompanied by a bond, in an appropriate amount, conditioned that the collector shall be held blameless for any consequence of the act. • • •

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter VI—Selective Service System

[Local Board Memorandum 112-a, Issued: 3-16-45; As Amended: 1-28-47]

PART 671—LOCAL BOARD MEMORANDA

STATUS OF NONDECLARANT ALIEN STUDENTS AND TRAINEES

Pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedures Act, the following directive issued under authority of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, is hereby made a matter of record:

§ 671.112-a Aliens; status of nondeclarant alien students and trainees—(a) General—(1) General policy. The Department of State has represented as a matter of foreign policy that it is in the national interest to foster closer and more effective relations with foreign countries through study, practical training and research in the United States by aliens in agriculture, industry, commerce, public health, education, or in related fields, and has requested that nondeclarant aliens entering the United States for such specific temporary purposes be not required to register or be called for training and service. In cooperation with such policy the Director of Selective Service desires to comply with the request of the Department of State and will undertake to do so under requirements mutually agreeable to the Secretary of State, the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization and the Director of Selective Service, as set forth in this section. It is understood that aliens engaged in such study, training or research shall be limited to remuneration, where receivable, that shall not exceed a fair subsistence allowance except where the nondeclarant alien is a regular permanent employee of a government or of a private business, in which cases he shall be permitted to receive the full amount customarily paid him by his employer for services rendered. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed as abridging the authority of the Director of Selective Service to grant, cancel, amend, or extend the exemption from training and service of any alien coming within the purview of this section. Exemption under this section, among other requirements, shall at all times be conditional upon the seriousness of purpose of such alien, his close application to and satisfactory progress in such practical training, study and/or research undertaken.

(2) Information concerning programs. An interested local board should apply to the Director, through the State Director, when it desires information concerning any approved training program or any approved combined study and training program included under this section.

(3) Certain nondeclarant aliens may be considered nonresidents. It is the purpose of this section to prescribe the circumstances and conditions under which certain nondeclarant aliens who enter the United States for such specific temporary purposes as students or trainees may be considered as male persons "not residing in the United States" within the meaning of the selective service law, and to prescribe the conditions under which they may be issued an Alien's Certificate of Nonresidence (DSS Form 303).

(4) DSS Form 303 limited as to time. An Alien's Certificate of Non-residence (DSS Form 303) should not be issued for a period of more than six months unless the Director specifically authorizes a longer period, except in the case of bona fide foreign students and other aliens approved under training or combined study and training programs outlined in this section for whom the period shall be one year, but DSS Form 303 may be renewed for successive periods in accordance with § 611.26 of this chapter.

(5) Certain cases to be reexamined. The local board should reexamine the case of any alien student or trainee who has already been in the United States for a period longer than is herein contemplated, or who appears to have failed otherwise to meet the requirements of this section.

(6) Transfer of student or trainee. A nondeclarant alien student may transfer from one institution of learning to another, or if a trainee, from one place of training to another: Provided, That such transfer is in the normal course of the planned education or of the training and does not interfere therewith.

(7) Completion of period of study or training. A nondeclarant alien student or trainee who completes a period of training, study and/or research in accordance with the provisions of this section should be allowed a reasonable time, not to exceed 45 days, to leave the country, during which time his DSS Form 303 should not be recalled.

(8) Loss of student or trainee status. If a nondeclarant alien holding a DSS Form 303 fails to maintain his status as a bona fide student, or as a trainee, he shall no longer be entitled to such certificate, and it shall be recalled by the local board. He shall thereupon be considered to be a male person "residing in the United States," be obligated to register immediately, and be liable for training and service under the selective service law, except that any such alien whose failure to maintain his status is due solely to either an unsatisfactory scholastic record during his regular attendance at an institution of learning, or to an inability to meet the requirements of the training contemplated herein, should be allowed a reasonable time, not to exceed 45 days, to leave the country, during which period his DSS Form 303 should not be recalled.

(9) Special notation on DSS Form 304. Under section III, item 20, DSS Form 304 a notation shall be made by the local board in the space available of the section (section 4 (e), section 3 (2), section 3 (1), or other applicable section) of the Immigration Act of 1924 (8 U. S. C., 203, 204), under which the alien was admitted to the United States, and should a subsequent change in the status of the alien have been accomplished by the Immigration and Naturalization Service a similar notation shall be made of the section of such law applicable at the time of filing the DSS Form 304.

(b) Students—(1) Requirements for a nondeclarant alien student. A nondeclarant alien student to be considered as a bona fide full-time student and as a male person "not residing in the United States" must comply with the provisions of §§ 611.21 and 611.26 of this chapter, and, in addition, must meet the following requirements:

(i) He must enter the United States for the purpose of study and/or research, follow the regular full-time course of instruction and/or research and maintain satisfactory progress in such studies and/or research in, and as certified by, an institution of learning approved for "Section 4 (e)" visa purposes by the Attorney General of the United States, except that part-time study and/or research may be permitted if, in the judgment of such institution upon recommendation to the Selective Service Local Board it is necessary by reason of poor health, not chronic, English language difficulties, or engaging in activities as indicated in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph.

(ii) He must not be gainfully employed, except (a) that a student who meets all other requirements may undertake part-time employment if such employment in no way interferes with the maintenance of a regular full-time course of instruction and/or research or until such time as such part-time employment might be disapproved by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, (b) that he may undertake on-the-job training for which he receives subsistence allowance if such training is in connection with part-time study and/or research as specified in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph or if such training is in the nature of practical training immediately following the completion of study and/or research as specified in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed as preventing or limiting the remuneration paid to an alien who is a regular permanent employee of a government or of a private business as provided in paragraph (a) (1) of this section: And provided further, That permission for such on-the-job training or practical training has been previously obtained from the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

(iii) He may also be considered as maintaining the status of a student if immediately upon the completion of his studies and/or research he enters upon a course of practical training in the field for which his studies and/or research have prepared him and for which he receives no remuneration or subsistence allowance from the organization providing the training, except that subsistence allowance may be received for such training if the organization providing the training so requires and permission to receive it is granted by the institution supervising the trainee: Provided, The educational institution he is attending or from which he was graduated, prescribes such course of training, certifies that it is as advantageous to the student as graduate study, and supervises the course of training during its continuance: And, provided further, That permission to undertake such course of training is previously obtained from the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Such course of practical training shall be limited to one calendar year, or to such shorter period as the student may be permitted to remain in the United States by the Immigration and Naturalization Service, of the Department of Justice.

(2) Visas are evidence of purpose of entry. (i) In determining whether or not the alien entered the United States for the purpose of study, the local board should consider the type of visa under which he entered.

(ii) If he entered prior to June 1, 1944, the type of visa is not conclusive but the local board should determine, from the visa and all other available facts and circumstances, whether or not he entered for the purpose of study.

(iii) If he entered after June 1, 1944, the type of visa is conclusive and the local board should not determine that he came for the purpose of study unless he attends an institution of learning approved for "Section 4 (e)" visa purposes by the Attorney General, or pursues a course of instruction prescribed, and/or conducted, by the United States Government, and unless his visa indicates that he entered under the provisions of one of the following sections of the Immigration Act of 1924 (8, U. S. C., 203 and 204):

(b) Section 3 (2) (visitor).

(c) Section 3 (1) (government official).

(3) Periods allowed for study and/or research. The maximum periods for study and/or research during which a student may remain in the United States are set out below.

(i) An undergraduate student shall be permitted to remain for the time normally required to obtain a degree but such time may be extended upon certification by the institution in which he is enrolled that additional time is necessary due to language or health handicaps: Provided, That the total of such additional time shall not exceed the equivalent of one school year.

(ii) A student who enrolls for a graduate degree immediately upon the completion of his undergraduate work in the United States or who comes to this country for the purpose of graduate study leading to a degree or degrees and/or for research shall be permitted to remain for the time normally required to obtain that degree or degrees and/or complete the research, and for such additional time as is deemed necessary by the institution attended because of language difficulties or temporary illnesses: Provided, That the total of such additional time shall not exceed the equivalent of one school year. Some graduate degrees cannot be obtained without first obtaining a qualifying graduate degree. In such cases obtaining the qualifying graduate degree shall not preclude the student remaining for the time necessary to obtain the ultimate graduate degree: Provided, That the total time for obtaining such ultimate graduate degree and/or for completing the related research shall not exceed the time normally required, plus such additional time as is deemed necessary by the institution attended because of language difficulties or because of temporary illnesses: Provided further, That the total of such additional time shall not exceed the equivalent of one school year, unless for any reason the educational institution the student is attending determines in any individual case involving such ultimate degree that a longer period is advisable and so certifies to the Director of Selective Service.

(iii) A student who has completed his undergraduate work in another country and comes to the United States for the purpose of graduate study or for supervised research not leading to a degree shall be permitted to remain in the United States for not more than two years plus such an additional period or periods of study or of supervised research in the field covered by his studies as may be determined advisable by the educational institution the student is attending and so certified by such institution to the Director of Selective Service.

(c) Trainees—(1) Requirements for a nondeclarant alien trainee. A nondeclarant alien trainee to be considered as a male person "not residing in the United States" must be approved by the Department of State as a trainee under one of its approved training programs, must at all times comply with the provisions of such training program and with the provisions of §§ 611.21 and 611.26 of this chapter, and in addition, must meet one of the following requirements:

(i) Have entered the United States for the purpose of training.

(ii) Have satisfactory completed undergraduate or graduate study and any such practical training immediately following such study that may have been deemed as advantageous to the student as further study by the educational institution he attended.

(2) Visas applicable. To qualify under this paragraph a trainee must have been admitted to the United States under the provisions of section 3 (1) (government official), section 3 (2) (visitor) or section 4 (e) (student) of the Immigration Act of 1924 (8 U. S. C., 203 and 204). A trainee who was admitted under the provisions of section 4 (e) (student) must possess the additional qualification of having successfully completed the undergraduate or graduate studies and/or the practical training described in subparagraph (1) (ii) of this paragraph for the accomplishment of which he was admitted to the United States under the provisions of said section 4 (e) (student).

(3) Period allowed for training. Training of an alien under this paragraph shall be limited to a maximum period of two years: Provided, That under circumstances considered exceptional by the Director of Selective Service, in individual cases, a reasonable additional period may be granted.

(4) Issuance of Certificate of Nonresidence, DSS Form 303. DSS Form 303 shall be issued by local boards to trainees under this paragraph only after approval of the specific program and of the individual trainee thereunder by the Director of Selective Service and after, as otherwise provided in this section, the trainee has been found qualified for exemption.

(d) Combined study and training—(1) Requirements for a combined student and trainee. A nondeclarant alien who enters the United States for the combined purpose of study and training must, in order to be considered as a male person "not residing in the United States," be approved by the Department of State as a trainee under one of its approved combined study and training programs, must at all times comply with the provisions of such combined study and training program and with the provisions of §§ 611.21 and 611.26, of this chapter, and in addition, must meet the following requirements:

(i) Have entered in pursuance of, or be included in, and at all times comply with, the provisions of a program of combined study and training approved by the State Department.

(ii) While engaged in study, meet the requirements of a student under paragraph (b) of this section.

(iii) While engaged in training, meet the requirements of a trainee under paragraph (c) of this section.

(2) Visas applicable. To qualify under this paragraph a trainee must have been admitted to the United States under the provisions of section 3 (1) (government official), section 3 (2) (visitor) or section 4 (e) (student) of the Immigration Act of 1924 (8 U. S. C., 203 and 204).

(3) Issuance of Certificate of Nonresidence, DSS Form 303. DSS Form 303 shall be issued by local boards to trainees under this paragraph only after approval of the specific program and of the individual trainee thereunder by the Director of Selective Service and after, as otherwise provided in this section, the trainee has been found qualified for exemption.

PART 3283—LUMBER AND LUMBER PRODUCTS

[Limitation Order L-358, as Amended Jan. 28, 1947]

SOFTWOOD PLYWOOD

There is a shortage in the supply of softwood plywood for defense for private account and for export. Softwood plywood is suitable for the construction and completion of housing accommodations in rural and urban areas and for the construction and repair of essential farm buildings, and priorities for deliveries of softwood plywood are established in Schedule A to Priorities Regulation 33. This order is necessary and appropriate in the public interest, to promote the national defense and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

§ 3283.149 Limitation Order L-358—(a) What this order does. This order provides that manufacturers of softwood plywood must produce and reserve a percentage of their production in construction and door panel grades. A part of the reserve must be delivered to distributors on unrated and uncertified orders, and the balance on rated orders and on certified orders from distributors and manufacturers of certain housing products and certain other essential items.

All measurements and computations of softwood plywood shall be in square footage measured on a 3/8" rough basis.

(b) Definitions for the purpose of this order. (1) "Softwood plywood" means laminated veneers of any species of softwood united with a bonding agent to produce board.

(2) "Construction plywood" means plywood of one or more softwood panels, 12 feet and shorter of the following grades: Interior (Moisture resistant) type as follows: 1/4" sanded or 1/16" unsanded wallboard; 3/8" sanded or 1/16" unsanded wallboard; 1/4" sanded or 1/16" unsanded sound one side plypanel; 3/8" sanded or 1/16" unsanded sound one side plypanel; 1/16" sheathing; 3/8" sheathing; 1/2" sheathing and 5/8" sheathing; and Exterior type 1/4" sanded or 1/16" unsanded sound one side plypanel 3/8" sanded or 1/16" unsanded sound one side plypanel.

(3) "Door plywood" means softwood plywood Interior (Moisture resistant) and Exterior type of 1/4" sound two sides door plypanel.

(4) "Certified order" means any order for the delivery of softwood plywood bearing the certificate prescribed in paragraph (i).

Softwood Plywood Manufacturers

(c) Softwood plywood manufacturers' reserve production. The following conditions govern the amount of construction plywood and door plywood softwood plywood manufacturers shall produce and reserve for distributors and certified or rated orders:

(1) Each softwood plywood manufacturer shall manufacture (i) at least 46% of his monthly production of softwood plywood in the form of construction plywood, and (ii) at least 4% of his monthly production of softwood plywood in the form of door plywood.

(2) Every softwood plywood manufacturer must hold 50% of his total production of construction plywood in square footage in each month for delivery only on AAA, MM or certified orders. When a plywood manufacturer has accepted such orders for construction plywood for this amount, he must not accept additional rated or certified orders for construction plywood produced in that month. In addition he may deliver only on AAA or on uncertified and unrated orders from distributors that portion of his reserve which is not required to fill AAA, MM or certified orders received in the month it was produced.

(3) A softwood plywood manufacturer must reserve 50% of his total production of construction plywood in each month for delivery only on uncertified and unrated orders from distributors.

(4) A softwood plywood manufacturer must hold his total production of door plywood in each month for delivery on AAA or on certified orders from door manufacturers or distributors. In addition he may deliver only on AAA or on uncertified and unrated orders from distributors any portion of his reserve of door plywood which is not required to fill certified orders received in the month in which it was produced.

(5) Any softwood plywood produced or delivered on MM rated or on certified orders from persons authorized under paragraph (h) below may be credited by the manufacturer to his reserve production of construction plywood on a 3/8" basis even though the softwood plywood delivered was not of construction plywood grades.

(6) AAA and MM ratings are the only ratings which are valid against a softwood plywood manufacturer for construction plywood and AAA ratings are the only ratings valid against him for door plywood. Orders for such plywood bearing other ratings must be treated by him as unrated.

Distributors

(d) The following provision tells how distributors who buy and stock softwood plywood for resale as plywood at wholesale or retail may place orders for construction or door plywood, and how they may sell it:

(1) A distributor may place uncertified and unrated orders for construction or door plywood with a plywood manufacturer. Every distributor must reserve 75% of each shipment of construction or door plywood received after February 1, 1947 for delivery only on rated and certified orders for 15 days after receipt. When a distributor has accepted such orders to the extent of his reserve for any shipment he need not accept any more certified or rated orders (except AAA) to be filled from the construction or door plywood received in that shipment. In addition, he may deliver on uncertified and unrated (except AAA) orders any construction or door plywood from his reserve which at the end of the 15 days after receipt is not required to fillI rated or certified orders received before that time. Plywood received by a distributor before February 1, 1947 which he had to reserve under this order as amended November 19, 1946 need not be reserved for rated and certified orders after February 15, 1947.

(2) A distributor who has received a certified order for construction or door plywood may place a certified order with a plywood manufacturer to get the construction or door plywood which will be delivered to his customer subject to applicable inventory regulations. A distributor may not place a certified order with a producer for replacement of inventory.

Prefabricators

(e) Prefabricators. A prefabricator may place certified orders calling for delivery in the first calendar quarter of 1947 with a plywood manufacturer or a distributor for construction plywood in the amount for which he has received priorities assistance on Form NHA-14-53. A prefabricator must order, accept delivery of and use construction plywood in accordance with the provisions of Direction 8 to Priorities Regulation 33 and Housing Expeditor Priorities Regulation 6.

Builders

(f) Housing contractors. The following provisions tell how a builder (applicant) or a general contractor directly authorized by such builder to use the HH rating for the whole job, but not a subcontractor authorized to use the HH rating for part of the job, may place certified orders or HH rated orders with a plywood manufacturer or distributor for construction plywood:

(1) A builder or his general contractor may place with a distributor but not with a softwood plywood manufacturer HH rated orders for construction plywood under the provisions of Schedule A to PR-33. A builder or his general contractor purchasing in not less than carload lots, may place certified orders for mill shipment delivery each month with a softwood plywood manufacturer or a distributor in an amount not in excess of the total amount of construction plywood needed for the housing accommodations for which he has received priorities assistance.

NOTE: Former paragraphs (g) and (h) deleted, new paragraph (g) added, and former paragraphs (i) and (j) redesignated (h) and (i), Jan. 28, 1947.

Cabinet and Door Manufacturers

(g) Cabinet and door manufacturers. Authorizations issued to cabinet and door manufacturers for the first quarter of 1947 remain valid, and cabinet and door manufacturers may place certified orders with a plywood manufacturer or a distributor for delivery in the first calendar quarter of 1947 for the quantities for which authorizations have been granted. Construction or door plywood received on certified orders must be used in the manufacture of built-in kitchen cabinets suitable for housing or standard doors which must be sold on rated orders in accordance with Priorities Regulation 1.

Other Users of Softwood Plywood

(h) Other users of softwood plywood. The following provisions tell how persons requiring softwood plywood for use in the manufacture of farm equipment, tobacco hogsheads, insulated trucks and trailers, busses and railroad box-cars may apply for authority to place certified orders for softwood plywood. Any person requiring softwood plywood for such uses may apply for authority to place certified orders for softwood plywood. CPA may grant authority to place certified orders for softwood plywood within the amounts available where it is established that no substitute material is obtainable. Application may be made on Form CPA–4494 in accordance with its instructions.

Certification

(i) Certification. (1) An order for construction or door plywood may be certified only by endorsing or attaching the following form of certificate on the purchase order, sales ticket or other order calling for the delivery of softwood plywood:

> The undersigned certifies to the supplier and to the CPA that he is a ---------- (distributor or qualified manufacturer) and that the quantities of softwood plywood covered by this order (together with all other certified orders placed with this or other suppliers for softwood plywood for delivery in the months specified in this order) do not exceed the amounts he has been allowed under Order L–358 with the provisions of which he is familiar.
> Date----------
> ----------
> Signature
> ----------
> Serial number

(2) Certificate must be signed manually or as explained in PR 7. However, the standard form described in that regulation cannot be used in place of the certificate described above. The certificate required in this order cannot be waived under paragraph (f) of PR 7. All persons except distributors must insert a serial number in the place provided in the certificate. An order bearing a certificate without a serial number where required must be treated as an uncertified and unrated order.

NOTE: Former paragraph (k) deleted and former paragraph (l) redesignated (j) Jan. 28, 1947.

Miscellaneous

(j) Miscellaneous. The following provisions generally affecting all persons ordering softwood plywood should be carefully read:

(1) Status of certified orders. Certified orders for the purpose of this order are subject to the rules for acceptance and rejection of rated orders as provided in Priorities Regulation 1 as if they were rated orders. The order of precedence where orders are received by a plywood manufacturer is: (i) AAA; (ii) MM; (iii) certified. The order of precedence where orders are received by distributors, cabinet manufacturers and door manufacturer is as follows: (i) AAA; (ii) MM; (iii) CC, HH and certified orders which are all three of equal value.

(2) Extension of rated orders. Any person who has received a rated order for the delivery of construction or door plywood may extend the rating to his suppliers (except to a plywood manufacturer) to get plywood which he will deliver on that order subject to applicable inventory regulations. If a person has made delivery of construction or door plywood on a rated order, he may extend the rating to his suppliers (except to a plywood manufacturer) to replace the amount in his inventory subject to applicable inventory regulations. A door or cabinet manufacturer who has received a rated order for doors or cabinets or who has delivered them on a rating, may extend the rating to his suppliers (except to a plywood manufacturer) for the amount of construction or door plywood used or to be used in the manufacture of the doors or cabinets. These rules supersede paragraphs (d) and (d–1) of Priorities Regulation 3 on the extension of ratings.

(3) Applicability of regulations. Except as otherwise required by this order Priorities Regulations 1 and 3 and Schedule A to PR 33 govern the use of ratings and the acceptance, scheduling and filling of orders. All other applicable regulations and orders of the Civilian Production Administration must be observed.

(4) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provisions of this order or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States, is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(5) Reports. Every person shall file with the Civilian Production Administration, or any other federal agency designated by CPA, such reports and questionnaires as the Civilian Production Administration or such other agency may from time to time require subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(6) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by mailing a letter in triplicate to the Civilian Production Administration, Forest Products Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref.: L–358, stating the particular provisions appealed from and stating fully the grounds for the appeal.

(7) Communications. All communications unless otherwise directed must be addressed as follows: Civilian Production Administration, Forest Products Division, Washington 25, D. C.

(8) Directives. The Civilian Production Administration may issue directives to plywood manufacturers, cabinet manufacturers, door manufacturers or distributors to set aside specific quantities or percentages of production or shipments for persons placing certified or rated orders. CPA may also allocate the production or shipments to specified persons for specified uses and may direct how and in what quantities deliveries to specified persons or uses may be made. It may also direct distribution to particular areas and may direct or prohibit the production by any person of particular items of softwood plywood, cabinets, or doors. Directives according to their terms may take precedence over rated or certified orders. They may be issued for the satisfaction of Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and other essential civilian requirements, including Temporary Re-Use Housing under Direction 11 to PR 33, and in order to carry out more fully the purposes of this order.

(k) Effective date. Order L–358 as amended January 28, 1947 shall become effective February 1, 1947. Order L–358 as amended November 19, 1946 shall remain in effect until February 1, 1947.

Issued this 28th day of January 1947.

Recording Secretary.

PART 3285—LUMBER AND LUMBER PRODUCTS

[Limitation Order L–359, as Amended Jan. 28, 1947]

LUMBER, HARDWOOD FLOORING AND MILLWORK

There is a shortage in the supply of lumber, hardwood flooring and millwork for defense, for private account and for export. Lumber, millwork and hardwood flooring are necessary for the construction and completion of housing accommodations in rural and urban areas and for the construction and repair of essential farm buildings, and special priorities for the deliveries of lumber, millwork, and hardwood flooring for these purposes are established in Schedule A to Priorities Regulation 33. This order is necessary and appropriate in the public interest, to promote the national defense and to effectuate the purposes of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

§ 3233.153 Limitation Order L–359—(a) What this order does. This order provides that sawmills shall produce a percentage of their total production of softwood lumber in housing construction lumber. It applies to all sawmills and to lumber suppliers, manufacturers of millwork, hardwood flooring and house trailers, prefabricators and builders and other consumers who have been assigned priorities assistance. Rated orders must be accepted and filled as provided in Priorities Regulation 1. However, a ceiling is provided for rated orders and the filling of unrated orders is permitted where the filling of such orders will not interfere with the filling of rated orders.

Definitions

(b) Definitions for the purpose of this order.

(1) "Lumber" means any sawed lumber of any species, size, or grade, including rough, surfaced on one or more sides or edges, dressed and matched, shiplapped, worked to pattern, or grooved for splines, except (i) shingles, slabs and round edge lumber; (ii) mine and railway cross ties nine feet or less in length; (iii) any segment of a log which has been produced so that it can be converted into veneer and which is sold and used for that purpose.

The term includes a person who has logs manufactured into lumber by a sawmill, except a person who has less than 5,000 feet a quarter of his own logs sawed into lumber for his own use; (ii) a person operating any plant or concentration yard which processes (by drying, resawing, edging, grading, sorting, planing, or otherwise) 25 percent or more of the total volume of logs and lumber which it receives, into an item which is defined as lumber. However, the term "sawmill" does not include any establishment known in the trade as a distribution yard, even though owned by a sawmill, engaged in either retail or wholesale business and even though it may process, for the servicing of special orders from consumers, more than 25 percent of the lumber it receives.

(6) "Distributor" means any person who buys and stocks millwork or hardwood flooring for resale and lumber for resale as lumber either at wholesale or retail. The term "distributor" also includes any establishment owned or operated by a sawmill where lumber is sold at either wholesale or retail. A distributor who has two or more distinct and separate yards must for the purpose of this order, consider each yard a "distributor".

(7) "Cut-stock manufacturer" means a person who supplies from his production plant stock surfaced 2-sides, cut to approximate net sizes for the manufacture of doors, sash, check rail and plane rail windows, exterior frames and inside jambs. Cut-stock for doors, windows and sash consists of stock cut to approximate net sizes S2S and not further machined for stiles, rails, bars, muntins, meeting rails and facings for door stiles. Cut-stock for frame parts consists of stock cut to approximate net sizes S2S and not further machined for pulley stiles, blind and parting stops, outside casings, sills, drip cap and brick mould.

Sawmills

(c) Sawmills—(1) Softwood lumber. Each sawmill shall manufacture at least 50% of its total monthly production of softwood lumber in the form of housing construction lumber. 85% of all 8/4 and thinner Douglas Fir shop and Western Pine shop including No. 3 clears must be sold only to millwork and cut-stock manufacturers or to persons who certify in writing they will sell to millwork or cut-stock manufacturers. A sawmill need not accept or fill rated orders for more than 50% of its total production of softwood lumber in any month. It may not fill MM rated orders for more than 5% of its total production of softwood lumber in any month.

(2) Hardwood lumber. Each sawmill shall sell only to hardwood flooring manufacturers, or to persons who certify in writing they will sell to hardwood flooring manufacturers, all the hardwood flooring lumber it produces.

(3) Seasoning. Where it is the customary practice of a sawmill to season lumber by air drying, and the lumber is properly piled for seasoning and carried in inventory for this purpose, such lumber will not be considered as produced until seasoned for the customary period.

(4) Orders must be accepted or rejected promptly. A sawmill must accept or reject rated orders in writing within 5 days of receipt. Reasons for rejection of a rated order must be stated.

Distributors

(d) Distributors. (1) A distributor is authorized to apply an HH rating on orders for delivery each quarter for housing construction lumber for the greater of the following amounts:

(i) an amount of housing construction lumber not exceeding 15% of the amount of footage in inventory of all softwood lumber as of January 1, 1942, or

(ii) two carloads of housing construction lumber at the rate of not more than one carload in any month of the quarter.

Distributors who apply a rating under (i) or (ii) above must use the certificate provided in paragraph (i) below.

(2) Instead of applying an HH rating as provided in paragraph (d) (1) above, a distributor may in any quarter extend HH ratings for the amount of housing construction lumber which he will deliver or has delivered on HH rated orders accepted by him for delivery in that quarter. Rated orders placed with a distributor before October 1, 1946, may not be extended.

(3) A distributor must sell only to millwork or cut-stock manufacturers, or persons who certify that they will sell only to millwork or cut-stock manufacturers, 85% of all 8/4 and thinner Douglas Fir shop and Western Pine shop including No. 3 clears received in any quarter on unrated orders.

(4) A distributor need not use more than 50 percent of the softwood lumber received in any quarter on HH rated orders placed under paragraph (d) (1) (i) or (ii) to fill rated orders.

(5) A distributor need not use more than 50 percent of the lumber he receives in any quarter on unrated orders to fill rated orders.

(6) A distributor may not fill MM rated orders for more than 10 percent of his total receipts in any quarter of softwood lumber.

(7) A distributor may extend HH ratings for the amount of millwork or hardwood flooring which he will deliver or has delivered on HH rated orders.

Millwork and Cut-Stock Manufacturers

(e) Millwork and cut-stock manufacturers—(1) Extension of HH ratings.

(i) A millwork or cut-stock manufacturer who receives HH rated orders may extend the HH rating to his supplier for the housing construction lumber or cut-stock to be incorporated or used in the millwork or cut-stock to be delivered on HH rated orders.

(ii) Where a millwork or cut-stock manufacturer has already delivered millwork or cut stock on an HH rated order, he may extend the rating for the amount of housing construction lumber or cut-stock he used in the manufacture of the millwork or cut-stock delivered on the HH rated order.

(2) A millwork manufacturer need not accept or fill rated orders for millwork manufactured from lumber received on unrated orders.

Hardwood Flooring Manufacturers

(f) Hardwood flooring manufacturers—(1) Extension of ratings. (i) A hardwood flooring manufacturer who receives HH rated orders may extend the HH rating to his supplier for the hardwood flooring lumber to be incorporated or used in the hardwood flooring to be delivered on HH rated orders.

(ii) Where a hardwood flooring manufacturer has already delivered hardwood flooring on HH rated orders, he may extend the HH rating for the amount of hardwood flooring lumber he used in the manufacture of the hardwood flooring delivered on HH rated orders.

(2) A hardwood flooring manufacturer need not accept or fill rated orders for hardwood flooring manufactured from hardwood flooring lumber received on unrated orders.

Builders and Prefabricators

(g) Builders and prefabricators. A builder or prefabricator may place HH rated orders for a quantity of housing construction lumber, millwork or hardwood flooring for which he has received priorities assistance. While Schedule A to Priorities Regulation 33 lists residential hardwood flooring only, HH ratings may be used by the above persons to obtain any suitable hardwood flooring. A builder or prefabricator placing an HH rated order should use the certificate provided in paragraph (i) of Schedule A to Priorities Regulation 33.

Integrated Operations

(h) Integrated operations. A person having integrated operations which are subject to this order must treat each operation as a separate unit. Each unit must conform to all the applicable provisions of this order.

Certificate for Application of Rating by Distributors

(i) Certificate for application of rating by distributors. (1) A distributor applying an HH rating to an order for housing construction lumber under paragraph (d) (1) (i) or (ii) must endorse on or attach to the purchase order, sales ticket or other delivery orders, the following certificate:

VETERANS' EMERGENCY HOUSING PROGRAM

I certify to the U. S. Government that HH rating has been assigned for the materials covered by this order. The quantities covered by this order (together with the quantities called for by all other rated HH or certified orders placed with this or other suppliers for softwood lumber for delivery in the quarter specified in this order) do not exceed the amount permitted under Limitation Order L-359 with the provisions of which I am familiar.

(Distributor).

(2) The certificate must be signed manually or as explained in Priorities Regulation 7. However, the standard form described in that regulation may not be used in place of certificate described in this order. The certification required by this order may not be waived under paragraph (f) of Priorities Regulation 7.

NOTE: Present paragraph (j) added and former paragraph (j) redesignated (k) Jan. 28, 1947.

Office Wholesaler

(j) Office wholesaler. An office wholesaler who buys housing construction lumber, hardwood flooring lumber, millwork or hardwood flooring for resale without stocking it, may extend an HH rating to his supplier, for direct mill shipment of such orders in not less than carload lots, in an amount not in excess of the amount called for by the rated orders which he has received.

Miscellaneous

(k) The following provisions generally affect all persons operating under this order and should be carefully read:

(1) Extension of ratings. Rules for extendibility of HH ratings are set out in paragraph (d), (e), (f) and (j). The extendibility of all other ratings is governed by the rules of Priorities Regulation 3.

(2) Treatment of certified orders. Any person who before January 1, 1947, has received an order certified under Order L-359, dated October 18, 1946, must treat such order as an HH rated order. Any person authorized to place HH ratings under this order must reduce the quantity of lumber for which he places HH ratings by the quantity of his unfilled certified orders for lumber on January 1, 1947.

(3) Applicability of regulations. Except as otherwise required by this order, Priorities Regulations 1 and 3 continue to govern the use of ratings and the acceptance, scheduling and filling of orders. All other applicable regulations and orders of the Civilian Production Administration must be observed where not inconsistent with this order.

(4) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who in connection with this order wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priorities control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(5) Reports. Every person shall file with the Civilian Production Administration, or any other federal agency designated by the Civilian Production Administration such reports and questionnaires as the Civilian Production Administration or such other agency may from time to time require subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(6) Directives. The Civilian Production Administration may issue directives requiring sawmills, millwork manufacturers, cut-stock manufacturers or hardwood flooring manufacturers or distributors to set aside specific quantities or percentages of production or shipment for persons placing rated orders. CPA may also allocate production or shipment to specified persons for specified uses, and may direct how and in what quantities deliveries to specified persons or uses may be made. It may also direct distribution to particular areas and may direct or prohibit the production by any persons of particular items of lumber, millwork, cut-stock or hardwood flooring. Directives according to their terms may take precedence over rated orders. They may be issued for the satisfaction of Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and other essential requirements, and in order to carry out more fully the purposes of this order.

(7) Appeals. An appeal from the provisions of this order should be made by mailing a letter in triplicate to the Civilian Production Administration, Forest Products Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref.: L-359, or to the Civilian Production Administration, Portland, Oregon, Ref.: L-359, when made by persons in the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, or South Dakota, stating the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds for the appeal.

PART 3292—AUTOMOTIVE VEHICLES, PARTS AND EQUIPMENT

[Limitation Order L-352, as Amended Jan. 28, 1947]

EXPORT OF AUTOMOBILES AND TRUCKS

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of automobiles and trucks for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense.

§ 3292.136 General Limitation Order L-352—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Automobile" means any self-propelled vehicle designed for the purpose of carrying passengers, or the chassis therefor, with a seating capacity of not more than ten persons, including station wagons, taxicabs and coupes with or without pickup boxes, but not including ambulances, hearses or sedan deliveries.

(2) "Truck" means any light, medium or heavy motor truck, truck-tractor or the chassis therefor, or any chassis on which a bus body is to be mounted and which (i) was designed to be propelled or drawn by mechanical power; (ii) was designed for use on or off-the-highway, for transportation of property or persons. This definition includes vehicles of the following types: trucks, truck chassis, truck tractors, off-the-highway motor vehicles, bus chassis, carry-all suburbans, sedan deliveries and cab pickups, but does not include station wagons, coupes, fitted with pickup boxes, ambulances, hearses, taxicabs and integral type busses.

(b) Limitations on production for export, and on export. No producer of automobiles shall produce for export, or shall export, to any foreign country, including Canada, any automobiles in excess of the quantities authorized by the Civilian Production Administration under this order. This does not apply to automobiles purchased by the Army Exchange Service for shipment and resale outside the United States. Exports to any country other than Canada are subject to the export license requirements of the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce.

This order no longer limits the production for export or the export, of trucks, but producers of trucks must continue to file reports under paragraph (d) below.

(c) Export quotas for new exporters and adjustments of quotas. Producers of automobiles who have not previously exported such vehicles, and producers who desire adjustments in their export quotas may apply to the Automotive Branch, Equipment Division, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Reports. Producers of automobiles and trucks shall report monthly to the Civilian Production Administration, the production of automobiles on Form CPA-4300 and the production of trucks on Form CPA-4341, in accordance with the instructions accompanying the forms.

(e) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment.

PART 3294—IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION

[General Preference Order M-21, Direction 10, as Amended Jan. 28, 1947]

USE AND EFFECT OF SYMBOL CXS ON CERTAIN ORDERS FOR SELECTED STEEL PRODUCTS

The following amended direction is issued pursuant to General Preference Order M-21:

(a) What this direction does. This direction explains how certain exporters who have been authorized by the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, to use the symbol CXS (Certified Export Steel) on purchase orders for limited quantities of selected steel products should furnish that information to steel producers. Such orders are to be treated as rated orders. The Civilian Production Administration may also establish space reservations on steel producers' schedules for the benefit of these export orders.

(b) Identification of certified export orders. Any person who has been authorized in writing by the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, to use the symbol CXS on purchase orders for limited quantities of selected steel products should, in addition to marking his purchase order with the symbol, specify the period in which shipment has been designated, and furnish the steel producer with a certificate, signed manually or as described in Priorities Regulation 7 in substantially the following form:

I certify, subject to the penalties of section 35A of the United States Criminal Code, that the steel products covered by this purchase order are within the quantity which I have been authorized by the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, to purchase the orders identified with the symbol CXS.

The standard certificate described in Priorities Regulation 7 may not be used in place of this certificate.

(c) Requests for authorization to use the symbol CXS. All requests for authorization to use the symbol CXS should be addressed to the Steel Section, Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Certified orders must be treated as rated orders. Unless the CPA directs otherwise, any purchase order certified under this Direction must be treated as a CC rated order under Priorities Regulation 1, and be accepted, scheduled, and delivered accordingly. Where a conflict exists between certifications, preference is to be given to the certification first received (irrespective of when the purchase order was placed). The rules of Priorities Regulation 1 will apply, except to the extent that this direction is inconsistent with them. Steel obtained on certified orders must be used in accordance with § 944.11 of that regulation.

(e) Refusal of certified orders. (1) CXS orders may only be placed with steel producers for mill shipments. They may not be placed with distributors for shipment from warehouses.

(2) Steel producers need not accept a CXS certification on a previously accepted purchase order, or a new purchase order, which was received after the first day of the month preceding the month in which delivery is requested.

(3) [Deleted Jan. 28, 1947.]

(f) Other distribution of steel for export. The provisions of this direction do not restrict acceptance, scheduling or shipment of noncertified orders for export, if it does not interfere with shipments of certified orders.

Chapter XVIII—Office of Temporary Controls, Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion (Stabilization)

[Directive 146]

LIMITATIONS ON ROYALTY PAYMENTS FOR COPPER, LEAD AND ZINC

The Premium Price Plan for Copper, Lead and Zinc provides by its general administrative rules that premiums shall not include allowances for excessive royalties. This was more specifically provided for by Maximum Price Regulation 356, issued April 1, 1943, by the Office of Price Administration. Under that regulation payment of royalties in excess of certain limits was prohibited. Maximum Price Regulation 356 was revoked, however, on November 10, 1946, along with other price regulations dealing with services and commodities. This directive is therefore issued to prevent allowances for excessive royalties in making premium payments by restoring in substance the practices in effect on November 10, 1946.

Accordingly, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 4003.67c Limitations on royalty payments under the Premium Price Plan for Copper, Lead and Zinc. (a) (1) For all mines, except those in the Tri-State area, any royalty shall be accepted as a reasonable cost for purposes of premium payments: Provided, That the royalty rate stipulated is no greater than that which prevailed on November 10, 1946, and the royalty is calculated (i) on the sum of the market price plus assigned premiums, but not to exceed a total for both of 11¢ per pound of zinc; 9¼¢ per pound for lead; and 17¢ per pound for copper, or (ii) on the market price for each of these metals, whichever is higher;

(2) For all mines in the Tri-State area, any royalty shall be accepted as a reasonable cost for purposes of premium payments: Provided, That the royalty rate stipulated is no greater than that which prevailed on November 10, 1946, and the royalty is calculated, in the case of zinc, on (i) no more than the Joplin price of 60% standard zinc concentrates plus premium payments, but not to exceed a total for both of $79.70 per ton, and in the case of lead no more than the Joplin price of 80% standard lead concentrates plus premium payments, but not to exceed a total for both of $118.00 per ton, or on (ii) the Joplin market price for standard zinc and lead concentrates, whichever is higher;

(3) Where no royalty rate was established on November 10, 1946, for a particular operation, the general level of royalty rates in effect on that date for comparable operations in the same mining area shall determine the maximum rate acceptable as reasonable for purposes of premium payments.

(b) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is hereby authorized and directed to put into effect the foregoing provisions in carrying out the Premium Price Plan. The Commissioners of Price Administration and Civilian Production Administration have been instructed to give effect to the foregoing provisions.

This directive shall become effective immediately.

TITLE 46—SHIPPING

Chapter I—Coast Guard: Inspection and Navigation

[CGFR 47-2]

AMENDMENTS TO REGULATIONS

By virtue of the authority vested in me, I find that an emergency exists and the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed and shall become effective upon the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

It is found that the critical shortage of certain materials during the war caused the manufacturing of certain items to be discontinued or greatly curtailed and it became necessary in the successful prosecution of the war to issue orders under the authority of section 501 of the Second War Powers Act waiving certain requirements of the regulations in this chapter for certain equipment and installations. As the authority for the issuance of waivers under the terms of the statute, as extended, will expire on March 31, 1947, it will be necessary in all instances to comply with the requirements of the regulations is this chapter after that date.

It is hereby further found that compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) or R. S. 4417a as amended (46 U. S. C. 391a), is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which these regulations are based became available and when these regulations must become effective is insufficient for such compliance, and since postponement in issuing the regulations will work an unique hardship in converting merchant vessels to peacetime operation.

The purpose of these regulations will be to permit certain equipment or installations, if found to be satisfactory by the Commandant for the purpose intended, to be continued in service so long as in good and serviceable condition.

Subchapter D—Tank Vessels

S. C., App. Sup., 635), which do not fully meet the detailed requirements of the regulations in this chapter, may be continued in service if found to be satisfactory by the Commandant for the purpose intended. In each instance prior to final action by the Commandant, the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, shall notify Headquarters of the facts in the case, together with recommendations relative to suitability for retention. At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 3, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 21st day of January, A. D. 1947.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

[19 CFR, Chapter II]

COTTON STAPLE OF 1 1/8 INCHES OR MORE IN LENGTH

PUBLIC NOTICE OF REOPENING OF INVESTIGATION AND HEARING

The United States Tariff Commission, on this 23d day of January 1947, announces the reopening of its Investigation No. 1 under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act (of 1933) as amended, and under Executive Order No. 7233 of November 23, 1935, with respect to Cotton having a staple of 1 1/8 inches or more in length.

Quotas on imports of cotton having a staple of 1 1/8 inches or more in length were originally made effective on September 20, 1939 by Presidential proclamation. These quotas were later modified by subsequent proclamation to exclude therefrom cotton having a staple of 1 1/16 inches or more in length, so that since December 19, 1940 the quotas on long staple cotton were applied only to cotton having a staple of 1 1/8 inches or more but less than 1 1/16 inches in length. The principal object of reopening the investigation and holding a hearing at this time is to determine whether changed circumstances require modification of the current quota on long-staple cotton for the year ending September 19, 1947, particularly with reference to:

(a) The possible need for an increase in the current quota in order to meet the current requirements of domestic manufacturers for long-staple cotton; and, if the quota is increased,

(b) The possible need for imposing controls to insure that the cotton permitted entry under the quota is equitably distributed among the essential users.

Hearing. All parties interested will be given opportunity to be present, to produce evidence, and to be heard at a public hearing to be held in the Hearing Room of the Commission at 8th and E Streets NW., in Washington, D. C., at 10 a. m. on February 18, 1947.

Nature of information at hearing. Information submitted at the hearing must be relevant and material to the matters under investigation.

Appearances at hearing. Interested persons may appear at the hearing either in person or by representative; if several persons have a joint interest in the subject, it is suggested that effort be made for the designation of a representative in order to avoid unnecessary repetition of testimony.

Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

[No. 3]

SALVAGE LIFTING VESSELS, ARS (D)

NAVIGATION LIGHTS

Certificate of the Secretary of the Navy under the act of December 3, 1945 (Public Law 239, 79th Congress).

Whereas, the act of December 3, 1945 (Pub. Law 239, 79th Cong.) provides that any requirement as to the number, position, range of visibility or arc of visibility of navigation lights, required to be displayed by naval vessels under acts of Congress, as enumerated in said act of December 3, 1945, shall not apply to any vessel of the Navy where the Secretary of the Navy shall find or certify that, by reason of special construction, it is not possible with respect to such vessel or class of vessels to comply with statutory requirements as to the number, position, range of visibility or arc of visibility of navigation lights; and

Whereas, a study of the arrangement and position of the navigation lights of that class of naval vessels, known as Salvage Lifting Vessels (ARS (D)), has been made in the Navy Department, and as a result of such study, it has been determined that because of their special construction it is not possible for Salvage Lifting Vessels (ARS (D)) to comply with the requirements of the statutes enumerated in said act of December 3, 1945;

Now, therefore, I, James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, as a result of the aforesaid study do hereby find and certify that the class of naval vessels, known as Salvage Lifting Vessels (ARS (D)), are naval vessels of special construction and that, on Salvage Lifting Vessels (ARS (D)) with respect to the position of the masthead light and range light it is not possible to comply with the requirements of the statutes enumerated in the act of December 3, 1945.

Further, I do find and certify as follows: (a) That it is feasible to locate the aforesaid masthead light in the after part of the vessel, approximately one hundred seventy feet abaft the stem;

(b) That it is feasible to locate an additional white light (commonly termed the range light), if such light is installed, in the forward part of the vessel at a height of not less than ten feet above the hull;

(c) That the two lights, referred to in (a) and (b), shall be placed in line with the keel and the after light shall be at least fifteen feet higher than the forward light and the vertical distance between the two lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

I further direct that the aforesaid lights shall be located in this class of vessels in the manner above described and I further certify that such location constitutes compliance as closely with the applicable statutes as I hereby find feasible.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 20th day of December A. D., 1946.

JAMES FORRESTAL,
Secretary of the Navy.

CALIFORNIA

CLASSIFICATION ORDER

JANUARY 15, 1947.

1. December 9, 1946, the Secretary of the Interior classified, under the small tract act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609, 43 U. S. C. 682a), for leasing, as hereinafter indicated, the following-described public lands in the Los Angeles, California, land district, embracing 3,864.54 acres: (For all of the purposes mentioned in the act except business and camp sites.)

SMALL TRACT CLASSIFICATION NO. 104

CALIFORNIA NO. 42

T. 1 N., R. 6 E., San Bernardino Meridian
Sec. 2, lots 1 and 2 of the NE¼, SE¼;
Sec. 4, lots 1 and 2 of the NE¼;
Sec. 4, lots 1 and 2 of the NW¼, SW¼;
Sec. 6, lots 1 and 2 of the NE¼,
Sec. 6, lots 1 and 2 of the SW¼, SE¼;
Sec. 8, W½, NE¼;
Sec. 12, all;
Sec. 14, E½;
Sec. 18, lots 1 and 2 of the SW¼, SE¼;
Sec. 20, E½, SW¼;
Sec. 30, N½ of lot 1 of the NW¼,
Sec. 30, lot 2 of the NW¼, NE¼, NE¼SE¼.

2. The lands are located in San Bernardino County, about 125 to 130 miles east of Los Angeles, and 14 to 18 miles west of Twentynine Palms. A paved highway to Twentynine Palms runs east and west through the township about a mile north of its southern boundary. Most of the tracts may be reached from this highway by passable dirt roads. The lands lie at an elevation of approximately 2900 to 3000 feet above sea level. In the northern part of the township they have an almost level contour. Farther south they are rolling or hilly. In the southwest they are rough and steep in many places. Vegetation consists of Joshua trees, cactus, greasewood, sagebrush and various other native grasses and brushes.

3. The climate prevailing is typical of the desert. Average winter temperatures vary from 50° to 60° and those of the summer from 80° to 90°. The climate is accepted as a valuable aid to the treatment of bronchial, pulmonary and other disorders. Residence can be maintained throughout the year. No surface water exists in this township. Water for domestic purposes is usually hauled. Development of ground water in supplies adequate for domestic purposes should be entirely feasible with proper pumping equipment, if undertaken as group projects. Electric power, telephone service, various kinds of business, as well as recreational, educational and religious facilities exist at Twentynine Palms. The population of this area has been gradually increasing. The Navy has located a large air base north of Twentynine Palms. The area is especially attractive to disabled veterans and others with some income who require a dry climate for health purposes. Many applications exist for small tracts in this vicinity and much of the lands that have been classified under the small tract program have already been leased.

4. Pursuant to § 257.8 of the Code of Federal Regulations (43 CFR, Part 257, Cum. Supp., as amended by Circ. 1613, February 27, 1946), a preference right to a lease is accorded to those applicants whose applications (a) were regularly filed, under the regulations issued pursuant to the act, prior to 1:15 p. m. on April 8, 1946, and (b) are for the type of site for which the land subject thereto has been classified. As to such applications, this order shall become effective upon the date on which it is signed.

5. As to the land not covered by the applications referred to in paragraph 4, this order shall not become effective to permit the leasing of such land under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, cited above, until 10:00 a. m. on March 19, 1947. At that time such land shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, or selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-day period for other preference right filings. For a period of 90 days from 10:00 a. m. on March 19, 1947, to close of business on June 17, 1947, inclusive, to (1) application under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, by qualified veterans of World War II, for whose services recognition is granted by the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747, 43 U. S. C. secs. 279–283), subject to the requirements of applicable law, (2) application under any applicable public land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications by such veterans shall be subject to claims of the classes described in subdivision (2).

(b) Advance period for simultaneous preference; right filings. All applications by such veterans and persons claiming preference rights superior to those of such veterans filed on or after 1:15 p. m. on April 8, 1946, together with those present at 10:00 a. m. on February 27, 1947 shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

(c) Date for nonpreference right filings authorized by the public-land laws. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on June 18, 1947 any of the land remaining unappropriated shall become subject to application under the small tract act by the public generally.

(d) Advance period for simultaneous non-preference-right filings. Applications under the small tract act by the general public filed at or after 1:15 p. m. on April 8, 1946, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on May 29, 1947, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

6. Veterans shall accompany their applications with certified copies of their certificates of discharge, or other satisfactory evidence of their military or naval service. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated affidavits in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

7. All applications for the lands referred to in paragraphs 4 and 5, which shall be filed in the District Land Office at Los Angeles, California, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations (Circ. 324, May 22, 1914, 43 L. D. 254), to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, shall be governed by the regulations contained in Part 257 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

8. Lessees under the small tract act of June 1, 1938, will be required, within a reasonable time after execution of the lease, to construct upon the leased land, to the satisfaction of the Acting Director, Bureau of Land Management, improvements which, under the circumstances, are presentable, substantial, and appropriate for the use for which the lease is issued. Leases will be for a period of five years, at an annual rental of $5 for home, cabin, health, convalescent and recreational sites, payable yearly in advance.

9. The land will be leased in tracts of approximately five acres, or aliquot parts thereof, each being approximately 330 by 660 feet, or aliquot dimensions thereof, the longest dimension extending east and west in secs. 2, 12 and 14, and north and south in the remaining sections. The tracts should conform in description with the rectangular system of surveys as one compact unit.

10. Preference right leases referred to in paragraph 4 will be issued for the land described in the application, irrespective of the direction of the tract, provided the tract is made to conform to the areas and dimensions specified above.

11. Where only one 5-acre tract in a 10-acre subdivision is embraced in a preference right application, however, the district land officer is authorized to accept applications for the remaining 5-acre tract or aliquot parts thereof extending in the same direction so as to fill out the subdivision, notwithstanding the direction of the tract may be contrary to that specified above.

12. All inquiries relating to these lands shall be addressed to the District Land Office, Los Angeles 12, California.

FRED W. JOHNSON,
Acting Director.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 9th day of January 1947;

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed on December 18, 1946, by Edmund Scott, Gordon D. France, Hugh H. Smith and Merwyn F. Planting, d/b as San Mateo County Broadcasters, requesting that its above entitled application (File No. B5-P-5536) for a construction permit to change frequency of Station KVSM, at San Mateo, California, from 1050 kc to 1260 kc, increase power from 250 watts to 1 kw night—5 kw day and to increase operating hours from daytime only to unlimited time, be designated for hearing in the consolidated proceeding involving the other above entitled applications; and

It appearing, That the Commission on November 14, 1946, ordered the above entitled applications of Harmco, Inc., requesting 1060 kc, 5 kw power, unlimited time with directional antenna at night, Alvin E. Nelson, Inc., requesting 1030 kc, 50 kw power, unlimited time with directional antenna, C. Thomas Patten, requesting 1000 kc, 10 kw power, daytime only, Palo Alto Radio Station, Incorporated, requesting 1060 kc, 50 kw power, unlimited time, and Pittsburg Broadcasting Company, requesting 990 kc, 1 kw power, unlimited time using directional antenna at night, to be heard in a consolidated proceeding; and that a hearing on the said applications is currently set for January 20, 1947, at Washington, D. C.; and

It further appearing, that the said petitioner, has heretofore, on November 27, 1946, been made a party intervenor in the aforesaid consolidated proceeding because of engineering conflicts with the present operation of Station KVSM on 1050 kc; that petitioner's aforesaid application for 1260 kc is contingent on the grant of the aforesaid application of Palo Alto Radio Station, Incorporated (KYA); and that the public interest would be served by designating petitioner's said application for hearing in the aforesaid consolidated proceeding;

It is ordered, That the said petition be, and it is hereby, granted and that, pursuant to section 309 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said application of Edmund Scott, Gordon D. France, Hugh H. Smith and Merwyn F. Planting, d/b as San Mateo County Broadcasters, be, and it is hereby, designated for hearing in the above consolidated proceeding upon the following issues:

1. To determine the technical, financial, and other qualifications of the applicant partnership and the partners to construct and operate station KVSM as proposed.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of station KVSM as proposed and the character of other broadcast service available to those areas and populations.

3. To determine the type and character of program service proposed to be rendered and whether it would meet the requirements of the populations and areas proposed to be served.

To determine whether the operation of station KVSM as proposed would involve objectionable interference with any existing broadcast stations and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other broadcast service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine whether the operation of station KVSM as proposed would involve objectionable interference with the services proposed in the pending application of San Fernando Valley Broadcasting Company (File No. B5-P-4657) or in any other pending applications for broadcast facilities and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other broadcast service to such areas and populations.

6. To determine whether the installation and operation of station KVSM as proposed would be in compliance with the Commission's rules and Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations.

7. To determine on a comparative basis which, if any, of the applications in this consolidated proceeding should be granted.

It is further ordered, That the orders of the Commission dated January 30 and February 13, 1946, designating for hearing the above entitled applications of Harmco, Inc., and Alvin E. Nelson, Inc., and the several orders dated November 14, 1946, designating for hearing the above entitled applications of Palo Alto Radio Station, Incorporated, C. Thomas Patten and Pittsburg Broadcasting Company be, and they are hereby, amended to include the said application of San Mateo County Broadcasters (KVSM).

ORDER AMENDING ISSUES

In re applications of Amarillo Broadcasting Corporation (KFDA), Amarillo, Texas, Docket No. 7559, File No. B3-P-4353; S. H. Patterson, Topeka, Kansas, Docket No. 7560, File No. B4-P-4389; S. H. Patterson (KVAK), Atchison, Kansas, Docket No. 7562, File No. B4-P-4317; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of December 1946;

The Commission having under consideration a petition and supplemental petition filed August 13, 1946, and October 17, 1946, respectively, by S. H. Patterson, requesting that the Commission reconsider his two above-entitled applications, sever them from the proceeding in which they are consolidated with the above-entitled application of Amarillo Broadcasting Corporation, and grant both applications without further hearing; and

It appearing, that petitioner's above-entitled applications are mutually contingent requests for the following facilities:

(1) Docket No. 7560, for a construction permit for a new standard broadcast station at Topeka, Kansas, to operate on the frequency 1440 kc, with 5 kw power, unlimited time, using directional antenna day and night; and

(2) Docket No. 7562, for a construction permit to change the frequency of Station KVAK at Atchison, Kansas, from 1450 kc to 1200 kc, increase power from 250 watts to 1 kw, and change hours of operation from unlimited time to daytime only; and

It further appearing, that the said petitions do not sufficiently meet the several issues heretofore defined for the hearing upon petitioner's said applications, particularly issue numbered "2" in the matter of the application for change of facilities for Station KVAK at Atchison, Kansas (Docket No. 7562);

It is ordered, That, pursuant to § 1.386 of the Commission's rules and regulations, the said petitions be, and they are hereby, denied.

It is further ordered, That the said applications of S. H. Patterson, in addition to being heard upon the issues heretofore defined in the several orders of the Commission dated May 2, 1946, designating the said applications for hearing, also be heard upon the following issue:

To determine whether a grant of the several applications of S. H. Patterson would result in a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio broadcast service, among the communities concerned, pursuant to section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

CLASS B FM BROADCAST STATIONS IN ATLANTA AND GRIFFIN, GA., AREAS

CHANGES IN TENTATIVE PLAN OF SEPTEMBER 3, 1946

JANUARY 16, 1947.

On January 16, 1947, the Commission adopted the following changes in the Tentative FM Allocation Plan of September 3, 1946:

General area	Channels
	Delete	Add
Atlanta, Ga.		224, 231
Griffin, Ga.	224

Channel 231 was previously not allocated in the Atlanta, Ga. area. Channel 224 is one of the two Class B channels (the other being Channel 222) which had been allocated to Griffin, Ga. The Commission has not received any applications for FM stations for Griffin, Ga. Whereas Atlanta is not eligible for Class A channels, Griffin and its surrounding vicinity is eligible for at least 10 Class A channels. Since a Class A station will adequately serve a city of the size of Griffin, the Commission is of the opinion that re-allocation of Channel 224 from Griffin to Atlanta will result in a more complete utilization of FM facilities.

The Commission's Allocation Plan of September 3, 1946 indicates that five class B FM channels are available for assignment to the Atlanta, Ga. area, on of which is to be reserved until July 1, 1947 under § 3.204 (c) of the Commission's rules. One of these channels has been assigned to the Constitution Publishing Company. At the present time there are five applications pending for the three channels available for immediate assignment. The five applications have been designated for consolidated hearing to begin on April 7, 1947 in Atlanta, Ga.

By the Commission's action in allocating two additional channels to Atlanta, a comparative consideration of the five pending Atlanta applications will not be necessary since there will be five Class B channels available for immediate assignment. If the situation remains unchanged for the next thirty days, the Commission will then consider on an individual basis the five pending Atlanta applications for Class B FM stations.

WILLARD F. HESS

CONSENT ORDER

Willard F. Hess of Wenonah Orchards, Naches, Washington, is charged by the Civilian Production Administration, by Charging Letter dated December 3, 1946, with having failed to observe the restrictions imposed upon him in an authorization he obtained from the Department of Agriculture for the United States, for the construction of a farm dwelling, which authorization was contained on CPA Form #4386, under Project Serial No. 91-089-30. Specifically, Willard F. Hess failed to observe the cost limitation of $9,750.00, and he failed to eliminate the garage from the premises as required by the authorization. His failure to observe these restrictions constituted a violation of Paragraph (i) of CPA Order #VHP-1, dated March 26, 1946. Willard F. Hess admits these violations as charged, does not desire to contest the charge and has consented to the issuance of this order.

Wherefore, upon the agreement and consent of Willard F. Hess, the Regional Compliance Director and the Regional Attorney, and upon the approval of the Compliance Commission, It is hereby ordered, That:

(a) The authorization contained on CPA Form 4386, dated June 14, 1946, Project Serial #91-089-30, which authorizes the construction of a farm dwelling at Naches, Washington, and assigned an HH rating to Willard F. Hess for said construction, is hereby revoked and withdrawn.

(b) Neither Willard F. Hess, nor his successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any further construction on the farm dwelling at Naches, Washington, including putting up, completing, or altering the structure, unless hereafter specifically authorized by the Civilian Production Administration or other appropriate governmental agency.

(c) Willard F. Hess shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration, or any other appropriate governmental agency, for authorization to carry on construction.

(d) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Willard F. Hess, his successors or assigns, from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(e) This order shall take effect on the date of issuance.

KASDEN FUEL CO.

CONSENT ORDER

Louis J. Kasden and Harry E. Kasden, d/b/a Kasden Fuel Company, were authorized by the Civilian Production Administration June 4, 1946, on application Form CPA-4423, Case No. 1-4-619, to construct a garage size 30' x 100', of cinder blocks costing $1,500, at Ansonia, Connecticut. On or about July 22, Harry E. Kasden and Louis J. Kasden, d/b/a Kasden Fuel Company, began construction under this authorization of a building with dimensions 40' by approximately 135' and with an addition approximately 13' x 32' in size. The estimated cost of the construction which was actually started was between $6,000 and $7,000. The construction of a building of a larger size and at a greater cost than authorized constituted a violation of paragraph (j) of Order VHP-1. Louis J. Kasden and Harry E. Kasden admit the violation as charged and consent to the issuance of this order.

Wherefore, upon the agreement and consent of Louis J. Kasden and Harry E. Kasden, the Regional Compliance Director, and the Regional Attorney, and upon the approval of the Compliance Commissioner, It is hereby ordered, That:

(a) The authorization to Kasden Fuel Company granted by the Civilian Production Administration June 4, 1946, on Form CPA-4423, Case No. 1-4-619, is hereby revoked.

(b) Neither Louis J. Kasden or Harry E. Kasden, their successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any construction on the garage or other building started at 522 Main Street, Ansonia, Connecticut, unless hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration.

(c) Louis J. Kasden and Harry E. Kasden shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which they may file with the Civilian Production Administration for authorization to carry on construction.

(d) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Louis J. Kasden and Harry E. Kasden, their successors or assigns, from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

STANDARD GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. AND OKLAHOMA GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATIONS AND PERMITTING DECLARATIONS TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 22d day of January 1947.

Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard"), a registered holding company, and its public utility subsidiary, Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company ("Oklahoma Gas"), having filed separate applications and declarations, and amendments thereto, in which sections 11 (b), 12 (d), 6 and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act") and Rules U-24, U-44 and U-50 promulgated thereunder are designated as applicable with respect to the following transactions:

Standard proposes to sell all of the 750,000 shares (being all the presently issued and outstanding shares of common stock, of the par value of $20 per share) of Oklahoma Gas. The sale of such stock is to be made at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50. Simultaneously with such sale, Oklahoma Gas proposes to issue and sell an additional issue of 140,000 shares of its common stock, also at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50.

Standard will apply the proceeds of the aforesaid sale of 750,000 shares of common stock of Oklahoma Gas towards the payment of interest and principal on its promissory notes dated April 10, 1946 issued to various banks under the Bank Loan Agreement of Standard dated December 21, 1945, as supplemental agreements dated February 15, 1946 and April 5, 1946 (copies of which are on file with this Commission in File No. 70-1211).

Oklahoma Gas proposes to apply $1,470,000 of the net proceeds of the sale of the additional issue of 140,000 shares of its common stock to the prepayment, without premium, of an equal principal amount of its outstanding Serial Notes bearing interest at the rate of 1⅞% per annum and maturing in fourteen equal semi-annual installments; such prepayments are to be applied ratably to all the outstanding Serial Notes, thereby reducing each semi-annual installment from $605,000 to $500,000. Oklahoma Gas proposes to use the balance of the proceeds of the sale of said 140,000 shares together with additional funds generated from operations to provide funds for the acquisition and construction during 1947 of additions and betterments to its physical properties.

Both Standard and Oklahoma Gas have requested that the ten-day notice period for inviting bids as provided for by subsection (b) of Rule U-50 be shortened to six days so as to minimize the possibility of the postponement of the opening of bids due to a change of market conditions between the time the day of opening of bids is designated and such day. In this connection, the applicants have not designated a day certain on which bids are to be opened, but they propose to advise this Commission by telegram on the day preceding the publication of a public invitation for bids to purchase the common stock of Oklahoma Gas of their intention so to do and the proposed date of opening of such bids.

Standard has also requested that this Commission find that the sale of the 750,000 shares of common stock of Oklahoma Gas by Standard is necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act and make the specifications and itemizations necessary in order that the provisions of sections 371 (b), 371 (f) and 1808 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code shall be applicable.

A declaration of Oklahoma Gas, dated October 1, 1943, as subsequently amended (filed with this Commission in File No. 70–800), which became effective by order of this Commission dated October 28, 1943, included an undertaking of Oklahoma Gas with respect to the declaration or payment of dividends on its capital stock of any class during a ten-year period beginning September 1, 1943. (Said undertaking is fully set forth in this Commission's finding and opinion accompanying said order dated October 28, 1943, Holding Company Act Release No. 4649.) Oklahoma Gas proposes to rescind and nullify said undertaking and has requested an order permitting it to do so.

Said applications and declarations, as amended, having been duly filed and notice of such filings having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U–23 promulgated pursuant to said Act and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said applications and declarations, as amended, within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said applications and declarations, as amended, that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said applications and declarations, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective;

It is hereby ordered, That pursuant to Rule U-23 said applications and declarations, as amended, be, and the same are hereby, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, and subject to the further condition that the proposed sale of shares of common stock of Oklahoma Gas by Standard and Oklahoma Gas shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 have been made a matter of record herein and a further order shall have been entered with respect thereto, which order may contain such further terms and conditions as may then be deemed appropriate, for which purpose jurisdiction is hereby reserved.

It is further ordered, That the ten-day period for inviting bids as provided for in Rule U-50 be, and the same hereby is, shortened to a period of six days.

It is further ordered and the Commission finds, That the proposed sale by Standard of 750,000 shares of the common stock of a par value of $20 per share of Oklahoma Gas is in accordance with and in obedience to aforesaid order of this Commission dated August 8, 1941, which order found that the divestment by Standard of its holdings of the shares of common stock of Oklahoma Gas was necessary and appropriate for the purpose of bringing about compliance by Standard with section 11 (b) (1) of the act, and the said 750,000 shares of common stock of Oklahoma Gas are hereby specified and itemized as being included in the holdings named in aforesaid order dated August 8, 1941.

It is further ordered and the Commission finds, That Oklahoma Gas be, and hereby is, permitted to rescind and nullify its aforementioned undertaking with respect to the declaration or payment of dividends on its capital stock of any class for a ten-year period beginning September 1, 1943.

By the Commission.

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

[Suspension Order S-1075]

R. M. O'NEAL

R. M. O'Neal, Pineville, Louisiana, on October 30 or 31, 1946, without authorization from the Civilian Production Administration began the construction of a one-story, brick and concrete block building, located at 606 Main Street, Pineville, Louisiana, the estimated cost of which is approximately $25,000. R. M. O'Neal was familiar with the restrictions on construction and his beginning and carrying on of such construction without authorization constituted a wilful violation of Veterans' Housing Program Order No. 1. This violation has diverted critical materials to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 1010.1075 Suspension Order No. S-1075. (a) Neither R. M. O'Neal, his successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any further construction on the premises located at 606 Main Street, Pineville, Louisiana, including putting up, altering or completing the structure, unless hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) R. M. O'Neal shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration for authorization to do any construction.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve R. M. O'Neal from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

Issued this 28th day of January 1947.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATIONS OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 1, Direction 1, as Amended Jan. 29, 1947]

CHANGES MADE BY CUSTOMERS IN ORDERS PLACED WITH MANUFACTURERS

The following amended direction is issued pursuant to Priorities Regulation 1:

(a) This direction tells what happens when a customer, having placed a rated order with a manufacturer, wishes to make a change in that order.

(b) The general rule is that any change in a customer's order constitutes a cancellation of the earlier order and must be considered as a new order received on the date of the change if (but only if) the change will require the manufacturer to interfere with his production. For example:

(1) A change in shipping destination does not constitute the placing of a new order.

(2) An increase in the total amount ordered is a new order to the extent of the increase unless it can be filled with only a negligible interference with sequence of later orders.

(3) A change in the date of the delivery, whether advanced or deferred, when made by the customer is a new order if it interferes with production, or delays delivery on an equal or higher rated order.

(4) Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.

(5) A change in preference rating will not constitute a new order and the order must be treated as if it had carried the new rating at the time the old rating was received except that:

(i) Material specifically produced for a rated order is not to be diverted and delivered under a higher rerated order if such material is completed at the time the rerating is received, or is in production and scheduled for completion within fifteen days thereafter; and

(ii) No person is required by reason of a rerating to terminate or interrupt immediately a schedule of production or operations for the next forty days where it would result in a substantial loss of production or delay in operations.

(6) A reduction in the total amount ordered will presumably not require a change in the manufacturer's schedule and will not constitute a new order. If the quantity is reduced below a minimum production quantity, the manufacturer may insist on the delivery of not less than the minimum production quantity as explained in interpretation No. 3. If the customer is not willing to order that amount, the manufacturer may reject the order. The manufacturer may not discriminate between customers in requiring delivery of minimum production amounts or in rejecting orders.

(7) When the customer directs the manufacturer to hold or suspend production without specifying a new delivery date, the order must be considered cancelled. If requested to do so within ten days after receiving such an instruction, the manufacturer must reinstate the order as nearly as possible to its former place in his proposed schedule of deliveries as long as the reinstatement does not cause loss of production or delay in the scheduled deliveries on equal or higher rated orders. Any request for reinstatement made after ten days shall be treated as the placing of an entirely new order.

(8) Where minor variations in size, design, capacity, etc., are requested by the customer and can be arranged by the manufacturer without interfering with his production, such changes do not constitute a new order.

(c) Where a change in an order constitutes a new order the conditions existing at the time the changes are received govern the acceptance of the order and its sequence in delivery under the rules of Priorities Regulation No. 1. If a customer changes his order in such a way as to constitute a new order, but finds that as a new order it will not be scheduled for delivery at the time required by the customer, he may, if he likes, request reinstatement of his original order within the time and manner provided in paragraph (b) (7) above.

Issued this 29th day of January, 1947.

[Suspension Order S-1074]

KEITH SPALDING

Keith Spalding, residing at the Huntington Hotel, Pasadena, California, is the owner of the property at 4201 Oak Grove Drive, Flintridge, Los Angeles County, California. Subsequent to March 26, 1946, he purchased an old stable, divided it into sections, transported it to his premises, prepared a cement foundation therefor, widened the stable four feet, and otherwise remodeled and reconstructed the same on the new foundation, at an estimated cost of approximately $45,000, without authorization from the Civilian Production Administration. Said stable was not designed to be used in connection with an existing dwelling, or for commercial or industrial purposes. The beginning and carrying on of this construction, at a cost in excess of $200 constituted a grossly negligent violation of Veterans' Housing Program Order No. 1. This violation has diverted critical material to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§1010.1074 Suspension Order No. S-1074. (a) Neither Keith Spalding, his successors or assigns, nor any other person, shall do construction on the premises located at 4201 Oak Grove Drive, Flintridge, Los Angeles County, California, including completing, putting up or altering of any structure located thereon, unless hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) Keith Spalding shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration for priorities assistance or for authorization to carry on construction.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Keith Spalding, his successors or assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

Issued this 29th day of January 1947.

§ 8313.1 Definitions—(a) Terms defined in act. Terms not defined in paragraph (b) of this section which are defined in the Surplus Property Act of 1944 shall in this part have the meaning given to them in the act.

(b) Other terms. (1) "Commercially unsalable machinery" as used herein is distinguished from property of no commercial value as used in Part 8319[1] and means machinery (i) which by reason of its condition resulting from damage, wear, obsolescence, or otherwise has no reasonable prospect of sale except as scrap or salvage or (ii) with respect to which the estimated cost of care and handling and disposal will exceed the estimated proceeds unless it is promptly sold as scrap or salvage.

(3) "Salvage" means property that is in such a worn, damaged, deteriorated or incomplete condition, or is of such a specialized nature that it has no reasonable prospect of sale as a unit, or is not usable as a unit without major repairs or alteration. Salvage has some value in excess of its basic material content because it may contain serviceable components or may have value to a purchaser who may make major repairs or alterations. Salvage includes used containers and cable reels.

(4) "Scrap" means property that has no reasonable prospect of sale except for its basic material content.

(5) "Standard general purpose machinery" includes new and used machine tools and machines (with the exception of special machinery) divided into the designated four classes:

(6) "Special machinery" includes machines designed for and used exclusively in the production of war material such as but not limited to:

Special gun reaming, rifling and chambering machines
Gun boring and turning lathes
Shell turning lathes
Shell tappers
Small arms ammunition machines
Special military tank manufacturing machines
Special military aircraft manufacturing machines
Special shipbuilding machines

(7) "Attachments and tooling" means those accessories to a basic machine, which, when applied to the basic machine renders possible an additional operation or process or the functions for which the machine was intended. It includes but is not limited to vertical heads, gear cutting accessories, index heads, feeding accessories, tapering equipment, chucks, jigs, fixtures, gauges, moulds, tool holders, followers, etc.

§ 8313.2 Purpose and scope. The purpose of this part is to provide a fixed price policy for commercially salable new and used standard general purpose machine tools and machines. It also provides for the scrapping and salvaging of all other general purpose machinery and of any special machinery determined hereunder to be commercially unsalable. Prices at decreasing percentages of original cost are specified for Classes I, II and III above up to stated limits of active use and maximum prices are provided for sales of machinery in active use beyond such limits. Fixed prices without reference to decreasing percentages of original cost are specified for those machines in Class IV above. This part applies to all sales in the continental United States, not including its territories or possessions, made after the effective date hereof by the disposal agency and to all sales by owning agencies of standard general purpose machinery pursuant to Part 8306[2] or otherwise, but is not applicable to any contract of sale of machinery entered into prior to the effective date of this part, or to any sale of machinery which has been delivered to the purchaser or to any carrier for the account of the purchaser prior to the effective date of this part.

[2] Reg. 6 (10 F. R. 14521; 11 F. R. 1893)

§ 8313.3 Determination of base price and period of active use for Classes I, II and III. (a) Base prices for machinery to be sold hereunder shall be determined as follows:

(1) Class I. The base price of machinery falling within Class I shall be the original price at which the manufacturer sold the machine. The selling agency shall determine the original price (f. o. b. the plant of the machine manufacturer) of the machine including electrical equipment. Standard or special attachments or tooling shall be priced and disposed of pursuant to § 8313.4 (c) of this part. In the case of machine tools and metal forming and shaping machines manufactured prior to March 1, 1941, the March 1, 1941 price of the nearest equivalent machine may be taken as the original price. In the case of standard general purpose machines other than machine tools and metal forming and shaping machines manufactured prior to October 1, 1941, the October 1, 1941 price of the nearest equivalent machine may be taken as the original price.

(2) Classes II and III. The base price for machinery falling within classes II and III shall be the original price as provided for in subparagraph (1) above or the original manufacturer's current retail price for the same or the nearest equivalent unit.

(b) The selling agency shall determine the period of active use of the machine on the basis of the best information reasonably available. The period of active use shall be considered to run from the estimated date the machine was originally put into use to the date of sale, if the machine is then still in use. If the machine is not in use at the time of sale, the period shall run to the estimated date when the machine last became idle.

§ 8313.4 Determination of sale price—(a) Classes I, II, and III. (1) Exhibits A, B, and C contain tables of percentages applicable to various periods of active use of machinery to be sold hereunder. The price at which a machine shall be sold shall be computed by applying to the base price determined in accordance with § 8313.3 (a) the percentage appearing in the appropriate exhibit opposite the period of active use of the machine calculated in accordance with § 8313.3 (b). In the case of new machines where no period of active use exists, no greater percentage than that specified for "less than one month" shall be applied. The appropriate exhibit shall be determined as follows:

	Exhibit
Any machine in Class I	A
Any machine in Class II	A
Any machine in Class III operating under 750 revolutions per minute	B
Any machine in Class III operating over 750 revolutions per minute	C

(2) In determining which of the two columns of percentages shall apply in Exhibits A, B, and C, those appearing in column b shall be applied where the buyer is the person who is using the machine at the time of sale, or if the machine is then idle, the person who last used it and has possession thereof, and the percentage appearing in column "a" shall be applied where the sale is to any other buyer. The price computed in accordance herewith shall be the sales price f. o. b. the location of the machine at the time of sale, except that in the case of sales made to a purchaser in possession, it shall be the sales price of the machine at its location.

(3) A sale of a standard general purpose machine in Class III with a period of active use in excess of the highest period of active use specified in the appropriate exhibit may be made at the best price obtainable but not in excess of the price applicable to such a machine with the highest period of active use specified in such exhibit.

(b) Class IV. Exhibit D contains a table of fixed prices for those machines listed thereon and identified by code designation, name of manufacturer, model number, and capacity. A machine shall be considered to come within Class IV only when completely identified by, and synonymous with, the description contained in Exhibit D. The prices contained in Exhibit D shall be applied in sales of all Class IV machines, Provided however, That when the buyer is the person who is using the machine at the time of sale, or if the machine is then idle, the person who last used it and has possession thereof, then in such event the sales price to such buyer shall be the fixed price listed in Exhibit D, plus five (5) per cent thereof.

(c) Attachments and tooling. (1) Standard or special attachments or tooling sold in conjunction with a basic machine in Classes I, II and III, whether or not attached thereto, and which have value to the purchaser other than as scrap, shall be sold at a price to be computed on the same period of active use determined for the basic machine sold in conjunction therewith and separate findings of active use shall not be required for such attachments or tooling.

(2) If such standard or special attachments or tooling are attached to a basic machine, and if the cost of handling and removal would exceed the estimated return to the Government if disposed of as salvage or scrap, then in such event the standard or special attachments or tooling may be included in the sale as scrap, at the best price obtainable: Provided, That a scrap warranty [1] is obtained from the purchaser thereof.

§ 8313.5 Scrapping and salvage of machinery. (a) The Administrator has determined that because of the cost of care, handling, and disposition, surplus machinery of any type which was manufactured during the year 1921 or any year prior thereto is commercially unsalable and all such machinery shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this section, upon a determination in writing by the agency in possession that the machinery was manufactured during the year 1921 or any year prior thereto, forthwith be disposed of as salvage or scrap.

(b) From time to time, the Administrator may determine what additional types or classes of special machinery are commercially unsalable. Upon notice of such determinations, the owning and disposal agencies shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph (d), forthwith dispose of any such types or classes of surplus property in their possession as salvage or scrap.

(c) Any machinery which the disposal agency or any owning agency determines in writing to be commercially unsalable shall be disposed of as salvage or scrap or otherwise by the agency in possession pursuant to applicable regulations of the Administrator. In connection with such determinations owning agencies may request the advice and assistance of the disposal agency.

(d) Prior to the sale of a machine which is to be disposed of as salvage or scrap owning and disposal agencies may, insofar as is consistent with the provisions of Part 8319, dispose of such property by donation to such nonprofit institutions and instrumentalities as make application therefor; Provided, That such procedure shall not delay or postpone any such disposal as scrap or salvage for a period in excess of thirty (30) days.

(e) Deleted (October 18, 1946).

§ 8313.6 Records and reports. Owning and disposal agencies shall prepare and maintain such records as will show full compliance with the provisions of this part and with the applicable provisions of the act. Reports shall be prepared and filed with the Administrator in such manner as may be specified by order issued under this part subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

§ 8313.7 Regulations to be reported to the Administrator. Each owning and disposal agency shall file with the Administrator copies of all regulations, orders, and instructions of general applicability which it may issue in furtherance of the provisions, or any of them, of this part.

This revision of this part shall become effective January 15, 1947.

ROBERT M. LITTLEJOHN,
Administrator.

ELIGIBILITY FOR TENANCY

1. Section 621.1 is hereby amended, effective January 24, 1947, to read as follows:

§ 621.1 Eligibility for tenancy—(a) Subsistence homesteads. Eligibility requirements for admission have been established for each separate project and are based on the economic factors prevalent in the area in which the project is located, and on the income, financial condition, employment prospects, and composition and size of the family. The requirements of any project are available from the project manager. Subsistence homestead tenants who have had one or more years of satisfactory tenure as renters are eligible to apply for a purchase contract. Occupancy preference will be given to former residents who have been honorably discharged from the armed services. This preference consists of priority over the outside waiting list, but not over the waiting list of resident transfers within the project, Provided, That they meet current eligibility requirements: And provided further, That such former tenants moved from the project not more than 60 days prior to the actual date of entry on duty, and applications for readmission are filed within one year of the actual date of separation from the armed forces.

(b) Greenbelt towns—(1) Conditions for tenant admission. There shall be accepted as tenants only applicants who meet the following conditions:

(i) Family. The term "family" shall mean a natural family consisting of a family head and one or more other persons related to the head by blood, marriage or adoption. In addition to a natural family, it may include other persons known to have lived regularly as an inherent part of the family group. The term "family" shall not include a group of unrelated persons living together, lodgers, or persons living alone.

The only exception to this requirement shall be to permit the admission of a single person or two unrelated persons to the one-room apartments at Greenbelt.

(ii) Net family income at time of admission. Net family income at the time of admission shall not exceed the maximum income limit for admission established in the approved management program.

(iii) Net assets. The net assets (not including personal and household effects) of the family shall not exceed an amount determined by the General Field Office.

(2) Evidence of tenant eligibility. The Community Manager shall obtain a written statement from each family applying for admission setting forth the facts which relate to its eligibility. The manager shall verify and certify to the accuracy of these statements for each family admitted.

(3) Preference. There shall be no discrimination in the selection of tenants because of religious, political, or other affiliations. Among eligible applicants, preference shall be given first to families of servicemen and to families of veterans who have been discharged (other than dishonorably) from, and to families of servicemen who died in, the armed forces of the United States, where application for admission is made not later than July 1, 1950. Within the serviceman and veteran category, and as among other eligible applicants, preference shall be given on a uniform and objective basis to those in the greatest need, giving consideration to the degree of housing need and such other factors of need as the General Field Office shall determine.

In the application of preference policies the following definitions shall be used:

(i) "Veteran." A veteran of World War II shall mean a person who has served in the military or naval forces of the United States for any period of time on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the present war (a date yet to be determined) and who has been discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable. The military or naval forces of the United States means the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and, since July 29, 1945, the commissioned corps of the United States Public Health Service.

(ii) "Serviceman." A serviceman shall mean a person who is currently serving (until the termination of the present war) in the military or naval forces of the United States (which include the commissioned corps of the United States Public Health Service).

Persons or families of persons who are serving or who have served in the Merchant Marine, the Red Cross, UNRRA, etc., are not eligible for admission as veterans or families of veterans or servicemen.

(iii) "Family" of veteran or serviceman. A group of persons which constitutes a "family" shall be considered the family of a veteran or serviceman for eligibility purposes under the following circumstances:

(a) When the veteran or serviceman is living with the family, in which case he need not necessarily be the family head or principal wage earner.

(b) When the veteran or serviceman is the natural family head or principal wage earner but is temporarily absent from home by reason of a duty assignment, employment or school attendance in another locality, or hospitalization.

(c) When the veteran or serviceman, a natural family head, is deceased (during or subsequent to military or naval service), or is permanently absent from his family by reason of divorce, separation, desertion or permanent hospitalization. (The remarriage of a divorced spouse or a surviving spouse of a deceased veteran or serviceman shall terminate their status as his family.)

(4) Occupancy standards. The Community Manager shall lease dwelling accommodations to tenants in accordance with objective standards of health and decency approved by the General Field Office, taking into consideration the size of the dwelling and the family size and composition (i. e., number, age, sex and family relationship of the occupants). These standards shall govern the size of dwellings permissible for continued occupancy as well as admission.

(5) Definition of "net family income." This revised definition of net family income shall be used in determining eligibility and the rent to be charged for all tenants admitted on or after January 1, 1947. It shall apply to present tenants at the time of the next project reexamination. If a tenant applies for a reduction in rent before the date of the project reexamination because of a change in income, a reduction in rent shall be made only if it is warranted in accordance with this revised definition. No increases in rent shall be made for present tenants until the project reexamination. Net family income shall mean aggregate family income as defined in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph less deductions therefrom as specified in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph.

(i) Aggregate family income. Aggregate family income shall include the following income, before any deductions, received by all members of the family who actually occupy or are actually to occupy the dwelling:

(a) Wages and salaries (including compensation for overtime), and all other earnings and compensation for personal services, such as commissions, fees, tips, etc., including the cash value of any compensation in kind, such as meals or food. Aggregate income includes the full amount of earnings before pay-roll deductions are made for any purpose.

(b) Net profits from the operation of a business or profession.

(c) The full amount received from pensions, annuities, retirement income, and other similar types of periodic receipts.

(d) Payments in lieu of earnings, such as unemployment compensation, other social security benefits, dismissal wages, benefits in lieu of earnings other than lump-sum payments under health and accident insurance, and workmen's compensation other than lump-sum payments.

(e) Cash relief receipts and the value of determinable relief allowances in kind.

(f) Periodic and determinable allowances, alimony, contributions and gifts.

(g) Interest, dividends, and net earnings of any kind from real or personal property.

The following types of receipts are excluded from aggregate income:

(1) Amounts which are specifically received for, or are a reimbursement of, the costs of illness or medical care.

(2) Casual and irregular gifts.

(3) Casual and sporadic earnings of minor children.

(4) Income from boarders and lodgers (since such income will not be realizable after admission to a public housing project).

(5) Lump-sum additions to family assets, such as inheritances, insurance payments, capital gains, and settlements for personal or property damages. (If such sums are substantial, the exclusion of the families in question will be considered in connection with ineligibility because of the amount of capital assets.)

(ii) Deductions from aggregate family income. The following items shall be deducted from aggregate family income to determine net family income:

(a) Special occupational expenses necessary to employment and for which no reimbursement is made by the employer, but only to the extent by which such expenses exceed normal and usual expenses (e. g. noon-day meals and transportation to work) incident to employment.

(b) Deductions from wages for social security, for pension or retirement funds, or for health, accident, or medical benefit plans, if required by law or required by the employer as a condition of employment.

(c) Amounts actually paid, if reasonable and necessary, for the support of a person or persons not residing with the family but for whose support one or more members of the family are legally or morally responsible; but not including expense incurred for the support of children away from home for purposes of normal and voluntary education.

(d) Amounts actually paid, if reasonable and necessary, for the care of children or aged or incapacitated family members in order to permit the employment of a sole worker.

The following items shall not be considered as allowable deductions: payroll deductions for income tax, payroll deductions not required by the employer as a condition of employment for pensions or other benefits, payments for war bonds, group health, group or other insurance, bills and garnishments, installment purchases, repayment of loans, or interest and finance charges on such items.

(iii) Definition of net family income at time of admission and net income at time of reexamination. Net income at the time of admission (or at the time of reexamination) shall be the amount of the net family income anticipated for the twelve months succeeding the expected date of admission (or date of reexamination). In determining the net family income anticipated for the next twelve months, due regard shall be given to determinations which the Community Manager shall make both of the current rate of income and the actual net income received from various sources in the past twelve months.

(iv) Special provisions for families of servicemen. In computing the aggregate income of a serviceman's family, all base pay, extra pay and allowances received by the serviceman, whether residing with his family or elsewhere, that portion of the family dependency allowance contributed by the Government and all other income received by the family from other sources shall be included.

In computing the net income of the family of a serviceman not residing with the family, in addition to such other amounts as may be allowed any tenant as a deduction from aggregate income in accordance with subparagraph (3) (ii) of this paragraph, a deduction shall be allowed to meet the special occupational expenses of the serviceman incurred by reason of his living away from home. Except as provided below, such deduction shall be not more than (a) the first $50 of monthly base pay or, in the case of enlisted men, so much thereof as remains after the serviceman's mandatory contribution to the family dependency allowance, plus (b) 25 percent of his base pay over $50 per month. In exceptional cases it may be determined that the allowable deductions provided above are not adequate to meet the serviceman's needs. In such cases, deviation from the policy stated above may be permitted provided the tenant shows to the satisfaction of the Community Manager that extraordinary expenses of the serviceman justify additional allowances. (The attached exhibit contains tables showing rates of pay for the various ranks of servicemen, the amount of family allowances for a wife and children and allowable deductions for servicemen away from home.)

(v) Special provision for families with veteran members attending education or training institution. In determining aggregate family income, a veteran attending an educational or training institution shall be considered a member of the family and his entire income included in aggregate family income where (a) the veteran is living with the family, or (b) the veteran is not living with the family but is the head of the family. A veteran son or daughter who is absent from home while attending school and who is not the family head is not considered a family member for this purpose and only such income as he or she may actually contribute to the family shall be included in determining aggregate family income. In any case where the veteran's relationship to the family is other than family head, son or daughter, the manager shall make an appropriate determination based on the facts in the particular circumstance. The amount of $65 per month, (the subsistence allowance payable to a veteran without dependents under the "GI Bill of Rights") shall be deducted from aggregate income to determine net income in the case of a family head who is absent from home while attending an educational or training institution and who is receiving subsistence under the "GI Bill of Rights" or the Veteran's Vocational Rehabilitation Program. In exceptional cases an amount greater than $65 per month may be deducted if it is proved and documented that a greater expense is actually incurred and is reasonable and necessary for the purpose intended. No deductions shall be allowed for the support of a veteran who is living with his family while attending school or who is attending school at his own expense.

PART 631—WAR HOUSING PROGRAM; POLICY

RENTAL AND OCCUPANCY

Section 631.2 is hereby amended, effective January 24, 1947, to read as follows:

§ 631.2 Rental and occupancy. Persons seeking admission to vacant units in these projects should make application to the project manager, to the local authority, or to the regional office having jurisdiction over the project. All projects are subject to the OPA maximum rent regulations. Generally, such rents shall be fair rentals based on value. Where rents charged to families constitute an excessive proportion of family income such rents will, upon application of the tenant but not prior to six months after admission, be adjusted to the net anticipated family income, subject however, to the provision that the adjusted rent to be charged will not be less than the minimum rent established for the project. Families of servicemen and veterans of World War II and families of war workers may, when warranted by family income, have their rents adjusted at admission or any time subsequent thereto, but not below the established minimum rent. PART 631—WAR HOUSING PROGRAM; POLICY

DISPOSITION OF FEDERALLY OWNED WAR HOUSING PROJECTS

Section 631.4 (11 F. R. 177A-913) is hereby amended, effective January 22, 1947, by adding paragraph (e) thereto as follows:

§ 631.4 Disposition of federally owned war housing projects • • •

(e) Reconsideration of temporary character determinations. The FPHA is responsible under section 313 of the Lanham Act for making determinations of temporary character for all war housing under its jurisdiction. Such housing, by terms of the act, is to be removed not later than two years after the termination of the emergency declared by the President on September 8, 1939.

The FPHA recognizes that there may be some instances in which communities may wish to have dwellings which are now classified as temporary remain as part of their permanent housing supplies: Provided, That the dwellings are physically changed in such manner that they are no longer of temporary character. Accordingly, it shall be the policy of the FPHA to give consideration to changes in determinations of temporary character when a community so recommends in its disposition plan (see paragraph (b) of this section) and the prospective purchaser complies with FPHA minimum requirements for physical changes in the structures which will eliminate their substandard character.

The following steps must be taken in connection with changes of temporary character determinations:

(1) The community must recommend in the disposition plan, or in subsequent amendments to such plan, that the housing remain in the community, provided that its temporary character is changed, and that FPHA standards for permanent housing can and will be met.

(2) Any prospective purchaser shall submit plans and specifications of remodeling to the FPHA which shall review them to determine if, after alteration, the project will conform to FPHA minimum requirements for eliminating its substandard character.

(3) If the FPHA agrees that the remodeling will change the character of the housing, the sale of the property may then be effected with such legal safeguards as may be necessary to give the Government a right to enforce the agreement and the making of the required changes.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Office of Indian Affairs

[25 CFR, Part 130]

COLORADO RIVER INDIAN IRRIGATION PROJECT

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE CHARGES

JANUARY 23, 1947.

Pursuant to section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946 (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.), and the acts of Congress approved August 1, 1914 and March 7, 1928 (38 Stat. 583, 45 Stat. 210, 25 U. S. C. 385, 387), and by virtue of authority delegated by the Secretary of the Interior to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs September 14, 1946 (11 F. R. 10297), notice is hereby given of intention to amend §§ 130.6 to 130.8a inclusive, of Title 25, Code of Federal Regulations in the following particulars:

1. By reducing the basic annual per acre operation and maintenance assessment rate for the delivery of water not to exceed 4 acre feet per acre per annum, from $4.50 to $3.50 per acre per annum.

2. With the approval of the Superintendent of the Colorado River Indian Agency a reasonable quantity of water necessary to carry away alkalized salts may be furnished to certain tracts of lands planted to rice with a view to reclaiming the land for not more than two successive years by payment of $3.50 per acre per annum.

3. Water may be delivered to irrigate certain Indian lands not under lease to non-Indian lessees in Townships 8 and 9 N., Ranges 20 and 21 W., S&GRBM, upon the landowners making a partial payment amounting to $1.75 per acre per annum, until such time as in the opinion of the Superintendent the lands are subjugated to the standard being followed in the development of new lands in other parts of the project. The remaining unpaid part of the $3.50 basic charge in such cases shall stand as a lien against the land until paid.

4. To provide that water may be delivered through the project system to residents using reservation lands for stock purposes only by payment in advance of $1.00 for each filling of a stock-water tank.

5. By revising § 130.8a of the existing order of January 31, 1946 to read as follows:

§ 130.8a Advance payment may be waived. Upon certification by the Superintendent that an Indian farming his own land or a tribal assignment, not to exceed 10 acres, is financially unable to pay the required charges on the due dates, water may be delivered to not to exceed such ten acres farmed by such Indian. The charges therefor shall be entered on the accounts, and will stand as a first lien against the land until paid but without penalty for delinquency.

The foregoing proposed changes are to become effective beginning with the irrigation season of 1947 and to continue in effect thereafter until further notice.

Interested persons are hereby given an opportunity to participate in preparing the proposed amendments by submitting their views and data or arguments in writing to William Zeh, District Director, U. S. Indian Service, 4100 Rhoads Circle, Phoenix, Arizona, within 30 days from the date of the publication of this notice of intention in the daily issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket No. 6768]

FM BROADCASTING OTHER THAN NON-COMMERCIAL EDUCATIONAL BROADCAST SERVICE

PROMULGATION OF RULES AND REGULATIONS AND STANDARDS OF GOOD ENGINEERING PRACTICE

JANUARY 16, 1947.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. A new paragraph (d) is proposed to be added to § 3.203 of Part III, Subpart B of rules and regulations as follows:

(d) No assignments will be made on Channels 297, 298, 299 and 300 until July 1, 1947.

3. Following a public hearing on July 12, 1946, the Commission promulgated § 3.204 (c) (11 F. R. 9703) of the rules and regulations withholding, for the period ending June 30, 1947, the assignment of one out of every five Class B channels which have been tentatively allocated for various areas throughout the United States. During that hearing, the advisability of reserving Class A channels was suggested. The Commission's public notice of July 18, 1946, announcing the reservation of Class B FM channels, stated that the Commission would study further the question of reserving Class A channels.

4. Due to the heavy demand for Class A FM stations in certain areas, such as those adjacent to New York City and Los Angeles, it appears necessary to provide means which will permit an equitable distribution of Class A stations and maximum utilization of Class A channels. It is believed that a reservation policy for Class A channels, similar to the present Class B reservation policy is desirable for these purposes. It has become apparent that communities in some congested areas may ultimately lack Class A service due solely to the assignment of all available channels prior to receipt of applications from these communities. Since it is not known for what cities Class A applications will be received, the Commission cannot now devise an allocation of Class A channels for congested areas which would make maximum use of the available frequencies.

5. In the areas of New York City and Los Angeles, the demand for Class A channels is rapidly approaching the number of channels available for assignment. The Commission will continue to grant Class A stations in these and other areas on channels below 297 where such assignments are permissible from an interference standpoint. Station locations will, therefore, be important in determining whether additional Class A assignments may be made at this time in the New York City and Los Angeles areas. Applications received which cannot be granted due to the unavailability of channel assignments will be held for consideration until July 1, 1947, at which time all pending applications will be given equal consideration regardless of their respective filing dates.

6. At the time such applications are considered by the Commission consideration will also be given to the possibility of changing Class A frequency assignments in congested areas in order that improved and additional allocation of Class A facilities may be permitted.

7. On the basis of the information presently available, it does not appear that adoption of the proposed rule would preclude the grant of any application now on file. The proposed rule would affect only future applications for the areas of Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and New York City. It is particularly important for Class A FM channels to be reserved in these areas in order to insure so far as possible that the numerous small communities surrounding these large cities have an opportunity to obtain their own FM station.

8. The proposed rule is issued under the authority of sections 303 (c), 303 (r), and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

9. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed rule should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth, may file with the Commission on or before January 31, 1947, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. The Commission will consider these written comments before adopting the proposed rule and if comments are submitted which appear to warrant the Commission holding an oral argument, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given.

(c) Materials to be transferred. The material included in the Commission's specifications on the right, or permanent, side of the personnel folder constitutes the employee's official record of service and, as such, is required to be transferred. Agencies may, but are not required to, release or transfer confidential material. In making a decision as to whether confidential material should be transferred, agencies should consider that such material is being transferred to another branch of the Federal Government where it will continue to be maintained as confidential.

(d) Record of transfer. Upon transmittal of the Official Personnel Folder to another agency, the releasing agency will record the name of the employee and the name and location of the agency to which the file is being transferred, together with the date of its transfer. Whenever possible, agencies should utilize for this purpose an appropriate existing record such as an employee record card. If such a record is not available, a card may be established recording the transfer.

§ 30.5 Requests for information about employees whose folders have been transferred to other agencies. Requests for information regarding an employee who has transferred should be forwarded for reply to the office or agency to which the employee transferred.

§ 30.6 Official personnel folder upon reemployment in Federal service. When a former Federal employee is reemployed, the employing agency should request his personnel folder, by letter, from the personnel office of the agency in which he was last employed.

§ 30.7 Exceptions. Officers located outside of the continental United States may, in the discretion of the agency, be exempted from the use of the standard Official Personnel Folder and the regulations in this part.

§ 30.8 How to order the Official Personnel Folder. The Official Personnel Folder is procurable from the Treasury Department, Procurement Division, in Washington, D. C., and its Regional Supply Centers. In ordering, refer to the Official Personnel Folder, Stock No. 53-F-4643.

§ 30.9 Standard Form No. 63, Request for Personnel Data and Leave Transcripts.[1] Effective 30 days from the date of publication of the regulations in this part in the FEDERAL REGISTER, agencies will no longer use Standard Form No. 63 to verify the effective date of transfers and to obtain information for use in determining eligibility for periodic pay increases. This form will be abolished.

The official date on which the transfer has become effective will be obtained from the copy of Standard Form 50 which is sent the employing agency; promotion and other personnel information will be obtained from the Official Personnel Folder when received.

[1] Not filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

§ 30.10 Requests for further information. Inquiries with regard to the Official Personnel Folder should be made in writing to the Personnel Procedures and Records Project Staff, Room 216, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 30.11 Specifications for Official Personnel Folder—(a) Type of folder. Letter size, kraft, heavy weight, individual reinforced tab (approximately $\frac{2}{5}$ cut right of center), contents secured with built-in metal fasteners at top of back flap and bottom of front flap. Material to be filed on permanent (or right hand) side of folder to be punched and fastened at top of sheet. Material to be filed on temporary (or left hand) side to be punched and fastened at bottom of sheet. White or buff colored labels shall be used for identifying the folder, with the employee's last name first, followed by his first name and middle intials, if any, and date of birth expressed as month, day and year, that is, Oct. 30/26, followed by identification number, if any. The name on the employee's personnel folder shall correspond to his name on the rolls of the agency. The following information will be printed on the front of the folder: Official Personnel Folder.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VII—Production and Marketing Administration (Agricultural Adjustment)

PART 725—BURLEY AND FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

PROCLAMATION INCREASING NATIONAL MARKETING QUOTA FOR FLUE-CURED TOBACCO FOR THE 1947–48 MARKETING YEAR

The amendments herein are based on the tobacco marketing quota provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1311–1314, inclusive). The purpose of the first amendment is to increase the national marketing quota proclaimed on July 1, 1946 (11 F. R. 7399) in order to meet market demands for flue-cured tobacco for the 1947–48 marketing year. Such amendment increasing the national marketing quota is specifically authorized by section 312 (a) of the act which provides that the quota may be increased by as much as 20 per centum at any time prior to March 1, 1947. The purpose of the second amendment is to apportion the national marketing quota, as increased, among the several States in accordance with the provisions of section 313 (a) of the act. Prior to determining that an increase in the national marketing quota is required, the amount of such increase, and the apportionment of the quota among the several States, public notice of the proposed action was given (11 F. R. 14249) in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237). The views and recommendations of flue-cured tobacco growers and other interested persons have been duly considered, within the limits prescribed by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, in increasing and apportioning the quota.

In view of the fact that growers of flue-cured tobacco are now preparing plant beds, purchasing fertilizer, and preparing the land on which tobacco will be transplanted, it is hereby determined and found that the amendments herein should, and the same hereby shall, become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER in order that the national marketing quota, as apportioned among the several States and converted into the State acreage allotments, may be apportioned among farms and the operators notified of their farm acreage allotments and marketing quotas as soon as it is administratively possible to do so.

Section 725.301 of the proclamation made by the Secretary of Agriculture on July 1, 1946 (11 F. R. 7399) is amended by adding the following paragraphs (c) and (d):

§ 725.301 Findings and determinations with respect to the national marketing quota for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1947. • • •

(c) Increase in national marketing quota to meet market demands. In order to meet market demands it is hereby determined that the amount of the national marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1947, as proclaimed in paragraph (b) of this section (11 F. R. 7399), should, and the same hereby shall, be increased by 10 per centum. Therefore, the amount of the national marketing quota in terms of the total quantity of flue-cured tobacco which may be marketed during the marketing year beginning July 1, 1947, as increased, is 1,262,800,000 pounds.

(d) Apportionment of the national marketing quota among the States. The national marketing quota proclaimed in paragraph (b) of this section and increased by paragraph (c) of this section is hereby apportioned among the several States pursuant to section 313 (a) of the act and converted into State acreage allotments in accordance with section 313 (g) of the act, as follows:

State:	Acreage allotment
Alabama	507
Florida	25,285
Georgia	123,298
North Carolina	825,462
South Carolina	141,727
Virginia	125,975
Reserve [1]	12,553
Total	1,254,807

[1] Acreage reserved for establishing allotments for farms upon which no flue-cured tobacco has been grown during the past five years.

(52 Stat. 46, 47; 53 Stat. 1261; 56 Stat. 121; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 1312 (a), 1313 (a), 1313 (g))

Done at Washington, D. C., this 27th day of January 1947. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

§ 223.1 Statutory authority and purpose. The regulations in this part are hereby issued and promulgated pursuant to R. S. 161, 5 U. S. C., 22, and the act of February 25, 1920, sec. 32, 41 Stat. 450, 30 U. S. C., 189. The purpose of the regulations in this part is to simplify procedure and facilitate the approval of sales agreements or contracts covering the disposal of products from oil and gas leases submitted by or in behalf of the holders of such leases pursuant to the lease terms and the applicable operating regulations by delegating to the oil and gas supervisors of the Geological Survey and to the Director of the Geological Survey authority to act for the Secretary of the Interior in approving such sales agreements or contracts.

§ 223.2 Final approval by the oil and gas supervisor of sales agreements or contracts for 1 year or less. The supervisor may hereafter act for the Secretary of the Interior in finally approving sales agreements or contracts submitted pursuant to the lease terms if (a) they are for a fixed term of 1 year or less and do not provide for extension beyond their fixed term at the option of either or both of the parties thereto, and (b) their provisions are otherwise acceptable to the supervisor. Where the agreements or contracts meet the aforesaid requirements, the supervisor will notify the proper parties of his approval thereof as a method of disposal.

§ 223.3 Action by the oil and gas supervisor where sales agreements or contracts for 1 year or less are unacceptable. If any agreement or contract submitted pursuant to § 223.2 contains provisions which are unacceptable to the super-

§ 223.4 Conditional approval by the oil and gas supervisor of acceptable sales agreements or contracts for more than 1 year. If any agreement or contract covering the disposal of oil and gas lease products is for a fixed term of more than 1 year or is for a term of 1 year or less but grants to either or both of the parties thereto the option to extend its term beyond 1 year, the supervisor, if the agreement or contract is deemed satisfactory and either contains the substance of or is accompanied by the stipulation set forth below, signed by the designated operator or lessee, shall notify the parties of his approval of such agreement or contract as a method of disposal, subject to any condition, modification, or revocation that may be prescribed upon review thereof by the Director of the Geological Survey.

The stipulation, the substance of which must either be included in the agreement or contract, or be made the subject matter of a separate instrument properly identifying the leases affected thereby, is as follows:

It is hereby understood and agreed that approval of the agreement in question shall be subject to the condition that nothing therein shall be construed as affecting any of the relations between the United States and its lessee, particularly in matters of gas waste, taking royalty in kind and the method of computing royalties due as based on a minimum valuation and in accordance with the terms and provisions of the oil and gas operating regulations applicable to the lands covered by said agreement.

§ 223.5 Action by the oil and gas supervisor where sales agreements or contracts for more than 1 year are unacceptable. If any agreement or contract submitted for approval pursuant to § 223.4 contains provisions which are unacceptable or does not contain the substance of or is not accompanied by the stipulation prescribed in § 223.4, the supervisor shall direct the parties in interest to cure the objectionable provisions. Upon failure to comply with such requirements the supervisor shall reject the agreement or contract subject to the right of appeal to the Director of the Geological Survey as provided in 30 CFR 221.66.

§ 223.6 Action by Director, Geological Survey, on sales agreements or contracts conditionally approved by the supervisor. The completed original or duplicate original of the agreement or contract and one additional simple copy thereof, together with a copy of the conditional approval of the supervisor shall be transmitted to the Director of the Geological Survey for final approval. Upon review of the agreement or contract the Director of the Geological Survey will either (a) advise the parties in interest that the approval of the supervisor is confirmed; or (b) require such amendment or modification of the agreement or contract as the Director may deem appropriate. Upon failure of the parties in interest to comply with any requirement within such reasonable time as may be fixed by the Director, the agreement or contract will be rejected subject to the right of appeal to the Secretary of the Interior as provided in 30 CFR 221.66.

§ 223.7 Submittal of agreements or contracts, number required. The supervisor shall require the original or duplicate original and two additional copies or photostats of each agreement or contract to be filed promptly in his office after execution of such agreement or contract.

PART 4600—RUBBER, SYNTHETIC RUBBER AND PRODUCTS THEREOF

[Rubber Order R-1, as Amended Dec. 31, 1946, Amdt. 1]

Rubber Order R-1, as amended December 31, 1946 is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Amend § 4600.03a by adding a new paragraph as follows:

(b) Natural rubber latex cement for shoe manufacturers. (1) No person shall use any natural rubber latex cement in the manufacture of shoes unless he has been specifically authorized to do so by the CPA. Certain manufacturers of shoes have demonstrated that the lack of natural rubber latex cement in some of their operations has resulted in the manufacture of inferior quality shoes. Since this condition is not uniform throughout the entire shoe manufacturing industry, and since the supply of natural rubber latex for this purpose is very limited, the CPA will consider authorizations to shoe manufacturers to use natural rubber latex cement only on individual applications on Form CPA-2242. Such applications must give full details as to manufacturing operations and indicate the technical reasons requiring the use of natural rubber latex cement in specific operations. Those shoe manufacturers who make their own cement should also apply on Form CPA-2242 for the natural rubber latex they need for consumption in making cement for their own operations.

(2) Shoe manufacturers who received authorizations to use natural rubber latex cement under paragraph (b) (1) above may obtain such cement from rubber cement manufacturers only by furnishing a written certificate in substantially the following language signed as provided in Priorities Regulation 7.

The undersigned hereby certifies, subject to the criminal penalties for misrepresentations contained in section 35 (A) of the U. S. Criminal Code that he has been authorized to use in the manufacture of new shoes natural rubber latex cement containing — pounds of dry solid content of natural rubber latex. The natural rubber latex content of the cement covered by this purchase order and all other purchase orders placed by him, plus any quantity consumed by him, do not exceed the quantity he has been authorized to use.

(3) Any person (other than a shoe manufacturer) who needs natural rubber latex to consume in making cement for new shoes may apply on Form CPA-4562 to the Rubber Division, CPA, for permission to accept delivery. The amounts to be authorized for initial inventory will be determined by CPA, and later authorizations will be issued only for amounts necessary to replace inventory consumed in accordance with this paragraph (b). Any natural rubber latex obtained under such authorization by a person not a shoe manufacturer may be consumed to make cement only to fill specific purchase orders from shoe manufacturers bearing the certification specified in paragraph (b) (2) above, and natural rubber latex cement so manufactured may be sold only on such orders.

TITLE 39—POSTAL SERVICE

Chapter I—Post Office Department

Subchapter B—Regulations

PART 19—TRANSPORTATION OF MAILS

MAILS FOR ALASKA

Add new § 19.5, to read as follows:

§ 19.5 Mails for Alaska; winter restrictions. (a) All mails for Alaska are dispatched from Seattle, Washington. During the season of navigation all classes of mail are dispatched. During the winter season (from about November 1 to April 1) on account of the difficulty of transportation, the dispatch of mail for post offices on the Seward Peninsula is limited, preference being given, first, to letters in their usual and ordinary form, postal cards, and packages of seeds not exceeding 1 pound per package; second, to single newspapers and magazines addressed to public libraries, newspaper publishers, and to individuals. Books, catalogs, newspapers and periodicals sent to dealers for purposes of trade or otherwise, and merchandise (parcel-post matter), except packages of seeds not exceeding 1 pound per package, cannot be forwarded to offices on the Seward Peninsula during the winter season. But, as an exception to the foregoing, when the weight limit of mail for dispatch will permit, articles or merchandise, not exceeding a few ounces each, which the proper officers of the Postal Service have reason to believe contain articles of urgent necessity, such as eyeglasses, medicines, etc., for individual use, but not intended primarily for trade, may be enclosed in the mails for dispatch. Offices in Alaska to which only a limited amount of mail may be sent in the winter are designated "R" in the State list of post offices. The list of restricted offices is as follows:

Barrow, Candle, Council, Deering, Elim, Cambell, Golovin, Hayecek, Igloo, Kiana, Kivalina, Kobuk, Kotzebue, Koyuk, Moses Point, Noatak, Nome, Noorvik, Point Hope, Savconga, Selawik, Shishmaref, Solomon, Shungnak, Teller, Wainwright, Wales, White Mountain.

(b) Affixing special-handling stamps to the mail matter excluded under paragraph (a) of this section will not entitle it to preferred treatment. (R. S. 161, 396; sec. 304, 309, 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369)

PART 21—INTERNATIONAL POSTAL SERVICE

SERVICE TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES

The regulations under the country "Germany" (39 CFR, Part 21), as amended (11 F. R. 14517), are further amended by the addition of the following:

Gift parcels for prisoners of war held abroad. (a) Ordinary (unregistered and uninsured) gift parcels not exceeding $25 in value may be sent by parcel post free of postage to German prisoners of war held abroad by American, British or French Forces under the following general conditions:

(1) The wrappers of the parcels must be endorsed "Prisoner of War—Gift Parcel" and "Postage Free."

(2) The parcels shall not be sealed, and shall be packed closely, and carefully and securely wrapped in a manner which will facilitate opening for inspection.

(3) Maximum weight: 11 pounds. Maximum size: 72 inches length and girth combined. Greatest length, 42 inches.

(4) The contents of each parcel shall be listed on a customs declaration (Form 2966 or, in the case of parcels for prisoners held by the French, Form 2967) which shall be affixed to the outside of the parcel. On the customs declaration shall be written "Gift Parcel." No other postal forms are required to accompany the parcels.

(5) The parcels shall be dispatched to New York, N. Y., for forwarding abroad.

The following special conditions also apply, as shown:

(b) American-held prisoners of war. (1) Parcels may be accepted for mailing to American-held prisoners of war only under authority of a "Prisoner of War—Gift Parcel" label issued by the American authorities in Europe to the prisoner of war concerned. It is understood this label will show the name and address of the prisoner of war as well as the name and address of the sender, so that it may be pasted on the parcel as an address label. Only one label per week will be furnished an American-held prisoner of war. These labels are not transferable.

(2) Contents permitted are nonperishable foodstuffs, clothing, soap, mailable medical supplies and similar items for relief of human suffering. No parcel shall contain any written or printed matter of any kind.

(3) Parcels which prove to be undeliverable as addressed will be turned over to German welfare agencies.

(c) British-held prisoners of war. (1) Parcels may be accepted for mailing to British-held prisoners of war only under authority of an official label issued in the United Kingdom to the prisoner of war in favor of a person whose kinship is nearer than first cousin to the prisoner. This label will be sent by the prisoner concerned to his relative. Although no detailed description of the label to be used has been furnished, this Office has been advised it will show the correct address of the prisoner of war and the parcels will be delivered to the prisoner of war only if they carry this official label, by which it is understood the label is to be pasted on the outside of the parcel.

Each prisoner is to be allowed not more than one parcel label every 3 months.

(2) Contents permitted are nonperishable foodstuffs, clothing, soap, mailable medical supplies, and similar items for relief of human suffering. No parcel shall contain any written or printed matter of any kind.

Any prohibited articles found in the parcels when they are checked by the British authorities will be liable to be confiscated.

(d) French-held prisoners of war. (1) No labels will be issued for the sending of parcels to French-held prisoners of war. However, not more than one parcel per week may be sent by the same sender to the same French-held prisoner of war.

(2) Parcels may be addressed only to depots, and in no case to sanitary units ("Formations sanitaries"), labor camps, or care of persons who employ the prisoners. The address should include: Surname, first name, registration number of the prisoner, depot number, city, Department. Inside each parcel must be enclosed a slip showing the name and address of the sender and the surname, first name and registration number of the addressee.

(3) Contents permitted are nonperishable foodstuffs, clothing, soap, and similar items for relief of human suffering. The French authorities advised, "Civilian clothing and underwear which could be worn as if it were apparently the clothing of a civilian are prohibited." These authorities also advised that (i) sweaters and pull-overs are authorized and that this provision is to be interpreted liberally in view of the present scarcity of clothing, and (ii) that medicines of every kind and in every form, tubes of vaseline, ammonia, solidified, in solution or in liquid form are prohibited. No parcel shall contain any written or printed matter of any kind, except the slip mentioned in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

Subchapter C—Motorboats and Certain Vessels Propelled by Machinery Other Than by Steam More Than 65 Feet in Length

[CGFR-47-3]

PART 29—NUMBERING OF UNDOCUMENTED VESSELS

AMENDMENTS TO REGULATIONS

A notice regarding the proposed changes in the regulations about numbering undocumented vessels was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, dated September 27, 1946 (11 F. R. 11014), and a public hearing was held by the Merchant Marine Council on October 22, 1946, at Washington, D. C. All the written and oral comments and suggestions submitted were considered by the Merchant Marine Council and where practicable incorporated into the amendments to the regulations.

By virtue of the authority vested in me, the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed which shall become effective on the thirty-first day after the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER:

Section 29.8 Procedure relating to numbering of motorboats is hereby canceled and the following regulations are issued in its stead:

Sec.
29.8 Basis and purpose of numbering regulations.
29.10 Vessels required to be numbered.
29.12 Vessels not required to be numbered.
29.14 Application for certificate of award of number.
29.16 Documentary evidence of ownership.
29.18 Award of number.
29.20 Certificate of award of number kept on board undocumented vessel.
29.22 Sales of undocumented vessels to aliens.
29.24 Owner furnishing information when changes occur.
29.26 Procedure upon change of permanent residence.
29.28 Number assigned required on bows of undocumented vessel.

AUTHORITY: §§ 29.8 to 29.28, inclusive, issued under sec. 1, 40 Stat. 602; 46 U. S. C. 288; Reorg. Plan No. 3, 1946; 11 F. R. 7875. Statutes giving additional authority are cited in parenthesis at the end of affected sections.

§ 29.8 Basis and purpose of numbering regulations. By virtue of the authority vested in the Commandant of the Coast Guard under section 101 of the Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946 (11 F. R. 7875) and the act of June 7, 1918, as amended (46 U. S. C. 288), the regulations in this part are prescribed to provide adequate means for numbering of undocumented vessels in accordance with the intent of the statute and to obtain its correct and uniform administration.

§ 29.10 Vessels required to be numbered. The following undocumented vessels are required to be numbered:

(a) All vessels equipped with permanently installed motors.

(b) All vessels over 16 feet in length equipped with detachable motors.

§ 29.12 Vessels not required to be numbered. (a) The following undocumented vessels are not required to be numbered:

(1) All vessels not exceeding 16 feet in length temporarily equipped with detachable motors.

(2) Public vessels.

(3) Motor lifeboats carried as lifesaving equipment on inspected vessels.

(b) The words "temporarily equipped with detachable motors" shall be construed to mean outboard motors which are clamped or otherwise temporarily fastened as distinguished from outboard motors bolted or otherwise permanently secured. The controlling principle shall be whether or not the vessel has permanently installed motors rather than the design or construction of the vessel.

(c) Undocumented vessels listed in paragraph (a) of this section will not be numbered except upon instructions of the Commandant.

§ 29.14 Application for certificate of award of number. (a) The owner of any undocumented vessel however acquired, or his duly authorized agent, shall make application for a certificate of award of number to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, United States Coast Guard, having jurisdiction over the area in which the vessel is owned. If the boat is to be in the possession of a person other than the person who holds title thereto under a conditional sales or retain title contract or similar arrangement under which title does not pass, the application shall be made by the person who holds legal title.

(b) Upon purchasing or acquiring a vessel which previously has been issued a certificate of award of number, and after completion of the bill of sale on the reverse side of the certificate of award of number (Form CG 1513)[1] by the vendor or the former owner, the purchaser will execute the application for number for undocumented motor vessel, which is incorporated on the reverse side of the certificate of award of number, and surrender the certificate, bill of sale, and application for a new number (which are all on Form CG 1513) to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, within the statutory period of 10 days.

(c) In the case of new vessels or in the case of vessels which have not been previously numbered or in the case of vessels which have been issued the old form of certificate of award of number (NAVCG 1513), which does not contain the application, the owner of the vessel or his duly authorized agent shall make the application in duplicate for a number on Form CG 1512,[1] application for number for undocumented motor vessel, and shall surrender this form, after completion, together with documentary evidence of ownership or the certificate of award of number with the bill of sale properly executed, to the proper Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection.

§ 29.16 Documentary evidence of ownership. The Coast Guard District Commander or the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, who receives the application for an award of number will satisfy himself that the applicant has legal title to the vessel. Any case in which ownership or legal title is in doubt will be referred to the Commandant. Original ownership may be proved by the purchaser as follows:

(a) Bill of sale.

(b) Receipted bills for material used in construction.

(c) Statement of reputable boat building concern signed by an owner, officer or duly authorized agent thereof that the boat was constructed for the applicant in its factory or yard.

(d) In the case of vessels sold as surplus property by the United States Maritime Commission or the War Shipping Administration, the papers furnished the successful bidder in the form of a sale order or certificate of delivery of vessel, as the case may be, shall be accepted as sufficient evidence of ownership.

(e) Such other evidence of ownership as is acceptable to the Coast Guard District Commander or the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection.

§ 29.18 Award of number. A number will be awarded by the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, upon receipt of the application together with proof of ownership and a letter, in lieu of the certificate, will be issued by him authorizing the vessel to be operated, pending issuance of the certificate. The Coast Guard District Commander will issue the certificate of award of number in all instances except where he has designated and authorized officers or employees under his command to issue such certificates in his behalf.

§ 29.20 Certificate of award of number kept on board undocumented vessel. (a) The certificate of award of number for an undocumented vessel shall be kept on board at all times and shall be accessible to the person in charge except when such certificate is in the custody of the Coast Guard District Commander or the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection. This requirement, however, does not apply to any vessel not exceeding 17 feet in length, measured from end to end over the deck, excluding sheer, nor to any vessel regardless of length if the design of fittings is such that the carrying of the certificate of number on board would render it imperfect, illegible or would tend to destroy its use as a means of ready identification.

(b) In the case where a letter is issued assigning a number previous to the issuance of a certificate of award of number, the new owner may operate such vessel without penalty for failure to have such certificate of award of number if the letter is carried and produced when necessary for identification. (R. S. 5294, as amended, sec. 21, 54 Stat. 167, 18 U. S. C. 642, 46 U. S. C. 526t)

§ 29.22 Sales of undocumented vessels to aliens. For the duration of the war the issuance of a certificate of award of number to a vessel, the sale or transfer of which, in whole or in part, is subject to section 37 of the Shipping Act, 1916, as amended (46 U. S. C. 835), shall be subject to the United States Maritime Commission's General Order 58, as revised (10 F. R. 14210). For a vessel less than 1,000 gross tons and not documented under the laws of the United States, General Order 58 gives blanket approval to the sale, mortgage, lease, charter, delivery, or transfer and agreement for the sale, mortgage, lease, charter, delivery, or transfer to any person not a citizen of the United States of any vessel or interest therein owned in whole or in part by any person who is a citizen of the United States or by a corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any state, territory, district or possession thereof. For a vessel documented under the laws of the United States or a vessel 1,000 gross tons or over, prior approval of the sale by the Maritime Commission is required.

§ 29.24 Owner furnishing information when changes occur. (a) The owner of a numbered vessel shall notify the Coast Guard District Commander or Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, within ten days, if:

(1) The vessel is lost, destroyed, or abandoned.

(2) The vessel is transferred from one person to another; or

(3) He moves his permanent residence to a place in another customs district or to a place within the jurisdiction of another Coast Guard District Commander.

(b) In the case of change of ownership, loss, destruction, or abandonment of a numbered vessel, the notice shall be accompanied by a surrender of the certificate of award of number if it is in existence.

§ 29.26 Procedure upon change of permanent residence. If the owner has moved his permanent residence to a place in another customs district or to a place within the jurisdiction of another Coast Guard District Commander, the original number will be retained by the vessel and the owner's change of permanent residence shall not be a cause for the surrender of the certificate except under special instructions of the Commandant. However, vessels sold into another customs district or Coast Guard district may be renumbered anew.

§ 29.28 Number assigned required on bows of undocumented vessel. (a) Every undocumented vessel required to be numbered shall have the number awarded or assigned painted on or attached to each bow so that the number reads from left to right.

(b) The number shall be in block characters of good proportion, not less than three inches in height, and parallel with the water line as near the forward end of the bow as legibility of the entire number for surface and aerial identification permits. The number shall be located as high above the water line as practicable, but in no case less than three inches from the bottom of the numbers to the water line.

(c) The numbers shall be of a color which will contrast with the color of the hull so as to be distinctly visible and legible; i. e., if the hull is light, the color of the numbers shall be dark, or if the hull is dark, the color of the numbers shall be light.

Dated: January 24, 1947.

RETIREMENT UNITS

34.1–6–1 List of units to be used in connection with the accounting provided in § 34.1–6.

AUTHORITY: §§ 34.01–1 to 34.1–6–1, inclusive, issued under sec. 220, 48 Stat. 1078; 47 U. S. C. 220.

NOTE: In preparing this compilation, the Commission has had in mind the necessity for an arrangement which would make the rules conveniently accessible and one which would also make provision for future amendments. To this end all the existing rules have been logically arranged under 32 parts, which have been suitably subdivided, employing nonconsecutive part numbers from 1 to 65, making provision for substitutions and additions.

The several section numbers indicate the relationship among the instructions and accounts of Part 34, as follows:

Examples:

(1) § 34.01–1.
(2) § 34.10–1.
(3) § 34.1–2.
(4) § 34.1000.
(5) § 34.11.
(6) § 34.1515.

Explanation. The number "34" (appearing to the left of the decimal point) indicates the part number.

The dash (–) indicates an instruction that is applicable to several accounts. (See examples (1), (2), and (3).)

With the exception of the instructions that are applicable to more than one group of accounts (which are indicated by a zero following the decimal point), the number between the decimal point and the dash indicates the group of accounts to which the instruction is applicable by the use of a mnemonic method of indication consisting of the first two digits of the first account in a group composed of four-digit account numbers, and the first digit of the first account in a group composed of two-digit account numbers (applicable only to the plant accounts in this system of accounts). Thus, in the foregoing examples:

Section 34.01–1 refers to several groups of accounts;

Section 34.10–1 refers to the balance-sheet accounts (beginning with account 1000);

Section 34.1–2 refers to the plant accounts (beginning with account 11).

When no dash appears in the section number, the number to the right of the decimal point is an account number. (See examples (4), (5), and (6).) A colon (:) indicates the subdivision of an account, the number to the right of the colon being the subaccount number. Where references throughout the regulations are to an account, as such, only the account number is used.

§ 34.01–3 Determination of class. (a) The class to which any carrier belongs shall be determined by the average of its annual operating revenues for the 3 years immediately preceding the effective date of this system of accounts. If at the close of any subsequent calendar year the average of its annual operating revenues for the latest 3 years is greater than the amount applicable to the class in which the carrier has been previously includible, the account applicable to the higher class shall be adopted.

(b) Carriers not engaged in furnishing radiotelegraph service over the 3-year period immediately preceding the effective date of this system of accounts shall estimate the amount of their annual operating revenues and keep the accounts applicable to carriers having actual revenues in the amount estimated.

NOTE: The periods for which these records are to be retained are set forth in Part 25, "Destruction of records," under Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Telecommunication.[1]

§ 34.03–2 Basis of entries in books of account. (a) Amounts entered in the books of account shall be in denominations of United States currency. When subsidiary records are kept in which entries are made in foreign currencies, the conversion to United States currency for entry in the books of account shall be effected as prescribed in § 34.03–16.

(b) The books of account shall be so maintained that when the full information is not recorded therein the entries shall contain sufficient reference to the supporting records to permit ready identification.

(c) Each carrier shall keep its books of account on a calendar-month basis so that for each month all transactions applicable thereto, as nearly as may be ascertained, will be entered in the books. The final entries for any month shall be made not later than 60 days after the last day of the month for which the accounts are stated, except that the period within which the final entries for the month of December shall be made may be extended to such date as will not interfere with the preparation and filing of annual reports as required by section 219 of the act.

[1] Part 25 is now Part 42.

(d) The books of account shall be maintained independently for each carrier and shall not be combined with those of any other person.

§ 34.03–3 Records supporting accounting entries. Supporting records shall be maintained in which shall be shown the full details concerning any entry in the books of account for which the details are not shown in the accounts themselves. The supporting records referred to herein include, in addition to accounting records in a limited technical sense, all records such as minute books, stock books, reports, correspondence, memoranda, and any and all other records that would be useful in developing the history of or the facts regarding any transaction. The detail records shall be so filed as to be readily accessible for examination by representatives of this Commission.

§ 34.03–4 Transactions with affiliates. Each carrier shall so maintain its accounts and records as to be able to furnish accurately and expeditiously a statement of all transactions with affiliates. This statement shall show the general nature of the transactions, the amounts involved therein, and the amounts included in each account prescribed herein with respect to such transactions.

§ 34.03–5 Summary accounts, subaccounts, additional clearing accounts, and temporary or experimental accounts. (a) Accounts that are clearly summaries of other accounts or subaccounts provided for herein are not required to be kept in the carrier's books of account. However, such accounts may be opened in the general books for control purposes.

(b) All accounts kept shall conform in number and title to those prescribed herein, except that:

(1) Carriers may subdivide any of the accounts, provided such subdivisions do not impair the integrity of the prescribed accounts. The titles of all such subdivisions shall refer by number or title to the account or accounts of which they are subdivisions.

(2) Clearing accounts (in addition to those prescribed) and temporary or experimental accounts may be kept, provided such additional accounts do not impair the integrity of the prescribed accounts.

(3) Within 90 days from the effective date of this system of accounts, the carrier shall notify this Commission of the nature and purpose of (i) the subdivisions of the prescribed accounts, (ii) the temporary accounts, (iii) experimental accounts, and (iv) additional clearing accounts, opened under authority of this section. The carrier shall continue to keep the Commission informed of all additional accounts (or subaccounts) of these types opened after such effective date.

NOTE: Only one item need be reported for a group of subaccounts that differ from each other only with respect to geographical location or type of material.

§ 34.03–6 Transferring balances from accounts previously maintained. As at the effective date of this system of accounts, the several accounts prescribed herein shall be opened by transferring thereto the balances carried in the accounts previously maintained by the carrier. The carrier is authorized to make such subdivisions, reclassifications, or consolidations of these balances as are necessary to meet the requirements of this system of accounts. Entries that require the determination of cost by estimates shall be supported by records showing in complete detail the methods used in arriving at or computing the amounts thereof. Copies of journal entries recorded to effect the transfers, and a detailed statement of the methods used in arriving at or computing estimated costs, shall be filed with this Commission within 90 days from the dates of the entries.

§ 34.03–7 Charges to be just and reasonable. All charges to the accounts prescribed in this system of accounts for plant, operating revenues and operating expenses, and other operating revenue deductions, shall be just and reasonable, and any payments by the carrier in excess of such just and reasonable charges shall be included in account 5299, "Other deductions from ordinary income."

§ 34.03–8 Entries involving telephone, wire-telegraph, or ocean-cable service. (a) When radiotelegraph carriers are engaged also in furnishing telephone, wire-telegraph, or ocean-cable services through the utilization of distinctive portions of their facilities devoted exclusively or primarily to such services, they shall maintain their accounts for plant, operating revenues, operating expenses, and other items applicable to each such service in conformity with the respective effective rules governing carriers engaged primarily in furnishing such service.

(b) The cost of distinctive telephone, wire-telegraph, or ocean-cable plant shall be reported in account 1530, "Telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant." The amounts in the allowance accounts for depreciation and amortization of such plant shall be reported in account 1535, "Allowance for depreciation and amortization; telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant." The amount of revenue derived from the operation of such plant shall be reported in account 3918, "Telephone revenue; telephone systems," or account 3928, "Wire-telegraph and ocean-cable revenue; wire systems," as appropriate. The amounts of operating revenue deductions applicable to the operation of such plant shall be reported in account 4945, "Telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable operating revenue deductions."

(c) When the major use of a particular portion of the carrier's plant is in radiotelegraph service, but the same facilities are used also in other types of communication service in a manner preventing the distinction of the physical elements associable with such services, the distribution of the operating revenues, operating expenses, and other deductions from operating revenues among the several classes of communication service where directly applicable shall be accomplished by subdivisions of the prescribed accounts, except that revenues derived from telephone service rendered through the use of such plant shall be included in account 3648, "Telephone service revenues." (See also § 34.03–17.)

§ 34.03–9 Sequence of accounts not indicative of reports required. The order in which the accounts are presented in this system of accounts is not to be considered as necessarily indicative of the order in which they will be scheduled at all times in reports to this Commission. The sequence contemplated (until further notice) will be as indicated in the respective forms which immediately precede the texts for the several groups of accounts.

§ 34.03–10 Research and development. (a) The cost of preliminary surveys, plans, and investigations made for the purpose of determining the feasibility of contemplated major projects shall be charged to account 1935, "Preliminary survey and investigation charges," and subsequently cleared therefrom in accordance with the text of that account.

(b) The cost of research and development work such as laboratory expenses and other research items that can not be assigned to specific construction projects shall be charged to account 9010, "Research and development; undistributed," and subsequently cleared therefrom in accordance with the text of that account.

§ 34.03–11 Interpretation of the prescribed accounting. Responsible accounting officials of the carrier shall submit all questions involving interpretation of the prescribed accounting to this Commission for consideration and decision.

§ 34.03–12 Interpretation of item lists. The lists of items following the texts of the several accounts are for the purpose of indicating the application of the prescribed accounting in specific cases. The lists are not to be considered as comprising all the items includible in the several accounts, but merely representative of them. Inasmuch as the same item frequently appears in more than one list, the appearance of an item in a list warrants the inclusion of such item in the account concerned only when the text of the account also indicates its inclusion. The proper entry in each instance must be determined by the text of the account.

§ 34.03–13 Delayed items. Delayed items shall be charged or credited to the same accounts that would have been charged or credited if the items had not been delayed: Provided, That when the amount of a delayed item is relatively so large that its inclusion in the accounts for a single year would seriously distort the accounts for that year, the carrier shall charge or credit the amount to account 6210, "Delayed income charges," or account 6110, "Delayed income credits," as appropriate. Within 30 days from the dates of the entries the carrier shall file with this Commission a statement showing the full particulars concerning each such item, including the accounts and years that would have been affected had the item not been delayed.

§ 34.03–14 Unaudited items. (a) When, at the end of a calendar year or at such other time as a financial statement may be required by this Commission, it is known that a transaction has occurred which affects these accounts but the amount involved in the transaction and its effect upon the accounts cannot be accurately determined, the amount shall be estimated and such estimated amount included in the appropriate accounts. The carrier is not required to anticipate minor items that would not appreciably affect these accounts.

(b) If, during the interval between the date of initial estimate of the item and the date on which it is audited, a substantial difference from the initial estimate is determined, appropriate adjustment to cover such difference shall be made in the accounts for the month in which the difference is determined.

(c) When the item is audited, the necessary adjustment shall be made in the appropriate account for the month in which the item is audited.

(d) Any substantial difference determined in accordance with paragraph (b) or (c) shall be accounted for as provided in § 34.03–13 or § 34.03–15, as appropriate.

§ 34.03–15 Unusual items. When the amount of any unusual item includible in an operating revenue, operating expense, or other income account for a single month is relatively so large that its inclusion in the accounts for that month would seriously distort those accounts, it may be included in account 1999, "Other deferred charges," or account 2399, "Other deferred credits," as appropriate, and distributed in equal amounts to the accounts for the current and remaining months of the calendar year.

§ 34.03–16 Transactions involving foreign currency. (a) Amounts to be entered in the accounts of this system that are originally stated in terms of foreign currency or that arise from contracts stated in terms of such foreign currency shall be recorded at the rate of exchange effective at the date as of which the original transaction occurs. (For the purposes of this system of accounts a contractual common denominator, such as the gold franc, shall be viewed as a unit of foreign currency, irrespective of the facts regarding actual monetary circulation.)

(b) Gains or losses due to the difference in the rates of exchange developing between the date of the original transaction referred to in paragraph (a) of this section and the date of realization, liquidation, or settlement in cash or its equivalent, shall be credited or charged, as appropriate, to account 5140, "Gain or loss on foreign currency exchange." Such differences shall be recorded by stages in the course of monthly restatements of current assets and current liabilities on basis of the latest applicable rates of exchange. Other balance sheet accounts shall not reflect changes, prior to cash or equivalent settlement, in the rate of exchange.

§ 34.03–17 Apportioning amounts among accounts. (a) When it is necessary to apportion amounts among accounts or subaccounts, the carrier shall be prepared to describe the basis of such apportionment.

(b) The pay and expenses of officers or employees regularly assigned to specific duties who perform incidental services of a different nature involving small expense shall be included in the expense accounts appropriate for the duties to which such officers or employees are regularly assigned.

(c) The pay and expenses of officers or employees engaged in activities of a varying nature, such as a supervising engineer who may be assigned to construction, maintenance, or operation work, shall be included in the appropriate account upon basis of the actual time engaged in the respective classes of work, except that the pay and expenses of an officer or employee who performs substantially the same variety of duties from day to day may be distributed upon basis of a study of the time actually engaged during a representative period.

§ 34.03–18 Transactions involving joint operations. (a) In accounting for operating expenses incurred under arrangements for apportionment between persons concerned, the carrier shall distribute its portion of the entire expense to the appropriate operating expense accounts.

(b) Any amounts included in the settlement representing return on investment in the plant used under joint-operation arrangements shall be charged or credited, as the case may be, to the appropriate rent-expense account or to the appropriate rent-revenue account.

(c) The creditor shall show the distribution of the charges in its bills, and such distribution shall be adhered to in the accounts of the debtor.

INSTRUCTIONS; DEPRECIATION ACCOUNTING

§ 34.04–1 Classes of depreciable operated plant. The classes of depreciable operated plant and the accounts in which the cost of such plant is included are as follows:

Land improvements (account 12).
Drainage, sewerage, gas, and water systems (account 13).
Buildings (account 14).
Towers and masts (account 21).
Antenna systems (account 22).
Control lines (account 26).
Power-supply lines (account 27).
Electron-tube transmitter equipment (account 31).
Other transmitter equipment (account 32).
Cooling apparatus (account 33).
Receiver equipment (account 34).

Control apparatus (account 40).
Equipment on customers' premises (account 41).
Furniture and office equipment (account 51).
Ship station equipment (account 61).
Other mobile station equipment (account 69).
Vehicles and draft animals (account 71).
Shop equipment, tools, and implements (account 72).
Stotre and warehouse equipment (account 73).

§ 34.04–2 Computation of depreciation rates. (a) Depreciation charges shall be computed by applying with respect to each month's accounts one-twelfth of the annual percentage rate considered applicable to the cost of each class or subclass of depreciable plant or to the cost of that portion of such plant with respect to which the estimated service value has not been completely accounted for through the aggregate of prior current allowances for depreciation. These percentage rates shall be based upon the estimated service values and service lives developed by a study of the carrier's history and experience and such engineering and other information as may be available with respect to prospective future conditions, but shall not include any allowance for loss in service value of property expected to be acquired in the future. These percentage rates shall be such that the loss in service value of plant, except losses excluded under the definition of depreciation, shall be accounted for under the straight-line method of depreciation accounting.

(b) The carrier shall keep such records of plant and plant retirements as will reflect the service life of plant that has been retired or will permit the determination of service-life indications by mortality, turnover, or other appropriate methods and also such records as will reflect the percentage of net salvage value for plant retired from each class of depreciable plant.

(c) When with respect to any class or subclass of plant the factors causing depreciation (and consequently occasioning the amount of the current net book cost and the rate of depreciation previously applied in the accounts) commence at any time (including the accounting period—year or month—immediately preceding retirement) to operate at a new rate, the fact shall be recognized in the accounts by applying (actually or in effect) such a new percentage rate to the cost of that plant or portion thereof as will dispose of the difference between its net book cost and its estimated net salvage value during the period (known or estimated) of its remaining life.

§ 34.04–3 Depreciation charges. (a) The current depreciation charges applicable to operated plant the cost of which is includible in account 1000, "Operated plant in carrier's service," and account 1200, "Improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others," shall be recorded monthly in account 4910, "Depreciation," or in the clearing accounts, as appropriate, and corresponding credits shall be recorded in account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation—Radiotelegraph plant." (See also § 34.1–5.)

(b) When, under the terms of a lease, the carrier, as lessor, is required to replace or to restore the condition of operated plant the cost of which is includible in account 1100, "Operated plant leased to others," the current depreciation charges shall be recorded monthly in account 5010, "Income from operated plant leased to others," and corresponding credits shall be recorded in account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant." (See also § 34.30–3.)

(c) When, under the terms of a lease, the carrier, as lessee, is required to replace or to restore the condition of operated plant leased from others, depreciation charges with respect to such original leased plant shall be computed and applied as provided in § 34.1–5.

(d) Depreciation charges initially accounted for by the lessor shall be reported to and accounted for by the lessee as provided in paragraph (c) of § 34.30–3.

§ 34.04–4 Plant retired for causes not known to be in current operation. (a) The accounting for operated plant retired for causes not known to be in current operation shall be as provided in paragraph (a) of § 34.1–6 and account 4925, "Extraordinary plant losses."

(b) If the cause of the retirement is a loss covered by insurance for which provision has been made in account 2215, "Provision for self-carried insurance," the loss shall be charged to that account to the extent of the amount so provided. If the loss is not covered by insurance the carrier may, with the approval of this Commission, credit account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant," and charge account 1910, "Extraordinary maintenance, depreciation, and retirements," with the unprovided-for loss in service value, and distribute it from the latter account to account 4925, "Extraordinary plant losses," over such period as this Commission may approve. The carrier's application to this Commission for permission to charge account 1910, shall give full particulars concerning the plant retired, the unprovided-for service loss, and the period over which, in its judgment, such charges should be distributed.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CLASS B CARRIERS

INSTRUCTIONS

§ 34.10–1 Purpose of balance-sheet accounts. The balance-sheet accounts are designed to show the financial position of the carrier as at a given date.

§ 34.10–2 Current assets. (a) Current assets are cash, those assets that are readily convertible into cash or are held for current use in operations or construction, current claims against others the payment of which is reasonably assured, and amounts accruing to the carrier that are subject to current settlement, except that bonds and other obligations of others classified by the carrier in investment and fund accounts at the time of acquisition shall remain so classified until the date of payment, sale, or other disposition thereof.

(b) There shall not be included in the group of accounts designated as current assets any item the collectibility of which is not reasonably assured unless adequate allowance has been made therefor in account 1765, "Allowance for uncollectible receivables." Items of current character but of doubtful value may be reduced in amount and, for record purposes, carried in these accounts at nominal value. The amounts of such reductions, or the amounts provided for by credits to account 1765, shall be charged to account 4935, "Uncollectible revenues," account 5299, "Other deductions from ordinary income," or account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," as appropriate.

§ 34.10–3 Prepayments. (a) Prepayments are amounts paid by the carrier for services to be rendered during a subsequent accounting period.

(b) When advance payments are made, the appropriate account shall be charged with the amount of such payment. As the term expires for which the advance payments were made, the prepayment account shall be credited at monthly intervals and the appropriate expense account or other account shall be charged with the amount applicable to the expired term.

§ 34.10–4 Deferred charges. Deferred charges are amounts representing (1) debit items held in suspense pending determination of their actual status, (2) costs of services that have been rendered to the carrier but are chargeable to future operations, and (3) items which for other reasons are allocable to other appropriate accounts for a succession of future periods.

§ 34.10–5 Current liabilities. (a) Current liabilities are those obligations that have become matured at the date of the balance sheet or that will become due within 1 year from the date thereof (except bonds, receivers' and trustees' securities, and similar obligations, which shall be classified as long-term debt until the date of maturity); matured taxes, such as income taxes, which shall be classified (in the balance sheet) as current liabilities even though payable more than 1 year from the balance-sheet date; compensation awards, which shall be classified as current liabilities regardless of the date due; and minor amounts payable in installments, which may be classified as current liabilities.

(b) The liability-accrual accounts shall include the amounts of interest, taxes, rents, and other items with respect to which amounts eventually payable have been recorded as deductions from revenue or income but which have not matured. (See also paragraph (a) of § 34.03–17.)

§ 34.10–6 Long-term debt. (a) When evidences of debt that, according to their terms, do not mature until more than 1 year from date of issuance are issued or assumed by the carrier or by a receiver or an operating trustee of the carrier, the face amount of such evidences of debt shall be recorded in the appropriate account under the caption "Long-term debt." (See also § 34.10–14.)

(b) If a liability, other than compensation awards or minor amounts payable in installments, is due more than 1 year from date of issuance or assumption by the carrier, it shall be credited to a long-term debt account appropriate for the transaction, but, for the purpose of classification in the balance sheet, a debt (except bonds, receivers' and trustees' securities, and similar obligations) shall be classified as a current liability if due within 1 year from the balance-sheet date.

§ 34.10–7 Book cost of securities owned. (a) Securities of others acquired by the carrier shall be recorded in these accounts at cost. Such cost shall not include any amount paid for dividends or for interest accrued.

(b) The carrier's records shall be so maintained as to show separately the cost of (1) common stock, (2) preferred stock, and (3) long-term debt.

(c) The carrier's records shall be so maintained that in the reports to this Commission the securities, classified as in paragraph (b) of this section, that are pledged as collateral security for any of the carrier's or other persons' long-term debt or short-term loans or to secure the performance of contracts may be shown separately from the securities, similarly classified, that are unpledged.

(d) There shall not be included in the accounts designated as investment and fund accounts any amount the ultimate realization of which is not reasonably assured unless adequate allowance has been made therefor in account 1699, "Allowance for doubtful investments." The book cost of securities includible in such accounts shall be reduced to a nominal amount if there is no reasonable prospect of substantial value, but fluctuations in market value shall not be recorded in the accounts. Amounts by which these securities are thus reduced or amounts provided for by credits to account 1699, shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges."

(e) When securities authorized by State laws for inclusion in legal reserve funds required by such laws, and in other similar fiduciary funds requiring a qualification for the investment thereof, and with a fixed maturity date (other than securities issued or assumed by affiliates), are purchased at a discount (i. e., when the total cost including brokerage fees, taxes, commissions, and similar costs is less than the face amount of the securities), such discount shall be amortized over the remaining life of the securities through periodic charges to account 1698, "Amortized discount and premium on investment securities," and credits to the account in which is recorded the interest from such securities. When such securities are purchased at a premium (i. e., when the total cost including brokerage fees, taxes, commissions, and similar costs is in excess of the face amount of the securities), such premium shall be amortized over the remaining life of the securities through credits to account 1698 and charges to the account in which is recorded the interest from such securities. No amounts shall be entered for amortization of discount or premium on securities with respect to which a reduction in book cost or a provision for doubtful value has been made. Any amounts in account 1698 representing the amortization of discount or premium on securities with respect to which a reduction in book cost or a provision for doubtful value is made shall be cleared by charges or credits, as appropriate, to the account in which is recorded the interest from such securities. (See also §§ 34.03–13 and 34.03–15.)

(f) If securities actually issued or assumed by the carrier and reacquired by it are not retired, they shall be entered at book amount in account 2015, "Bonds reacquired," or account 2415, "Capital stock reacquired," as appropriate, unless it is required by contractual provision or by decision of a trustee not subject to control by the carrier that they be retained in debt-redemption or other funds. When so retained they shall be regarded and treated as actually outstanding, but not otherwise.

(g) When entries are made in account 2415, "Capital stock reacquired," recording the reacquisition of such stock, entries shall concurrently be made charging account 8315, "Earned surplus employed in reacquisition of capital stock," and crediting account 2615, "Reserve against impairment of stated capital," with amounts equal to the amount charged to account 2415. Upon the resale or retirement of such stock these latter entries shall be reversed.

§ 34.10–8 Exchange of securities. Before recording the journal entries that it is proposed to enter in the carrier's books to record the reacquisition of capital stock or other securities issued or assumed by the carrier under a plan for the issuance in exchange therefor of the carrier's securities, a statement indicating the plan of accounting proposed by the carrier shall be submitted to this Commission for consideration and approval. Such statement shall give complete information concerning the plan of exchange, the basis upon which the amounts have been determined, and a copy of the authorization issued by the regulatory body approving the plan.

§ 34.10–9 Capital stock. (a) All transactions relating to capital stock of the accounting carrier shall be recorded by class of stock. Stocks are of the same class only when they are issued under identical terms as to all of the following: par value, stated value, preferences in distribution of dividends and assets, voting rights, and conditions under which they may be retired. If the stocks of the carrier are of two or more classes, the carrier's records shall be so maintained as to distinguish the amount applicable to each class in each of the following accounts:

1775 Subscriptions to capital stock.
1780 Deposits on subscriptions to capital stock.
1915 Capital stock expense.
1925 Discount on capital stock.
2160 Installment-plan receipts on purchase of capital stock.
2410 Capital stock issued.
2415 Capital stock reacquired.
2420 Capital stock subscribed; unissued.
2425 Obligations for stock conversion.
2510 Premiums and assessments on capital stock.

(b) When, by compliance with the laws of the State under which it is incorporated, a carrier is authorized to issue shares of capital stock, a memorandum entry in account 2410, "Capital stock issued," shall be made showing the number of shares, the par or the stated value of each share, and the total authorized capitalization.

(c) Before recording the journal entries that it is proposed to enter in the carrier's books to record (1) the issuance of no-par capital stock, (2) the appropriation of surplus for transfer to the no-par capital stock account, (3) the reduction of capital surplus through the use of the no-par capital stock account, or (4) the reduction of account 2410, "Capital stock issued," through the creation of surplus or the reduction of book value of assets, the plan of accounting shall be submitted to this Commission for consideration and approval. Such plan shall be accompanied by a statement giving complete information with respect to the basis upon which the amounts to be recorded have been determined and a copy of the authorization issued by the regulatory body approving the issuance of no-par stock or the change in the capital stock and surplus accounts.

§ 34.10–10 Surplus. (a) The accounts designated as capital surplus accounts are designed to show (1) paid-in surplus (i. e., proprietary contributions in excess of the stated capital included in the capital stock accounts), (2) donated surplus (i. e., contributions that increase the assets but do not increase the liabilities or the proprietary interests), (3) surplus arising from reacquisition or resale of, or otherwise trading in, the carrier's own capital stock, and (4) surplus due to the reduction of the stated value of capital stock due to such occasions as retirement, reorganization, or recapitalization.

(b) The balance-sheet accounts designated as earned surplus accounts are designed to show the accumulated undistributed surplus derived from the normal operations of the carrier, including the income from all sources other than the capital gains referred to in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Within 90 days from the effective date of this system of accounts the carrier shall submit to this Commission a transcript of its capital surplus account or accounts covering the entire period to the effective date of this system of accounts, showing in detail the nature and amount of charges and credits, respectively, and the balance that was in the account at the close of each year. The transcript shall be accompanied by a summary statement in which the charges and credits for the entire period covered by the transcript have been classified according to their nature and summarized to show the aggregate amount of each class as well as the aggregate amount of charges and credits, respectively, for the period and the resulting balance in the account at the effective date of this system of accounts.

§ 34.10–11 Provisions for future settlements. When in anticipation of settlements or similar transactions it is required that certain amounts shall be charged to operating expenses or other accounts without a corresponding reduction in the assets of the carrier, such amounts shall be credited to the appropriate account under the caption, "Provisions for future settlements." The credit balances in these accounts should indicate the estimated amount of future settlements or other extinguishments subsequent to the date of the balance sheet with respect to amounts allocable to periods prior to that date.

§ 34.10–12 Deferred credits. Deferred credits are amounts representing (1) credit items held in suspense pending determination of their actual status and (2) obligations (e. g., unamortized premium on debt) that have been incurred but are applicable to future operations or income.

§ 34.10–13 Discount, expense, and premium on capital stock. (a) An account shall be maintained for each class of capital stock issued by the carrier (separately from the capital stock accounts) and there shall be included in each such account both the discount and premium associated with the issuance and sale of (exclusive of the sale of reacquired stock), or subscriptions to, each such class of stock.

(b) Stock expense shall not be added to discount, or deducted from premium, on capital stock, but shall be included in account 1915, "Capital stock expense."

(c) Only in stating the balance sheet, the total of the debit balances remaining in the discount and premium accounts shall be reported under account 1925, "Discount on capital stock," and the total of the credit balances shall be reported under account 2510, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock." Accounts with debit balances shall not be offset by accounts with credit balances.

(d) General levies or assessments against stockholders shall be credited to the discount and premium account for the particular class of stock assessed.

(e) Expenses on capital stock issued may be charged off to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," in total or in installments or the amounts thereof may be retained in account 1915, "Capital stock expense," until the stock to which the expense applies is reacquired. Discount or premium on capital stock issued shall be retained in the discount and premium account until the stock is reacquired or until otherwise disposed of lawfully, except that inconsequential amounts of discount that would not appreciably affect the accounts may be charged off to account 8299, "Miscellaneous charges to earned surplus."

(f) When capital stock which has been actually issued by the carrier is reacquired, the difference between (1) the amount paid therefor upon reacquisition and (2) the book amount plus the premium or less the discount and expense originally entered in respect thereto and not charged off shall be charged or credited, as appropriate, to account 2599, "Other capital surplus": Provided, however, That such charges shall be made to account 8299, "Miscellaneous charges to earned surplus," if the amounts thereof exceed the balance in account 2599: And provided further, That in no event shall charges in excess of accumulated credits from the reacquisition, resale, or retirement of capital stock of the same class be charged to account 2599.

(g) Discount, expense, or premium on capital stock shall not be included in any account as a part of the cost of constructing or acquiring plant or as a part of the cost of operation.

(h) The carrier's records shall be so maintained that in the reports to this Commission there may be shown the extent to which the surplus accounts have been charged or credited in instances in which there is a possibility of further entry in those accounts in the event of resale of reacquired capital stock.

§ 34.10–14 Discount, expense, and premium on long-term debt. (a) An account shall be maintained for each issue or series of long-term debt issued or assumed by the carrier (separately from the long-term debt accounts) and there shall be included in each such account both the discount and premium associated with the issuance and sale of (exclusive of the sale of reacquired long-term debt) or subscription to each such issue or series of debt.

(b) Debt expense shall not be added to discount, or deducted from premium, on long-term debt, but shall be included in account 1920, "Long-term debt expense."

(c) Only in stating the balance sheet, the total of the debit balances remaining in the discount and premium accounts shall be reported under account 1930, "Unamortized discount on debt," and the total of the credit balances remaining in those accounts shall be reported under account 2310, "Unamortized premium on debt." Accounts with debit balances shall not be offset by accounts with credit balances.

(d) Discount, expense, and premium with respect to each issue or series of long-term debt shall be amortized under such a plan as will equitably distribute the amounts over the life of the securities. The amortization shall be on a monthly basis and the amounts thereof shall be charged to account 5220, "Amortization of debt discount," or account 5245, "Amortization of debt expense," or credited to account 5230, "Amortization of debt premium—Cr.," as appropriate. The carrier may, however, accelerate the writing off of debt expense and extinguish inconsequential amounts of discount (that it would be burdensome to amortize, and would not appreciably affect the accounts) by charges to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges." Where there is a definite plan to retire an issue without refunding prior to its maturity date, amortization may be accelerated to extinguish the balance in the discount and premium account at the date of contemplated retirement.

(e) When any long-term debt is reacquired without being converted into another form of long-term debt and when the transaction is not in connection with a refunding operation, the difference between the amount paid upon reacquirement and the book amount plus the unamortized premium or less the unamortized discount, as the case may be, applicable to the debt reacquired, shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or credited to account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits," as appropriate.

(f) When the redemption of one issue or series of bonds or other long-term obligations is financed by another issue or series before the date of maturity of the prior issue, any unamortized discount, expense, or premium on the prior issue and any premium paid or discount enjoyed upon reacquirement shall be debited or credited, as appropriate, to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits:" Provided, however, That if the carrier desires to amortize any of the discount, expense, or premium associated with the issuance or redemption of the prior issue over a period subsequent to the date of redemption, the permission of the Commission must be obtained.

(g) Discount, expense, or premium on long-term debt shall not be included in the cost of constructing or acquiring plant, except as provided for in § 34.1–3.

(h) The carrier's records shall be so maintained that in the reports to this Commission there may be shown the extent to which the income accounts have been charged or credited in instances in which there is a possibility of further entry in those accounts in the event of resale of reacquired long-term debt.

§ 34.10–15 Irrevocable trusts. Funds relinquished from the control of the carrier that are irrevocably devoted to the establishment or continuation of any trust or fiduciary fund (such as pension or similar funds) shall not be included as items in the balance sheet, but their existence shall be indicated by an appropriate notation thereon showing the amount of such funds.

§ 34.10–16 Contingent assets and liabilities. In the carrier's reports to this Commission amounts representing contingent assets and contingent liabilities shall not be included as items in the balance sheet, but their existence shall be indicated by an appropriate notation thereon and the amounts shall be shown in detail in a supplementary statement.

§ 34.10–17 Nominally issued securities. (a) Each carrier shall maintain, in addition to the capital stock and long-term debt accounts prescribed herein, memorandum debit and credit accounts for securities which have been nominally but not actually issued.

(b) When no-par stock is nominally issued, the number of shares issued shall be shown in the memorandum accounts.

(c) A separate memorandum account, with appropriate title, shall be maintained for each class and issue or series of such securities.

§ 34.10–99 Contemplated form of balance sheet. (See § 34.03–9.)

Communication Plant

§ 34.1000 Operated plant in carrier's service. This account shall include the total of the balances in the operated plant accounts applicable to plant owned and used by the carrier in its radio-telegraph operations, except such plant the cost of which is includible in account 1200, "Improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others."

§ 34.1100 Operated plant leased to others. This account shall include the total of the balances in the operated plant accounts applicable to plant owned by the carrier and leased to others as substantially complete operating systems or operating units where the lessee has exclusive possession.

NOTE: When the lessor is given or retains the exclusive privileges to maintain, inspect, and service equipment, to handle and adjust traffic accounts, to perform other similar services, or to designate who may perform such services for the lessee, the lessee will be deemed not to have the exclusive possession of the plant, and its cost shall be included in account 1000, "Operated plant in carrier's service."

§ 34.1200 Improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others. This account shall include the total of the balances in the operated plant accounts applicable to improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others.

§ 34.1300 Plant under construction. (a) This account shall include the cost of construction of plant not completed ready for service.

(b) When any plant the cost of which is included in this account is completed ready for service, the cost thereof shall be credited to this account and charged to the operated plant accounts, account 1400, "Plant held for future communication use," or other accounts, as appropriate.

§ 34.1400 Plant held for future communication use. (a) This account shall include the cost of completed plant owned by the carrier and held for future use in communication service under a definite plan.

(b) The amounts included in this account shall be classified in accordance with the titles and texts of the appropriate plant accounts and the account shall be maintained in the same manner and detail as though the plant were in communication service.

§ 34.1510 Plant acquisition adjustments. (a) This account shall include the difference between (1) the acquisition cost of plant acquired from predecessors as substantially complete operating systems or operating units and (2) the original cost of such plant less the required allowances for depreciation and amortization of the plant at the date of acquisition. (See also § 34.1–2.)

(b) This account shall include, under a separate subdivision, the difference between the original cost and the book cost of radiotelegraph plant at the effective date of this system of accounts, to the extent that such difference is not attributable to acquisitions from predecessors.

(c) This account shall be subdivided according to the character of the amounts included herein for each plant acquisition; and further subdivided to show the amounts applicable to operated plant in carrier's service, operated plant leased to others, and plant held for future communication use.

(d) If the actual original cost is not known, the entries in this account shall be based upon an estimate of such cost.

(e) The amounts recorded in this account shall be disposed of in such manner as this Commission may approve or direct.

NOTE: The provisions of this account shall not be construed as approving or authorizing the recording of appreciation of plant.

§ 34.1515 Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts charged to account 4910, "Depreciation," to account 5010, "Income from operated plant leased to others," to account 5299, "Other deductions from ordinary income," and to clearing accounts for currently accru-ing depreciation of radiotelegraph plant owned by the carrier; also amounts of depreciation applicable to plant contributed to the carrier, and plant acquired from predecessors as provided in §§ 34.1–2 and 34.1–5. (See also §§ 34.04–1, 34.04–2, 34.04–3, 34.04–4, and 34.30–3.)

(b) As at the effective date of this system of accounts, this account shall be credited with such amount as is necessary to create a credit balance herein equal to the estimated sustained depreciation of all depreciable operated plant owned by the carrier at that date. The amount thus credited shall, unless otherwise authorized by this Commission, be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges."

(c) This account shall be regarded and treated as a single composite allowance account. For purposes of analysis, however, each carrier shall maintain records in which the balance in the account shall be segregated into component parts corresponding to the operated plant accounts and subdivisions thereof which include the cost of depreciable operated plant.

(d) This account shall be subdivided as follows:

1515:01 Allowance for depreciation of operated plant owned and used in carrier's service.
1515:02 Allowance for depreciation of improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others.
1515:03 Allowance for depreciation of operated plant leased to others.
1515:04 Allowance for depreciation of plant held for future communication use.

NOTE: When plant is transferred from one class of communication service to another or from communication service to noncarrier operations, the accounting shall be as provided in § 34.1–7.

§ 34.1520 Allowance for amortization; radiotelegraph plant. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts charged to account 4915, "Amortization; intangible operated plant," to account 5010, "Income from operated plant leased to others," and to account 5299, "Other deductions from ordinary income," to provide for the extinguishment of amounts included in accounts 82, "Franchises," 83, "Patent rights," 84, "Leaseholds," and 89, "Other intangibles," also amounts of amortization applicable to plant contributed to the carrier and plant acquired from predecessors as provided in §§ 34.03–6 and 34.1–2. (See also § 34.30–3.) It shall be credited with amounts charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," to provide for the extinguishment of amounts included in account 81, "Organization."

(b) This account shall be credited or charged, as appropriate, with amounts authorized or directed by the Commission to be charged or credited to accounts 4920, "Amortization of plant acquisition adjustments," and 5255, "Amortization of plant acquisition adjustments," to provide for the extinguishment of amounts included in account 1510, "Plant acquisition adjustments."

(c) As at the effective date of this system of accounts, this account shall be credited with such amount as is necessary to create a credit balance herein equal to the expired service value of intangibles (having a terminable life) the cost of which is includible in accounts 82, "Franchises," 83, "Patent rights," 84, "Leaseholds," and 89, "Other intangibles." The amount thus credited shall, unless otherwise authorized by this Commission, be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges."

(d) When any franchise, patent right, leasehold, or other intangible item expires or is sold, relinquished, or otherwise retired from service, the cost thereof shall be credited to the appropriate plant account and this account shall be charged with the amount previously credited hereto with respect to such intangible item. The difference between the foregoing amounts, less the proceeds realized at retirement, shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or credited to account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits," as appropriate.

(e) The records supporting the entries in this account shall be so maintained as to show the amount applicable to each intangible item under the following subdivisions:

1520:02 Allowance for amortization of intangibles leased to others.
1520:03 Allowance for amortization of plant acquisition adjustments.

§ 34.1530 Telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant. This account shall include the amount of the balances in the plant accounts for telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant in service. (See also § 34.03–8.)

§ 34.1535 Allowance for depreciation and amortization; telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant. This account shall include the amount of the balances in the allowance accounts for telephone, wire-telegraph, and ocean-cable plant in service. (See also § 34.03–8.)

§ 34.1599 Foreign investment in communication plant. (a) This account may include the net amount of the acquisition cost of the carrier's communication plant that is located in foreign countries and the related allowances for depreciation and amortization, when the detailed amounts are required to be stated in terms of foreign currency or in a manner at variance with the requirements of this system of accounts.

(b) A separate subaccount with appropriate title shall be maintained for the plant located in each foreign country.

(c) The records supporting the entries in this account shall be so maintained that, in the reports to this Commission, a complete analysis of the transactions affecting each station may be shown.

(d) Each carrier that elects to use this account shall advise this Commission of the fact at least 60 days before the effective date of this system of accounts. Changes from this elective procedure to alternative procedure prescribed for domestic plant, or vice versa, shall not be made thereafter without submitting to this Commission for its consideration and approval notice of the change at least 90 days before the proposed effective date of such change.

Investments and Funds

§ 34.1610 Miscellaneous physical property. This account shall include the carrier's investment in physical property other than that used in communication service, except property the cost of which is includible in account 1400, "Plant held for future communication use." § 34.1615 Allowance for depreciation; miscellaneous physical property. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts charged to account 5110, "Income from miscellaneous physical property," for the depreciation of depreciable property the cost of which is includible in account 1610, "Miscellaneous physical property."

(b) When miscellaneous physical property is disposed of, this account shall be charged with the amount previously credited hereto with respect to such property. The difference between the book cost of the property retired and the sum of the amount chargeable to this account and the amount of the salvage recovered (or the proceeds from the sale of the property) shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or credited to account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits," as appropriate. (See also § 34.1–7.)

§ 34.1620 Investments in affiliates. (a) This account shall include the book cost of the carrier's investment in securities issued or assumed by affiliates, other than securities of affiliates held in special funds or as temporary investments. 1629:02 Investment advances to nonaffiliates.
1629:99 Other.

NOTE A: The book cost of securities of nonaffiliates owned by the carrier and held in special funds or as temporary investments, shall be included in accounts 1630, 1635, 1640, 1645, 1659, or 1725, as appropriate.

NOTE B: Advances to nonaffiliates that are subject to current settlement shall be included in account 1751, "Notes receivable," or account 1759, "Other accounts receivable," as appropriate.

§ 34.1630 Debt-redemption funds. (a) This account shall include the book cost of assets that have been segregated in special funds for the purpose of redeeming outstanding long-term debt of the carrier.

(b) A separate subaccount, with appropriate title, shall be maintained for each issue or series of long-term debt for the redemption of which a special fund is maintained.

NOTE: Nothing contained herein shall be construed as preventing the carrier from transferring applicable debt-redemption funds to account 1715, "Special cash deposits," for the purpose of paying matured long-term debt, or obligations called for redemption but not presented, or the interest thereon.

§ 34.1635 Employees' provident funds. This account shall include the amount of cash, the book cost of securities of others, and the book amount of nominally issued and nominally outstanding securities issued or assumed by the carrier and other assets held by trustees or managers of employees' pension funds, saving funds, relief, hospital, and other association funds (whether contributed by the carrier, by employees, or by others), when such trustees or managers are acting for the carrier in the administration of such funds. NOTE: All losses and damages sustained, including those covered by commercial insurance or by this account, shall be charged in the first instance to the allowance for depreciation, construction, repair, accidents and damages, or other appropriate account according to the character of the loss. Insurance recovered or amounts chargeable to this account on account of losses and damages sustained shall be credited to the account in which the losses and damages stand charged.

This includes amounts with respect to depreciable operated plant that has been retired during the periods of such agreements and the expired service value of such plant still in the service of the carrier. OPERATED PLANT ACCOUNTS

§ 34.1–1 Purpose and content of operated plant accounts. (a) The operated plant accounts are designed to show the cost of the carrier's plant having a service life of more than 1 year, whether used by the carrier or others in radiotelegraph service. (Account 1400, "Plant held for future communication use," shall also be classified according to the titles and texts provided for the several operated plant accounts.) (See also § 34.03–8.)

(b) When operated plant ordinarily having a service life of more than 1 year is installed for temporary use in radiotelegraph service, it shall be accounted for in the same manner as other plant having a service life of more than 1 year.

(c) The cost of individual items of work equipment, such as hand and other portable tools that are likely to be lost or stolen, and other items of equipment that have relatively small value ($10.00 or less) or short life, shall be included in the operated plant accounts only when the investment in such property is relatively large and the correctness of the accounting therefor is verified by the current inventory. When not so verified the cost of such items shall be charged to the operating expense (or clearing) account appropriate for the use of such items.

(d) The cost of plant includible in the following balance-sheet accounts shall be classified according to the titles and texts of the several plant accounts in the manner indicated by the chart under § 34.1–99, which also shows the method for combining balance-sheet and plant account numbers when it is desired to indicate both the use and the class of plant:

1000 Operated plant in carrier's service.
1100 Operated plant leased to others.
1200 Improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others.
1400 Plant held for future communication use.

(e) The records supporting the entries in the operated plant accounts shall be so maintained as to show the cost of plant used at each station or city office.

§ 34.1–2 Accounting for plant acquisitions. (a) Plant previously in public use contributed to the carrier, or plant constructed by the carrier through expenditures of contributed money or its equivalent, shall be charged to the plant accounts on basis of original cost, and there shall be credited to the allowance for depreciation and allowance for amortization accounts the estimated amounts of depreciation and amortization requirements applicable to the plant at the date of acquisition. Plant not previously in public use contributed to the carrier shall be charged to the plant accounts at its estimated cost new at date of contribution and there shall be credited to the appropriate allowance for depreciation and allowance for amortization accounts the estimated amounts of such requirements applicable to the plant at that date. The difference between the amounts so includible in the plant and the allowance accounts shall be credited to account 2515, "Contributions of plant."

(b) Amounts received for construction which are ultimately to be repaid, wholly or in part, shall be credited to account 2315, "Advances for construction"; when final determination has been made as to the amount to be repaid, any amounts not subject to refund shall be transferred to account 2515, "Contributions of plant."

(c) When property that comprises a substantially complete operating system or operating unit is (or, prior to the effective date of this system of accounts, has been) acquired from predecessors by purchase, merger, consolidation, liquidation, or otherwise, that portion of the acquisition cost applicable to operated plant, plant under construction, and plant held for future communication use shall be charged to account 91, "Plant acquired; undistributed charges."

(d) The accounting for the acquisition of such plant shall then be completed as follows:

(1) The original cost of such plant shall be charged to the plant accounts and account 1300, "Plant under construction;" as appropriate, and credited to account 91, "Plant acquired; undistributed charges." When the actual original cost cannot be determined and estimates are used, the carrier shall maintain records to show the particulars of such estimates.

(2) The required allowances for depreciation and amortization of such plant at date of acquisition shall be credited to accounts 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant," and 1520, "Allowance for amortization; radiotelegraph plant," respectively, and charged to account 91, "Plant acquired; undistributed charges."

(3) The amount remaining in account 91, "Plant acquired; undistributed charges," applicable to such plant, upon the completion of the entries provided in the foregoing paragraphs (1) and (2), shall be transferred to account 1510, "Plant acquisition adjustments," except that, when any amount thus transferable to account 1510 applies to duplicate or other plant which is intended to be retired by the carrier in the reconstruction of the acquired plant and its consolidation with previously owned plant, a statement indicating the plan of the accounting proposed for the entire amount applicable to such plant shall be submitted for consideration and approval by this Commission.

(e) The accounting for radiotelegraph plant acquired from predecessors not provided for in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section shall be upon basis of acquisition cost to the carrier.

(f) A memorandum record shall be kept of the amount of contributions applicable to the plant acquired as shown by the accounts of the previous owner.

(g) Copies of journal entries recording the acquisition of (1) substantially complete operating systems, (2) substantially complete operating units, or (3) other plant (when the consideration paid for such other plant is $25,000 or more), and of the entries clearing the amounts originally charged to account 91, "Plant acquired; Undistributed charges," shall be submitted within 90 days from the respective dates of such original and clearing entries for consideration and approval by the Commission. The text of such entries shall give a complete description of the plant acquired and the bases upon which the amounts of the entries have been determined.

(h) In connection with the acquisition of substantially complete operating systems or operating units, the carrier shall procure from the grantor (and the grantor shall deliver) all existing records relating to the property acquired, or certified copies thereof.

(i) If the acquisition involves construction by the accounting carrier, the provisions of §§ 34.1–3 and 34.1–4 shall be observed.

NOTE: The cost of valuations, inventories, and appraisals taken in connection with the contemplated acquisition of plant shall be charged to account 1935, "Preliminary survey and investigation charges." If the plant is acquired, the preliminary costs shall be accounted for as a part of the cost of acquisition. If the contemplated acquisition is abandoned such costs, including options paid, shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges."

§ 34.1–3 Components of construction cost. (a) The cost of construction properly includible in the plant accounts shall include the applicable direct and overhead costs, listed and described in paragraph (c) of this section and in § 34.1–4 and other analogous items in connection with such work.

(b) When a part only of a project is placed in operation or is completed ready for service and the construction work as a whole is incomplete, that part of the plant placed in operation or ready for service shall be accounted for as completed.

(c) The following is a description of the principal components of construction costs:

(1) The pay and the expenses in lieu of wages of employees engaged in construction work, including the pay and expenses of foremen and inspectors in charge thereof.

(2) The purchase price at the point of free delivery of material and supplies, plus customs duties and excise taxes; the cost of inspection and handling; transportation to first point of delivery to the carrier; an equitable portion of supply expense; the total cost of fabricated material from the carrier's shop; the book cost of reusable material; and the cost of tools consumed on a project.

NOTE: In determining the cost of material used, proper allowance shall be made for unused material and supplies, material recovered from temporary arrangements used in performing the work, salvage value of tools released from the project, and cash and other discounts realized in the purchase of material and supplies.

(3) The cost of transporting employees, material and supplies, tools, and work equipment not under its own power. Transportation of material and supplies includes transportation from point of first delivery to point of use. It includes amounts paid to others as well as the cost of operating the carrier's own transportation equipment.

(4) The cost of protecting the carrier's property from fire or other casualties and the cost of preventing injury to others and damage to the property of others.

(5) Expenditures or losses on account of injuries to persons and damages to the property of others. (See also accounts 4430, "Injuries and damages," and 4435, "Relief and pensions.")

(6) Payments for and expenses incurred in securing temporary privileges, permits, or rights in connection with construction work, such as for the use of private or public property, streets, or highways.

(7) Taxes on physical property during construction and before the facilities are completed ready for service, assessed separately from taxes on operating property or under conditions which permit separate identification or allocation of the amount chargeable to construction; also the portion applicable to construction costs of taxes imposed under the Social Security Act and similar State statutes.

(8) The net cost of borrowed funds used for construction purposes and a reasonable rate upon the carrier's own funds when so used. Such amounts shall be charged to the individual project upon which the funds are expended and shall be credited to account 5225, "Interest charged to construction—Cr." The period for which interest may be included in the cost of construction shall be limited to the duration of the construction work. In case construction work is suspended, interest covering a period of more than 6 months from the date of such suspension shall not be included in the cost of construction except when authorized by this Commission. No interest costs for projects that have been abandoned shall be included in these accounts.

(9) Premiums paid or amounts provided as self-insurance for protection against loss and damage by fire and other casualties, injury to or death of employees or others, damage to property of others, defalcation of employees and agents, nonperformance of contractual obligations of others, and the cost of workmen's compensation or similar insurance.

(10) The cost of telephone, water, electricity, power, office space, equipment, and analogous items allocable to the construction project; also similar items furnished by the carrier through its regular operating facilities.

(11) The pay and expenses of operators and helpers required for machine operation, material and supplies consumed, depreciation, and other expenses incurred in the maintenance, operation, and use of special machines such as steam shovels, pile drivers, and other labor-saving machines; also expenditures for rental, maintenance, and operation of such machines owned by others. When a particular construction project requires the purchase of special machines, the cost thereof, less the appraised or salvage value at the time of release from the project, shall be included in this component.

(12) The applicable portion of the pay and of the office and other expenses of the carrier's engineers and their staffs responsible primarily for technical features of construction work.

(13) Amounts paid to other companies, firms, or individuals engaged by the carrier to plan, design, prepare estimates, supervise, inspect, or give general advice and assistance in connection with construction work. A copy of the agreement or arrangement under which such services are rendered shall be preserved by the carrier.

(14) An equitable portion of the pay and of the office and other expenses of the general officers and their staffs. Such amounts shall be determined in accordance with § 34.03–17.

(15) Amounts paid for work performed under contract by other persons. Costs incident to the award of such contracts, to the inspection of such work, and to any other work of any character performed by the carrier in connection with a contract-work project shall be included in the component of construction cost appropriate for the character of the service performed or the expense incurred.

(16) Any incidental revenues received or earned during the construction period, less the costs incident to producing the earnings, shall be credited to the cost of construction.

§ 34.1–4 Overhead construction costs. (a) All overhead construction costs, such as engineering, supervision, general office salaries and expenses, construction engineering and supervision by others than the carrier, law expenses, insurance, injuries and damages, relief and pensions, taxes, and interest, shall be charged to particular projects or units on the basis of the amounts of such overheads reasonably applicable thereto, to the end that each project or unit shall bear its equitable portion of such costs and that the entire cost of the unit, both direct and overhead, shall be deducted from the plant accounts at the time the unit of plant is retired.

(b) The records supporting the entries for overhead construction costs shall be so maintained as to show the nature of the expenditures, the individual projects and accounts charged, and the bases of the distribution of such costs.

(c) The instructions contained herein shall not be interpreted as permitting the inclusion in the operated plant accounts of arbitrary amounts to cover assumed overhead costs, but as requiring the assignment to particular projects and accounts of actual and reasonable overhead costs.

§ 34.1–5 Improvements and replacements of operated plant leased from others. (a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the cost of initial improvements (including repairs, rearrangements, and additions) to operated plant leased from others, made in the course of preparing the plant for service and the cost of any subsequent additions to and replacements of the leased plant, shall be charged to the operated plant accounts appropriate for the class of plant leased. (See also § 34.1–2.)

(b) When, under the terms of a leasing agreement, the carrier, as lessee, is required to make specific improvements to leased plant, and such improvements revert to the lessor and constitute a part of the consideration paid for use of the plant, the cost of such improvements shall be charged by the lessee to account 1815, "Prepaid rents," and amortized over the life of the lease to the appropriate rent account. Such portion of the cost of the improvements as represents additions to the leased plant shall be charged by the lessor (if a radiotelegraph carrier) to the appropriate plant accounts and credited to an appropriate subaccount under account 2399, "Other deferred credits." Amounts thus credited to account 2399 shall be amortized over the life of the lease to the appropriate rent account.

(c) When improvements to leased plant otherwise chargeable to the plant accounts are of relatively minor cost or short life, or the period of the lease is not more than 1 year, the cost thereof shall be charged to the accounts appropriate for the cost of repairs of such plant.

(d) When, under the terms of a lease, the carrier, as lessee, is required to replace or to restore the condition of plant leased from others, depreciation charges on such original plant shall be computed on the same basis as for owned depreciable plant. Such amount shall be charged to account 4910, "Depreciation," and (if not subject to current settlement with the lessor) credited to account 2225, "Provisions for depreciation and replacement of operated plant leased from others." (See also § 34.04–3.)

(e) When, under the terms of a lease, the carrier, as lessee, is required to replace or to restore the condition of plant leased from others, the cost of leased plant retired by the lessee shall be credited to account 2230, "Leased operated plant retired." Such amount, together with the cost of removal, shall be charged, and the salvage value and any other amounts recovered shall be credited to account 2225, "Provisions for depreciation and replacement of operated plant leased from others."

(f) The accounting for the retirement of improvements and replacements of leased plant made by the lessee shall be as provided in § 34.1–6.

(g) Upon termination of a lease and surrender of the plant to the lessor, the accounting by the lessor (if a radiotelegraph carrier) for improvements and replacements of the leased plant which were made by the lessee shall be as follows:

The plant accounts shall be so adjusted as to include the original cost of the plant returned at the termination of the lease, including the original cost of improvements and replacements made by the lessee, and (as so adjusted) appropriately classified in conformity with § 34.1–2. Account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant," and account 1520, "Allowance for amortization; radiotelegraph plant," shall be so adjusted as to include the required allowances for depreciation and amortization of such plant. The difference between (1) the net amount of the foregoing adjustments, and (2) the amount of any settlement with the lessee with respect to such plant, shall be charged to account 1999, "Other deferred charges," or credited to account 2399, "Other deferred credits," as appropriate. The amounts recorded in account 1999 or account 2399 with respect to each leasing agreement shall be disposed of in such manner as this Commission may approve or direct.

(h) Each carrier, as lessee, shall maintain memorandum accounts entirely independent of these accounts in which are recorded the cost, and related allowances, of plant placed under its exclusive control by a leasing agreement, and subsequent retirements of such plant while under the control of the carrier. Separate memorandum accounts shall be maintained for each leasing agreement. The records supporting the memorandum accounts shall be maintained in the same manner and detail as for owned operated plant.

§ 34.1–6 Operated plant retired. (a) To the end that the operated plant accounts shall at all times disclose the cost of plant in service, the cost of retired plant whether replaced or not (except as provided in paragraph (b) (2) of this section), shall be credited to the account or accounts prescribed in this system of accounts to which such cost was charged. Every carrier shall take such measures and establish such procedure as will insure strict compliance with these requirements. When any item of plant is retired from service for any reason, the amount in the plant accounts applicable to that item shall be credited thereto and the retirement entry shall cite the original entry of cost of the item retired, by name and page of, or other definite identification of, book or other record in which maintained; except that when such entry cannot be identified or is not available, that fact shall be stated in the retirement entry. The records supporting retirement entries shall show also the aggregate quantity, in units of measure ordinarily used by the carrier, of each retirement unit retired. (See § 34.1–6–1.)

(b) Depreciable operated plant: For the purpose of avoiding undue refinement, the accounting for retirements and replacements of depreciable operated plant shall be as follows:

(1) Retirement units. The cost of any unit retired (whether replaced or not) shall be credited to the appropriate plant account. Except as provided in paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section, the entire amount of such cost shall be charged to account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant." (See also the text of that account.) The cost of plant installed in place of the plant retired shall be charged to the appropriate plant accounts.

(2) Minor items. Any minor item of plant retired and not replaced shall be accounted for as if it were a retirement unit except that, if the cost of a minor item of plant is accounted for through the retirement of a unit, no separate credit to the plant account is required when such an item is retired. If a minor item of plant is retired and replaced apart from the retirement unit of which it forms a part or with which it is associated, no adjustment shall be made in account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant." The cost of the replacement shall be charged to the account appropriate for the cost of maintenance of the plant, except that, if the replacement effects a substantial betterment (the primary aim of which is to make the plant affected more useful, of greater durability, of greater capacity, or more economical in operation), the excess cost in place of the item installed over the cost of the item retired shall be charged to the appropriate plant account.

(c) Land: The cost of land retired shall be credited to account 11, "Land." If the land is sold, the difference between the cost of the land and the consideration received less commissions and other expenses of making the sale, shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or credited to account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits," as appropriate. If the land is retained by the carrier, its estimated fair value, not in excess of cost, shall be charged to account 1610, "Miscellaneous physical property." The difference, if any, between the amount credited to the plant account and the amount charged to account 1610 shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges." (See also § 34.1–7.)

(d) Intangibles: The accounting for franchises, patent rights, leaseholds, and other intangibles retired shall be as provided in the text of account 1520, "Allowance for amortization; radiotelegraph plant."

(e) When operated plant is sold with the associated traffic, the cost of such plant shall be credited to the appropriate plant accounts and the amounts carried with respect thereto in the depreciation and amortization allowance accounts shall be charged to such allowance accounts. The difference between (1) the net of such charges and credits and (2) the consideration received less commissions and other expenses of making the sale shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges," or credited to account 6199, "Other extraordinary income credits," as appropriate. The accounting for depreciable operated plant sold without the associated traffic shall be as provided in paragraph (b) of this section and account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant."

(f) Upon termination of a lease and transfer of the plant to the lessor, the cost of improvements and replacements made by the lessee to plant leased from others shall be credited to the plant accounts of the lessee in which they stand charged. The amounts applicable to such plant in account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant," and account 1520, "Allowance for amortization; radiotelegraph plant," shall be cleared from such allowance accounts. The difference between the amounts of the foregoing charges and credits shall be charged or credited, as appropriate, to account 2225, "Provisions for depreciation and replacement of operated plant leased from others." The amount of any settlement with the lessor with respect to such plant shall be charged or credited, as appropriate, to account 2225. The balances in account 2225, and account 2230, "Leased operated plant retired," with respect to each such expired lease shall, upon completion of the foregoing entries, be disposed of in such manner as this Commission may approve or direct.

(g) If, after performing the accounting provided in the foregoing paragraphs of this section and in § 34.04–3, a credit balance remains, because of underestimating net salvage value or for any other reason, in the portion of any depreciation or amortization allowance account assignable to the plant retired, the portion of such balance applicable to the calendar year in which the plant is retired shall be charged to that allowance account and credited to the operating revenue-deduction or other account originally charged with the estimated amount of current depreciation. The remainder of such balance shall be cleared from the allowance account as provided in § 34.03–13.

NOTE A: The cost of valuations, inventories, and appraisals taken in connection with the contemplated sale of plant shall be charged to account 1935, "Preliminary survey and investigation charges." If the plant is sold, the preliminary costs shall be deducted from the sale price in accounting for the plant sold. If the contemplated sale is abandoned, such costs shall be charged to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges."

NOTE B: When the retirement of operated plant consisting of a complete operating unit or system or having a book cost of $25,000 or more is occasioned by a sale, all transactions relating thereto shall be initially recorded in account 92, "Plant sold; undistributed credits."

§ 34.1–7 Transfers of plant. (a) When plant is transferred from one class of communication service to another, the transfer shall be accounted for by transferring the book cost thereof to the appropriate accounts, and likewise any related amounts in the allowance for depreciation and allowance for amortization accounts shall be transferred to the appropriate allowance accounts.

(b) When depreciable operated plant is transferred to noncarrier operations, the transfer shall be accounted for by crediting the appropriate plant accounts and charging account 1515, "Allowance for depreciation; radiotelegraph plant," with the cost of the plant transferred. Account 1515 shall then be credited and account 1610, "Miscellaneous physical property," shall be charged with the estimated fair value, not in excess of cost, of the plant transferred.

§ 34.1–8 Continuous property-record required. (a) Not later than January 1, 1940, each carrier shall begin the preparation of a continuous property-record relating to property of the classes represented in the balance-sheet accounts under the caption "Communication plant," and in account 1610, "Miscellaneous physical property." The record shall be completed not later than June 30, 1942, with respect to property as at December 31, 1939, and with respect to the changes effected therein between the dates of January 1, 1940, and December 31, 1941: Provided, however, That such data shall not be used by the carrier in its permanent records until the approval by this Commission of a plan (and list of property units) and other details of a continuous property-record procedure submitted in compliance with the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Not later than June 30, 1940, each carrier shall submit to this Commission for consideration and approval a complete plan of the methods to be used in the compilation of the continuous property-record, the installation and maintenance of which are prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section. The plan shall include a list of the property units proposed for use, classified to conform with the operated plant accounts prescribed in this system of accounts, and include material lists for assemblies, together with the quantity-unit designation applicable to each property unit and to the integral or associated parts thereof. A narrative statement shall accompany the lists of proposed units, describing in detail the content and method of maintenance of all forms and other records which are designed for use in compiling the continuous property-record, to the end that a ready analysis with respect to the sufficiency thereof may be made.

(c) The record shall be arranged in conformity with the operated plant accounts prescribed in this system of accounts. It shall be compiled on basis of original cost and shall contain such detailed description and classification of the property units as will permit of ready verification.

§ 34.1–89 Contemplated form of plant statement. (See § 34.03–9.)

§ 34.4420 General services, licenses, and royalties—Cr. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts accruing (other than profits realized) from services rendered others under a license agreement, a general service contract, or other arrangement providing for the furnishing of general management, supervision, purchasing, accounting, engineering, financial, legal, patent, or other general services.

This account may be charged monthly with amounts sufficient to meet the probable liability for such losses, concurrent credits being made to account 2215, "Provisions for self-carried insurance," in which case losses sustained shall be charged to that account.

(b) This account shall include (1) the pay and expenses of officers and employees regularly engaged in or specifically assigned to work in connection with injuries to employees or others and damages to property of others, (2) payments to attorneys, investigators, and adjusters, and (3) court costs and similar items, except such items as are provided for in the clearing accounts.

It shall include payments to or on behalf of employees on account of injuries or accidental death when such payments come within the scope of a carrier's general provision for employees' benefits.

(b) If the carrier has definitely undertaken by contract to pay pensions to employees when regularly retired for superannuation or disability and has established a fund to be held in trust for such pension purposes, the carrier shall charge to this account monthly amounts determined through the application of equitable actuarial factors to the current pay rolls, which together with interest accruals on the trust funds, will as nearly as may be, provide for the payment of such pensions, or for the purchase of annuities corresponding thereto. The amounts so charged shall be concurrently credited to account 2210, "Provisions for employees' pensions and welfare." The amounts accrued in each year shall correspond to the aggregate of the amounts expended directly by the carrier for pensions or annuities during the year and amounts paid into the trust fund. The carrier shall maintain a complete record of the actuarial computations through which the accrual each month of its pension liabilities is established.

(c) Upon the adoption of the accrual plan of accounting, pension payments to employees retired before the adoption of such plan shall be charged to an existing pension reserve or to account 6299, "Other extraordinary income charges." If a carrier pays into its pension trust fund the amount of its existing pension reserve, any such amounts in excess of provision for pensions granted prior to the adoption of the accrual plan may be applied in whole or in part to the adjustment of future accrual charges.

(d) Before adopting the accrual plan of accounting for pensions the carrier shall inform this Commission of the details of its pension plan, giving full statement of the facts which in its judgment establish a contractual obligation for pension payments together with the actuarial formula under which it proposes to create its pension trust fund, and also a copy of the declaration of trust under which the fund is established. Each carrier that has adopted the accrual plan of accounting for pensions shall make no change in the accounting therefor or in the method of computing the amounts of the accruals recorded in the accounts under the plan without first submitting full particulars of the proposed changes and a detailed statement of the reasons therefor to this Commission for its consideration and approval.

(e) No charges to this account shall be made in anticipation of discretionary pension payments in the future.

(f) This account shall include also, under a separate subaccount, amounts accrued to provide for the payment of termination allowances or similar benefits to employees of the carrier when such employees are laid off because of lack of work, and to provide necessary and warranted relief to former employees. Charges to this subaccount shall be made only after approval by this Commission of the carrier's plan for administering payments for these purposes and of the amount of the accruals. Amounts charged to this subaccount shall be concurrently credited to account 2210, "Provisions for employees' pensions and welfare."

(g) There shall be credited to this account that portion of each class of relief and pensions assigned to construction and custom-work labor.

R. 9471), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in the State of Florida, issued under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of tangerines, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which this regulation is based became available and the time when this regulation must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient for such compliance.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., February 3, 1947, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., February 17, 1947, no handler shall ship:

(ii) Any tangerines, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than the size that will pack 210 tangerines, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack (as such pack is defined in the aforesaid U. S. Standards), in a half-standard box (inside dimensions 9½ x 9½ x 19⅛ inches; capacity 1,726 cubic inches); or

(iii) Any tangerines, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size larger than the size that will pack 120 tangerines, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack (as such pack is defined in the aforesaid U. S. Standards), in a half-standard box (inside dimensions 9½ x 9½ x 19⅛ inches; capacity 1,726 cubic inches).

(2) As used herein, "handler" and "ship" shall have the same meaning as is given to each such term in said amended marketing agreement and order. (48 Stat. 31, 670, 675; 49 Stat. 750; 50 Stat. 246; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.)

§ 953.314 Lemon Regulation 207—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and the order (7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 953.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, issued under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.; 60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which the regulation is based became available and the time when this regulation must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient for such compliance.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 2, 1947, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 9, 1947, is hereby fixed at 185 carloads, or an equivalent quantity.

The Lemon Administrative Committee, in accordance with the provisions of the said marketing agreement and order, shall calculate the quantity of lemons which may be handled by each such handler during the period specified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "boxes," "handler," "carloads," and "prorate base" shall have the same meaning as is given to each such word in the said marketing agreement and order. (48 Stat. 31, 670, 675; 49 Stat. 750; 50 Stat. 246; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.)

TITLE 24—HOUSING CREDIT

Chapter VIII—Office of Housing Expediter

[Premium Payments Reg. 8 as Amended Jan. 31, 1947, Incl. Int. 1]

PART 805—PREMIUM PAYMENTS REGULATIONS UNDER VETERANS' EMERGENCY HOUSING ACT OF 1946

CAST IRON SOIL PIPE

Purpose and findings. This general regulation is issued to stimulate additional production of cast iron soil pipe, cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes, by providing for premium payments with respect to units of additional production above established quotas. It describes how quotas are established, and the methods, procedures and conditions under which such payments may be obtained. This regulation is issued pursuant to the authority of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946.

All available means of increasing the supply of cast iron soil pipe, cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes, for the veterans' emergency housing program and for other construction, maintenance and repair essential to the national well-being have been considered. Based on such consideration the Expediter finds that premium payments are temporarily necessary to increase the supply of such materials and to stimulate additional production with greater rapidity, economy, and certainty than other available methods. The payment of a uniform rate of premium in this industry is not feasible. The rate of premium payable under Premium A is uniform. The rate of premium under Premium B is varied because of differences in the amounts of such premium applicable to each producer. In applying premium payments to necessary additional production in this industry, emphasis has been placed upon avoiding either economic dislocations or adverse effects upon established business.

(11) "Shipments" means the number of short tons of cast iron soil pipe, cast iron soil fittings, and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes manufactured by a producer and shipped by such producer.

(12) "New producer". A person who did not operate prior to the effective date of this section any plant for the production of cast iron soil pipe and cast iron soil fittings shall be a new producer as to any plant, operated by him for the production of cast iron soil pipe and cast iron soil fittings, which was not prior to the effective date of this section, substantially completed as a plant capable of producing such products.

[Subparagraph (12) as amended shall become effective as of October 10, 1946]

(13) "Claim" means a claim for payment filed pursuant to this section.

(14) "Expediter" means the Housing Expediter as defined in the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946, or his duly authorized representative.

(15) "OHE" means the Office of the Housing Expediter.

(16) "Premium A" means a premium which is computed in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph (e) of this section.

(17) "Premium B" means a premium which is computed in accordance with subparagraph (3) of paragraph (e) of this section.

(b) Eligibility—(1) Premium A. Any producer is eligible under this section for payment of a premium designated as Premium A, if he meets all of the following conditions:

(i) His production during the month covered by the claim is in excess of quota, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (e) (2) (ii) (d) of this section;

(ii) His shipments during the month covered by the claim exceed 75 percent of his production for the month; and his shipments during the month covered by the claim and the immediately preceding month exceed 90 percent of his combined production during those two months: Provided, however, That if on application by the producer on form NHA 14-65 the Expediter determines that the producer's failure to ship the required percentage of his production was due to unusual circumstances beyond the producer's control, the producer shall be eligible for Premium A.

[Subparagraph (1) as amended shall become effective as of August 1, 1946]

(2) Premium B. A producer is eligible for payment of a premium under this section designated as Premium B if he consumed in his production not later than February 28, 1947, pig iron of foundry or malleable grades which he bought prior to December 1, 1946, from the Thomas Plant (Birmingham, Alabama) of the Republic Steel Corporation under either of the following conditions:

(i) The producer bought such pig iron between September 1, 1946 and November 9, 1946 (both dates inclusive), at a purchase price not exceeding the maximum price established for such pig iron by the Office of Price Administration by individual adjustment granted to the Republic Steel Corporation, but which purchase price was higher than the OPA maximum price for such sales in the absence of such individual price adjustment; or

(ii) The producer bought such pig iron between November 10, 1946, and November 30, 1946 (both dates inclusive), at a basing point price charged by the Republic Steel Corporation for such pig iron which was higher than the basing point price prevailing at that time for such sales; and which higher basing point price resulted in a higher purchase price than that which the producer would otherwise have paid.

(c) Establishment of quota. (1) A monthly quota shall be established for each and every operating plant of a producer which shall be the higher of the following:

(i) The average monthly production of the latest three full operating months during the period January 1, 1946 through May 31, 1946: Provided, however, That any producer who operated during those months on a week of more than 40 hours shall adjust to a 40-hour week for each shift in operation during the three months, or

(ii) 90 percent of the production, on the same adjusted basis, in the full operating month of highest production during the period January 1, 1946 through May 31, 1946.

(2) With respect to all other plants a monthly quota shall be established by the Expediter on application: Provided, however, That no such quota shall be established for a new producer which would result in the application of premium payments to more than 50 percent of the value (in terms of the producer's selling price) of the total output of said producer.

(3) If production in any plant is below quota in any claim period the producer's quota for the next succeeding claim period shall consist of his established quota plus the amount of the deficit in the preceding claim period. Provided, however, That if on application by the producer on form NHA 14–65 to the Expediter he determines that the deficit was due to unusual circumstances beyond the control of the producer, such deficit shall not be added to the established quota.

(4) In the case of producers with two or more plants which are in operation, if the production in any plant falls below the quota in that plant in any month, the Expediter may establish a combined quota for any or all plants if he determines that production has been shifted among such plants so as to increase the producer's total claim without a corresponding increase in total output.

(5) (i) The quota for each operating plant, as established under paragraph (c) (1) of this section, shall be reduced by the excess, if any, of the total amount of 5" and larger pipe sizes produced by such plant during the month of August, 1946 over 7% of its total production during that month. Such reduction in quota shall apply only with respect to claims filed for the months determined as follows:

(a) For an operating plant whose August 1946 production of 5" and larger pipe sizes represented more than 7%, but less than 10%, of its total production for that month, the reduced quota for such plant shall be applied only with respect to claims filed for the month of September 1946 and for no other month.

(b) For an operating plant whose August 1946 production of 5" and larger pipe sizes represented 10% or more, but less than 20%, of its total production for that month, the reduced quota for such plant shall be applied only with respect to claims filed for each of the months of September and October 1946 and for no other month.

(c) For an operating plant whose August 1946 production of 5" and larger pipe sizes represented 20% or more of its total production for that month, the reduced quota for such plant shall be applied only with respect to claims filed for each of the months of September, October and November 1946 and for no other month.

(ii) In the case of any producer with two or more plants, none of the plants of such producer will be eligible for the reduction in quota provided for in this subparagraph (c) (5) unless the total combined production in all the plants of such producer of 5" and larger pipe sizes during the month of August, 1946 exceeded 7% of the total combined production in all such plants during that month.

(d) Application for quota. Every producer who wishes to receive premium payments under this section shall file promptly with the Expediter an application for quota for each of his plants. All applications for quota shall be filed on form NHA 14–64 which may be obtained from any Reconstruction Finance Corporation Loan Agency. A producer may find out in which RFC Loan Agency district he is located by consulting his bank.

(e) Rate and computation of premium payments. (1) Payments of premium A shall be made only on production in excess of quota except as provided in subparagraph (2) (ii) (d) of this paragraph. For the purpose of computing production for a month covered by a claim production shall not include cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes in excess of 120% of production of cast iron soil pipe.

Example 1. Producer A has a quota of 400 tons. His total production in August 1946 is 500 tons of which 200 tons are cast iron soil pipe and 300 tons are cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes. In computing his claim A includes all of his production of cast iron soil pipe—200 tons—plus cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories up to 120% of his production of cast iron soil pipe—240 tons. His production is therefore 440 tons and his production in excess of quota 40 tons. A therefore receives a premium payment on 40 tons.

(2) Payments of premium A shall be made at the following rates:

(i) Ten dollars per ton on all production in excess of established quota except where a premium at the rate of $40.00 per ton is payable under other provisions of this section.

(ii) Forty dollars per ton on all Saturday production subject to the following conditions:

(a) If Saturday production is equal to or more than the total production in excess of established quota, $40.00 per ton on all production in excess of established quota.

(b) If Saturday production is less than the total production in excess of established quota, $40.00 per ton on Saturday production and $10.00 per ton on all remaining production in excess of established quota.

(c) Premium payments at the rate of $40.00 per ton for Saturday production shall not be made on a percentage of total production greater than the percentage arrived at by dividing the number of Saturdays in the month by the total number of days in the month exclusive of Sundays and national holidays.

(d) If production during any month is not in excess of a producer's established quota but the producer had Saturday production during that month premium payments at the rate of $40.00 per ton may be made on such production if, on the producer's application on Form NHA 14–65, the Expediter determines that the producer's failure to produce in excess of his established quota was due to unusual circumstances beyond the producer's control.

Example 2. Producer W has a quota of 400 tons. In August 1946 he produces 440 tons operating on a five-day week. Since he has no Saturday production he receives a premium at the rate of $10.00 per ton on the 40 tons which are in excess of his established quota.

Example 3. Producer X has a quota of 400 tons. In August 1946 he produces 440 tons of soil pipe, of which 80 tons were produced on Saturday. X receives a premium payment at the rate of $40.00 per ton on his production in excess of quota, that is, on forty tons.

Example 4. Producer Y has a quota of 400 tons. In August 1946 he produced 520 tons of soil pipe of which 80 tons were produced on Saturday. He receives a premium payment at the rate of $40.00 per ton on 80 tons and $10.00 per ton on the remaining 40 tons in excess of quota.

Example 5. Producer Z has a quota of 400 tons. In August 1946 he produces 520 tons of which 100 tons were produced on Saturdays. Since August has 27 working days, of which 5 are Saturdays, Z may not receive premium payments at the rate of $40.00 per ton on more than 5/6ths of his total production. Since Z's production is 120 tons in excess of quota he will receive a premium payment at the rate of $40.00 per ton on 5/6ths of 520 tons, that is, on 96 tons and at the rate of $10.00 per ton on the remaining 24 tons which are in excess of quota.

(3) Payments of Premium B shall be made to a producer qualifying under subparagraph (2) of paragraph (b) in an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the purchase price of the pig iron bought by such producer which is actually consumed in his production of cast iron soil pipe, cast iron soil fittings and cast iron accessories for stacks and drainage purposes during the month covered by his claim for Premium B, over either of the following amounts, as the case may be:

(i) For pig iron purchased prior to November 10, 1946, the maximum price established by the Office of Price Administration for such sales of pig iron without regard to the individual price adjustment granted by the OPA to the Republic Steel Corporation for pig iron produced at its Thomas plant in Birmingham, Alabama; or

(ii) For pig iron purchased between November 10, 1946, and November 30, 1946 (both dates inclusive), the purchase price based upon the basing point price which prevailed for such sales at that time.

(f) Claims for payment. (1) Claims for Premium A and Premium B shall be filed on form NHA 14–65. Producers who claim both Premium A and Premium B for the same month shall incorporate both claims on the same form NHA 14–65. These forms may be obtained from any RFC Loan Agency.

(2) Each claim for payment of Premium A shall be filed on or before the last day of the month following the end of the month in which the production occurred: Provided, however, That claims for payment on account of production during the months of August and September, 1946 may be filed not later than November 30, 1946. Each claim for payment of Premium A shall include all of the production of the month for which claim is made and no other. Any producer whose production in any month is insufficient to permit the payment of a Premium A shall nevertheless file form NHA 14–65 as an information return. Each claim for payment of Premium B shall be filed on or before the last day of the month following the end of the month in which the pig iron, for whose purchase such claim is made, was consumed in production and such claim shall include all of the pig iron so consumed in such month and no other: Provided, however, That claims for payment of Premium B for the month of September, 1946 may be filed not later than November 30, 1946.

(3) Each claim or information return on form NHA 14–65 shall be filed with RFC at the Loan Agency for the district in which the main office of the plant is located, except that a producer operating more than one plant shall simultaneously file the claims or information returns for all of his plants at the Loan Agency for the district in which his main office is located.

(4) No claim under this section shall be assignable except as a part of the bona fide transfer of the plant to a legal successor.

(g) Payment—(1) Review by RFC. In reviewing claims, the RFC will determine whether such claims appear to have been correctly and properly prepared.

(2) Terms of payment. If the claim or any part thereof is accepted by RFC subject to final verification, RFC will then pay the claimant that part of the claim so accepted: Provided, however, That with respect to claims for the last two months during which this section is in effect RFC may require that bond be furnished in form and amount satisfactory to it before making payment.

Preliminary acceptance and payment of a claim shall not constitute final acceptance of the validity or amount of the claim. If, after review or audit, there is cause to question the validity of any claim, RFC may:

(i) Require that bond be furnished in form and amount satisfactory to it before making further payments, or,

(ii) Suspend further payments.

(3) Verification of claims. (i) Upon receipt of claims, RFC will forward copies to the Expediter for verification and such investigation or audit as may be deemed appropriate.

(ii) If the amount verified and approved by the Expediter is less than the amount previously paid, the claimant shall upon demand by RFC refund the overage to RFC together with interest thereon at the rate of 4% per annum calculated from the date of such overpayment to the date repayment is made to the RFC or such overage plus interest may be deducted from any accrued or subsequent claim for any payment by RFC to the claimant.

(4) Invalidation of claims. The Expediter shall have the right at any time to declare invalid, in whole or in part, any claim of a producer, and such producer shall upon demand refund to RFC any payment on such claim, or part thereof, if the Expediter finds that the producer:

(i) Has failed to comply with any of the requirements of this section, or

(ii) Has failed to comply with directives, orders or regulations of the Office of Temporary Controls or OHE on cast iron soil pipe.

(iii) Has failed to maintain substantially the same ratio of production of Victory pipe to production of other pipe as the producer maintained during the period on the basis of which his quota was established.

(iv) Has filed a claim for premium payment in which the amount of production for which claim is made at the rate of $40.00 per ton when divided by total production results in a percentage which is substantially greater than the percentage arrived at by dividing the overtime man-hours worked by the total man-hours worked.

In such cases the Expediter may recompute the claim by applying to all or part of the production in excess of quota a premium rate of $10.00 per ton instead of $40.00 per ton.

(h) Records. Every producer shall prepare and preserve for inspection for a period not less than two years after the date of termination of this section, all books, records and other documents which furnish information in support of its claim for payment. The Expediter or his designated agents shall have the right at any time to make such examinations and audits of these books, records and other documents as may be necessary to verify the representations in the producer's claim for payment or as may be required by the Expediter.

(i) Reports. Producers must furnish such reports as may be required by the Expediter from time to time, subject to approval by the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(j) Official interpretations. Official interpretations of this section may be given only in writing by the General Counsel of the Office of the Expediter, or his duly authorized representative. A request for an official interpretation must be filed in writing directly with the Expediter or the General Counsel.

(k) Termination. This section shall terminate on June 30, 1947. In the event the Expediter finds that any substantive amendments, including but not limited to an amendment of the termination date, have become necessary, no such amendments will be issued until after adequate notice to and discussion with representatives of the producers covered by this section.

Termination shall not preclude the filing of claims for payment during the month following such termination on account of production during the immediately preceding month. Such claims shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of this section in the same manner as if it had not been terminated.

[Above paragraph as amended shall become effective as of November 10, 1946]

(l) Effective date. This section as amended shall become effective as of November 10, 1946.

NOTE: The reporting and record keeping requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget, in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 31st day of January 1947.

Housing Expediter.

INTERPRETATION 1

QUANTITY OF CAST IRON SOIL PIPE FITTINGS REQUIRED TO BE PRODUCED IN A MONTH

In order to be a "producer" as defined in paragraph (a) (4) of EPPR–8, as amended, a person must produce both cast iron soil pipe and cast iron soil fittings. The quantity of fittings which a person must produce for the purpose of coming within the definition is approximately that amount which is needed to complement his additional output of soil pipe in addition to the amount of fittings which he produced during the period of time on the basis of which his quota was established. (Issued Sept. 21, 1946.)

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

RAYMOND NICEWONGER

Raymond Nicewonger, R. D. #1, Duncansville, Pennsylvania, on or about July 11, 1946, began the construction of a two-story combination commercial and residential building on Pennsylvania Route No. 764, approximately 1 mile east of Duncansville, Pennsylvania, without authorization of either the Civilian Production Administration or the Federal Housing Administration, at an estimated cost of $5,650. On October 1, 1946, he was warned by the Compliance Department of the Civilian Production Administration that he was apparently in violation of Veterans Housing Program Order No. 1 in beginning this construction. On October 31, 1946, his application for authorization to complete this structure was denied by the Federal Housing Administration. Raymond Nicewonger continued to carry on construction subsequent to October 31, 1946, in spite of the aforementioned warning and denial of his application. The beginning and carrying on of this construction, subsequent to March 26, 1946, constituted a wilful violation of Veterans' Housing Program Order No. 1. This violation has diverted critical materials to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 1010.1078 Suspension Order No. S–1078. (a) Neither Raymond Nicewonger, his successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any further construction on the premises located on Pennsylvania Route No. 764, approximately 1 mile east of Duncansville, Pennsylvania, including completing, putting up or altering of any structure located thereon, unless hereafter specifically authorized by the Civilian Production Administration, the Federal Housing Administration or other duly authorized Government agency.

(b) Raymond Nicewonger shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration, Federal Housing Administration, or any other duly authorized governmental agency, for authorization to carry on construction.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Raymond Nicewonger, his successors or assigns, from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

DAVID BLOOM

David Bloom, 920 Hartford Avenue, Akron 2, Ohio, on or about August 1, 1946, without authorization of the Civilian Production Administration, began and thereafter carried on the construction of a residential dwelling located at 360 Dorchester Avenue, Akron, Ohio, the estimated cost of which construction was in excess of $400. The beginning and carrying on of such construction constituted a violation of Veterans' Housing Program Order No. 1. The violations have diverted critical materials to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 1010.1058 Suspension Order No. S–1058. (a) Neither David Bloom, his successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any further construction on the premises located at 360 Dorchester Avenue, Akron, Ohio, including completing or altering the structure, unless hereafter authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) David Bloom shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration or the Federal Housing Administration for priorities assistance or for authorization to carry on construction.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve David Bloom, his successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 34, as Amended Jan. 31, 1947]

§ 944.55 Priorities Regulation 34—(a) What this regulation does. There is a shortage in the supply of certain materials, held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and various government agencies for defense, for private account and for export. This regulation states the rules applicable to purchases of these materials from the RFC either directly from its own stock or from the stocks of other government owning agencies. The regulation indicates in respect to which materials a purchase from the RFC must first be authorized by the Civilian Production Administration and explains who may apply for such authorization and in what manner. The regulation applies only to the materials listed on Table A below. This Table includes, but is not limited to, certain so-called strategic and critical materials covered by War Assets Administration Regulation 17.

(b) Materials for the purchase of which from RFC an authorization is required from CPA. Before a person may purchase from RFC certain of the materials on Table A, he must obtain an authorization from CPA. Whether or not an authorization is required, is indicated in Column 2. In Column 3 appears a reference to the Branch or Division of the CPA responsible for the materials. In Column 4 is specified the class of persons who may apply for an authorization to purchase from the RFC, and in respect to those materials in which the distribution is covered by CPA orders, a reference to the appropriate order is made. In some instances, Column 4 indicates that a certification will be required from the applicant.

Where Column 4 indicates applications are to be made by letter, the applicant should state: (1) the purpose for which the material is required; (2) his present inventory of the material requested; (3) the number of days supply represented by the present inventory, plus the amount requested, based on his current or scheduled rate of operation; (4) the efforts he has made to obtain the material from private sources of supply, foreign or domestic; (5) the efforts he has made to obtain and use a suitable substitute and (6) any other information pertinent to the application. In general, CPA will authorize the purchase of the material from RFC only if the material is not available from private sources of supply, foreign or domestic; no suitable substitute material is available; and the proposed purchase conforms with applicable CPA inventory restrictions on the material in question. Authorization for the purchase will be made by the CPA on Form CPAI–3669 to RFC. CPA will notify the applicant of the action taken.

(c) Materials for the purchase of which no authorization is required from CPA. If Column 2 in Table A indicates that no CPA authorization is required, the material may be purchased directly from RFC upon filing with the purchase order the certificate required in Column 4.

(d) Restrictions on purchasers. A purchaser from the RFC of any of the materials listed on Table A below, must not violate any CPA order or regulation controlling the amount of any such material he may receive or the use or disposition he may make of it. Persons buying for resale are subject to all applicable inventory restrictions, and any materials obtained under this regulation by such persons must be offered for sale promptly in accordance with applicable CPA orders and regulations.

NOTE: The application and reporting provisions of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[3d RMPR 183, Amdt. 10, § 1418.1]

PART 1418—TERRITORIES AND POSSESSIONS

SUGAR CANE IN PUERTO RICO

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Third Revised Maximum Price Regulation 183 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 4.23 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) Sales of raw cane sugar on and after January 18, 1947. On and after January 18, 1947, the maximum price for sales of raw cane sugar determined under subparagraphs (1) and (2) above may be increased by 55 cents per hundredweight.

2. The schedule in § 4.23 (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

All brands packaged in—	At refiners level [1] (per 100 lbs.)	At wholesale (per 100 lbs.)	At retail (per unit)
100 lb. container	[2] $7.90	[3] $8.10	$0.09
25 lb. container	8.00	8.20	2.20
10 lb. container	8.05	8.25	.94
5 lb. container	8.15	8.35	.47
2 lb. container	8.15	8.35	.19
1 lb. container	8.35	8.55	[4] .10

[2] Deduct 5 cents if packaged in paper bags.
[3] 2 for $0.19.

This amendment shall become effective for producers of raw and refined sugars as of 12:01 a. m., January 18, 1947, and for wholesalers and retailers as of January 22, 1947.

Issued this 31st day of January 1947.

J. W. FOLLIN,
Acting Temporary Controls Administrator.

Statement of the Considerations Involved in the Issuance of Amdt. 10 to Third Revised Maximum Price Regulation 183

The accompanying amendment increases the maximum price of raw cane and refined granulated sugars. On January 18, 1947, maximum prices of raw cane sugar were increased on the mainland 18½ cents per hundredweight and of refined sugar 20 cents per hundredweight through amendment 5 to MPR 16 and amendment 8 to MPR 60, respectively. Reference to the statement of considerations accompanying these amendments is hereby made. The same increases are made effective in Puerto Rico under this amendment for the same reasons the previous increases granted on the mainland were made applicable to Puerto Rico, as explained in the earlier statements of considerations.

The new prices are calculated to return to distributors no less than the average percentage markups as were in effect on March 31, 1946, and are in accord with and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

Chapter XVIII—Office of Temporary Controls, Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion (Stabilization)

[Directive 147]

ABSORPTION BY COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION OF EXCESS COSTS OF TRANSPORTING SUGAR TO DEFICIT AREAS

§ 4003.44 Absorption of sugar transportation costs. (a) The Acting Secretary of Agriculture has recommended the amendment of the program under which Commodity Credit Corporation absorbs the excess costs of transporting sugar into deficit areas within the continental United States. This program, in its original form, was approved by the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion on July 20, 1946. The program should now be enlarged to authorize Commodity Credit Corporation to absorb the excess costs of transporting Hawaiian raw sugar to Gulf and Atlantic ports, designated as deficit areas, rather than to the normal West Coast destinations, and to absorb the excess costs of transporting refined Hawaiian sugar from the West Coast to these deficit areas. This has been made more necessary by the designation of the Atlantic States as deficit areas for a limited period in October and November 1946 as the result of the maritime strike. Any payments to West Coast refiners, however, would be subject to the limitation that the amount of such reimbursement shall not exceed the cost to Commodity Credit Corporation of shipping the raw sugar, from which such refined sugar was made, from Hawaii to Gulf and Atlantic ports. It is estimated that the program as modified will require the expenditure of $3,500,000 rather than $2,500,000, as originally contemplated.

(b) After careful consideration, I hereby find that the proposed program, with the modifications referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, is necessary to insure the maximum distribution of available supplies of sugar to satisfy essential civilian and military requirements. The Department of Agriculture is authorized and directed to carry out through the Commodity Credit Corporation the amended program described in paragraph (a) of this section (and set forth in further detail in the letters of the Acting Secretary of Agriculture dated October 11, 1946 and January 6, 1947).[1]

SHIP SERVICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

JANUARY 24, 1947.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. It is proposed to amend paragraph (g) of § 8.115 of the Commission's rules governing ship service to read as follows:

(g) No electrical load circuits except those of the emergency installation* shall be connected to the emergency power supply: Provided, That an approved automatic-alarm-signal keying device, or the audible warning apparatus associated with an approved auto-alarm receiver, or both, may be connected to that part of the emergency power supply furnishing power to the emergency transmitter: Provided further, however, That the reserve capacity of the emergency power supply shall include the additional capacity required to energize, in a normal manner and to a normal extent, any keying device or audible warning apparatus that may be connected as herein authorized, including sufficient capacity to energize any keying device continuously for a period of one hour.

3. The purpose of the above-quoted proposed amendment is to permit the utilization of a ship's emergency radio transmitter power supply to energize automatic-alarm-signal keying devices used in keying shipboard radio-telegraph transmitters and to energize audible warning apparatus associated with auto-alarm receivers. In this connection, the attention of all interested parties is particularly directed to the following points:

a. The proposed amendment authorizes the connection of automatic-alarm-signal keying devices and auto-alarm audible warning apparatus to only that part of a ship's emergency power supply furnishing power to the emergency radio transmitter.

b. In connection with auto-alarm receivers, the proposed amendment authorizes the connection of audible warning devices, such as warning bells, but does not authorize the connection of any other associated electrical equipment

4. Heretofore, in February, 1946, a proposed amendment, similar to the above, was tentatively approved by the Commission and distributed to all parties known or believed to be interested for the purpose of obtaining their comment. The Commission has duly considered all comments received and all problems involved, and after such consideration has concluded that it appears to be in the public interest, convenience or necessity that the above-quoted proposed amendment should be finally adopted.

5. Inasmuch as the effect of the proposed amendment is to relieve an existing restriction upon the use of certain radio equipment, and in view of the previous publicity and notice to interested parties covering this subject matter, it is proposed that the amendment when finally adopted shall be made effective immediately.

6. The proposed amendment is authorized by sections 303 (r) and 356 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

7. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein may file with the Commission on or before February 6, 1947, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. If any comments are received which appear to warrant the Commission in holding an oral argument before final action is taken, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given.

AVIATION RULES

PROPOSED REVISION

JANUARY 24, 1947.

The Commission announces that on February 25, 1947 members of its staff will hold an informal conference at its offices in Washington, D. C., with interested members of the aviation industry to discuss a proposed revision of the rules and regulations governing aviation services. A copy of the proposed revision will appear in the FEDERAL REGISTER at an early date and will serve as a basis for discussion.

Inasmuch as this is the first general revision of the rules since they were adopted in 1939, it is felt that the aviation industry and other interested persons will have much to offer at a conference of the nature proposed. Holding the conference prior to the date set for the oral argument should be helpful in resolving some of the issues involved in the Commission's proposal. In addition it will afford an opportunity to discuss generally the Commission's policies and activities in the aviation field and expedite the finding of solutions to the many problems confronting both the industry and the Commission.

All persons interested are invited to attend. However, in order that a meeting place of suitable size can be arranged, it is requested that those planning to be present notify the Commission prior to February 21, 1947.

PRESS WIRELESS, INC.

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR CONSOLIDATED HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re applications of Press Wireless, Inc., Docket No. 8057, File Nos. 6514–MLHT–B 6515–MLHT–B, for modification of licenses to permit the handling of deferred commercial messages.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 23d day of January 1947;

The Commission having under consideration applications filed December 9, 1946, by Press Wireless, Inc., for modification of its licenses in the fixed public press service to permit the handling of commercial messages on a deferred basis; and

It appearing, that the Commission, upon examination of the above-described applications, is unable to determine that public interest, convenience or necessity would be served by a grant thereof;

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 309 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that the above-described applications of Press Wireless, Inc., be, and they are hereby, designated for hearing for the following reasons:

1. To determine whether there is a public need for the use of applicant's telegraph communication channels for the handling of commercial messages on a deferred basis which cannot adequately be met by existing cable facilities and the facilities of radio carriers in the fixed public service;

2. To determine the nature of the service proposed to be rendered by the applicant, including the charges, and the divisions thereof, practices, and regulations in connection therewith as compared with the service now being rendered by other cable and radio carriers;

3. To determine the relative speed of service and the scheduled hours of operation of the proposed service as compared with service of competing cable and radio carriers in the deferred classification;

4. To determine the extent to which applicant's authorized frequencies and facilities would be used for rendering the proposed service and whether such use is the most desirable and efficient use thereof from the standpoint of providing the United States public with rapid and efficient communication service;

5. To determine what effect, if any, the rendition of the proposed service by the applicant will have upon the communication services now being rendered by applicant and upon the communication services rendered by other carriers furnishing foreign telegraph communication service;

6. To determine applicant's financial ability to provide the necessary physical equipment, offices, and personnel in order to render the proposed service;

7. To determine the effect which the rendition of the proposed service would have on applicant's financial condition and on its ability to serve the public as a press carrier;

8. To determine any other relevant facts which would indicate whether or not a grant of the above-described applications would serve public interest, convenience, or necessity.

It is further ordered, That Press Wireless, Inc., be, and it is hereby, made a party respondent to this proceeding, and that a copy hereof be served upon it and upon all other carriers subject to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, engaged in rendering telegraph communication service between the United States and foreign points;

It is further ordered, That this proceeding be, and the same is hereby, assigned for hearing on the 3rd day of March, 1947, beginning at 10:00 a. m., before the Commission's Telegraph Committee composed of Commissioners Ray C. Wakefield, Paul A. Walker and Clifford J. Durr, or any member or members of such Committee, at the offices of the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C.;

COMMUNITY BROADCASTING CO.

PROPOSED TRANSFER OF CONTROL [1]

The Commission hereby gives notice that on January 21, 1947 there was filed with it an application (B3-TC-529) for its consent under section 310 (B) of the Communications Act (47 U. S. C. A. 310) to the proposed transfer of control of Community Broadcasting Company (licensee of AM Station WNCA), Asheville, North Carolina, from C. Fredric Rabell, Jack O. K. Barfield, James M. Earnest, Albin Knight, Alfred Miller, Richard M. Arnold to Jacksonville Broadcasting Company, Gulf Life Building, Jacksonville, Florida. The arrangements for transfer of control of the above station are based upon the agreement of December 23, 1946 between the selling stockholders and Jacksonville Broadcasting Corporation pursuant to which said selling stockholders propose to sell all of the 240 shares of common $100 par value voting stock of Community Broadcasting Company (constituting all the issued and outstanding stock) to purchaser for $80,100 in cash and the additional considerations which are set forth in the purchase agreement. From the agreement it appears that the stock and $25,000 were deposited in escrow with the First National Bank and Trust Company of Asheville, North Carolina, upon execution of the agreement; the balance of $55,100 is to be paid within 3 days of notice from the Commission approving the application. Current assets (cash on hand and in bank, accounts receivable, notes, and other claims due or accrued to the corporation as of December 31, 1946) are to be retained by the sellers. Buyer agreed to loan licensee not to exceed $10,000 for operating purposes and to loan further amounts to liquidate existing indebtedness. Further details as to the arrangements between the parties and concerning the application may be determined from an inspection of the papers which are on file at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

On July 25, 1946, the Commission adopted Rule 1.388 (known as Rule 1.321 effective September 11, 1946) which sets out the procedure to be followed in such cases, including the requirement for public notice concerning the filing of the application. Pursuant thereto the Commission was advised by applicants at the time of the filing of the application (January 21, 1947) that starting on January 21, 1947 notice of the filing of the application would be inserted in the Asheville Citizen, a newspaper of general circulation in Asheville, North Carolina, in conformity with the above rule.

In accordance with the procedure set out in said rule, no action will be had upon the application for a period of 60 days from January 21, 1947, within which the other persons desiring to apply for the facilities involved may do so upon the same terms and conditions as set forth in the above-described contract.

A. 310) to the proposed transfer of control of Dickinson Radio Association, Inc. (permittee of AM station KDIX), Dickinson, North Dakota from P. J. Weir, W. N. Walton, Fay M. Foster, and Robert B. The arrangements for transfer of control of the above station are based upon agreements between the parties pursuant to which the selling stockholders proposed to sell a total of 215 shares (out of 250 outstanding) at par value ($100 per share) or a total of $21,500. Further details as to the arrangements between the parties and concerning the application may be determined from an inspection of the papers which are on file at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

On July 25, 1946 the Commission adopted Rule 1.388 (known as Rule 1.321 effective September 11, 1946) which sets out the procedure to be followed in such cases, including the requirement for public notice concerning the filing of the application. FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Project No. 1845]

NANTAHALA POWER AND LIGHT CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION FOR RECONSIDERATION, RESCINDING ORDER AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE OF NEW LICENSE AND DISMISSING APPLICATION FOR NEW LICENSE (TRANSMISSION LINE)

JANUARY 24, 1947.

Upon application filed December 26, 1946, by Nantahala Power and Light Company, applicant for a new license for transmission line Project No. 1845, for reconsideration of the Commission's order issued November 22, 1946, authorizing issuance of a new license for the project; and

It appearing that: (a) The aforesaid application states that the allegation contained in paragraph (b) of the order to the effect that the transmission line in question "appeared to be a primary line emanating from the Santeetlah project and as such might properly be included in any license issued by the Commission for that project" is erroneous and contrary to the facts; and applicant objects to the condition in the order requiring it to agree to include the line in any license which may be issued in the future for the Santeetlah project;

(b) The original license for the project, which terminated on February 25, 1946, and the application for new license, particularly the maps made a part of both, describe and show the project works to consist of:

A 154,000-volt transmission line extending from Carolina Aluminum Company's Santeetlah power house on the Little Tennessee River for a distance of about 19 miles to a substation at Nantahala Station, North Carolina; • • •;

(c) The application for reconsideration states that the line does not emanate from the Santeetlah power house but that the terminus of the line is at a switching station located approximately 770 feet from the Santeetlah power house and that the line does not serve as a primary line carrying energy from Santeetlah project, but instead the primary purpose of the line is to provide a means for delivery to an aluminum manufacturer of the output of the applicant's Nantahala and Glenville hydroelectric plants, both of which have been found by the Commission not to be subject to its jurisdiction under Part I of the Federal Power Act (Dockets Nos. DI-156 and DI-157);

The Commission, having considered the application for reconsideration and having reconsidered the application for new license and the project record, finds that:

(1) The project as described in the two applications for license and in the original license is substantially different from the project as described in the application for reconsideration;

(2) The aforesaid line is not a primary line within the meaning of section 3 (11) of the Federal Power Act under the Commission's March 4, 1941, interpretation and, therefore, is not within the licensing authority of the Commission;

(3) The application for reconsideration should be granted by rescinding the order issued November 22, 1946, authorizing issuance of a new license and; by dismissing the application filed November 1, 1945, for a new license;

It is ordered, That: The application for reconsideration is hereby granted; the order issued November 22, 1946, authorizing a new license for the project is hereby rescinded; the application filed November 1, 1945, for a new license for the project is hereby dismissed; and the applicant is hereby directed to apply to the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior for appropriate authority to continue the operation and maintenance of the line over National Forest and Indian tribal lands, respectively.

Date of issuance: January 28, 1947.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70-1437]

ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION AND PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 27th day of January A. D. 1947.

Electric Bond and Share Company (Bond and Share), a registered holding company, having filed an application and declaration pursuant to sections 9 (a), 10 and 12 (d) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and Rule U-44 promulgated thereunder with respect to the following transactions:

Bond and Share's Plan II–A, as amended, approved by the Commission on September 6, 1946, provided, among other things, that the company offer to its common stockholders warrants evidencing the right to purchase for each share of the common stock of Bond and Share held, .16 of a share of the common stock of American Gas and Electric Company (American), and .20 of a share of the common stock of Pennsylvania Power & Light Company (Pennsylvania). January 17, 1947 has been set as the record date for determining the common stockholders of the company who shall be entitled to receive such warrants and prices of $33.25 and $17.50 per full share have been fixed by the company as the respective offering prices of American and Pennsylvania. The offering period will commence on January 31, 1947 and will remain open until 3:00 p. m., e. s. t., February 17, 1947.

In the present application and declaration, Bond and Share requests permission to purchase at any time from January 27 to February 17, 1947, inclusive, common stock of American and Pennsylvania and warrants to be issued by Bond and Share in connection therewith, for the purpose of stabilizing the market prices of these securities. Any purchases by Bond and Share for the purpose of such stabilization will commence as to the common stock of American at a price (exclusive of commissions) not in excess of $40.25 per share or the last preceding sale price on the New York Curb Exchange, whichever is lower; and as to the common stock of Pennsylvania, at a price not in excess of $21.00 per share or the last preceding sale price of said stock on the New York Stock Exchange, whichever is lower. Any purchase of warrants of these securities will commence at a price not in excess of the price at which the last preceding sale of such rights was made on the New York Curb Exchange, or in the event no preceding sale has occurred, such initial purchase will be made at a price not in excess of the computed value of the rights based on the differential between the offering price of the security and the last preceding sale price of such security on the respective New York Exchanges on which they are traded.

Bond and Share also requests permission to sell, during the offering period, the shares of stocks or warrants so acquired, by sales on or off the Exchanges. Any sales of stock effected off the Exchanges are to be at a price substantially equivalent to the last sales price during the day on the respective New York Exchanges where such stocks are traded. Any sale of warrants will be effected at prices not exceeding the current prices thereof quoted on the New York Curb Exchange.

The purchase by the company of warrants which are not thereafter resold will constitute a withdrawal by the company of certain shares of American and Pennsylvania from the proposed offering to its common stockholders. The company, therefore, also requests permission to sell during the offering period the number of shares of common stock of American or Pennsylvania which the rights purchased by the company (and not thereafter resold) entitle the holder thereof to purchase.

In connection with the stabilization transactions relating to the common stock of American and Pennsylvania, Bond and Share represents that it will at no time acquire a net long position (exclusive of shares presently owned by the company and not being offered to common stockholders) of shares of common stock of either American or Pennsylvania in excess of 10% of the aggregate number of shares of common stock of each of said companies being offered to its common stockholders. If the company retains any of the shares so acquired after the termination of the offering period, it will sell such shares in accordance with the provisions of Plan II–A, as amended, relating to any shares of such stock not offered to, or not purchased by, Bond and Share common stockholders.

Such application and declaration having been filed on January 15, 1947, and notice of such filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said application and declaration within the period specified in said notice or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding that no adverse findings are necessary under section 10 (b) or 10 (c) (1) of the act and that the transactions involved have the tendency required by section 10 (c) (2), and that the requirements of section 12 (d) and Rule U-44 are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application-declaration be granted and permitted to become effective; and

The Commission deeming it appropriate to grant the request of applicant-declarant that the order become effective immediately upon the issuance thereof so that the company may be in a position to expedite the consummation of its Plan II–A, as amended, and further deeming it appropriate to grant the request of applicant-declarant that the order conform to the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, including section 1808 (f) thereof;

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U–23 and the applicable provisions of the act and rules thereunder that the application and declaration be, and the same hereby are, granted and permitted to become effective immediately, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U–24 and subject to a reservation of jurisdiction as to all legal and financial advisory fees incurred in connection with the proposed transactions.

It is further ordered, That the purchase by Bond and Share of shares of common stock of American and Pennsylvania and warrants to be issued by Bond and Share in connection therewith as hereinabove set forth, and that the sale by Bond and Share of shares of common stock of American and Pennsylvania and warrants with respect thereto are necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

By the Commission.

PART 249—FORMS PRESCRIBED UNDER THE SECURITIES EXCHANGE ACT OF 1934[1]

ANNUAL REPORT OF CORPORATIONS

The Securities and Exchange Commission, acting pursuant to authority conferred upon it by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly sections 13, 15 (d) and 23 (a) thereof, and deeming such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors and necessary for the execution of the functions vested in it by the said act, hereby amends the instructions to Item 8 of Form 10–K (17 CFR 249.310) as set forth below. The Commission finds that the adoption of these amendments to Item 8 of the instructions to Form 10–K (17 CFR 249.310) serves to grant to registrants required to file statements on Form 10–K (17 CFR 249.310) and 1–MD (17 CFR 249.401) exemptions in the form of certain simplifications in the requirements for financial statements incorporated in the January 15, 1947, revision of Form S–1 (17 CFR 239.11) adopted after the proposed revisions had been widely distributed for comment and suggestions and therefore that notice and public procedure pursuant to section 4 (a) and (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act are unnecessary and good cause exists for their omission with respect to these amendments and that they may be declared effective April 1, 1947. Accordingly, the amendments shall become effective April 1, 1947. However, as it appears that certain registrants may wish to apply the provisions of the amendments prior to that date, the Commission deeming the amendments exemptive or relieving restriction within the meaning of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, hereby declares that the amended instructions may be applied to statements filed with the Commission effective immediately.

1. Items 8, paragraph 1 (b) (2) which reads: "Each of the subsidiaries included is, in practical effect, an operating division of the registrant; and" is deleted and the following substituted therefor: "Each of the subsidiaries included is a totally held subsidiary; and."

2. To instruction 1 of item 8, a new paragraph (c) is added reading as follows:

(c) No individual financial statements need be filed for the registrant, however, if (1) consolidated financial statements of the registrant and one or more of its subsidiaries are filed; (2) registrant's total assets, exclusive of investments in and advances to the consolidated subsidiaries, constitute 85% or more of the total assets as shown by the consolidated balance sheet filed for the registrant and such subsidiaries; and (3) registrant's total gross revenue for the period for which its profit and loss statement would be filed, exclusive of interest and dividends received from the consolidated subsidiaries, constitute 85% or more of the total gross revenue as shown by the consolidated profit and loss statement filed for the registrant and such subsidiaries.

3. The present text of instruction 2 of Item 8 is designated paragraph (a) and a new paragraph is added reading as follows:

PART 14—APPRAISEMENT

EXAMINATION OF MERCHANDISE; SPECIAL REGULATIONS

It is my opinion that the examination of less than 1 package of every 10 packages, but not less than 1 package of every invoice, of the merchandise hereinafter described, if such merchandise is (1) imported in packages the contents and values of which are uniform, or (2) imported in packages the contents of which are identical as to character although differing as to quantity and value per package, will amply protect the revenue:

Automobiles.
Bicycles.
Brushes, toilet and tooth.
Clothespins.
Flycatcher ribbons, paper.
Gloves, leather.
Leather articles provided for in paragraph 1531, Tariff Act of 1930.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority contained in sections 499 and 624 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U. S. This special regulation shall not be construed to preclude the examination of packages in addition to the minimum number hereby permitted to be examined if the collector or the appraiser shall deem it necessary that a greater number of packages be examined.

In view of the foregoing, § 14.1 Order of appraisement; designation of packages for examination, paragraph (b), Customs Regulations of 1943 (19 CFR, Cum. Supp., 14.1 (b)), as amended by T. D. 50959 (8 F. R. 15361), T. D. 51090 (9 F. R. 7743), T. D. 51269 (10 F. R. 8683), T. D. 51315 (10 F. R. 12037), T. D. 51437 (11 F. R. 3943), and T. D. 51520 (11 F. R. 9067), containing a list of merchandise as to which collectors are especially authorized to designate for examination less than 1 package of every 10 packages, is hereby amended by inserting in said list in proper alphabetical position the following:

TITLE 24—HOUSING CREDIT

Chapter VIII—Office of Housing Expediter

[Housing Expediter Priorities Reg. 5, Interpretation 4]

PART 803—PRIORITIES REGULATIONS UNDER VETERANS' EMERGENCY HOUSING ACT OF 1946

CHARGES IN EXCESS OF MAXIMUM SALES PRICE REQUESTED BECAUSE OF INCIDENTAL CHARGES, EXTRAS, OR ADDITIONAL CONSTRUCTION

The following interpretation is issued with respect to Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 5:

Under paragraph (1) of Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 5 a seller must not require a purchaser, as a condition to the sale of a house authorized under that Regulation, to buy or agree to buy any commodity, service or property interest, except where the regulation specifically permits the charges for the commodity, service or property interest to be added to the maximum sales price. Under paragraph (o) items which may be added are those incidental charges, such as brokerage fees or commissions or charges, which buyers or sellers of such dwelling accommodations customarily assume in the community, and which actually have been incurred for services rendered at the buyer's or seller's request in connection with the sale. (Such incidental charges may not be made in the first sale unless enumerated in the application as approved.) This means that, except for such customary incidental charges, the seller must offer the dwelling accommodations to the purchaser at or below the approved maximum sales price and free from charges and extras. The following examples illustrate the effect of this general rule:

1. Abstract fees, title insurance and financing charges. It is permissible for the purchaser to pay the abstract fees and title insurance over and above the maximum sales price and to pay incidental charges (such as fire insurance, title insurance, mortgagee's appraisal fees, and future taxes) in connection with financing a particular purchase if these charges are not made a condition to the sale. If it is customary in the community for the buyer to assume these incidental charges and they have been actually incurred for services rendered, he may even be required to pay them as a condition to the sale. (Such incidental charges may not be made in the first sale unless enumerated in the application as approved). In connection with financing, the purchaser must be given an opportunity to purchase the dwelling for cash at or below the approved maximum sales price and to finance the purchase in any way he desires.

2. Previously incurred charges. Charges which have been incurred by the builder before the sale of the dwelling must not be charged the purchaser in addition to the maximum sale price. A request that a prospective purchaser pay such charges for prior services would be necessarily making the charges a condition to the sale. Charges of this kind include accumulated taxes before the date of sale, interest before the sale, prepayment penalties in connection with a builder's loan, fees for survey of site, and fire and liability insurance before the sale.

3. Charges for additional construction or for equipment or fixtures not specified in the application. The builder must publicly offer the dwelling described in his application at or below the approved maximum sales price. He may not under his authorization do any additional construction in connection with the authorized construction over and above what is specified in his application, except where he gets written approval from the agency which approved the original application. He must not increase his sales price above the original approved maximum sales price by reason of any such additional construction or added equipment, except where the increased price has been approved in writing by the agency which approved the original application.

A person who has bought a house built under Housing Expediter Priorities Regulation 5 and who has made improvements to the house (authorization for such improvements may be required by VHP-1) must not charge more than the approved maximum sales price for the house if he sells it, unless he has obtained permission for the increased charge from the agency which approved the original application.

Issued this 3d day of February 1947.

A. H. ZWERNER, General Counsel.

AUTHORITY: §§ 451.40 to 451.58, inclusive, issued under sec. 2135, 53 Stat. 234; 26 U. S. C. 2135.

§ 451.40 Tobacco export warehouses. Subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, bonded internal revenue warehouses may be established for the purpose of exporting in accordance with the regulations in this subpart, unstamped (non-taxpaid) tobacco products received from factories bonded and registered under the internal revenue laws and regulations.

§ 451.41 Application to establish warehouse. Any person desiring to establish a bonded tobacco export warehouse under the regulations in this subpart must make application in writing to the collector of internal revenue of the district in which the warehouse will be located, giving the location and a detailed description of the premises to be bonded and used.

The collector shall detail one of his deputies to make an inspection of the particular premises intended to be used as the bonded tobacco export warehouse. The deputy shall furnish a report showing the particulars relating to the location, construction, and dimensions of the building in which it is proposed to establish the bonded tobacco export warehouse. If less than the entire building will be used, the deputy should show what room or rooms are intended to be used as the tobacco export warehouse premises, the location of all doors, windows, and other openings in the space to be used, and report any other facts to show the suitability of the premises for the purpose intended.

The application, as well as the report of the deputy making the inspection of the premises of the proposed tobacco export warehouse, shall be forwarded to the Commissioner with the recommendation of the collector who will state whether in his opinion there is justification for the establishment of such a warehouse.

§ 451.42 Warehouse bond. When an application to establish a bonded tobacco export warehouse is approved by the Commissioner, the applicant must furnish to the collector a bond on Form 549 appropriately modified. The bond shall be executed in duplicate in a penal sum sufficient to cover the amount of tax which may at any time constitute a charge against the bond and in no case less than $1,000.00. A bond may be executed in anticipation of approval of the application and be transmitted to the collector with the application.

When the bond, in duplicate, is submitted to the collector, he shall, if the bond meets with his approval, make endorsement to that effect on both the original and duplicate of the bond and forward the duplicate copy to the Commissioner. Bonds required under the regulations in this subpart may be executed with corporate surety or with at least two individual sureties. If given with individual sureties, each such surety shall be required to furnish affidavit in duplicate on Form 33, which shall be attached to the original and duplicate of the bond, respectively.

If the principal on the bond is an incorporated company, there shall be submitted in duplicate with the bond, copies of the by-laws or resolutions showing what officer or officers are authorized to sign the corporate name and affix the corporate seal, also transcripts in duplicate showing the election of officers, or a statement in duplicate showing that such documents have been filed previously in connection with another bond, a full description of which bond shall be given. The copies required must be authenticated by an officer of the corporation under seal.

The collector of internal revenue for the district in which the bonded tobacco export warehouse is located shall promptly notify the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of the death, financial irresponsibility, insolvency, or withdrawal of any of the parties to the bond, or of any circumstances requiring a new bond to protect the interest of the Government.

The liability under a bond furnished under the regulations in this subpart shall be a continuing one, subject to increase upon receipt in the warehouse of unstamped tobacco products from bonded internal revenue factories and to decrease as proof of exportation hereinafter required is received by the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the warehouse is located. When the limit of liability under any bond has been reached, no further shipments of unstamped tobacco products shall be received into or withdrawn from the warehouse until the liability has been reduced sufficiently by credits for withdrawals for which satisfactory proof of exportation is furnished or until a new bond has been filed. Alterations in the premises of a bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse may be made only upon the approval of the collector, and with the consent of the surety on the bond. The collector shall assign a number to each warehouse in his district, beginning with No. 1.

Bonded Internal Revenue Tobacco Export Warehouse No. ------, ---------- district of ----------.

The sign must show clearly the number of the warehouse and internal revenue district.

Neglect to keep this sign posted shall be sufficient ground for the withdrawal of the right to continue the operation of the warehouse.

§ 451.44 Requirements in regard to operation. No warehouse shall be used until the application to establish has been approved by the Commissioner and the warehouse bond has been approved by the collector. All the doors, windows, and other openings of a bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse must be secured by satisfactory locks or fastenings when the warehouse is not in operation. The warehouse premises may be inspected by an internal revenue officer at any time. No shipment of non-taxpaid tobacco products consigned to the warehouse shall be received into the warehouse until the collector has been notified and a deputy is detailed by him to supervise receipt of the shipment into the bonded premises of the warehouse and to execute the necessary certificate of receipt on the application, Form 550, appropriately modified by the manufacturer to cover the shipment. No shipment of non-taxpaid tobacco products may be withdrawn from the warehouse for export unless approved by the collector and inspected and released by one of his deputies as hereafter required by the regulations in this subpart. The proprietor shall see to it that all non-taxpaid tobacco products received are properly and conveniently stored within the bonded premises of his tobacco export warehouse and see that no articles other than tobacco products intended for export are kept in such warehouse. An inventory of the tobacco products on hand in such warehouse may be taken at any time at the direction of the collecter or of the Commissioner. Unstamped tobacco products delivered to the export warehouse, which are found stored outside of the bonded premises of the warehouse without the approval of the Commissioner shall be subject to seizure for forfeiture to the United States. The deputies detailed to supervise receipts of shipments into the warehouse and to inspect and release any shipments to be withdrawn therefrom, shall report any irregularity to the collector.

A bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse may be discontinued upon application of the proprietor or its right to operate may be terminated by the Commissioner for reasonable cause.

§ 451.45 Proprietor's account. The proprietor of a bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse must keep an accurate account, which will show with respect to each month all tobacco manufactures on hand at the beginning of the month, received, withdrawn for export, or returned to manufacturers during the month, and on hand at the close of the month. The proprietor shall render a statement, in duplicate, to the collector for the district on or before the tenth day of each month, showing the above information for the preceding month.

§ 451.46 Deliveries to warehouses by manufacturers. The provisions of Subpart A of this part except as modified by the provisions of this subpart apply to shipments of tobacco, snuff, cigars, or cigarettes, without payment of tax, from a factory to a bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse for subsequent exportation. A manufacturer desiring to make such shipments shall first furnish to the collector of the district in which his factory is located consent of the surety on his factory export bond, Form 549, to make such shipments. The consent of the surety must be filed in duplicate on Form 542, appropriately modified in accordance with instructions from the collector. Each such withdrawal must be made under an application on Form 550, modified in conformity with instructions from the collector. The manufacturer shall prepare the modified application, Form 550, in triplicate and shall type on the reverse side thereof or attach thereto a certificate reading as follows:

CERTIFICATE OF RECEIPT

I certify that the tobacco manufactures herein described, except as listed below have this ---- day of ---------- 19--, been received in bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse No. -------, ---------- district of ----------, under my supervision for subsequent exportation.

Discrepancies:----------

(Title)

The manufacturer shall file his application with the collector of internal revenue for his district. If the collector approves of the application he will execute the "Collector's Order to Deputy" on each copy and detail a deputy to inspect the shipment. The deputy at the conclusion of his inspection shall execute the "Deputy's Report" on each copy of the application, Form 550, and shall return one copy of the application to the collector and deliver the other two copies to the manufacturer.

The manufacturer shall complete the copies of the application, Form 550, delivered to him by the deputy, to show date of removal of the shipment and shall transmit both copies of the completed form to the proprietor of the warehouse to which the shipment is made.

The responsibility for the delivery to a bonded internal revenue export warehouse of a shipment removed from the factory under the regulations in this subpart shall rest upon the manufacturer making the withdrawal, who will be liable for the internal revenue tax on tobacco products shipped or delivered otherwise than in accordance with the regulations in this subpart.

§ 451.47 Receipts in warehouse. The collector of internal revenue for the district in which the warehouse is located must be notified immediately by the proprietor upon arrival of each shipment of tobacco products at the warehouse in order that the collector may detail one of his deputies to check the shipment and supervise receipt into the bonded premises of the warehouse. At the conclusion of his detail the deputy shall execute the certificate of receipt on each copy of the appropriately modified Form 550 received by the proprietor of the warehouse from the manufacturer and deliver both completed copies to his collector. One copy of the Form 550 shall then be forwarded promptly by the collector of the district in which the warehouse is located to the collector of internal revenue for the district from which the shipment was made.

§ 451.48 Credit for shipment by a manufacturer. Upon receipt of a copy of Form 550 executed to show receipt of the shipment in the warehouse and where no discrepancy or shortage is reported, the collector of internal revenue for the district from which the shipment originated, will enter the appropriate credit in his account kept with the manufacturer's export bond, Form 549. In case a shortage is reported, the collector will enter credit for the actual quantity received into the warehouse and advise the manufacturer to tender at once remittance of the tax due on the shortage reported.

§ 451.49 Withdrawals from warehouse. The proprietor shall file for each intended withdrawal from his bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse, an application on Form 550 appropriately modified in conformity with instructions from the collector for his district. For shipments other than by parcel post Form 550 shall be filed in triplicate and for shipments by parcel post in duplicate. A number of separate parcel post packages may be included under one application, provided a list containing a description of each separate parcel covered by the application is submitted with each copy of the application. To facilitate the inspection of such a parcel post shipment by the deputy, the parcels should be grouped according to their size and contents. Each application shall be given a serial number by the proprietor, beginning with No. 1 and commencing again with No. 1 on July 1 of each year. The copies of each application must bear the same serial number as the original, and the original and all copies must be completely and legibly filled in to show the information as required on the form. The collector, if he approves of the application, shall execute his order to his deputy on all copies and deliver the copies to the deputy detailed to inspect the shipment and release it for export.

§ 451.50 Inspection and report by deputy—(a) Inspection. The deputy, upon receipt of the copies of the application on modified Form 550, with the collector's order executed thereon, shall inspect the shipment to determine that it consists of the class and quantity of merchandise as specified in the application and shall permit only the containers or articles described to be withdrawn thereunder. Shipping containers shall not be closed and fastened until after their contents have been inspected and verified by the deputy.

(b) Report. After inspection and verification of the shipment have been completed, and the shipping containers have been made ready for removal, the deputy shall fill in and sign his report on each copy of the application, Form 550. The shipment shall then be released by the deputy for removal from the warehouse for export. The deputy shall return one copy of the Form 550 to the collector of the district at once, and deliver the other copies to the proprietor or his agent to be disposed of as hereinafter required.

§ 451.51 Delay in removal; cancellation of shipment. In case a shipment is not removed from the bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse within ten days after being inspected and released by the deputy for that purpose, the proprietor must advise the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the warehouse is located as to the probable date of removal. If the order for the shipment has been canceled, the proprietor should so state and request permission to cancel his application and retain the merchandise in the stock in his warehouse.

§ 451.52 Change in consignee. If, after inspection and release by the deputy, but before removal of the shipment, the proprietor for good and sufficient reasons desires to change the name and address of the consignee, the proprietor shall forward to the collector for correction and endorsement the copies of the Form 550 left with him by the deputy, accompanied by a letter setting forth his reasons for the change. Any other change with respect to the shipment must be approved by the Commissioner.

§ 451.53 Removal and delivery of shipment. After the shipment has been released by the inspecting deputy for export, the shipment shall be handled by the proprietor or his agent as follows:

(a) If shipped other than by parcel post. (1) If the warehouse is located at the port of exportation, the shipment shall be delivered directly into the custody of the proper customs officer at the port for customs inspection, supervision of lading, and exportation.

(2) If the warehouse is located elsewhere than at the port of exportation, the shipment shall be consigned to the collector of customs at the port of exportation and shall be delivered to the carrier for transportation to the port.

(b) Parcel post shipments. Shipments intended for exportation by parcel post shall be presented directly to the post office by the proprietor or his agent.

§ 451.54 Disposition of copies of Form 550 by proprietor of warehouse—(a) If shipped other than by parcel post. The several copies of the modified application, Form 550, delivered by the deputy to the proprietor of the warehouse shall be disposed of as follows:

(1) If the warehouse is located at the port of exportation, the proprietor shall file with the collector of customs or customs officer in charge, at least six hours prior to lading, two copies of the Form 550. One copy completed by the customs authorities at the port to show inspection and lading, and clearance or exportation of the related shipment shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which is located the tobacco export warehouse from which the shipment was made for export. The other copy of the Form 550 will be retained by customs.

(2) If the warehouse is located elsewhere than at the port of exportation, the proprietor shall, after delivery of the shipment to the common carrier, forward to his agent at the port of exportation the two copies of the related Form 550, which must reach the agent in sufficient time for him to file them with the collector of customs or the customs officer in charge at the port at least six hours prior to lading. The agent will see that Form 550 is filled in to show the name of the exporting vessel and the place or pier where the shipment is to be laden and will subscribe his name as exporter. In the case of exportation to a contiguous foreign country by rail or air through a border port, the proprietor of the warehouse will forward the two copies of Form 550 to the collector of customs or customs officer in charge of the border port through which the shipment will clear the United States.

(b) Shipments by parcel post. If the shipment is to be made by parcel post, the proprietor shall execute on each package in the shipment a waiver of his right to withdraw the package from the mails and then, at the time of mailing, present the original Form 550, with the list attached if a number of parcels are covered by the Form 550 (see § 451.49), to the postmaster or his agent for execution of the certificate of mailing, as provided for on the back of the Form 550. The original Form 550 shall be forwarded promptly thereafter by the proprietor to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the warehouse is located.

§ 451.55 Return of shipment to warehouse. If, after removal the proprietor desires to return a shipment to the bonded premises of his tobacco export warehouse, he must make application to the Commissioner for permission to do so. The proprietor must identify the shipment, set forth where it has been since it left the warehouse, where held, and in whose custody it is at the time of making application, and the reasons for return. Permission and appropriate instructions must be received from the Commissioner before the merchandise is returned.

§ 451.56 Tax liability. Responsibility for the proper exportation of tobacco products withdrawn from the warehouse under the regulations in this subpart shall rest upon the proprietor of the warehouse making the withdrawal, and he will be liable for the internal revenue tax on the tobacco products shipped or delivered otherwise than in accordance with the regulations in this subpart.

§ 451.57 Credit for shipment. Upon receipt of a copy of the application, modified Form 550, showing inspection, lading, and exportation of a shipment under customs supervision, with no discrepancy or shortage reported, or in the case of a shipment made for export by parcel post, upon receipt of a copy of Form 550 with certificate of mailing properly executed, the collector of internal revenue shall enter the proper credit in his account, Form 94, kept with the bond of the proprietor of the warehouse under which the shipment was withdrawn. In case a shortage is reported, the collector shall enter credit for the actual quantity of tobacco products exported and require the proprietor to pay the amount of tax due on the shortage reported.

§ 451.58 Penalties. Sections 2160 and 2173 of the Internal Revenue Code impose severe penalties for the possession, use, or dealing in, within the United States (including its Territories), of manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars, and cigarettes upon which the tax properly due has not been paid. These provisions of law apply to tobacco products removed without payment of tax under the regulations in this subpart, and accordingly, any person possessing, using, or dealing in, such products otherwise than as authorized by the regulations in this subpart, may be subject to the penalties prescribed in such provisions of law.

This Treasury decision, being a relief of restrictions within the parenthetical exception to section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, shall be effective upon its filing for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

JOSEPH D. NUNAN, JR.,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Approved: January 29, 1947.

Chapter IX—Office of Temporary Controls, Civilian Production Administration

AUTHORITY: Regulations in this chapter unless otherwise noted at the end of documents affected, issued under sec. 2 (a), 54 Stat. 676, as amended by 55 Stat. 236, 56 Stat. 177, 58 Stat. 827, and Public Laws 270 and 475, 79th Congress; Public Law 388, 79th Congress; E. PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATIONS OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 33, as Amended Dec. 13, 1946, Interpretation 3]

CHARGES IN EXCESS OF MAXIMUM SALES PRICE REQUESTED BECAUSE OF INCIDENTAL CHARGES, EXTRAS, OR ADDITIONAL CONSTRUCTION

The following interpretation is issued with respect to Priorities Regulation 33:

Under paragraph (g) of Priorities Regulation 33 a seller must not require a purchaser, as a condition for the sale of a house, to buy or agree to buy any commodity, service, or property interest, except where the regulation specifically permits the charges for the commodity, service, or property interest to be added to the maximum sales price. This means that the seller must offer the dwelling accommodations to the purchaser at or below the approved maximum sales price and free from incidental charges and extras. The following examples illustrate the effect of this general rule:

1. Abstract fees and title insurance. The purchaser may pay the customary abstract fees and title insurance over and above the maximum sales price, unless the purchaser is required to take these services when he does not want them.

2. Financing charges. The purchaser may pay customary incidental charges (such as fire insurance, title insurance, mortgagee's appraisal fees, and future taxes) in connection with financing the purchase of a dwelling, if the purchase of these services is not made a condition to the sale. The purchaser must be given an opportunity to purchase the dwelling for cash at or below the approved maximum price and to finance the purchase himself in any way he desires. The seller cannot require the purchaser to finance the purchase through a particular lending institution.

3. Previously incurred charges. Charges which have been incurred by the builder before the sale of the dwelling must not be charged the purchaser in addition to the maximum sales price. A request that a prospective purchaser pay such charges for prior services would be making the charges a condition to the sale. Charges of this kind include accumulated taxes before the date of sale, interest before the sale, prepayment penalties in connection with a builder's loan, fees for survey of site and liability and fire insurance before the sale.

4. Charges for additional construction or for equipment or fixtures not specified in the application. The builder must publicly offer the building described in the application at or below the approved maximum sales price. He may not, under his authorization, do any additional construction in connection with the authorized construction over and above what is specified in the application, except where he gets written approval from the agency which approved the original application. He must not increase his sales price above the approved maximum sales price by reason of any such additional construction or added equipment, except where the increased price has been approved in writing by the agency which approved the original application.

A person who has bought a house built under Priorities Regulation 33 and who has made improvements to the house (authorization under VHP-1 may be required for such improvements) must not charge more than the approved maximum sales price for the house if he sells it, unless he has obtained permission for the increased charge from the agency which approved the original application (this will usually be given, where appropriate, in connection with the application for authorization under VHP-1 to make the improvements).

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

ARROW MOTOR SALES

William S. Wayne, doing business as Arrow Motor Sales, 1801-1811 West Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, after March 26, 1946, began and thereafter, without authorization from the Civilian Production Administration, carried on construction consisting of the alteration and remodeling of a commercial building to be used as an automobile sales and show room and service and repair station on the premises at 1801-1811 West Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, the estimated cost of which construction was in excess of $1,000. The carrying on of said construction after being informed of the restrictions of Veterans' Housing Program Order 1 and after application for authorization had been denied constituted a wilful violation of the order. This violation has diverted critical materials to uses not authorized by the Civilian Production Administration. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 1010.1080 Suspension Order No. S-1080. (a) Neither William S. Wayne, doing business as Arrow Motor Sales, his successors or assigns, nor any other person shall do any construction on the premises located at 1801-1811 West Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, including the putting up, completing or altering of any structure located thereon, unless specifically authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) William S. Wayne, doing business as Arrow Motor Sales, shall refer to this order in any application or appeal which he may file with the Civilian Production Administration for priorities assistance or for authorization to carry on construction.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve William S. Wayne, doing business as Arrow Motor Sales, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

Issued this 3d day of February 1947.

Chapter XXIII—War Assets Administration

[Reg. 14,[1] Order 8]

PART 8314—DISPOSAL TO NONPROFIT INSTITUTIONS AND DISCOUNTS FOR EDUCATIONAL OR PUBLIC-HEALTH INSTITUTIONS OR INSTRUMENTALITIES

DISPOSAL OF VENEREAL DISEASE CONTROL PROPERTY TO PUBLIC-HEALTH INSTITUTIONS AND INSTRUMENTALITIES

During World War II the War Department and the Public Health Service instituted a cooperative program for the establishment of Rapid Treatment Centers for venereal disease control. As part of this program the War Department loaned certain venereal disease control property, including medical supplies, equipment, and property suitable for use in the protection of public health, to the Public Health Service for installation in some twenty-two (22) Rapid Treatment Centers scattered throughout the United States.

The Public Health Service and the War Department have requested, in view of the rising rates of venereal disease among the civilian and military population and the inability of local health departments at present to cope with this situation, and in the interest of protecting the health of the Nation and reducing the reservoir of infection, that Rapid Treatment Centers be continued in operation by local public-health institutions and instrumentalities.

The Public Health Service has recommended that all such venereal disease control property located in the Rapid Treatment Centers be disposed of to the public-health institutions and instrumentalities now operating these centers. The Public Health Service has advised that such venereal disease control property is already in the custody of the public-health institutions and instrumentalities which operate the Rapid Treatment Centers so that its transfer may be effected without incurring any costs of care, handling or disposition.

The Public Health Service has also advised that much of the venereal disease control property, such as laboratory equipment, is nonseverable, and that certain items, such as beds, mattresses, sheets, etc., were already in used condition when loaned by the War Department, having been used intensively for two years in the treatment of venereal disease, and, if offered for sale through normal channels, will require thorough sterilization and other rehabilitation the cost of which will exceed any realizable value.

The disposal agency states that it will entail considerable expense to the Government to require the preparation of inventories and reports and to offer this property to priority claimants, and that the estimated cost of care, handling and disposition involved in assembling, crating, and selling this property through normal channels will exceed the estimated proceeds of its sale for any purpose.

In view of all the foregoing considerations and pursuant to the provisions of § 8302.3 (c) (4) of Part 8302,[2] the War Assets Administrator finds that an exemption should be granted from the requirements of §§ 8302.4 and 8302.5 of that part for all this venereal disease control property on the ground that it is impracticable and uneconomical for the disposal agency to be required to dispose of such property according to the provisions of Part 8302. The War Assets Administrator further finds that in view of the benefits that will accrue to the United States from the use of such venereal disease control property by institutions and instrumentalities now operating Rapid Treatment Centers, and since the Public Health Service has stated that the transfer of this venereal disease control property already in the custody of the Rapid Treatment Centers can be effected without incurring any costs of care, handling or disposition, its disposal at fair value less one hundred (100) percent discount to such institutions and instrumentalities as defined in § 8314.1 is justified.

Pursuant to the foregoing, it is hereby ordered, that:

§ 8314.58 Disposal of venereal disease control property to public-health institutions and instrumentalities. (a) Pursuant to the provisions of § 8302.3 (c) (4) of Part 8302 and notwithstanding the provisions of §§ 8302.4 and 8302.5 of that part, disposal agencies are hereby authorized to dispose of venereal disease control property now on loan to some twenty-two (22) Rapid Treatment Centers which are operated by public-health institutions and instrumentalities directly to such institutions and instrumentalities.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of § 8314.9 of this part, disposal agencies are hereby authorized to sell venereal disease control property now on loan to some twenty-two (22) Rapid Treatment Centers to public-health institutions and instrumentalities as defined in § 8314.1 at fair value less one hundred (100) percent discount.

This section shall become effective January 31, 1947.

ROBERT M. LITTLEJOHN,
Administrator.

AMENDMENTS TO REGULATIONS

A notice regarding the proposed changes in the regulations for smoke detecting systems and for the construction or material alteration of passenger vessels of 100 gross tons and over was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated September 27, 1946 (11 F. R. 11014), and a public hearing was held by the Merchant Marine Council on October 22, 1946, at Washington, D. C. All the written and oral comments and suggestions were considered by the Merchant Marine Council and where practicable incorporated into the amendments to the regulations.

By virtue of the authority vested in me the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed which shall become effective on the thirty-first day after the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER:

Subchapter G—Ocean and Coastwise: General Rules and Regulations

PART 61—FIRE APPARATUS; FIRE PREVENTION

Part 61 is amended by adding a new § 61.01, to immediately precede § 61.1, reading as follows:

§ 61.01 Basis and purpose of regulations. By virtue of the authority vested in the Commandant of the Coast Guard under section 101 of the Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946 (11 F. R. 7875), R. S. 4405, 4426, 4470, 4471, 4477, and 4479, as amended, Act of June 20, 1936, section 2 of Act of October 9, 1940, and section 5 (e) of Act of June 6, 1941 (46 U. S. C. 367, 375, 404, 463, 463a, 464, 471, 472; 50 U. S. C. 1275), the regulations in this part are prescribed to provide adequate means for detecting, preventing, or fighting of fires on board vessels subject to these regulations in accordance with the intent of the various statutes on fire apparatus or fire prevention and to obtain their correct and uniform administration. (R. S. 4405, 4426, 4470, 4471, 4477, and 4479, as amended, 49 Stat. 1544, sec. 2, 54 Stat. 1028, sec. 5 (e), 55 Stat. 244; 46 U. S. C. 367, 375, 404, 463, 463a, 464, 471, 472; 50 U. S. C. 1275; sec. 101, Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946; 11 F. R. 7875)

Section 61.17 (c) is amended to read as follows:

§ 61.17 Fire-detecting and automatic sprinking systems. * * *

(c) Smoke-pipe systems—(1) Scope of installations. Systems of this type shall provide a detecting device to which all smoke pipes shall lead, which device shall be located in the wheelhouse, in a fire control station in which a 24-hour watch is kept, or in convenient proximity to the valves of the extinguishing system, provided there are transmitted to the wheelhouse or fire control station means for determining the compartment reporting the alarm and audible alarms are provided as required in this section.

(2) Construction and installation. (i) The detecting device shall be such that finely divided and diluted particles of smoke shall be readily indicated visually. The lighting arrangement shall be such as not to be disturbing to navigation at night. For new installations on vessels of over 5,000 gross tons or where installations are not made in the wheelhouse or fire control station, this device shall be provided with an audible alarm in the wheelhouse together with an auxiliary audible alarm located in the engine room.

(ii) Smoke collectors shall be installed overhead in each compartment protected and shall be so located that no point on the overhead deck is more than 40 feet from a collector. The indicating pipes or tubing shall be not smaller than three-fourths inch inside diameter. When more than one smoke collector is required for a compartment, not more than two collectors may be connected to one indicating pipe. Each compartment shall have one or more indicating pipes extending to the detecting device, except that the pipes from small adjacent compartments not exceeding a combined volume of 5,000 cubic feet may be joined. No smoke collectors shall be located nearer to the edge of the opening of a ventilator than three times the diameter or equivalent diameter of the opening.

(iii) Sufficient quantity of the exhaust shall discharge into the wheelhouse or fire station to permit the detection of fire by odor, and a valve plainly marked and readily operable from that compartment shall be provided to direct the exhaust, if obnoxious, to the outside. Where the detecting cabinet is not installed in the wheelhouse or fire station the residual exhaust shall be discharged in the vicinity of the detecting cabinet.

(iv) Suction fans shall be furnished in duplicate, and shall be provided with switches to permit their operation from the emergency lighting circuit. Where the emergency lighting voltage is less than the normal lighting voltage, one fan shall be so arranged that it may be operated from either source.

(v) A trouble signal located in the fire control station or the wheelhouse shall be provided which will indicate the inability of the system to report a smoke alarm.

(vi) Where exposed to injury in cargo compartments the collectors and smoke pipes shall be reasonably protected against injury.

(vii) All smoke pipes shall be installed to grade to low points and at low points provided with drains. These pipes shall be run with as easy bends as practicable.

(viii) The smoke inlets in cargo holds should be examined periodically by the ship's personnel to determine whether inlets are obstructed by corrosion, paint, dust, or other extraneous condition. Smoke tests should be made in all holds and the operation of the system noted.

(h) "Main vertical zones" are those sections, the mean length of which does not exceed 131 feet, into which the hull and superstructure are required to be divided by fire-resisting bulkheads.

(i) "Horizontal zones" are those sections which are bounded by the main vertical zone bulkheads, the shell, and by any two decks or by a tank top and an adjacent deck, where such decks are intact to shell and bulkheads.

(j) Where the term "steel or other equivalent metal" is used in this part, it is intended to require a material which, by itself or due to insulation provided, has structural and integrity qualities equivalent to steel at the end of the applicable fire exposure.

§ 144.09 Type, location and construction of fire control bulkheads and decks. (a) The hull, structural bulkheads, decks, and deckhouses shall be constructed of steel or other equivalent metal construction of appropriate scantlings.

(b) The hull and superstructure shall be subdivided by suitable structural steel or other equivalent metal bulkheads into main vertical zones, the mean length of which shall not exceed 131 feet.

(c) All bulkheads and decks shall be classed as A-60, A-30, A-15, A-0, B-15, B-0, or C, depending upon the type of space on each side of the bulkhead or above and below the deck.

(1) Bulkheads or decks of the "A" Class shall be composed of steel or equivalent metal construction, suitably stiffened and made intact with the main structure of the vessel, such as shell, structural bulkheads, and decks. They shall be so constructed that, if subjected to the standard fire test, they would be capable of preventing the passage of flame for one hour. In addition, they shall be so insulated with approved structural insulation, bulkhead panels, or deck covering that the average temperature on the unexposed side would not rise more than 250 degrees F. above the original temperature, nor would the temperature at any one point rise more than 325 degrees F. above the original temperature, within the time listed below:

Class A-60—60 minutes.
Class A-30—30 minutes.
Class A-15—15 minutes.
Class A-0—0 minutes (i. e., no insulation requirements).

(2) Bulkheads of the "B" Class shall be constructed with approved incombustible materials and made intact from deck to deck (or to ceiling, as provided in paragraph (h) of this section) and to shell or other boundaries. They shall be so constructed that, if subjected to the standard fire test, they would be capable of preventing the passage of flame for one half hour. In addition, their insulation value shall be such that the average temperature of the unexposed side would not rise more than 250 degrees F. above the original temperature, nor would the temperature at any one point rise more than 325 degrees F. above the original temperature, within the time listed below:

Class B-15—15 minutes.
Class B-0—0 minutes (i. e., no insulation requirements).

(3) Class C bulkheads or decks shall be constructed of approved incombustible materials, but need meet no requirements relative to the passage of flame nor the limiting of temperature rise.

(d) The minimum requirements for the bulkheads between the various spaces, where such bulkheads form the boundaries of main vertical zones, shall be as noted in Figure 144.09 (d).

(e) The minimum requirements for the bulkheads between the various spaces, where such bulkheads do not form the boundaries of main vertical zones, shall be as noted in Figure 144.09 (e).

(f) The minimum requirements for the decks between the various spaces, where such decks form the boundaries of stepped main vertical zones, shall be as noted in Figure 144.09 (f).

(g) The minimum requirements for the decks between the various spaces, where such decks do not form the boundaries of stepped main vertical zones, shall be as noted in Figure 144.09 (g).

(h) Where ceilings or linings are fitted, "B" Class bulkheads, with the exception of those forming passageways, may stop at the ceiling or lining and need not continue to the deck or shell. However, draft stops shall be fitted between the ceiling or lining and the deck or shell such that the maximum fore and aft length of the inclosed space shall not exceed 66 feet.

(i) Where Class B–15 panels are used, they should be efficiently secured by steel or equivalent metal flanges offering at least $\frac{3}{4}$ inch coverage of the panel. Other equivalent methods of construction will be specifically approved by the Commandant.

(j) Any sheathing, furring, or holding pieces incidental to the securing of structural insulation shall be of approved incombustible materials.

(k) Decks within accommodation spaces and safety areas may have an overlay for leveling or finishing purposes which need not meet the requirements for an approved deck covering. Such an overlay will not be considered as giving any insulating value and may not in general exceed $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch in thickness. Greater thicknesses may be specifically approved by the Commandant for specific locations.

(l) Rugs and carpets may be used in addition to any deck covering or overlay installed. Rugs and carpets used in stairways or corridors shall be of wool, or other material having equivalent fire-resistive qualities.

(m) Overlays within surgical operating rooms shall be of a type which is acceptably conductive in nature to prevent static discharges when heavy concentrations of ether may be present in the air.

(n) Decks in washrooms and toilet spaces, service, cargo, and machinery spaces, and open decks may have an overlay in any thickness. This overlay need not meet the requirements for an approved deck covering.

§ 144.11 Ceilings, linings, trim, and decorations in accommodation spaces and safety areas. (a) Ceilings and linings and any furring incidental to their erection shall be of approved incombustible materials.

(b) Class B-15 bulkhead panels may have a combustible veneer on each side not exceeding $\frac{2}{28}$ of an inch in thickness. However, combustible veneers shall not be used in passageways or stairway inclosures.

(c) The total board feet of combustible face trim, moldings, and decorations, including veneers, in any compartment shall not exceed 10% of a figure representing the total square feet of the combined walls and ceiling of the compartment. Such trim, molding, or decorations shall not perform any structural function, and shall not be used in corridors or stairway inclosures.

(d) Any partial bulkheads or decks used to subdivide a space for artistic treatment, privacy, etc., shall meet the requirements of Class C bulkheads.

§ 144.13 Escapes. (a) In each main vertical zone there shall be at least one stairway serving all accommodation and working spaces. Except in machinery spaces, such stairway shall be inclosed so that escape may be made from any deck to the weather or embarkation decks without coming out of the stairway inclosure. There shall also be provided an additional horizontal or emergency vertical escape from each horizontal zone in such spaces.

(b) Stairways and elevators shall be inclosed in "A" Class bulkheads and decks except as noted below:

(1) A stairway or elevator serving only two decks need not be inclosed provided the integrity of the deck is maintained by proper bulkheads or doors at one level.

(2) Stairways may be fitted in the open in a public space provided they lie wholly within such space. However, such stairways may not serve as one of the required means of escape from such space.

(c) The stringers, treads, and risers of all stairways shall be of steel or equivalent metal construction. Balustrade and trim shall be of approved incombustible materials.

(d) Elevators shall not be considered as one of the required means of escape.

§ 144.15 Doors. (a) Doors shall have certain required characteristics depending upon the type of bulkhead in which it is fitted and the location in which it is used. If it is desired to use decorative doors in addition to the doors specified, they shall be constructed of incombustible materials and shall not interfere with the operation of the required doors.

(b) All doors shall be capable of being opened from either side by one person. In public spaces, stairway inclosures, etc., the door shall open in the direction of escape.

(c) Doors leading out onto open decks may be constructed of hardwood at least 1¾ inches thick. Such doors may be fitted with not more than 100 square inches of wire inserted glass retained by a metal glazing bead or angle.

(d) Doors in main vertical zone bulkheads and stairway inclosures shall be of the self-closing type, capable of closing against a list of 3½ degrees. Such doors, except those which are normally closed, shall be of a type which are capable of release from the control station and from a position at the door. The release mechanism shall be so designed as to automatically close the door in the event of disruption to the control system. Holdback hooks, or other means of permanently holding the door open not subject to control station release, will not be permitted.

(e) Doors in bulkheads required to be Class A–60, A–30, or A–15 shall meet the following requirements:

(1) The doors shall be hollow steel or other equivalent metal construction solidly filled with approved structural insulation capable of meeting the requirements for a Class A–15 bulkhead.

(f) Doors in bulkheads required to be Class A–0 shall meet the following requirement, except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section:

(1) The doors shall be solid or hollow steel or other equivalent metal construction capable of meeting the requirements for a Class A–0 bulkhead.

(2) Doors may be fitted with not more than 100 square inches of wire inserted glass retained by a metal glazing bead or angle.

(g) Doors in bulkheads required to be Class B–15 or B–0 shall meet the following requirements:

(1) Doors may be constructed of the following materials:

(i) Hollow steel or other equivalent metal construction.

(ii) Steel or other equivalent metal frame with ¼ inch thick wire inserted glass panes retained by metal glazing bead or angle.

(iii) Solid hardwood with metal or hard asbestos veneer on both sides. Total thickness to be at least 1¼ inches.

(2) Doors may have combustible veneers on each side not to exceed 2/28 of an inch in thickness, but such veneers shall not be used on the corridor side of a door.

(3) Doors may have vent grilles not to exceed two square feet in area.

(h) Doors fitted in bulkheads required to be Class C shall be of approved incombustible materials or may be of any of the types required by paragraphs (e), (f), or (g) of this section.

§ 144.17 Windows. (a) All windows shall have steel or other equivalent metal frames. The glass shall be retained by a metal glazing bead or other satisfactory means which will insure the whole structure of the window being fireproof.

(b) Windows or airports opening from accommodation spaces onto safety areas, accessible open decks, or inclosed promenades, and windows within accommodation spaces shall be fitted with wire inserted glass. All other windows and airports may be fitted with clear glass.

§ 144.19 Hatch covers and shifting boards. (a) Wood hatch covers may be used between cargo spaces. Hatch covers in other locations shall meet the requirements for deck construction noted in § 144.09 (f) and (g).

(b) Shifting boards in tonnage openings shall be of approved incombustible materials.

§ 144.21 Heat and refrigeration insulation. (a) Heat insulation on bulkheads, decks, and ventilation trunks and any materials incidental to its installation shall be of approved incombustible materials.

(b) Refrigeration insulation on bulkheads, decks, and ventilation trunks and the materials incidental to its installation need not be incombustible. However, granulated cork which will pass through a ¼ inch mesh, or any other material of equal or greater combustibility, shall not be permitted.

§ 144.23 Paint. (a) An excessive number of coats of paint will be discouraged unless noncombustible paint is used.

(b) Nitro-cellulose or other highly flammable or noxious fume-producing paints or lacquers shall not be used.

§ 144.25 Ventilation. (a) Where automatic fire dampers are required, they shall be designed to operate at 165 degrees F. and shall be made accessible by means of a hinged or bolted plate in the duct. The damper and the portion of duct containing the damper shall be constructed of at least ⅛ inch steel plate suitably stiffened. No insulation need be applied to damper.

(b) Where ventilation ducts are required to meet bulkhead requirements, the space within the duct shall be considered to be the same as the space served by the ventilator, and the duct shall be insulated to meet the applicable requirements of § 144.09 (d) and (e).

(c) All ventilation systems shall be designed, where practicable, so that all ducts leading to the various inclosures are kept within the main vertical zones. No duct may serve spaces in more than one main vertical zone.

(d) Where of necessity ducts pass through main vertical zone bulkheads, automatic fire dampers shall be fitted adjacent to the bulkhead. The duct between the bulkhead and the damper shall meet the applicable bulkhead requirements.

(e) Ventilation ducts serving cargo or machinery spaces which pass through accommodation spaces or safety areas shall be fitted with an automatic fire damper adjacent to the point of entry. Between the bulkhead or deck and the damper, and in addition, on vertical ducts for a distance of six feet above the damper, the duct shall meet the applicable bulkhead requirements.

(f) Exhausts from galleys shall meet the applicable bulkhead requirements.

(g) Motion picture projection rooms shall be equipped with mechanical ventilation to the open air to produce a complete change of air every three minutes. The air inlets shall be at the bottom of the space and the mechanical exhaust shall be as near the top as practicable with the exception that a 6-inch duct shall be led directly over the lamp housing of each projector. The ventilation ducts outside the projection room shall meet the applicable bulkhead requirements. Fan motors shall either be kept clear of the path of the exhaust or shall be of the explosion proof type.

(h) Film storage lockers shall have an outlet to the open air with a total area of at least 1 square inch for each 5 pounds of film for which there is storage space. The duct shall meet the bulkhead requirements.

(i) In all ventilation systems, manually operated dampers or other suitable means shall be provided in an accessible location for shutting off the passage of air in the event of fire; however no dampers shall be placed in exhaust ducts from film lockers or projection rooms.

(j) All electrical ventilating systems shall be provided with means for stopping the motors in case of fire or other emergency. For each system there shall be provided two emergency control stations; for the machinery space ventilation, one of these two stations shall be in the fire control room or wheelhouse, and the second in the passageway just outside the main entrance door leading to the machinery space; for all other ventilating systems one of these two stations shall be in the fire control room or wheelhouse and the second shall be located as distant as practicable, except that the main bus feeding the ventilating sets may be considered as a control point. The stopping of power fans by the master control shall not prevent the restarting of an individual fan at the fan's local control. Steam powered ventilation systems shall have a remote control for the steam valve located in an accessible location outside the space affected by the ventilation system.

§ 144.27 Furniture and furnishings. (a) Waste paper baskets shall be constructed of approved incombustible materials and shall have solid sides.

(b) For the purpose of this part, rooms containing incombustible furniture will be considered as those rooms in which all case furniture such as desks, wardrobes, dressing tables, bureaus, dressers, etc., is constructed entirely of incombustible materials, and all free standing furniture such as chairs, tables, sofas, etc., is constructed with frames of incombustible material. Upholstery, drapes, etc., may be of combustible materials in such spaces.

(c) No combustible furniture or furnishings may be installed in corridors or stairway inclosures.

§ 144.29 Alternate materials. In any case where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commandant that the use of fire retardant materials required by §§ 144.09 to 144.27, inclusive, for the construction or material alteration of any vessel is not reasonable nor practicable, the Commandant may permit the use of alternate materials to such an extent and upon such conditions as will insure, to his satisfaction, a degree of safety consistent with the minimum standards set forth in this part.
